A MESSAGE TO NEVADA

A few weeks ago Mary Pickford obtained a divorce from Owen Moore in the Nevada courts. When a short time later she was married in Los Angeles to Douglas Fairbanks it was generally conceded that the world's most popular idols had been united.

Then, just as things were going beautifully, with the country all smiling congratulations at the happy pair, up bobbed old Unpleasantness under the dignified (?) robe of the Nevada divorce law. It seems that the ever-present agitator had convinced Nevada that her sister states were smiling up their sleeves at the apparent ease with which divorces have been obtained since time immemorial within her boundaries.

So, in order that no blot appear to mar her fair name, she rises in dignified fury to restrain Miss Pickford, obviously in the hope of receiving publicity for her righteousness.

Far be it from us to uphold the loose divorce laws for which Nevada has long been world famed, but neither can we express sufficiently our contempt for an institution that, especially in the light of former sensational episodes in its history, having without a murmur committed itself to the extent of granting a divorce, now takes valiant steps to annul the same, just because renowned personages are concerned.

Why haven't all the old whiners who exclaim so volubly about Nevada's fair intentions come to before this? What about the so-called society of the nation that has long concealed its rottenness under the hypocritical court robes of this state? Nobody objected then. Nobody would now, if there hadn't appeared a chance to capitalize upon the most advertised and wealthiest representatives of a much advertised and wealthy profession.

Taken all in all, no matter what the outcome, this is just another amusing incident that will some day make more or less savory reading for the grandsons and granddaughters of old Nevada.

OUR SECOND ANNIVERSARY

With this issue Camera! embarks upon the third year of its sojourn among the studios. Two years ago this publication made its initial appearance, having been accomplished on an old Washington hand press. Since that first issue (of 500 copies) there have been no jumps in Camera!'s career, but a steady, consistent growth occasioned by its faithful and unique service to the profession.

As a result the progress made by other motion picture trade papers cannot compare with that of Camera!

The casting directors of Los Angeles were the first studio people to lend their hearty co-operation, and indeed they were responsible for the possibility of the "Pulse of the Studio" feature. Then came the official endorsement of the various associations of the industry, and then the assistance of the publicists, whom we have to thank largely for our publication's news value.

Today Camera! is so vital a representative of the industry that any growth or addition in news features is sufficient occasion to be noted by the big daily papers. For instance, in last Saturday's Express we read the following:

"Camera!, the 'Digest of the motion picture industry,' has again expanded. This time it has added several new feature papers conform in size. This week, April 17th, Camera! have attracted the profession during the two years of its publication."

"Now, however, there has been taken into consideration the fact that since the launching of its successful campaign for national distribution, it is being read in every exchange city in the United States. Sections of the paper are being devoted to the exhibitor, exchange man and fan."

"Recently Camera! complied with the decision that all trade papers conform in size. Next week, April 17th, Camera! will be two years old."

Editor Camera:

If instead of trying to talk politics in your editorials, you would endeavor to impart some information of real benefit to the actor.

Your "roast" of the Times is foolish, inasmuch that any one who has read "Treasure Island" knows that the screen story is rotten in comparison, and Stevenson would literally turn in his grave could he see it butchered so. In a word, if you wrought more for the actor and cut out the salve you spread on some rather indifferent directors; if you were fearless in striking at some of the glaring abuses of the studios, the impudent striplings and discourteous, so-called "casting directors" artists are forced to come in contact with, I fell your efforts would meet a more hearty response than your half-baked efforts at politics.

MABEL J

Dear Mable: We desire to express our our approval of your apparent sincerity and obvious youth, manifested in the above. However, we are curious to discover why your political nature remains undeveloped. Ah! the thrills you must miss!

Concerning Mr. Tourneur's current production, we hope your definite criticism of it was occasioned by honest opinion, rather than a "crabby" disposition.

You notice, Mabel, that we failed to print your last name. Now do not say that we are not concerned over the affairs of picture "artists," even if yet in the "extra" class, and the treatment which they receive at the casting offices.

However, dear friend, should you care to remain in the business, we would suggest that you attempt the discovery of a boosting point or so. It will not only improve your popularity, but your facial expression as well.

FILM CAPITOL PRODUCTION NOTES

FILMING "JACK RANDALL, U. S. S. S."

The R. de R. Film Co., located at the Horsley studio, are now busy on the second episode in the "Jack Randall, U. S. S. S." series. The stories, thirteen in number, are being written by Captain Harry de Windt.

The part of Jack Randall is played by Allen Russell, and Betty Linley plays opposite him. Raymond Blathwayt is in the supporting cast.

The series is under the direction of Mr. George Richelavie.

AT THE SELZNICK WEST COAST STUDIOS

Eugene O'Brien, accompanied by his director, Bob Ellis, has left for New York following the completion of "The Figurehead." Work upon his next production will commence in a few weeks.

John Lynch, scenario writer, Larry Trimble director, and Harry Raph, studio manager, are at work upon the next Olive Thomas picture, the production of which will start in the near future. The title is "Jenny". Miss Thomas will arrive in Los Angeles within the week.

The Owen Moore Company, which recently commenced filming "Stop That Man" has been forced to remain idle the past week as the result of the illness of Director Frank C. Griffin.

AT VITAGRAPH

Niles Welch is on a camping trip before starting his second James Oliver Curwood special.

Earl Williams is spending a few days at Coronado between features. Director Chester Bennett is at San Diego preparing Mr. Williams' next picture.

Director David Smith is at Portland, Oregon, selecting locations for his next Curwood special.

Tom Terriss Company, filming "The Girl from the Sky," has returned to the studio from location at Palm Springs.

NEW COMPANY AT GARSON

The Francis Edmonde Company, with an all-star cast under the direction of Elsie La Maie, has started production at the Garson studio on a seven reel picture entitled "Peggy Wise," featuring Francis Edmonde.

The cast includes Frank Whitson, George Larkin, Katharine Lewis, Rae Berger, Carl Schaefer, and Dixie Stewart.

The camera work will be done by Reggie Lyon, and Dick Johnson will be assistant director.

The company left Thursday for San Diego for location shots.

WADE PRODUCTIONS START NEW PICTURE

Wade Productions featuring Jack Purves, will commence their third comedy drama Monday.

Owing to the indisposition of Mr. Purves, who has been at a sanitarium, the company has been held up for a couple of weeks.

Miss Marie Eline will support him in this picture.

THE FIRST NATIONAL MAY SECURE PAULINE FREDERICK

It is reported that Pauline Frederick will leave Goldwyn after the completion of "Madame X" and one other picture. It is said that she is at present concerned in a big deal with the First National Circuit.

LOEW TO STAR FLORENCE MOORE

Marcus Loew will make his entry into the picture field as a producer with Florence Moore as his star. She is now the headliner in the comedy "Breakfast in Bed" on Broadway in New York.

B. B. FEATURES HAS NEW CONTRACT WITH ROBERTSON COLE

Robertson Cole announces that after the present Barriscale series has been completed a contract already signed will be put into effect by which Bessie Barriscale in the future will star in nothing but super specials for Robertson Cole.

This new contract with B. B. Features Co. places Miss Barriscale in a position to produce four features a year.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Pending the appointment of a new general manager at Universal City by President Carl Laemmle, the position is being filled by W. K. Howard.

Marie Walcamp and company under the direction of Henry McCrae, who left for a tour of the far East last September to film scenes for "The Dragon's Net," arrived in San Francisco last week. Scenes for the serial were made in China, Japan, Korea, the Philippines and Hawaii. The party was met at the dock by Carl Laemmle, Sam van Ronkle, and W. C. Hermann, officials of the company.

Lynn Reynolds has begun production of "The Red Lane," by Holman Day, starring Frank Mayo. The support includes Jean Hersholt, Lillian Rich, James L. Mason, James O'Neill, Carl Formes, Paul Weigel, Frank Thorne, and Harry Lamont.

Anne Cornwall has started on "The Girl in the Rain," by Varick Vanardy, under the direction of Rollin Sturgeon. In the cast are James Liddy, George Runkle, James Farley, Jessalyn von Trump and Lloyd Bacon.

Harry Franklin is nearing completion of "Alias Miss Dodd," the comedy by Edgar Franklin in which Edith Roberts is appearing.

Albert Russell has started the ninth episode of "The Moon Riders," starring Art Acord.

Elmo Lincoln has begun work on a serial entitled "The Lightning's Eye," under the direction of Robert Hill. The supporting cast includes Louis Lorraine, Roy Watson, A. C. Torr, Fred Hamer, G. A. Williams, and Fay Holderness.

"Hoot" Gibson, directed by Mack Wright is beginning the production of "The Bronco Kid," in which he is supported by Yvette Mitchell, Dave Hendricks, and James Corey.

Magda Lane has returned to the studio and is playing the leading feminine role in "Neath Purple Skies," a two-reeler produced by Philip Rosen.

MABEL NORMAND AGAIN AT WORK

Mabel Normand has started work on her next Goldwyn picture, "Rosa Alvaro," under the direction of Victor Schertzinger.

Hugh Thompson plays the male lead. Tully Marshall and Doris Pawn are also in the cast.

ANITA STEWART TO DO "HARRIET AND THE PIPER"

"Harriet and the Piper" has been announced by Louis B. Mayer as the next starring vehicle for Anita Stewart. The story by Kathleen Norris was published as a serial in the Pictorial Review.

Bertram Bracken will direct the picture from the screen version by Monte M. Katterjohn.

POLLY MORAN AGAIN DOING "SHERIFF NELL"

Polly Moran's first "Sheriff Nell" vehicle since she left the Keystone forces, is nearing completion at the National Studio.

The comedy, which is the fourth of Miss Moran's two-reelers for Marion H. Kohn Productions, Inc., was written by Harry Wulz, and directed by Ward Hayes.

TO PRODUCE "THE BLACK SHEEP"

The Ore-Col Film Corporation, recently organized in Portland, Oregon, with A. D. Frost, president, and O. D. Woodward, vice-president, has purchased "The Black Sheep," by Will Payne. This story was first published in the Saturday Evening Post and then issued in book form under the title of "The Scarred Chin". The continuity is being written by Mr. Arthur Maude.

The services of Director John B. O'Brien have been secured. The cast includes the following people: Holmes Edward Herbert, Alice Mann, Hugh Huntley, John Hopkins, Walter P. Lewis, Bryan Russell, John Dillon, Walter Ware, James P. Hill and Mrs. William Taylor.

The production is to be made in Denver, Colo. Work will commence immediately.

TO PRODUCE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE STORIES

Screen Crafts, Inc., are producing "The Great Physician," a Christian Science story written by Carrie P. Hutchison.

The company have bought their own studio and plan to make four metaphysical feature plays yearly with all star casts.

The principals engaged for the series thus far are Rhea Mitchell, Robert McKim, and Frank Lanning.

PARTIAL CAST FOR STEWART PICTURE ANNOUNCED

The cast for Anita Stewart's next production, "Harriet and the Piper," by Kathleen Norris, includes Wade Crane, leading man, and Byron Munson, juvenile.

Director Bertram Bracken will start work in a few days.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

PATHE PRODUCTIONS TO SHOW IN CUBA

M. Ramirez Torres of Selection Film Service has contracted for the rights to all 1920-21 Pathe productions in Cuba, Porto Rico and San Domingo.

CHAPLIN RE-ISSUES CONTRACTED

Ira H. Simmons announces that the Fox circuit has contracted to play the following Chaplin releases: "The Champion," "The Jitney Elopement," "Work," and "By the Sea."

CURRENT REVIEWS

DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE

John Barrymore as "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," presents the most remarkable characterization contrast in the history of the screen. So perfect is his work that the impossibilities of Stevenson's renowned novel are lost to the audience. We do not ever again expect to see anything like Mr. Hyde as rendered by the country's greatest actor.

Martha Mansfield plays Millicent, the leading feminine role.

The cast is not particularly good, but as the play belongs bodily to the star it is of little consequence. John S. Robertson directed.

PRE-VIEW OF "FOR THE SOUL OF RAPHAEL"

A pre-view of "For the Soul of Faphael," a Garson offering, starring Clara Kimball Young, was given Monday evening, April 12th, at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre (L. A.)

The story is a seven reel production of the time and place of "Ramona". It has some good situations, but drags slightly as the result of several unnecessary sequences.

Miss Young appears to advantage as Marta, the Spanish convent girl who marries Raphael Artigas and loves the American traveler, Bryton.

Bertram Grassby as Rafael forms a striking characterization of fiery young Spanish insolence.

Bryton, the "Americano," is satisfactorily characterized by A. Frank Glendon.

Juan de la Cruz plays Capitan Artigas.

With very little revision the story would make a good five-reel production.

"THE FALSE ROAD"

"The False Road," starring Enid Bennett was last week's current Ince play at Clune's Broadway. The story is clever and swift moving, and deals with the lives of our polite crooks.

Miss Bennett is up to her usual form and Lloyd Hughes, who does the male lead, appropriates an unusual portion of the audience's attention.

Fred Niblo directed.

"SEX"

The most appropriate feature of "Sex," J. Parker Read, Jr.'s current offering, starring Louise Glauk at the Kinema, is its title. Certainly the production can lay no claim to either charm or subtlety. It deals in a low manner with a filthy theme.

Even its rather good cast fails to excuse the story. It includes, besides Miss Glaum, Irving Cummings, William Conklin, Myrtle Stedman and Peggy Pearce, all of whose characterizations are good.

C. Gardner Sullivan and Fred Niblo are author and director respectively of the picture.

"EDGAR'S HAMLET"

The second of Goldwyn's "Edgar" stories by Booth Tarkington, delighted last week's audiences at the California. The children's interpretation of Hamlet is great, and the entire story including the sub-titles are clever.

ARONOWITZ SELLS EXCHANGE INTEREST

Sam Aronowitz has sold his interest in Quality Attractions Company, located in Des Moines, Iowa. He has also resigned as the exchange's general manager.

FIRST NATIONAL MAY MEET IN CHICAGO

It is expected that the next First National Exhibitors' circuit convention will be held in Chicago, commencing April 26th.

THE IVERSON BILL PASSED

The Iverson bill which provided for a referendum in Baltimore on the Sunday picture question, was passed by both the Senate and House at the general assembly at Annapolis.

It is now ready for the governor's signature.

NEW CORPORATION FORMED IN COLORADO

The Floyd Fairyland Film Corporation has filed articles of incorporation in Pueblo, Colo. Capitalization is placed at $250,000.00.

COMPANY INCORPORATES

Articles of incorporation have been granted to the Marion H. Kohn Productions, Inc., of San Francisco, Calif., by the State of California, to produce motion pictures. The Kohn enterprises are capitalized at $200,000.

The officers are Marion H. Kohn, president; D. J. Chatkin, vice-president; J. D. Letterman, secretary, and George A. Oppenheimer, treasurer.

The Kohn firm is making short subjects exclusively. The concern's stars are Grace Cunard, Polly Moran, Smiling Bill Jones, and the Illiterate Digest by Will Rogers.

UNIVERSAL TO BUILD STUDIO IN LONDON

Universal Company has announced its intention of building a studio in London and sending companies from there to Italy and the Orient to make pictures.

FINKENSTEIN AND RUBEN SECURE LEWIS PICTURE

The Pathe production "Other Men's Shoes," directed by Edgar Lewis has been booked by Finkenstein and Ruben of Minneapolis and St. Paul. A week's run will be given the picture in each of the circuit's first run houses.

RAIN HOLDS OF WORK IN PORTLAND

Although the rain has interfered considerably with the production at the American Lifeograph Studio in Portland, announcement is made that the first play will be completed within the week.

RIGHTS ACQUIRED BY LEWIS

The R. D. Lewis Film Company of Oklahoma City, Okla., has acquired the state rights for Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas on the new Gaumont picture, "Husband and Wives," starring Vivian Martin, and "The Great White Trail," featuring Doris Kenyon, and "The Stranger."

Marcus Loew has appropriated $250,000.00 for improvements on the Metro West Coast Studio. Chief among these will be an enclosed stage of steel and glass.

BERNSTINE TO MANAGE "U"

The speculation as to who was to manage the Universal City Studio was definitely settled yesterday when Isadore Bernstine, former head of the National Film Company, was placed in the official capacity of general manager.

The cutting and titling of "The Yellow Typhoon," Anita Stewart's latest Louis B. Mayer First National attraction, has been completed and the negative sent East to be printed.

Don Osbourne, who is directing "A Corner in Gasoline."

Johnnie Jones as Edgar Pomeroy, Lucile Rickson as Alice Littlefield, and Buddy Messenger as Freddie Littlefield, are well cast and natural—in short, real, wholesome kids.

Charles Meakin, Jr., plays "Curley" cleverly. Harry Penn is "Rubeenious" to the delight of everyone.

Mason Hopper directed.

"THE STRANGE BOARDER"

"The Strange Boarder," Will Roger's latest at the California is a great improvement over his last "Water, Water Everywhere." The story is entertaining and well acted.

Mr. Rogers is provided an unusual opportunity to establish his personality in the role of Sam Gardner.

Irene Rich is also well cast, and her work is pleasing.

Little Jimmie Rogers is one of the most natural and delightful children we have seen on the screen. At last there has been discovered a real boy who puts the usual blondined, artificial little mimic far in the shade.

James Mason is fine as "Kittie Hinch," the gambler.

Lionel Belmore as "Jake Bloom" and Jack Richardson as "Westmark" are very convincing.

Others in the cast are: Doris Pawn, Sydney Deane and Louis J. Durham.

Clarence Badger directed.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

INGRAM GOES NORTH TO SECURE LOCATIONS

Rex Ingram, who is to direct "Hearts Are Trumps," for Screen Classics, Inc., has departed for San Francisco to look over several locations which he expects to use in this new production.

Roy Coulson is cast with Sessue Hayakawa.

Adele Buffington is Shirley Mason's new scenarist.

Frederic Herzog is working with Lynn Reynolds at Universal.

Tom Bates is cast as Hayakawa's Father in the star's next production.

Harry Todd is with King Vidor playing Booge in "The Jack Knife Man."

Harry Lamont is playing a Canadian role under the direction of Lynn Reynolds.

Dagmar Godowsky has been engaged as chief support for Owen Moore in "Stop That Man."

Beatrice Joy has commenced work as leading lady for David Butler in "Alice in Wonderland."

Lloyd Bacon, who is playing the heavy in "The Girl in the Rain," is in Sacramento on location.

Clark Irvine is again doing publicity for Goldwyn. This time he is with the Mabel Normand Company.

Bessie McCoy, widow of Richard Harding Davis, has been signed by William Fox, to star in a series of pictures.

Anna Q. Nilsson has signed to play opposite Hobart Bosworth in his newest J. Parker Read, Jr., production, "Beneath the Mast."

Julian Johnston has been engaged for an important role in Wanda Hawley's first starring vehicle, "Miss Hobbs," to be released by Realart.

Mrs. Wm. H. Crane and Mrs. Winchell Smith will leave for San Francisco next week, where "The New Henrietta" company will be on location.

Edward Martindel, formerly of the comic opera stage, has been cast in an important role of "Athalie," which Sidney A. Franklin is making under the Mayflower banner.

Walter McMonies, Jr., son of the President of the American Lifeograph Company, has been appointed superintendent of construction of the Lifeograph Studio at Portland.

Florence Vidor will be seen in King Vidor's second independent production for release through the First National Exhibitors circuit, namely "The Jack Knife Man" by Ellis Parker Butler.

Lieut. Chester Robertson, who just returned from Europe with the A. E. F., has been engaged by Kawalski productions to return to Europe and play juveniles in six big feature productions.

Milton Sills has been engaged for three Melford productions to be released by Paramount. They are "The Translation of a Savage," by Gilbert Parker, "The Faith Healer" by William Vaughn Moody, and "The Shulamite."

WHITMAN BENNETT LEASES YONKERS STUDIO

The old Triangle Studio at Yonkers has been leased by Whitman Bennett and will be a permanent institution for the production of the pictures he will release through the First National Exhibitors' circuit. The first four of these pictures will star Lionel Barrymore. Work commenced on the Barrymore series April 12th.

Hugh Saxon, "The Swagger Chap."

THE CINEMAPEDIA

By the Answer Man

Dear Answer Man:

Can you help me? I have just arrived in beautiful California and got a job in the pictures, but I am so unhappy.

Back home my boy friends thought me the nicest thing, but here the horrid "extras" on the set are so rough with me, so as to cause me much mental suffering.

Could you recommend a studio where they would be kind to a delicately nurtured boy like myself who comes of genteel, God-fearing parents.

Your heartbroken

CLAUDIE.

Ans.: Claudie, you do not stand alone, in this our noble art. Indeed, there are many like you—too many. However, if you really desire popularity together with cleaner surroundings it is your prerogative to attempt a reform. The results might (?) be interesting.

121 Hill St., San Antonio, Tex., April 7, '20.
Dear Answer Man:

When will the 1920 Camera Year Book be mailed to its subscribers and what is the price per copy?

Sincerely,

LESTER J. B. KETNER.

Ans.: The Year Book is at present on the press and will be out in a few days. It will not be mailed to subscribers this year. Price is 50 cents.

Phil Hazza has become managing director of the Amalgamated Exhibitors' Circuit, Ltd.

Bert Apling has been engaged to play the fighting sailor with Tony Moreno.

Ted Taylor, director of the Metro news bureau for over a year, has resigned to develop other publicity lines.

The Pasadena mansion of H. Jevne, Los Angeles merchant, was used by Metro's "Parlor, Bedroom, and Bath" company, for taking scenes recently.

Lillian Martin has been cast for a part in support of Rhea Mitchell in the first special production to be made by the new Screen Crafts, Inc., at Culver City.

Recent visitors at the Metro studio include Lieut. James Hale Dalton, navigation officer of the flagship New Mexico, Miss Ruby Rush, New York and Chicago sculptress, and Bennie Leonard, lightweight champion of the world.

The latest cinematographers to affiliate with the A. S. C. are Harry Gerstad of the J. B. Hampton studio, Harry Thorpe of the Fairbanks sources, and Bennie Reynolds who photographed the two von Stroheim productions at Universal.

C. E. Shurtleff and Ed Sloman have returned from San Francisco, where they obtained a sailing vessel for use in "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," the next Jack London story to be produced for the Shurtleff Company by Metro. The cast is now being selected.

Maurice Maeterlink has put the finishing touches to his scenario and will leave the coast next Tuesday for New York. From there he will sail for his home in Nice, France. On Thursday evening, the 8th, he was the guest of honor with Mrs. Maeterlink at the annual banquet of the Belgian Society, which on this occasion celebrated the birthday anniversary of King Albert.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

CONCERNING FERDINAND EARLE AND "THE RUBAIYAT"

By Willard Huntington Wright

The most unusual and spectacular motion picture which has ever been filmed is now in process of production in Hollywood. It will be more prodigal than anything ever attempted in its field; for Ferdinand Earle, the conceiving and executing genius of the picture, has evolved and perfected a process by which a richness and multiplicity of effects can be obtained such as are not possible with the present methods of production.

By painting whatever setting he desires on a small academy board, a realistic scene can be projected on the screen and living people in action can be introduced into it. Thus, the variety and extent of any setting is limited only by the painter's capabilities as an artist in oils. And inasmuch as Mr. Earle is an artist of international reputation, a one-time pupil of Bouguereau and Whistler and an exhibitor in the Paris Salon, the photoplay he is now producing will possess the qualities of a work of graphic art. By this new process, when they are thrown on the screen, they give forth an actual luminosity ranging from the blackest blacks, through the entire gamut of delicately contrasted grays, to the whitest white.

The subject Mr. Earle has chosen to produce by the new procedure, is "The Rubaiyat," of Omar Khayyam, and in its presentation he will rehabilitate and revision for us, in a series of pictures, all the glamorous romance and atmospheric beauty of medieval Persia, with its mysterious mountains and deserts, its splendor of Oriental interiors, its luxurious palaces, its magnificent gardens, its wonder cities of white domes and slender minarets and glittering towers, its festive and flaring street scenes, its wild festivities, its strange desert encampments, and its colorful caravans of camels. The picture, which will be considerably longer than the regulation five-reel film, will contain hundreds of such scenes, and the new effects developed by Mr. Earle will surpass in beauty anything heretofore produced by the motion picture camera.

Nor are these scenes merely "stills". They are animated pictures, with real actors moving among them just as they now move in the wood-and-plaster sets of any moving picture.

Ferdinand Earle, who is the brother of W. P. S. Earle, has been at work several years on the details of this new process, and his success is due, not only to the fact that he is thoroughly versed in all the mechanical intricacies of motion picture technique, but to his genius as an artist capable of giving a new beauty to film production and of putting his discoveries into practical operation.

Rosemary Theby will leave for a two weeks' visit in New York upon the completion of Sidney A. Franklin's production "Athalie" in which she plays the principal part.

Earl Montgomery and Chuck Reisner, his director, will take a trip to New York following their current picture. Montgomery will ship his car to Chicago and drive from there to New York.

The Playcrafters presented four one-act plays at the Gamut Theatre, 1004 S. Hope street, Tuesday evening, April 13th. "Shirt-sleeves," by Nina T. Updyke and "Caught" by Eloise Bibb Thompson were directed by Charles B. Kelly. "Broken Idols" by Harlan McNroy, and "Isn't Love Queer?" by Mary Larrimer, were under the direction of the authors.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY TO REMAKE PLAYS

Famous Players-Lasky are engaged in remaking a number of plays and novels once pictured. Among them are "The Witching Hour," "The Conquest of Canaan," "What Happened to Jones," "A Gentleman from Indiana," "The Shulamite," and "The Husbands of Edith."

Ferdinand Earle, who is producing "The Rubaiyat," by Omar Khayyam.

PARAGON PICTURES TO FEATURE PARSON

The Rev. Geo. LeRoi Clarke, ordained Baptist clergyman, has quit preaching to become a comedian in motion pictures.

The Paragon Pictures Corporation is now making a series of twenty-six two-reel comedies featuring the pastor. Two comedies have already been filmed and the third is on the way to completion.

Fred Jefferson is directing. The support includes Marian Pickering and Johnny Hayes.

According to Rev. Clarke the Paragon Comedies will be released through the Romayne Super Film Company of Los Angeles, California.

Rupert Hughes arrived at the Goldwyn Culver City studio and saw the film version of his story, "Scratch My Back."

He expects to be on the coast about three weeks, and is working with continuity writers on his next story to be transferred to the screen.

Bill Hauber has recovered from injuries sustained in the auto drop over a cliff in a scene for Larry Semon's latest Vitagraph comedy.

Clare Du Brey is now at Catalina Island on a brief vacation.

Mary Thurman has gone to Salt Lake City for a two weeks' visit to her mother. She will return May 1st, as she is to be featured again in the next Allan Dwan production.

"DOWN ON THE FARM" AT THE KINEMA

The Kinema Theatre gets Mack Sennett's latest five-reel production, "Down on the Farm." Perhaps SoLessor's experience with previous multiple real productions from the hands of Mack Sennett is a big factor in encouraging Mr. Lesser to secure the first run rights.

A singularly unique record is this of Mr. Sennett. Up to the completion of "Down on the Farm" his creations in five-reel pictures numbered three, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin," "Tillie's Punctured Romance," and "Mickey". All three are going yet.

"By their fruits ye shall know them" certainly applies to reel life, and Sol Lesser believes that the man who can produce three consecutive masterpieces can produce a fourth. On that account he presents the works World Premier.

"Down on the Farm" provides Louise Fazenda, Bert Roach, Billy Finlayson, John Henry, Jr., Harry Gribbon, Billy Armstrong, Teddy and Pepper with unusual individual opportunities.

Wallace Beery is finding himself more than busy of late. During the daytime he helps Douglas Fairbanks in the filming of "The Mollycoddle," and Douglas McLean and Doris May are making their current production at night so Wallie can be with them.

Tsuru Aoki has arrived in Honolulu and will remain there several days, according to a cable received by Sessue Hayakawa.

The "Mischief Man," Lew Cody's latest starring vehicle, now in the course of production, is an original story by H. Tipton Steck, who also is responsible for the story Cody will produce in New York upon the completion of the current one.

Mr. Steck has recently scenarized for Wm. Farnum Charles Alden Seltzer's "Drag-Harlan."

THE COMEDY KING

When one employs the phrase, "a Mack Sennett production," what does he mean? How much of the actual creative and constructive work is done by Sennett himself?

"Down on the Farm," Sennett's latest five-reel production, illustrates and answers the question.

The plot scheme, the "continuity," and the scenario proper are equally Sennett's. He presides in the scenario department, directing the discussions, leading in suggestions and finally passing on every detail of the story. In the direction of the picture every foot of the film passes under his espionage. Episodes are taken and retaken until they suit his critical demands. Whole scenes are eliminated and better ones suggested by Mr. Sennett until the course of the plot runs with directness to suit him. Consultations with the active director and supervision of his work are constant and continuous to the completion of the production.

To a degree that is probably not true in any other studio, the product as completed and screened is the identified creation of the man whose name the picture bears—a Mack Sennett production is a picture, whether in two or five reels, that bears the imprint of Sennett in every foot of film and is his either by right of creation, supervision, direction, conception or development, or of all these!

Edythe Chapman, Goldwyn player, fell while coming down the front steps of her home a few days ago, and severely sprained her ankle.

CONTINUITY WRITING

"THE COUNTERFEIT TRAIL"

Scenario by Wycliffe A. Hill

Produced by Universal Film Company

Note—All of my readers who desire to follow up this series of articles on continuity writing should save this issue of Camera! as I show below the synopsis of the first story that we will put in continuity as we go along.

Old Dad Walton is a mining prospector who owns a placer claim that shows a wonderful prospect. He is handicapped, however, for the necessary machinery with which to develop the claim. He has a pretty little daughter by the name of Mary, who feels deeply the financial position of the old man. Two Spot Joe, a rough and brutal character, is in love with Mary, and when he learns of the predicament of the old man, conceives an idea which he believes will enable him to win the girl. He tells the old man that he will get the money with which to purchase the necessary machinery, hoping to thereby place old Walton under such obligations to him that Mary will capitulate. Two Spot is a gambler as well as a crook at heart and plans to get the money by fair or foul means.

Philip Cook, a cowboy from another part of the country, comes into the Holbrook country and meets Mary. He is greatly impressed with her. About the same time the sheriff receives a communication from another county that a clever counterfeiter is headed for the Holbrook country.

A man whom we will designate as "The Stranger" arrives at the Holbrook saloon. He has a large roll of money, which Two Spot sees and resolves to steal. Phil arrives at the saloon, and accidentally upsets the Stranger's drink just as Two Spot is about to make his touch. The Stranger engages Phil in a fight and both of them are thrown out of the place. In the meantime the sheriff has seen Phil flash a roll of money and suspects that he is the counterfeiter.

The Stranger starts out across country on horseback, and under the influence of liquor. He is followed by Two Spot. At the same time Phil takes his leave, followed by the sheriff. Two Spot waylays the Stranger, attempts to rob him and murders him. Phil comes along just in time to be seen by the sheriff and suspected of the murder. He is arrested and put in jail. Seeking to cover up his crime and fasten it on Phil, Two Spot agitates the mob of rough-necks to hang Phil. The jail is stormed. The sheriff hears the noise and holds the mob at bay. Phil escapes, and is pursued by the sheriff's posse.

In the meantime Two Spot calls at the Walton cabin, shows the old man the money and demands Mary. Old Walton flies into a rage and falls dead with a stroke of heart trouble. Two Spot flees from the cabin.

In the meantime Phil eludes the sheriff's posse and is in the neighborhood of the Walton cabin. Losing the trail of Phil, the sheriff returns to town and finds a roll of counterfeit bills on the body of the Stranger, which marks him as the counterfeiter. It is supposed then that Phil has murdered the Stranger for a roll of bills that he did not know was counterfeit.

Mary returns to the cabin, finds her father's body, and is heartbroken. She screams. Phil is nearby, hears her and goes to the cabin. He tenderly lifts the old man to a couch and is comforting Mary when he sees Two Spot sneaking back. Recognizing him as a member of the mob that tried to hang him, Phil takes a rifle from the wall and draws a bead on Two Spot through the window. Mary stops him; tells him that Two Spot is a friend of her father's. She shoves Phil into a closet. Two Spot comes in, brutally ignores Mary's anguish, flashes the roll of bills, and demands that she come along with him. "Let somebody else bury the old man," he says. Mary repulses him; he seizes her roughly. Phil jumps from his place of concealment and onto Two Spot. They fight all over the room. Two Spot drops the roll of bills. Just as Phil gets Two Spot down the sheriff comes in. He covers Phil and commands Mary to put the handcuffs on him. After this is done the sheriff notices the roll of bills on the floor; picks it up and examines the money. Seeing that it is counterfeit, he asks whose money it is. Two Spot quickly claims the money. The sheriff covers him and has the girl remove the handcuffs from Phil and place them on Two Spot. The counterfeit money has marked Two Spot as the murderer of the Stranger, and the sheriff takes him to jail. Looking back from the door, the sheriff tells Phil to look after the little gal.

Some time later we see Mary and Phil happily married and viewing a wonderful operating mine on the claim of the dead father.

THE END.

In the next issue of Camera! we will start with title and scene 1 and illustrate just how the story will open on the screen. As we write each scene and sub-title we will explain all the whys and wherefores as we go along.

HOLLYWOOD COMMUNITY THEATRE

Born of a desire to artistically present the interesting plays of representative dramatists, plays that have unquestioned merit, yet generally fail of appeal for commercial production, the Hollywood Community Theatre is approaching the end of its third and most successful season. Under the direction of Miss Neely Dickson, this unique Little Theatre has acquired a country-wide reputation for the finished excellence of production that places it among the first of such organizations. Success has been achieved only through the untiring and generous devotion of its many community admirers. The players receive no remuneration for their parts excepting that satisfaction which results from a finished and worthy performance and the appreciation of the audiences.

Technically speaking, the playhouse on Ivar avenue is crude and cramped, yet because the endeavor is based alone on the love of the art, these crudities have been graciously accepted, and the popularity of the productions proves the value of the endeavor.

Excepting New York City, there is probably no other community which might grant the possibilities of such a Little Theatre, for the motion picture industry brings to these parts practically every capable actor and actress. With such an array of talent, there are always capable players to carry the roles of any dramatic venture, and they have been most generous in their response. To pay these players would be prohibitive, for among those prominent particularly who have appeared at the Community Theatre are Theodore Roberts, Wilfred Lucas, Henry Walthall, Raymond Hatton, Wallace Reid, Vivian Martin, Harrison Ford, Louise Huff, Winter Hall, Lionel Belmore, Charles Meredith, Roscoe Karns, Mayme Kelso, Guy Oliver, Helen Eddy, Bertram Grassby, Antrim Short, Harry Meystayer, Frederick Burton, Raymond Cannon, and many others well known in pictures. There have been more than 135 different players during the three years; many of these appearing several times.

The last production of the present season opens Monday, April 19th, for two weeks. It is Clare Kummer's comedy of manners, "A Successful Calamity." The cast includes Winter Hall, Betty Linley, Phil Gastrock, Clark Marshall, Joyce Percy, Charles Parrott, Alfred Hollingsworth, Helenita Leiberger, J. Jiquel-Lanoe, Charles Geggus, Kathleen Bolton and Joseph Bell.

ECLIPSE COMPANY STARTS

"Eclipse Comedies Put Them All in the Shade" is the slogan of the Eclipse Film Company, a new producing company which starts work at the David Horsley studios this week. The company will produce a series of two-reel comedies, using the same cast and characters in each picture.

Wycliffe A. Hill is the author of the series and will supervise production. Tom Gibson, who recently directed Gale Henry, will handle the megaphone, with John Lyman at the camera. Dan Crimmons, character actor of the firm of Crimmons & Gore, vaudeville headliners, and whose work is well known in pictures, will handle the cast. Playing opposite him is Hattie Wade Mack. Other members of the cast are Lottie McPherson, Allan Cuthbert and Helen Carpenter. The title of the series to be produced is "The Problems of the Potts Family."

Gouverneur Morris has taken a bungalow in Hollywood and expects to remain in California for some time.

At present he is working with continuity writers who are putting into screen shape his next story, which will be "Yellow Men and Gold."

The Editor, Camera.

Dear Sir: Your current issue carries an articles referring to Miss Edythe Fink as having "completed her latest production 'Stop That Man' for Owen Moore."

We would appreciate a correction of that statement, as the continuity was prepared by Helen W. Phipps, of the Owen Moore Company, and credit should be given accordingly.

Miss Fink was employed by the Selznick organization as a continuity typist.

Owen Moore Productions,
Brunton Studios.
F. ALMEY, Mgr.

SCOTTY SAYS:

"The first six months actors were forbidden the privilege of advertising in Camera! Why? Because we knew our circulation did not justify it.

"Now, however, Camera! offers the only direct medium for the various people of the profession to reach the producer, director, assistant director, and casting director; that is to say, the people who are directly interested in offering engagements."

According to Scott McKee there is more cast in crook society than in the English nobility.

THE SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wish the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past year in regard to the submission of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

ANITA STEWART CO., 3800 MISSION ROAD, LOS ANGELES. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 7100 SANTA MONICA BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner and W. Desmond; 5 reels. Also 6 and 7 reel features for Blanche Sweet.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS., LOS ANGELES. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

KING VIDOR PRODUCTIONS, 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., HOLLYWOOD: Will consider synopses, scenarios, books or play strong in heart interest and "homey atmosphere." Five reels or more.

METRO, LOS ANGELES. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melo-dramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG., LOS ANGELES. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

HERMANN FILM CORPORATION, 2435 Wilshire Blvd., Santa Monica, Calif. In the market for Five Reel Dramas, also two reel comedies and serials.

HAWORTH STUDIO, 4500 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES, is in the market for scenarios for Sessue Hayakawa, who plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels. Also desire scenarios for Edith Storey, with strong dramatic roles, dealing with society or out of doors.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCTION COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES. One-reel short stories for Teddy Sampson, Harry Depp, Molly Malone and Ray Gallagher.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, SANTA BARBARA, CALIF., is in the market for strong stories requiring balanced casts.

N. W. ARONSON, CRUSADER SERVICE, CITIZENS TRUST BLDG. Pico 750. Author's representative. Books only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY, CALIF. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; and feature character stories for Priscilla Dean.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST., LOS ANGELES. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust Avenue, New York.

D. N. SCHWAB PRODUCTIONS (Inc.), AT HOLLYWOOD STUDIO, 6642 SANTA MONICA BLVD., is in the market for 5 and 6 reel comedy dramas for David Butler, preferably stories befitting the big, smiling country boy type, with at least part of the setting in rural locale.

A Call for New Photoplay Stories

Producers and stars are searching the country for new motion picture stories. The industry is face to face with a famine in good photoplays. More talented men and women must immediately be trained to write for the screen. Learn how you can now master this remunerative art at home during your spare time.

For Motion Picture Stories

If you have a spark of creative imagination—if you have any story ideas—even if you have never written a line for publication, the motion picture industry now offers you an exceptional opportunity. Big prices are being paid for stories that can be used—$100 to $250 for comedies; $250 to $2000 for five reel dramas and comedy dramas.

$3000 for One Story

One of our students sold his first story for $3000. The screen success, "His Majesty the American" (starred by Douglas Fairbanks), and "Live Sparks," in which J. Warren Kerrigan starred, were written by our students. Many of our members have already taken staff positions in Los Angeles studios.

Palmer students are entitled to the free and unlimited use of our Consulting Service for one year. This service gives our members the privilege of calling on our staff for help and counsel at any time desired.

Special Contributors

Included in the Palmer Course is a series of printed lectures by prominent motion picture people, whose pictures are shown in this announcement. They cover every essential phase of photoplay plot construction.

Advisory Council

The educational policy of the Palmer Photoplay Corporation is directed by the biggest figures in the industry. (See the four illustrations at top of this announcement.)

Send for this Free Book

For those who are interested in this great new opportunity, we have prepared an elaborate book, "The Secret of Successful Photoplay Writing." It lays before you the Palmer Course and Service in greater detail. Mail the coupon for it now.

A CHAMPION OF THE PROFESSION

In your editorial of a week or so ago, you refer to certain ladies with an abundance of unoccupied time, and living, if you please, within the metropolitan district of Hollywood, who have unearthed a "moving picture problem". It seems to the writer that the "society" ladies of this whole democracy—petticoated and trousered—have discovered so many problems in connection with said industry, that its garments are well-nigh threadbare and its eye-teeth six inches long. It is circumscribed here and fettered there; it must have no scenes portraying this, nor suggesting that, etc., etc.

On matters sanctimonial, for instance, it must not dwell—too long. It must not expose the most palpable frauds, so long as they are operated under the cloak of Christian Ecclesiasticism. But 'tis passing strange that scenario writers may concoct the most extravagant, absurd and insulting messes out of their overwrought imaginations, reflecting on the great, non-Christian systems of Buddhism, Mohammedanism and the cults of Hindustan, and there is not a whimper out of our high "moralists of society," due, perhaps, to their ignorance, or bigotry, or prejudice with regard to these faiths of humanity's great majority.

We are not advised just what particular charges the affiliated mesdames have against you wicked cinema-folk. But, look out! For, like the greater society ladies of the tyrannical Mary de Medici's court, they have their men-at-arms, ever ready to do their bidding. Yes, indeed, there are certain political and judicial courtiers, with their armor buckled and shining, who are willing to quell the last throbs of freedom, the last titter of joy—the two outstanding desiderata of cinematography. We'd regret to see a great, new agency of education and civilization have to give up the ghost of a pile of prejudicial fagots. If there are those around the studios who are "not just as they ought to be," let us ask our Hollywood "society" friends this question: "Did you ever see a flock of geese without a gander?"

That the Hollywood people should assume an illiberal, uncordial and "holier than thou" attitude towards the motion picture colony is beyond us. If such really be the case, it reminds one forcibly of Mohammed Ali's goat that "waxed furious at the fire and lost his beard for his pains."

The writer has had an "atmospherical" flight through the studios, via the type-market, keeping his mental and physical optics ever alert and he can aver with some reason, and without fear, favor or affectation, that the morality, mentality and general comportment of the men and women employed in those places will not shrink from a comparison with the same qualities in any lady of "society" or in any society of ladies.

If the society ladies of the Hollywood district would devote a little of their time and energies towards periodical cleansing of local political and police cesspools—if they haven't too much pride for such humble servility—they'd be honored very much by the approbation of the moving picture people, whose hearts will glow with true thankfulness for such useful service.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES H. B. FITZGERALD,
1368 Walnut Street,
Los Angeles, Calif.

To Miss Suzette Booth, Los Angeles Record and the Profession

'Tis a wonderful imagination you have been building up in the sweet article in the Record of April 15, 1920, but, Miss Booth, we are sorry to say that you do not seem to know that this office was open four months ago, and how very poor must be your memory, that you had to sign a card in our office, you being the only Movieites who had to do this, as long as we have existed; but, Mabel Morton, if you think that you have not been sidetracked and signed your fictitious name in another place, call on us and get your card back, and your signature, if you are able to do so, as we cannot find either your name or picture or signature. And how very poor is your memory to imagine it is necessary for a business man to open up a desk drawer to take out a cheaply gotten up book, the Director's Gallery, as our book is printed on 25x38-100 coated paper with a 20x25-65 Buckeye cover, according to our statement and bills of the largest printing companies in this city who printed our book. Now, as a press agent, you better first find out what kind of paper we are using, if you know anything about paper, before you start talking about cheap stuff, and our cuts which we used in our book—oh, dear Miss Booth, could you see how wonderful your photo would look in our Director's Gallery in 133-screen copper half-tone finish, and then the price—our prices are $40 a whole page, $25 a half page—neither did we raise same in the days of high cost of living nor do we go down to make our living. Then, furthermore, why should our conscience hurt us—to be afraid to see a newspaper woman.

The only thing we want is for any of you newspaperwomen to come up here and tell us who she is, and we will pay her a good price for a worth while write up and advertisement in any L. A. newspaper. We have presented our book to all directors in town, also to Mr. H. A. Cable, labor commissioner of Los Angeles, and every one thinks and is still thinking today that our Director's Gallery is a publicity proposition for motion picture people and is worth while considering. Men and women better known than you, Miss Booth, are casting today from our book; but we have to excuse you, as you did not know it. We only consider and have registered people who are now working in the pictures, and others who are worthy to be considered for pictures. All of your other statements, Miss Booth, are absolute falsehoods and are not worth giving the slightest consideration, and, really, only a poor, green country girl would give a writeup of this kind to an experienced business man who is trying to build up a legitimate business the way it should be seen by real motion picture people and the commissioner of labor, Mr. Cable, otherwise I do not think the State of California and the City of Los Angeles would accept our license fee, which, no doubt is more than all the Coca-Cola you, poor Miss Booth, had to drink to recover from the shock which you got by entering our office.

THE PURCHASING SITUATION

It is possible that the most menacing condition facing the industry today is that which studio buyers have long watched assume astounding proportions in despair.

It seems that, true to its age old policy, Los Angeles is disrespectfully "bleeding" the studios almost past the point of endurance. Laboring under the belief or pretense that picture people are just so many idiots at large, accompanied by fabulous sums of money, the care of which is beyond their mentality, the struggle, especially among property dealers, appears to be maintained in an effort to lighten the poor professionals' financial burdens.

Consequently studio buying conditions are deplorable. Ridiculous prices are being charged and paid for the smallest and commonest of articles, and outrageous advantage is being taken of the studios on every hand. The present situation is merely an old one exaggerated.

When interviewed as to the absolute necessity of this robbery, several buying departments alternately displayed anger and disgust, but the answer to the question, "Why deal with unfair property firms?" was the same. If the manufacture of picture plays could be systematized sufficiently, the problem could be easily solved. But so far this has proven impossible.

The responsibility of the buyer is to procure articles and materials the day, sometimes the hour, that they are needed. In such an event there is little time for financial differences. So the condition has grown worse, largely through seeming necessity and partly, perhaps, through leniency on the part of the studio.

As a result, some of our biggest companies have registered their resentment by departing from this vicinity, bag and baggage. Others, it is rumored, contemplate like action. It is clearly up to the industry to settle this disturbance. Couldn't some sort of property service be established by a combination of studios, the sort of service that would receive reasonable profit on purchases and rentals, but that would not be allowed to indulge in the absurd exaggerations in price that is so rampant at this time?

Such an enterprise, in the long run, would certainly save the producer money many times greater than the exertion and time invested in its establishment.

The Los Angeles producer has learned, through bitter experience, that his salvation, financial and otherwise, is peculiarly up to himself.

BROADWAY AND OUR PICTURE STARS

Written Especially for The Camera! by W. Renick Smith

NEW YORK, April 13.—When New York suddenly shakes off her blaseness and instantly becomes attentive, there is a worth while reason. However, when one realizes that within the last few months Gotham has been privileged to see in person four motion picture stars, then it is not so difficult to see why she has had at least a semblance of a thrill. The names of Dorothy Dalton, Theda Bara, Elsie Ferguson and Elsie Janis have been in electric lights on Broadway during the winter season, and the plays in which this quartet of movie actresses have been appearing have caused no little amount of gossip in and out of newspapers. In justice to the two Elsie's, it should be said that they, of course, made their reputations on the legitimate stage many years before they acted before the camera, but outside of a little stock and vaudeville experience Miss Dalton has never before done anything really big in legitimate, and it is understood that Miss Bara's legitimate has been very brief.

When Miss Janis came back from France she decided to get some of "her gang" together and stage an overseas revue. Elsie's show is labeled "Elsie and Her Gang." Theda Bara, quite naturally would have to do a little camping, so A. H. Woods is presenting her in "The Blue Flame." Miss Ferguson comes back to the legitimate in Arnold Bennett's new vehicle, "Sacred and Profane Love," and Dorothy Dalton played the leading role in "Aphrodite" at the Century until the show closed the first week in April.

"Elsie and Her Gang"

Wasn't it General Pershing who said that Elsie Janis did more to cheer the fellows "over there" than any other one American woman? Well, at any rate, it isn't necessary to tell those readers who lived through the war days who Elsie is and what she did in France. Her revue is about as original and entertaining as any frivolous burlesque on the war could be. There is no attempt made to impress the audience with any sort of "professionalism"—in fact, Elsie announces that she recruited her gang from the boys she met and played with over there. The amateurishness and impromptu of it all get it by with tumultuous applause from the first to last curtain. Miss Janis is a better mimic—a more appealing singer and, if possible, a better dancer than she was in those long-since-forgotten "befo' de wah" days. Her "Just a Little Touch of Paris" goes over big, and when she grabs one of the soldiers to dance the chorus her audience almost rises and shout in appreciation. Elsie's imper-

RILEY POEMS FOR CHARLES RAY

The Arthur S. Kane organization announces that Charles Ray has just completed the purchase in Los Angeles of four of James Whitcomb Riley's poems of American country life. They are "The Old Swimming Hole," "The Girl I Loved," "Home Again," and "Out to Old Aunt Mary's."

ARTISTS ORGANIZE FILM COMPANY

The Artists Colony at Laguna Beach has organized the Laguna Del Rey Art Film Corporation, to produce a series of pictures.

Paul Hurst has been secured to handle the directing and producing end, while Hedda Nova, Russian star, will be featured.

The first picture to be filmed is "Byrd of Dawn," by Lolita Perine.

Among the artists who are backing the enterprise and who form the board of directors are Lolita Perine, Miss Gayne Peak, National lecturer for the New York Board of Education, Frederick Palmer of the Palmer Photoplay Company and Director Paul Hurst.

Mrs. Edgar Payne and Henri De Kruef will design the art titles and aid in the art direction.

KATHLEEN KIRKHAM TO HAVE HER OWN COMPANY

Kathleen Kirkham is soon to have her own company and produce Kathleen Kirkham pictures. She will write her own stories.

GLORIA JOY PRODUCTIONS, INC., TO START

The Gloria Joy Productions, Inc., starring little Gloria Joy, is preparing to shoot the first five-reel feature, "Jean of Rainbow Springs," by Frances Marian Mitchell. Sherwood MacDonald will direct.

STARTS FOREIGN EXPEDITIONS

Louis W. Thompson, president of the Special Pictures Corporation, recently arrived in Los Angeles from New York, where he was engaged in starting camera expeditions to different parts of the world to secure for Special Pictures scenic subjects that will be colored by the Artcolor process. These subjects will be presented on the same weekly release with Comedyart.

NEW SELZNICK PRODUCTION STARTED

Production of "The Palace of Darkened Windows" for the National Pictures Theaters was started Monday at the Selznick West Coast Studios, with a cast chosen by Harry Rapf, the studio manager, and Henry Kolker, who is directing the picture. It includes Jay Belasco, Claire Anderson, Arthur Carewe, Nicholas, Cecil Mumford and Adele Farrington.

OLIVE THOMAS PRODUCING "JENNY"

Olive Thomas started on her current production last week at the Selznick West Coast Studios.

Laurence Trimble is directing.

"THE OUTSIDER" IN COURSE OF PRODUCTION

Production of Alice Lake's new Screen Classics starring vehicle, "The Outsider," was commenced last week at the Metro Studio. A. P. Younger and Lois Zellner adapted the story, which is by Julie Herne.

Forest Stanley plays the male lead, and Edwin Mortimer is directing.

"HELD IN TRUST" COMPANY ON LOCATION

May Allison and company, filming "Held in Trust," have been on location at Pasadena for the past few days.

Darrell Foss and Walter Long are included in the cast.

John Ince is directing.

CAST FOR "THE JACK KNIFE MAN"

The completed cast for King Vidor's forthcoming production, "The Jack Knife Man," adapted from Ellis Parker Butler's novel, includes Florence Vidor, Charles Arling, Fred Turner, Willis Marks, Harry Todd, James Corrigan, Lillian Leighton, Bobby Kelso and Claire McDowell.

Charles Gordon, who has an important role in Melford's "The Translation of a Savage."

"DON'T EVER MARRY," MARSHALL NEILAN'S LATEST

Marshall Neilan announces that the title of his second independent production is "Don't Ever Marry," from the story of the same name by Edgar Lawrence, which is to be published serially in Munsey's magazine simultaneously with the release of the picture. The screen adaptation was done by Marion Fairfax.

INGRAHAM TO DIRECT MRS. CHAPLIN

Mildred Harris Chaplin's fourth First National attraction is to be directed by Lloyd Ingraham, who has to his credit "Mary's Ankle" and "What Is Your Husband Doing?"

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Jack Ford is supervising the production of "Under Sentence," with Bob Anderson, Ethel Ritchie, Jennie Lee, J. Farrell McDonald, Captain Anderson and Jack Woods in the cast.

Jacques Jaccard is now at work on "The Scarlet Rider." Leonard Clapham will be featured with Virginia Fair as the feminine lead.

Rollin Sturgeon and company, starring Anne Cornwall in "The Girl in the Rain," have left for San Francisco, where a number of scenes will be filmed.

ANOTHER "TARZAN" PICTURE

The last of the Edgar Rice Burroughs stories, "The Son of Tarzan," has been purchased by the National Film Corporation and will be adapted for the screen in serial form.

Roy Somerville, the novelist who has written original scripts and adaptations for Douglas Fairbanks, the Talmadge sisters, Madge Kennedy, the Gish sisters, etc., will reduce the novel to fifteen episodes for screening.

Harry Revier will supervise the production of "The Son of Tarzan." The serial company will sail immediately for a South Pacific island, where the picture will be made.

Jack Hoxie will take the leading role in "The Son of Tarzan," while the principal feminine lead will be played by Lucille Rubey.

Walmsley Lenhard, well known artist, has been engaged to paint Theodore Roberts' portrait.

ANSTAY PLAY TO BE PICTURIZED

"The Brass Bottle," F. Anstey's stage play, will be H. B. Warner's next starring vehicle for Jesse D. Hampton.

Edwn Stevens has been engaged to portray the Genee for the picturization of the play. Fred Myton is responsible for the screen adaptation.

C. B.'S LATEST

Cecil B. de Mille's newest Paramount Aircraft Special, "Something to Think About," is finally completed, so far as the actual taking is concerned, and several weeks will now be devoted to cutting, titling and editing.

WASHBURN TO DO "BURGLAR PROOF"

Bryant Washburn has nearly finished "A Full House," by Reed Jackson, under the direction of James Cruze. He will begin very shortly on "Burglar Proof." The new picture will be directed by Major Maurice Campbell.

SELLERS TO PRODUCE IN THE EAST

The Humanity Film Company has finished its picture, "The Sowing of Alderson Cree," and Ollie Sellers will leave within the week for the East to produce "Dianna of Star Hollow," featuring Bernard Durning. He will be gone two months.

BACK FROM LOCATION

Dustin Farnum has returned to the Brunton Studios, after an extended stay in the Tehachapi Mountains, where he has been filming snow stuff for his first Sidney L. Cohan production.

WORK ON MAYFLOWER PRODUCTIONS STARTED

Allan Dwan has begun preliminary work on his sixth Mayflower production.

He left the Brunton studios this week for the California Sequoias, where he will write the continuity of his next story.

"THE MUTINY" COMPANY IN SAN FRANCISCO

The company filming "The Mutiny," the second Jack London-C. E. Shurtleff production, is in San Francisco, where scenes will be taken in and about the harbor. Mitchell Lewis is the star, and his support includes Helen Ferguson, William Mong, Casson Ferguson, Noah Beery, Sidney Dalbrook and John P. Lockney.

Edward Sloman is directing.

The title to the next Pathe comedy, in which Harold Lloyd and Mildred Davis will play the leading roles, is "High and Dry."

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

JAPANESE COMPANY INCORPORATED

The International Motion Picture Company, Ltd., of Japan have recently incorporated with a capital of 10,000,000 yen.

Bunji Okada, a member of the House of Peers, is president of the new organization. The board of directors includes Kisaburo, Kobayashi and Shinji Sekyia, well-known in the motion picture industry of that country.

CURRENT REVIEWS

"THE DANCIN' FOOL"

"The Dancin' Fool," that very charming Saturday Evening Post story of a few months ago, was Wallace Reid's current production at Grauman's Million Dollar (L. A.) Theater last week.

The comedy is delightful and serves to keep the house in a continuous uproar.

The role of Ves is unusually well suited to the star, and helps to display his ability as a dancer.

Bebe Daniels does Junie, his little sweetheart and dancing partner.

Raymond Hatton as Old Jones, the jug manufacturer and habitual crab, is a source of everlasting joy to the audience. His characterization only further demonstrates the Hatton versatility.

Tully Marshall does the "light" heavy more than satisfactorily, and Lillian Leighton makes the most of Ma's rather small role.

"OUT OF THE STORM"

"Out of the Storm," an Eminent Authors' production, was last week's feature at the California Theater (L. A.).

John Bowers and Barbara Castleton do the leads, but their work is crippled by a poorly cut, and dragging story. Its melodrama is so overdone as to be amusing.

Edythe Chapman plays Lady Bridge-minster in a satisfactory manner.

Sydney Ainsworth handles the role of Al Levering cleverly. Others in the cast are Doris Pawn, Elinor Hancock, Ashton Dearholt, Carrie Clarke Ward, Lincoln Stedman and Clarissa Selwynne.

William Park directed the story, which was written by Gertrude Atherton.

NEW COMBINE FORMED

An announcement is out to the effect that another combine is in the course of formation representing five independent motion picture corporations. The companies are banding together for the purpose of distribution, and it is said that a chain of exchanges will be established affording them a nation-wide release.

Among the companies mentioned in this new amalgamation are the Gloria Joy Productions, Inc., and the Unique Films, Inc. The latter company will produce two-reel comedies featuring Braco, the Dane dog.

Studio plans have not been announced as yet, but it has been stated by an officer of the company that a studio will be taken over, complete, until they can erect their own plant.

All pictures produced under the new banner will be personally supervised by Sherwood MacDonald, and Jack Retlaw has been named general manager. The principal offices of the new corporation will be maintained in Los Angeles.

TRIANGLE ENDS CONTRACT

Triangle made an arrangement at the termination of its old contract, April 3rd, with the United Picture Theaters, whereby it is to get back all the re-issues that were formerly transferred to United. The agents in the above were Percy Waters, new managing director for Triangle and J. A. Brest, president of the United Picture Theaters.

NEW YORK THEATER OWNERS ELECT OFFICERS

The following officers were elected at a meeting of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners Chamber of Commerce of New York recently. William Brandt, president; A. Landau, first vice-president; Charles Goldreyer, second vice-president; H. Gainsboro, secretary; S. G. Bock, treasurer; Al Harston, sergeant-at-arms.

CRITICISMS OF LATE RELEASES

"THE HEART OF A CHILD" (METRO)

Nazimova's art will carry this picture by, but aside from the acting it is episodic and brittle in construction.—The M. P. News.

The child is more human than anything that Nazimova has previously done, and is in consequence far more effective.—The M. P. World.

"MOLLY AND I" (FOX)

The story abounds in heart interest and is enhanced by the star's (Shirley Mason) clever portrayal. It should prove of value to the box office.—Ex. Herald.

The story is not unique, but it affords Miss Mason some fine opportunities to impress her delightful personality upon the audience.—The M. P. News.

"ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE" (METRO)

The production has received expert handling.—The M. P. World.

The picture has been produced and acted in such an excellent fashion that you can be proud to bring back Jimmy once more to your patrons. It ought to bring a better than average return anywhere.—M. P. News.

"THE TATLERS" (FOX)

Society melodrama too heavy for general entertainment. The star's efforts to arouse emotion are a little too patent and over-studied. The cast and direction are not big enough to put across the story.—M. P. News.

Madlaine Traverse appears to advantage in the role of Bess Rutherford. The picture has many dramatic moments.—Ex. Herald.

"LOVE WITHOUT QUESTION"

(B. A. ROLFE-JANS)

Olive Tell has the leading role and makes an excellent impression. The story holds the spectators' attention from beginning to end by reason of its complexity.—Ex. Herald.

Olive Tell plays the feminine lead with charm and authority, and her support is praiseworthy. The technical details have all been well arranged.—M. P. News.

"THOU ART THE MAN"

(PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT)

The picture is very satisfying and should give the followers of Warwick pleasant diversion.—Ex. Herald.

It is a gripping story and is filled with rapidfire action and acted amid pretty and unusual scenes by an excellent company of players.—M. P. World.

"THE DEVIL'S PASSEY"

(UNIVERSAL)

The subject, despite its slight intellectual fare, is one that will have wide appeal because of its plot novelty and brilliant presentation.—M. P. World.

The picture is sumptuously mounted and not one bit overdone.—M. P. News.

Gladys Brockwell's contract with Fox has terminated, and she and her whole company are no longer with the Fox forces.

Antrim Short, soon to be seen in "Old Lady 31."

FILM BOOKERS OF LOS ANGELES FORM ASSOCIATION

The film bookers of Los Angeles, with representatives from every exchange in the city, have formed an association which will be known as the Los Angeles Film Exchange Bookers' Association. At the last meeting, which was held at the office of the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, the following officers were elected and the association firmly established. Mr. Harry C. Cohen, booker for Select Pictures Corporation, president; Mr. Harold Neides, Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, vice-president; Miss Jacqueline Ponedel, Vitagraph, Inc., secretary, and Mr. B. E. Loper, Fox Film Corporation, treasurer.

The association was formed for the promotion of the general welfare of its members and to establish a social relationship between the various booking units. It is in no sense a union organization and will not be affiliated with any of the brotherhoods of trade unionism.

The first social function of the new organization will take place on Friday night, May 7th, when the Los Angeles Film Bookers' Association will hold an informal dance, at which prominent members of the actors colony, representing practically every studio in the city as well as directors, cameramen and exchange managers will be present.

Finding a small boy who looked enough like Jack Pickford to play the part of "Liano Kid" when a child was the problem which confronted Director Al Green during the filming of the Goldwyn Picture, "Double-Dyed Deceiver." After considerable searching, little Buddy McQuoid, aged ten, was selected to play the part.

EASTERN SCENARIO WRITER ARRIVES

An interesting member of the profession to arrive in Los Angeles recently is Bob Horner, Chicago continuity writer. He has been connected with several of the Eastern companies, and is called the youngest scenario editor in the game, having managed the scenario and publicity departments of the Ebony Film Company, producer of comedies enacted by an all-negro cast, formerly released on the General Film program.

King Grey is photographing "The Branded Mystery," a Ben Wilson serial.

Mrs. A. G. Schloesser has joined the Ince scenario staff.

Russell Simpson is vacationing. It is reported that his next vehicle will be a sea story.

Ferris Hartman has commenced work with Pathe, directing Beatrice La Plant in one-reel comedies.

James Liddy has been engaged by Universal to play opposite Anne Cornwall in "The Girl in the Rain."

James Davis, recently of the Mack Sennett staff, has been engaged to make the future "Brownie" feature.

Homer A. Scott is now with Maurice Tourneur doing submarine photography, in which work he is specializing.

Frank Currier has left for New York City, where he will appear in a Maxwell Karger production at the Eastern Metro Studio.

Bertram Grassby has been engaged to play the part of "The Robin" in Clara Kimball Young's next picture, "Mid Channel."

To its list of eminent authors the Goldwyn Company has added E. Phillips Oppenheim and Cynthia Stockley, some of whose novels will be filmed soon.

Charles Richman will leave New York shortly to take an important part in "Harriet and the Piper," Anita Stewart's new Louis B. Mayer production.

Ida May Park and Joseph de Grasse have been re-engaged to direct the second Bessie Love independent production, the title of which has not yet been announced.

H. S. Northrup has finished his engagement in "The Blue Moon" for American and is now directing the planting of 200 acres of lima beans on his ranch near San Diego.

Upon the completion of the picture in which he is working, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," Eugene Pallette will entertain eight people upon a fishing trip to be taken in his yacht.

Sam Von Ronkle and Louis Loeb have been appointed by Carl Laemmle to aid Isadore Bernstein, who will be in charge of Universal City, as his assistant and the company's financial manager, respectively.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE

Louise Fazenda

It takes courage to be a Sennett comedian. According to Louise Fazenda, who ought to know, it takes more courage to be a Sennett comedienne. To the perils of the chase, as that hilarious film effect is "staged" in a Mack Sennett comedy, is added, in the case of the comedienne, a task calling for heroism of a finer, subtler sort. Few women are equal to its demands, which is one reason why there are so few Louis Fazendas in the world of reel and camera.

Miss Fazenda doesn't discount the heroic qualities called forth in Fords when dashed over abysmal chasms, flights through tenanted tunnels, wherein express trains challenge the right of way. She knows the hazards of the comedy life from all these viewpoints, to say nothing of being ducked in wet lakes as she does in "Down on the Farm," in which also she does dizzy dancing at a brief distance from a peeved cow.

But these feats, she points out, call merely for physical courage in which the spirit participates because of a sense of duty (to the job), devotion to art (with a reasonable eye on the payroll), and a gritty determination to do the thing well since it needs must be done for the amusement of a "little boy"—which is symbolic for "the public." He just has to be amused.

But the courage which transcends all these flights of heroism as the spotlight distances the glow of a tallow taper, is that to which Miss Fazenda rightly, modestly, but firmly alludes.

How would you like it, you reader, assuming you to be a pretty girl of attractive features, winning smile and genial appeal—how would you like to earn your living (and a little bit more) by obliterating every trace of your own attractiveness and appearing before the world as an awkward Sis Hopkins kind of a creature, clumsy in carriage, slow in thinking and always the gawky boob in the wake of trouble or the harbinger of calamity?

You wouldn't like it; of course, you wouldn't. Very few would consent, at any price, to make the sacrifice. It would require more heroism than is usually allotted even to women.

Julian Eltinge says that he's reconciled to the job of making himself look like a young woman by the fact that it nets him something more than a thousand dollars per week. He defies any man to say he wouldn't wear corsets and "things" for that much money per. But Eltinge has the privilege of looking like a human being, of retaining something of the quality of a naturally pleasing personality. He doesn't have to deck himself out like a second-hand scarecrow.

If you saw Louise Fazenda in "Down on the Farm," you realized the depths and the heights of her heroism in obliterating Louise in favor of the characteristics of a "corn-fed rustic beauty." For, in one or two scenes you received a glimpse of the real Louise before the art of make-up has transformed her to the damsel of the dell, the maid of the meadows.

It requires courage to be a comedian in a Mack Sennett comedy.

Louise is right. It requires more courage to be a comedienne, for she has to deny herself, she has to obliterate the last vestige of a charming personality and of her graceful pretty person. But it pays two ways. Louise gets the money and the world gets a needed dose of wholesome, hearty laughter in which a trace of original whimsy and wistfulness remains to remind those that know her of her real and charming self.

BENEFIT DANCE AT THE DUGOUT

A dance will be given the first Saturday evening in May at the Dugout for the benefit of animal welfare.

Sessue Hayakawa is planning a trip with his physical instructor, vacationing, upon the completion of his final Haworth picture, "The Spell of Ra."

Immediately upon the completion of "The New Henrietta," in which she is now appearing, Carol Holloway will leave with her mother for a trip to New York.

Glory Raye recently appeared in "Broken Idols" at the Gamut Club.

JACK DONOVAN ENTERTAINS THE ANTI-VIVISECTION SOCIETY

A recent meeting of the Society of Anti-Vivisection was held at the home of Jack Donovan and his mother, Mrs. Jeannette E. Donovan.

Among those present were Prince Troubetzkoy, Mr. and Mrs. E. Magness Ingleton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gray, Mr. Ivan Kahn, Baron and Baroness Pasvphory, Kamuda Searle, Mrs. J. P. Percival, Mrs. Meredith Woodward, Miss Miriam Meredith, Miss Isabel Percival, Mr. Thomas Lee Woolwine and Miss Lillian Mellgrin.

The program consisted of addresses by Mr. Robert Logan, president of the Philadelphia Anti-Vivisection Society, Mrs. Estelle Lynton Lindsey, Los Angeles ex-councilwoman, Mrs. Rosamond Wright, president of the Los Angeles Vivisection Society, Prince Troubetzkoy and Thomas Lee Woolwine.

John De Palma, brother of Ralph, recently drove Nazimova's car.

Pauline Curley, leading woman for Antonio Moreno, has returned from a week's stay at Balboa, where the company has been making scenes for Vitagraph's new serial, "The Veiled Woman."

C. S. Widom, wardrobe man and costumer at the Goldwyn, has been doing all the buying of gowns, laces and silks during Miss Sophie Wachner's absence. Miss Wachner, who is Goldwyn's head designer, has been away on a trip to New York, shopping.

CINEMAPEDIA

By the Answer Man.

Dear Answer Man: As I expect to soon be a movie I wish information. How can I tell who wishes gentlemen of my type? Is any company now doing Shakespeare? I must some day do "Hamlet." Does it take much money to start a Shakespeare company? X. B.

Ans.—So you intend to become a "movie" star? You ask who can use gentlemen of your type—still you do not state whether you are Roman or Gothic, or six or eight point. Would not advise you to try Shakespeare as the late Sir Herbert B. Tree tried it and died. You state that your ambition is to do Hamlet. We understand Watts is a very good little hamlet, and, as far as we know, has never been done. As to starting a company of your own, we refer you to many who have started them—the starting is easy—yes, and cheap—it's the finishing that costs money. Write again, your letter cheered me up somewhat.

Frankie Lee, Admirer—Yes, we agree with you about Frankie Lee's work in "The Miracle Man." His work is very good. He is no relation to Jane or Katherine Lee. Address mail, care of "Camera!"; it will be forwarded.

"Sassy Jane"—We like to hear from you, but don't you think you are wrong about "Buddy" Post breaking up all the furniture at the National? Of course, you may have been there, but I know personally that they prepared for his coming. Every chair in the studio was reinforced. No, there were no bumpers placed over the doors. He ducks his head. You ask who is his tailor? I think his clothes are made at the L. A. Tent & Awning Company. Oh my, yes! The dog did not harm him. Yes, he can sit down when he eats.

"Hasty Hazel"—Your chances will be better if you find some friend who will show you how to put on a "straight" make-up (or see back issues of Camera!, Mr. Cecil Holland's articles on "Make-up") and apply for "extra" work direct to the studios. Forget about that "Movie School" idea and save your money.

A. L.—You seem to be "spoofing" me. Thank you very much for the offer, but I am married. You ask if—but enough said.

ETHEL CLAYTON TO START

Ethel Clayton will shortly start on Kate Jordan's story, "The City Sparrow," with Sam Wood in charge of the megaphone.

A. H. Ford is the authorized welfare representative of the Y. M. C. A. in prisons and hospitals.

A genuine illicit still, which was confiscated by U. S. revenue agents, in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains, was used in the filming of "The Dead Line," the latest George Walsh vehicle for William Fox.

On the occasion of his twenty-ninth birthday, Marshall Neilan was presented with a solid gold paper cutter by the members of his company. Agnes Ayres, Mr. Neilan's latest star, made the presentation speech at the studio.

Antonio Moreno this week granted to the Lord Northcliffe press of England the rights to publish in serial and book form the story of his life from the time of his boyhood in Spain to the present time. S. F. Jacobs was the representative of Lord Northcliffe.

Continuity Writing

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay Plots"

"THE COUNTERFEIT TRAIL"

In the last issue of Camera!, April 17th, we had a synopsis of "The Counterfeit Trail," a two-reel western. My readers who are interested in following the construction of the continuity of this story will find it advantageous to secure a copy of that issue of the magazine, if one has not been reserved, so as to compare the synopsis with the continuity, as we go along.

It is said that the first twenty-five scenes of a continuity are the most difficult to write, and that after that crucial point is passed, the continuity writer can sail along beautifully—providing he or she has a good synopsis to follow. In the first scenes we must introduce the principal characters, establish their station in life—their relation to one another—and introduce a situation or complication which will immediately arouse interest—start a thread of suspense—and fix our characters in the minds of the audience, either as commendable ones, or otherwise.

The synopsis of "The Counterfeit Trail" says that Old Dad Walton is a prospector who has a mining claim that he cannot work for the lack of sufficient machinery. He is to be a sympathetic character in the story. We must, therefore, introduce him in a scene that will establish these things. In some stories I have opened with an iris in on a long shot of the city, town, county or other locale where the story opens, and then used a title before a closeup of one of the principal characters. In this one, however, I have chosen to open right up with an introduction of Walton. We must remember that this is a two-reeler, and we cannot use much film in showing an impressive opening. We must tell the whole story in about 160 scenes, therefore we will get into it quickly. We will, therefore, open with an explanatory title as follows:

Subtitle—While Old Dad Walton tinkered with his home-made contraption for extracting the yellow dust from a little placer claim.

1. Ext. Placer Claim—Iris in closeup of the two trembling hands of the old man fumbling with a part of the home-made contraption which he is trying to mend with a piece of bailing wire. Lap dissolve to

2. Ext. Placer Claim—Closeup of the old man as he works patiently away at the machine. He turns to the camera so that we can get a good look at his face—then goes on working away at the contraption.

Our reason for opening the iris on a closeup of the two trembling hands of the old man, is to emphasize the pathos of the situation—and at the same time it shows the audience very clearly just what the old man is doing. If we set the camera back so as to show a full scene, it is doubtful if our audience could tell whether the old man was trying to mend the contraption or just toying with it—besides, we couldn't see his hands tremble from that distance. The second scene, which is also a closeup—but one showing more—gives us a good idea of just what he looks like, and clearly stamps his image on the minds of our audience. A Lap dissolve—which we use in going from the first to the second scene, is where one scene begins to fade out and the other fade in at the same time.

It will be observed that we always describe the location—whether exterior or interior—whether it is a closeup, semi-closeup, full scene, or long shot—as well as the camera effect, iris in, or fade in—in capital letters at the top of the scene.

We have now introduced the old man—let us bring on his daughter and the villain, Two Spot Joe. This requires another explanatory title, which is, in this case, just a continuation of the first title.

Subtitle—Two Spot Joe, an unwelcome suitor, was trying to do the same thing with the heart of the prospector's daughter, Mary.

3. Ext. Woodland Path, Near Cabin—Closeup of Mary as she looks dubiously off scene at Two Spot; shakes her head disdaintfully at something which he has just proposed.

Subtitle—"Two Spot Joe."

4. Ext. Woodland Path—Closeup of Two Spot as he is trying to make love to Mary, who is just off scene.

5. Ext. Woodland Path—Semi-closeup of Two Spot and Mary. He is trying to make love to her, and she shows very plainly that she does not like it. As he talks earnestly to her, she impatiently twirls her sunbonnet on a finger. He leans toward her and says:

Title—"It's 'bout time you was gettin' you a feller, little gal. You know yore old dad has that heart trouble an' he is liable to check in most any time and not leave you a cent."

Back—Two Spot is looking intently in Mary's eyes as he watches the effect of his words on her. Her eyes go to the ground a moment and then she looks up at him.

6. Ext. Woodland Path—Closeup of Mary as she looks up at Two Spot. An expression of defiance comes over her face as she says:

Title—"Well, I wouldn't be coming to you for help if—"

She does not finish the sentence, but her expression turns to one of sadness as she thinks of the old man's affliction.

7. Ext. Path Near Cabin—Medium close shot of Mary and Two Spot. She turns and runs out of scene, leaving him standing. He calls after her, and then follows out after her.

We have now introduced three of our principals. Each of them we have given a closeup—which is necessary in the introduction of principal characters. After the two closeups of Mary and Two Spot, we went to a semi-closeup of the two of them, so as to get over a bit of "business" between them. We then went back to a closeup of Mary, to show the effect of Two Spot's words on her. We then had to move the camera back in scene 7 so that they could exit.

You will observe that in Two Spot Joe's spoken title, we plant it that Old Man Walton has "heart trouble." This is an example of where, in many cases, an important feature concerning the story may be woven into a title, letter, newspaper item or other insert. The old man's heart trouble is to play an important part in the story later—so we must "plant" it early. The same spoken title also gives a characterization of Two Spot, which tells us right away that he is a villain. We have only written seven scenes and four titles, yet we are already acquainted with three of the principals—know their relations to each other and dramatic situations that are present.

Next week we will introduce the hero, or the leading man.

AT THE GAMUT CLUB

"Broken Idols," an original one-act play by Hal McInroy, was presented by the author for the benefit of the Playcrafters at the Gamut Theater on the evening of Tuesday the 13th.

The striking originality of the play, as well as the cleverly subtle dialogue it contained, coupled with the exceedingly capable and attractive manner in which it was staged by the author, easily placed this production in the front ranks of first class one-act plays.

In portraying the somewhat difficult role of La Mignon, a ballet dancer, Glory Raye conclusively proved her ability as an emotional actress, her acting in the latter half of the play, during which she simulates in intoxication, at the same time preserving the sober identity the part calls for—an Ibsen-like touch of a play within a play—being almost gem-like in the delicacy of its perfection.

Frederic Bond as Marcel, her dancing partner, proved an exceedingly clever support, gaining the sympathy of the audience from the start and retaining it throughout.

Victor Rottman as captain, the Honorable John Francis Horton, the fiance of La Mignon, presented a very clever interpretation of a role, pregnant with suppressed emotion, thereby proving his capability as an actor.

Miriam Meredith as Lady Horton, displayed the true artist in properly sensing the value of her part.

Margery Riley, in whom we think we recognize that lovely young dancer, Cecil Brunner, was altogether delightful. It is to be regretted that her part did not allow her to remain on the stage longer than it did.

TO DO CURWOOD STORY

James Oliver Curwood's "Isabel" has been purchased by Louis B. Mayer.

Work on the production was started at the Mayer studio last week, with Edwin Carewe directing, House Peters and Jane Novak playing the leads. The working title of the picture is "The Trail's End."

The cast includes: Tom Wilson, Edward J. Piel, Bob Walker, Pearl May Norton and Richard La Reno. The interiors of the picture are to be made at the Mayor Studio, and the exteriors will be shot in the north woods.

Esquimaux for the northern Indian scenes have been secured from the north, and a number of malamutes and wolf dogs have been rented from the California kennels.

The picture will be released through "First National."

AT THE SUPERBA

The third and last week of Carl Laemmle's "The Virgin of Stamboul," starring Priscilla Dean, begins at the Superba Theatre Sunday, April 25, 10 a. m. The management reported that "The Virgin of Stamboul" could easily run for several weeks more at the Superba, but other bookings previously arranged for prohibit this. Priscilla Dean does the best work of her career as Sari, the beggar girl in the picture, and Wallace Beery, Wheeler Oakman and Helen Ritchie prove good support. Ted Browning was the director, H. H. Van Loan the author, and William Parker the scenario writer. The prologue preceding the picture features Lola Gonzales and Arthur Jasmine.

ON NORTHERN TRIP

Colleen Moore and other members of the company at work on the current Marshall Neilan production, under the direction of Jack McDermott, have left for San Francisco. They will spend several days taking ferry boat, station and street scenes.

BROADWAY AND OUR PICTURE STARS

sonation of the poilu is superb, and to see her "making love" to one of the girls is as clever a piece of acting as one might wish to see in a whole season. There are smiles and tears when this charming little girl reads "Lest We Forget" from her own pen. The first verse:

"Well, boys, la guerre est fini (the war is over),

And, of course, we are glad;
But as time goes on we'll realize

That the war was not so bad.
Of course, it had its drawbacks—

But it had its glories, too,
And for me, my greatest glory was
That I got to know you."

"THE BLUE FLAME"

Sitting back in the shadows of the "opery" house in Keokuk, or even in a comfy armchair at Los Angeles' California Theatre, watching Theda Bara vamp is boring indeed compared to witnessing the former Fox star vamp in her flesh and blood person at the Shubert Theatre in New York.

The program announces that "The Blue Flame" is a melodrama in four acts. Truly it is "meller," and so meller that were it not for the interesting Theda, Broadway would have demanded that it be taken from the boards the second night; but, on the contrary, the A. H. Woods' show is playing to capacity houses.

When Ruth Gordon (Theda) is killed by a stroke of lightning, her lover, who has invented a machine that he thinks will bring the dead to life, tries same on his fiancée and succeeds in raising Theda, BUT—and there's the rub! BUT, she comes back without a soul and says in loud tones, "I'm going to be so bad that I will never be forgotten." Broadway will never forget her because of that one line! Picture a soulless woman galivanting about New York. Nothing is too bad for her to do, and when she is not damning her maid for pulling her hair, she is telling her lover to go to hell, or asking some other man for money and promising anything in return. "The Blue Flame," a crude, time-worn melodrama that it is, is entertaining when the leading role is played by Theda Bara. Her voice is pleasing and at times she is almost pretty. Miss Bara deserves a great deal of credit for her work in this, her first legitimate show of importance.

"APHRODITE"

It takes an unusually clever and pleasing person to make blase New York applaud and cry for "just one more curtain call." Dorothy Dalton, who until her experience in the Comstock and Gest production this winter knew very little about the legitimate stage, has been a sensation as "Chrysis" in "Aphrodite," a romance of ancient Alexandria. Aside from her beauty, her musical voice captivates instantly. One would think that her experience on the spoken stage should date back for years to hear her exquisite modulation.

To uncover the skeleton of the play: The whole United States read the morning after the premiere of the nude condition of the players in "Aphrodite." Tired business men and curious women telegraphed for seats. The second night it is said the play was decidedly different. At any rate, it is now very tame and calm, and the chorus as well as the principals wear more than the law requires. The setting is ancient Alexandria, and Chrysis (Miss Dalton) succeeds in charming Demetrios, the lover of Egypt's queen. Demetrios (McKay Morris) is excellent as the sculptor and makes the ideal lover. It is he who modeled "Aphrodite," the Goddess of Love. A scintillating, colorful pageant is "Aphrodite."

"SACRED AND PROFANE LOVE"

Elsie Ferguson has come back—returned to her old stamping ground, and not only is she delighted to be again on the legitimate stage, but New York seems delighted to have her there. "Sacred and Profane

Write Photoplays That Sell

The fourth largest industry in America was built on stories—just such stories as you know and could tell—if you knew how. Its raw material is story ideas—its finished product, motion pictures. It may pay you large amounts for providing some of this working material.

To this end, the Palmer Photoplay Corporation will train you to write your story idea into a form acceptable to the producers. Moreover, if the story is salable, we can sell it for you.

The Palmer Course is the one plan endorsed and approved by the leading members of the profession. Rob Wagner, noted author and playwright, says: "A person who couldn't write a photoplay after digesting your plan simply hasn't it in him."

One student sold his first story for $2000 before completing the course. A story is seldom bought for less than $100, and often the price is well up into the thousands.

Frederick Palmer is one of the most prolific and successful writers of the photoplay, and Palmer students have the advantage of his experience. The advisory board is composed of Cecil B. DeMille, Thomas H. Ince, Lois Weber and Rob Wagner.

Scores of students from all walks of life are enjoying comfortable incomes as a result of turning their minds to the Palmer Course at home for a short time each day. Some have been appointed staff writers in studios at salaries running into the thousands yearly.

Have you an idea for a story? Then send for the 1920 catalog and our Booklet, "Proof Positive." This booklet contains the photographs and opinions of famous stars and directors.

Love" is now being offered nightly with two "mats" a week at the Morosco theatre. As a young English girl who becomes madly in love with Emilio Diaz, noted pianist, and who in the last rescues him from the drug habit, Miss Ferguson is ideally cast and goes through with the difficult demands of this role with as much grace, ease and charm as she has done while acting before the camera these past two years. Jose Reuben, who plays the part of the pianist, is marvelous in the role, and his interpretation of a dopester, while horrible and almost repulsive, is really wonderful.

There are not a few tense moments in Miss Ferguson's play. Elsie Ferguson is a favorite in New York, and according to the local critics she will stay on Broadway quite a while in her "return" vehicle.

Johnny Jones, who is being featured in Booth Tarkington's "Edgar" stories, now being filmed by Goldwyn.

PRODUCING COMEDIES

The Acme Comedy Company, producers of "Taylor Made Comedies," announces that they have just completed their first two-reel comedy under the direction of Arthur Hotelling, who directed "The Geezer of Berlin" for Universal. The feature comedian is Max Roberts.

The next story they are to produce is from the pen of Ed Rosenbaum, Jr.

Pat O'Malley has been re-engaged by Marshall Neilan for a principal part in the producer's fourth picture, which will present Wesley Barry in a star part for the first time.

Willard Louis, Goldwyn comedian, while on location at Victorville recently, startled the town by donning a white apron and serving the patrons of the butcher shop, while the real butcher hid behind the door. When the real butcher heard the comedian offer a fine sirloin steak to a customer for fifteen cents, he rushed out and announced the deal was off.

THE SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wish the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past year in regard to the submission of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

ANITA STEWART CO., 3800 MISSION ROAD, LOS ANGELES. In the market for 6-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 7100 SANTA MONICA BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner and W. Desmond; 5 reels. Also 6 and 7 reel features for Blanche Sweet.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS., LOS ANGELES. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

KING VIDOR PRODUCTIONS, 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., HOLLYWOOD: Will consider synopses, scenarios, books or play strong in heart interest and "homey atmosphere." Five reels or more.

METRO, LOS ANGELES. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melo-dramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG., LOS ANGELES. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

HERMANN FILM CORPORATION, 2435 Wilshire Blvd., Santa Monica, Calif. In the market for Five Reel Dramas, also two reel comedies and serials.

HAWORTH STUDIO, 4500 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES, is in the market for scenarios for Sessue Hayakawa, who plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels. Also desire scenarios for Edith Storey, with strong dramatic roles, dealing with society or out of doors.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCTION COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES. One-reel short stories for Teddy Sampson, Harry Depp, Molly Malone and Ray Gallagher.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, SANTA BARBARA, CALIF., is in the market for strong stories requiring balanced casts.

N. W. ARONSON, CRUSADER SERVICE, CITIZENS TRUST BLDG. Pico 750. Author's representative. Books only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY, CALIF. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; and feature character stories for Priscilla Dean.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST., LOS ANGELES. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust Avenue, New York.

D. N. SCHWAB PRODUCTIONS (Inc.), AT HOLLYWOOD STUDIO, 6642 SANTA MONICA BLVD., is in the market for 5 and 6 reel comedy dramas for David Butler, preferably stories befitting the big, smiling country boy type, with at least part of the setting in rural locale.

AT THE COMMUNITY THEATER

A company of picture players are engaged in presenting the farce, "A Successful Calamity," at the Hollywood Community Theater this week and next. The story, which is by Clare Kummer, is unusually clever, and on the whole well acted.

Winter Hall heads the cast with his usual finished performance, as Henry Wilton, a millionaire, at the head of a complicated family.

Betty Linley, as his young second wife, is excellently cast, and makes the most of her opportunity.

Joyce Percey and Clarke Marshall, as the son and daughter of the family, have some clever lines that assist the situations greatly.

Charles Geggus and Charles Parrot form an amusing and clever contrast as the two fiancés of the daughter of the Wilton family.

Phil Gastrock as the butler, Connors, controls a great part of the play's heart interest.

Alfred Hollingsworth is more than convincing as Belton, the business partner of Wilton.

J. Jiquel-Lanoe is excellent in the role of Pierre Laroux, the French artist.

Others in the cast are Joseph Bell, Kathleen Bolton and Helenitia Bolton.

AT CATALINA ISLAND

Members of the Vitagraph Company filming "The Island of Love," with Hal Cooley in the leading male role, are at Catalina Island, where they will remain for several days. Tom Terris is directing.

They are diffusing the entire open space, 75 by 140 feet, and making a number of other improvements at the Horsley studio.

Sidney Franklin is playing Navinsky for the Screen Craft Company, "The Great Physician."

Monroe Salisbury has formed his own company, "The Monroe Salisbury Players," and will begin filming his first independent screen story immediately.

The Victor Potel Comedy Company will begin casting Monday at the Horsley studio, 1919 South Main Street. Eddie Atkinson is the general manager.

La Verne Swisher, who has just finished playing a "crook" part with Mary Pickford, left for Mount Baldy Friday with the Carlton Feature Play Company, and will be there for a week or ten days.

T. Hayes Hunter, who is directing Basil King's novel, "Earthbound," at the Goldwyn studios, expects to complete the camera work this week. The author is here, and will probably assist the director in editing the film.

Jack Pickford, having finished his second Goldwyn Picture, "Double-Dyed Deceiver," expects to start work within a few days on "The Man Who Had Everything," under the direction of Al Green.

Harry Hammond Beall, Los Angeles publicist, has gone to Chicago to attend the First National Convention. He accompanies Sol Lesser, Pacific Coast producer, and will return in two weeks.

Jean Calhoun has been selected to play the lead opposite Tom Moore in his Goldwyn Picture, "Officer 666," now being filmed under the direction of Harry Beaumont. Priscilla Bonner will play the part of Sadie, and Hardee Kirkland will portray the police captain.

How to Judge the Safety of Securities

“The selling prices of bonds that are frequently transferred may show what they are considered to be worth in the market, but do not necessarily represent their real value. Don't judge the security of investments by the income they yield.”

Magazine of Wall Street, Nov. 29, 1919

PRICES of securities are often made by the manipulation of interested persons. The value of a security in the long run is determined by the ability of the property back of the security to earn enough to pay the interest or dividends when they come due. These factors can only be determined by expert analysis.

As a general rule an abnormally high rate of interest reflects upon either the safety or marketability of the security. We are prepared to give you expert advice based on years of study and a sincere desire to be of service to you. The only way to appreciate the value of our service is to get in touch with us.

Write, call or telephone for our latest investment list of securities yielding from 4½% to 7%.

ANOTHER SOCIAL BREAK

A significant social inconsistency was recently indulged in by some of our Los Angeles elite which has, with certain phases of its development, caused considerable comment in and out, of picture circles.

Once again, society has in its mind allowed a few personalities to become representative of a class, and has demonstrated its prejudice in a manner which can be appreciated by observers as being smaller than small. Through this action, however, the professional man has found a champion in the person of one of our best known producers.

Some time ago, William de Mille was invited to become a member of the Board of Directors of the Wilshire Country Club. Obviously the club recognized that his official membership would prove a valuable asset. The invitation was accepted.

Recently it became apparent that the club was barring the profession from its circles. This was the result, not of any action which was taken in regard to the by-laws, but was due rather to that greatest and oftentimes most unfair of all rulings—social prejudice.

We do not know what occasioned this feeling on the part of the members. They may have considered that they were justified. The fact remains—their viewpoint was one which has been held far too much in this district.

In any event, Mr. de Mille has resigned his position as a board member because he does not care to enter where his associates—his profession is not welcome. He realizes what the club seems to overlook; namely, that a personality can never fairly represent any whole class of people.

What ever injury, imaginary or otherwise, has been done it, the club's excuse for such a conclusion is more than weak. We are glad to notice that the resentment of the industry at present and past injustices, is becoming at least effective, for whatever the Wilshire Country Club may or may not be, it is not original in its inadmirable stand.

INTERNATIONAL REVIEW

By Edward Reinach

From the producers' financial point of view duplication of subjects is a matter, which deserves the greatest consideration and, if possible, ought by timely information to be entirely avoided. If two pictures based on the same event or story are filmed simultaneously in two different countries, each picture may prove a great financial success in its respective country of origin, yet on reaching the markets of other countries, equality of excellence conceded, the cheaper one will find more willing purchasers. Such a case of duplication has lately occurred. In Stockholm, the capital of Sweden, two versions of "Madame Du Barry" appeared at the same time. The first one, well known to the American public, was Theda Bara's "Madame Du Barry;" the other was a German production, with the famous actress, Pola Negri, in the lead.

The same German version had also, notwithstanding that peace between Italy and Germany was only quite recently ratified, a great reception at Rome, where it was offered at the Modernissimo Theatre and proved the cause of a miniature political scandal. The French colony at Rome complained of some scenes representing the storming of the Bastille and Madame Du Barry's execution on the guillotine. The censor, who previously had given his consent, withdrew the film after two days of a successful run, and it reappeared a week later minus several vital parts. It so happened that poor Madame Du Barry, who during the French Revolution already had been deprived of a most vital part, more than a century afterwards had to undergo a similar operation a second time.

Miss Fannie Ward, who left Los Angeles last year for Paris, has just finished "La Rafale" (A Gust of Wind). The scenario is a screen version of Henry Bernstein's masterpiece of the same name. The production took place under the direction of Mr. J. de Baroncelli.

Miss Edith Kelly, whose marriage to Mr. Frank Jay Gould took place in 1909, and whose name has been much in evidence the past week, will once more appear before the public, but this time on the screen. In order to star her, a company has been formed in London, of which Mr. Albert de Courville is one of the important figures. A writer of fame is occupied with the first drama, which will be followed by further productions.

In the picture "Above the Clouds," Harry Piel, Berlin serial star, descends from a balloon by means of a parachute, sitting on horseback. The photograph clearly shows horse and rider suspended under the huge umbrella-shaped apparatus, floating in midair high above the houses.

The Hungarian film industry was in 1914 in its very infancy. During the war a considerable number of pictures was produced with a market in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Germany and the Balkan States. In March, 1919, all property was confiscated and taken over by the Bela Kun Soviet government; during four and a half months hardly a film was made, except a few political propaganda pictures.

Before the war Hungary had nearly seven hundred motion picture theatres. The cession of territory reduces this

FILM CAPITOL PRODUCTION NOTES

"NOMADS OF THE NORTH" STARTED

Betty Blythe commenced work this week in the feature role of "Nomads of the North," by James Oliver Curwood, for First National release.

Lon Chaney and Frances MacDonald are in the cast. David Hartford is directing.

CLERMONT PHOTOPLAYS LEASE NEW STUDIO

The Clermont Photoplays Corporation has leased for a term of years the Studio at Sunset avenue and Gower street, Hollywood, now nearing completion by H. Paulus.

The new studio will have the finishing touches put on it by May 1st, and Lloyd Carleton productions, the first producing unit of Clermont Photoplays Corporation will take possession at once and will finish there the final scenes of "Mountain Madness," the first special feature offering of the Clermont Company.

The Carleton forces have been working at the Bernstein Studio on Boyle Heights while awaiting the completion of their new home.

The Clermont Photoplays Corporation is the financing company, but other production units are to be added and Lloyd B. Carleton will supervise all. His brother, John T. Carleton, will assist him as manager of productions.

PERFECTION PICTURES ADDS NEW FEATURES

The new combine, Perfection Pictures, recently effected between five motion picture corporations, of which the Gloria Joy Productions, Inc. and the Unique Films, Inc. are a part, has added two new features to its amalgamation.

These are the series of animated cartoon known as "Your Uncle Dudley" and "Laughs in Clay", an animated clay reel, produced by Clay Art Films. These short subjects will be released weekly.

TWO NEW COMPANIES AT BRUNTON

Two new film organizations have signed to make pictures at the Brunton Studios in Los Angeles.

The Gibraltar Film Company, backed by the well-known theatre magnates, Sidney Garrett and Martin Beck, will produce a number of Leah Baird features with the possibility of taking on two or three additional companies by fall.

The Dial Film Company will start work shortly on a seven reel feature, the nature of which has not been announced.

TO SPEND SIX MONTHS ON PRODUCTION

Mildred Harris Chaplin's third First National production under the Louis B. Mayer banner will require six months for completion.

Director Stahl, Ramsey Wallace, and Garreth Hughes were brought from New York for the production, and George Fisher, Winter Hall, Catherine Van Buren, and Richard Hedrick, were engaged in Los Angeles to complete the cast.

TO MANAGE THE CURWOOD COMPANY

Joseph Montrose has resigned an executive position at the Brunton Studios to take over the general management of the James Oliver Curwood company which will produce under the First National Exhibitors' trademark.

ROBERT KELLY TO PRODUCE

Work is well under way on Dustin Farnum's initial Sidney L. Cohan production, "Big Happiness".

Robert Kelly for some time past assistant director for Farnum has resigned to enter the producing field. The vacancy will be filled by Elliott Howe.

MORENO GOES TO OREGON

Antonio Moreno has left with his Vitagraph Company for Portland, Ore., to film scenes for his next serial. Some scenes will be filmed aboard boat en route. He will not return to the studio for several weeks.

NEW COMPANY FORMED

Allan Sears, formerly with Griffith and well known leading man, has recently formed his own company under the name of Peerless Picture Productions. His stories will deal with the science of right thinking and living, and will treat of the divorce evil.

The first picture, called "The Higher Motive," is a French-Canadian railroad construction story, based upon the 23d Psalm.

Maryland Morne will play the feminine lead opposite Ernest Spencer, while Mr. Sears will himself characterize the heavy lead. Others in the cast are Jack Brammall and Richard Watkins, Jr.

E. Allyn Warren is director general of the new company.

DOING "THE GREAT PHYSICIAN"

Screen Crafts, Incorporated, this week commenced work on "The Great Physician," the first of a series of three seven-reel productions depicting the teachings and tenets of Christian Science. Chadwick Ayres is handling the megaphone.

The cast includes Robert McKim, Rhea Mitchell, Snowden Baxendale, Arnold Gregg, Lew Morrison, Robert Anderson, Charlotte Woods, Max Davidson, Olga Gray and Maxine Adair.

DWAN IS AUTHOR OF HIS LATEST PRODUCTION

Allan Dwan's next production, which commences on May 1st, and is the sixth picture under his contract with Mayflower, is a story of his own.

The director-producer has returned from his trip to the mountains where he sought locales, and is now on the last pages of the continuity.

KOSMIC FILMS DOING SERIAL

George Kleine is president of Kosmic Films, Inc. Other officers are John Larsen, vice-president; L. C. Wheeler, treasurer; B. C. Hardcastle, secretary.

The company's general officers are in New York City.

At present they are producing "The Hope Diamond Mystery," a serial. The story is by May Yoho and Charles Goddard.

R. C. SECURES PAULINE FREDERICK

Robertson-Cole announces that it has entered into a contract to extend over a period of several years with Pauline Frederick. The star will appear in a series of super productions beginning at the termination of her present contract.

PICKFORD STARTS

Jack Pickford started work this week under the direction of Al Green on the Goldwyn picture, "The Man Who Had Everything," by Ben Ames Williams.

In the supporting cast are Priscilla Bonner, Lionel Belmore, Alec Francis, Shannon Day, and William Machin.

"EMPIRE BUILDERS" UNDER WAY

Work has commenced this week on Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, "Empire Builders" under the direction of E. Mason Hopper at the Goldwyn Studios.

The all star cast includes Cullen Landis, Clara Horton, Molly Malone, Howard Ralston, Ralph Bushman, and Otto Hoffman.

Frances Edmonde

FRANCES EDMONDE TAKES COMPANY TO SAN FRANCISCO

Miss Frances Edmonde, who is heading her own company and is making a seven-reel picture, "Peggy Wise", at the Garson Studios, is a child of the stage. The greater part of her life has been spent in Europe, where she won recognition as a child dancer and actress.

She at present is with her company on location in San Francisco. Her first production was written and is being directed by E. L. La Mole, who is being assisted in the direction by Dick Johnson.

SERIAL UNDER WAY

Work on the Charles Hutchison stunt serial being produced for Pathe by Robert Brunton was begun Monday at the Brunton Studios.

Josie Sedgewick is playing the feminine lead, and W. S. Van Dyke is directing. The story is by Jack Cunningham.

AT THE SEITZ STUDIO

Both Bertram Millhauser, who is directing Juanita Hanson, in a serial in which she is to star for Pathe and George B. Seitz, directing and starring in another serial in production at the same studio in New York, have reached the ninth episode of their respective productions.

HAROLD BELL WRIGHT TO PRODUCE AGAIN

According to Harold Bell Wright, who was a visitor at the Brunton Film plant last week, he expects to screen the remainder of his novels as soon as a legal controversy with his publishers is cleared up.

ON LOCATION

J. Warren Kerrigan left this week for the Mojave Desert to make exteriors for his latest Brunton production, "The Coast of Opportunity", from the original novel by Page Phillips.

SWEDISH PICTURE SHOWS IN CHICAGO

"The Woman He Chose," a Swedish picture which is an adaptation of "The Girl from the Marshcroft," is playing an indefinite engagement at the Ziegfeld Theater in Chicago.

The Mickey Film Corporation holds the rights to the production.

BOXING EXHIBITION IS PROLOGUE TO "DAREDEVIL JACK"

In Waterbury, Conn., Pathe's "Daredevil Jack" is being played three days a week at the Strand Theatre.

Manager Sellman aroused interest in this serial by informing the public ahead of time that the serial starring Jack Dempsey would be accorded a special presentation and that an especially arranged act of local interest would be shown in conjunction with the picture. The presentation was an exhibition bout between local aspirants to boxing honors.

"THE CHAMPION"

The featured attraction at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre (L. A.) last week was a 1915 Essanay production starring Charlie Chaplin.

The sub-titles, however, are quite obviously new, and Charlie's comedy of that time compares more than favorably with his present day offerings. The story is entertaining and full of quick turn action.

Leo White and Edna Purviance form the comedian's chief support.

"THE AMATEUR WIFE"

"The Amateur Wife," starring Irene Castle was the added attraction at Grauman's Theatre last week.

The story has a much worked theme and drags in spots. It was apparently chosen to show off Miss Castle's different personality and extreme clothes. The acting throughout is mediocre.

W. P. Carlton does the male lead, a stiff unnatural part, in an equally stiff manner. The remainder of the cast which includes Arthur Rankin, S. J. Warrington, A. Saskin, and Augusta Anderson also fails to convince. Edward Dillon directed the picture.

"BLIND YOUTH"

"Blind Youth," was Selznick's all star attraction at Clune's Broadway last week. The story is interesting and exceptionally well cast. It should prove an unusual box office attraction.

Leatrice Joy heads the company with an excellent performance as Hope Martin, the little artist model. Miss Joy possesses an unaffected charm that coupled with her clever acting, will undoubtedly make her a big star of the future.

Walter McGrail does the male lead with more or less satisfaction.

Clara Horton is delightful as Bobo, the child woman of the stage. Her work continues to improve, predicting much for that time when she really grows up.

Ora Carew's characterization of Clarice Chondose is overdone and as a result fails to convince.

Colin Kenny does Henry Monnier in a perfectly satisfactory manner. The public is not very well acquainted with Mr. Kenny but it is more than willing to be.

Joseph Swickard does possibly the best characterization of the play as Pierre Monnier. At any rate he controls the heart interest and holds the audience's unwavering loyalty.

Claire McDowell adds one more success to her list of well played roles by her work as Mrs. Monnier.

Buddy Post and Leo White furnish both mirth and a subtle pathos, as Tubbs and Louis.

NEW BRANCH MANAGER APPOINTED FOR PATHE OFFICES

Paul Brunette, Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc., has announced the appointment of J. E. Kimberly to be Branch Manager of the Pathe Office in Buffalo, and the promotion of M. G. Winstock to be Branch Manager of Portland, Ore.

Florence Vidor, starring in King Vidor Productions

COMING RELEASES FOR PATHE

Snub Pollard's latest Rolin comedy entitled "Drink Hearty" and "An Eastern Westerner," the last of Harold Lloyd's first series of two-reel comedies for Pathe will be released by that organization May 2d.

"Father's Close Shave," the second of the international "Bringing Up Father" series will be released on May 16th.

LOCKLEAR BURLESQUED BY ROCK

Joe Rock has just completed his second comedy under his new Vitagraph contract. He used three airplanes in it to accomplish a burlesque Locklear.

Nell Craig, former Essanay star, has returned to the screen after an absence of two years. She is supporting Owen Moore in "A Desperate Hero."

CRITICISMS OF LATE RELEASES

"TREASURE ISLAND"—Paramount—Artcraft

It is Robert Louis Stevenson's immortal story in tabloid form with the clever Shirley Mason in the role of Jim Hawkins, Lon Chaney as Pew and Larry, and Charles Ogle as Long John Silver. The high points of the original story has been well brought out by Maurice Tourneur, the director.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

It is credit to the director's artistic conception that he has been able to catch the charm and atmosphere of the memorable story even though the scenario is not a faithful adaptation.

—Motion Picture News.

"THE WOMAN GIVES"—First National

The story compares well with the former works of Norma Talmadge. It is produced in a finished efficient style and should be well received in any community.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

It seems a shame to waste this star's talents and so much technical ability on a story which is so commonplace. Few of the scenes have any action. This will get by with Miss Talmadge's admirers, but as a real picture it fails.

—Motion Picture News.

"DESERT LOVE"—Fox

Another Tom Mix vehicle replete with those familiar qualities that make this star's Western dramas excellent box office attractions. The support is in capable hands and good photography of well chosen locations is noticeable.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

The whole production is up to the usual Mix standards, and his admirers will continue to admire when they see it. There are some startling improbabilities if you want to look for them.

—Motion Picture News.

"DUDS"—Goldwyn

Like so many Goldwyn pictures this one is marked by close attention to detail which adds to its effectiveness. Tom Moore is supported by a commendable cast including Naomi Childers.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

Moore is good when he lays aside his mannerisms, but it is largely a case of the role carrying the actor. Much better is Edwin Stevens as Karakoff. Direction and camera work exceptionally fine.

—Moving Picture World.

"JUST A WIFE"—National Picture Theatres

If the first picture is a fair example of the standard to be maintained by this newly formed organization, the market is the richer for its addition.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

"Just a Wife," the first production of National Pictures, is a most worthy picture to start a new venture, and one that will be remembered as an artistic achievement and splendid drama.

—Moving Picture World.

"NEGLECTED WIVES"—Wistaria

Anne Luther is the star, and a capable cast aids with intelligent support.

The picture is well made, and the story holds the interest throughout.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

This is a political and society drama with an average cast, some lavish sets, and a theme that is a relic of by-gone days.

—Motion Picture News.

"THE MOTHER OF HIS CHILDREN"—Fox

The emotional work of Miss Brockwell makes the dramatic scenes very convincing. Finer settings are provided in this vehicle than in any of her recent productions.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

A strongly entertaining, if not powerfully dramatic story of art life. All of the action which carries a unique and pleasing plot occurs in attractive studios and salons with a satisfactory sprinkling of social types.

—Moving Picture World.

No fault need be found with any of the cast and the star herself given a part that seems to suit her better than her last picture does some creditable work and is not overly emotional despite the temptation. The production details and the consistent good acting will make this conventional story a good average picture.

—Motion Picture News.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE JOSEF SWICKARD

An artist of much experience is Josef Swickard, brother of the well-known director, Charles Swickard, having spent in addition to his six active years of cinema work, twenty-seven more upon the legitimate stage. He was formerly a well known vaudevillian and has played all over Europe and South Africa. But those were the days when Mr. Swickard was an eccentric juvenile. Today he finds much more satisfaction in his French and other characterizations, which are attracting much attention.

Last week he was Pierre Monnier in "Blind Youth," Selznick's current release. Critics pronounced his sympathetic characterization the best bit of acting in the play.

He will soon be seen with Edith Storey in "Moon Madness," and is at present engaged with the Tom Terriss Company as a member of the all star cast which is producing "The Girl from the Sky."

Especially noteworthy are Mr. Swickard's sympathetic French roles, which place him among the greatest character actors of the screen.

Ralph DeLacy has been appointed technical director of Screen Crafts productions in Culver City.

Henri Whitehall is working at Universal with Maurice Tourneur doing the part of a minister in "Caleb West, Deep Sea Diver."

Bobby Vernon has signed a three years' contract with Christie Comedies, Incorporated, to do two-reelers.

Melbourne MacDowell has begun work with David M. Hartford's company at Universal City on the filming of the Curwood special production, "Nomads of the North."

Albert Russell is directing "The Moon Riders" for Universal.

Snowden Baxendale has been assigned the heavy in "The Great Physician," now being filmed by Screen Crafts, Incorporated.

Elaine Inescort, the English actress, is playing an important role in Sessue Hayakawa's "The Spell of Ra." Miss Inescort, who is the niece of the explorer and author, Capt. Harry de Windt, created the chief part of the original production of that play, "The Molluse," with Sir Charles Wyndham.

Doris Baker is playing at Vitagraph.

Noel Smith, who has just finished with the Vitagraph directing Jimmy Aubrey, has been engaged by Mack Sennett to direct Louise Fazenda, Billy Armstrong, and Billy Bevans.

Jack Purves has recovered from his accident and has commenced on his third comedy-drama, a Roy Clemens story, under the direction of Warren Mallais, Wade Productions.

Norman Kennedy has been cast for one of the leading roles in "Hearts Are Trumps" to be filmed by Screen Classics, Inc. This will be Mr. Kennedy's initial appearance in pictures.

Gareth Hughes has been engaged by Metro as Viola Dana's in "Head and Shoulders."

Mr. Milorad Elidor Stanich, camera man, just came from Serbia. He has been with Pathe Trereass Company, in France and Italy and is responsible for the camera work in "Cabilia."

ART DIRECTORS TO GIVE DINNER DANCE

The Motion Picture Art Directors' Association will hold a dinner dance at the Alexandria Hotel the first of June. Milton Menasco is chairman of the entertainment committee and will have charge of the arrangements for the affair. Initial plans were made at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the association held at the Be-Hannessey Studio, last week.

The Art Directors' Association is made up of more than fifty prominent art directors of the Coast Studios. It has received the endorsement of the Motion Picture Producers' Association and other organizations of the industry.

A. W. Alley of the Metro Studio is president; R. E. Sibley of the Mayer Studio, vice-president; E. C. Hartley of the Hampton Studio, secretary, and Sidney Ulman of Metro, treasurer.

ANNETTE KELLERMAN ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Holland gave a dinner April 22d in honor of Annette Kellerman. Among the guests were Mr. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Smalley, Miss Kellerman's sister, Wheeler Oakman, Priscilla Dean, Nate Watt, Clara Windsor.

A score of children is at work this week in the prologue of "Athalie" which is being filmed for Mayflower. The cast is headed by Georgie Stone and Jack Colburn.

Mary Thurman has returned from Salt Lake where she has been visiting with her mother for two weeks.

Wallace Beery is considering an offer to go to New York to support a woman star in three productions.

Dagmar Godowsky has refused an offer to make piano records for a phonograph company.

Pell Trenton, who has just finished "The Pearl Hunter," an American production directed by George L. Cox, is taking a few days' vacation at Tia Juana.

A. H. Stuart has finished with the Humanity Film Company, and is playing the chief of the Hindu thugs in the Stuart Paton serial, "The Mystery of the Hope Diamond."

Over 8,000 miles have already been covered in location work for King Vidor's forthcoming "The Jack-Knife Man."

Wheeler Oakman is soon to have a studio of his own right according to the present plans of Sol Lesser.

Benjamin B. Hampton has purchased an aeroplane for the purpose of transporting films and supplies to his motion picture companies while on inaccessible desert and mountain locations. This is the first reported aeroplane supply cart in motion pictures.

The Tom Terriss Company filming "The Island of Love," in which Wallace MacDonald plays the lead, has returned from Catalina. Future contemplated locations include Coronado, Laguna and Tia Juana.

Director Edward Sloman with members of his staff and principals of the cast of "The Mutiny," has returned from San Francisco, where he has been making scenes aboard the sailing vessel, "Mary Winkleman."

Among those who made the trip were Mitchell Lewis, Helen Ferguson, Noah Beery and Casson Ferguson.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR KEENAN

After the opening performance, April 5th, in New York, of Ed Winn's Carnival, the new show headed by Ed Winn, Frank Keenan's son-in-law, the star and his wife put on a dinner in honor of "Dad," whose birthday it was.

CAST PARTY

The entire cast and producing staff of Jack Dempsey's serial, "Dare-Devil Jack," attended the opening episode of the film this week at a Los Angeles theatre, as the guests of Robert Brunton.

LARRY SEMON COMPANY AGAIN AT WORK

Larry Semon and his Vitagraph troupe have returned from a fishing trip, and have started another special comedy. This time a theatre is his locale.

Hélix H. de Vallière

HELIS DE VALLIERE AND THE NEW ART IN PICTURES

Hélix H. de Vallière is one of the film colony's most interesting recent arrivals. He was born in Lausanne, close to the eastern border of France and received a unique education which he completed with extensive travel on the continent.

For many years Mr. de Vallière specialized in interior and exterior decorating, photography, literature, dramatic art, psychology and psychometry. This education proved to be a valuable help in the motion picture work which he took up later from the artistic and directorial standpoints.

Later as an assistant to a member of that service whose special duty during the war consisted in delivering important messages from one country to the other, he was provided with an opportunity to come to America during the last period of the war.

Several months followed during which time Mr. de Vallière devoted himself to the study of the language, customs and characteristics of the country.

His picture interest finally led him to Los Angeles where he soon became connected with Fox as art photographer. That was a few months ago, and it is understood that he is to remain with that company, but in a directing capacity.

"Long-Shots and Close-Ups," a book upon the direction of American pictures, published recently by Mr. de Vallière, has been occasioning considerable comment throughout the profession, and much is expected of this "different" artist in the near future.

BENNETT DOING "THE PURPLE HIEROGLYPH"

Director Chester Bennett is starting "The Purple Hieroglyph," with Earle Williams as the star, at Vitagraph. The story is from a novel in a current magazine.

MABEL AND DOUG TO GIVE SILVER CUPS

Plans are rapidly maturing whereby on Friday evening, May 7th, the Los Angeles Film Exchange Bookers' Association will stage an informal dance.

Mabel Normand of the Goldwyn players has donated a silver cup as a prize for the best dancing couple in the fox trot contest, and Douglas Fairbanks a silver loving cup to be contested for by waltz enthusiasts.

AT CORONADO

Beulah Booker, playing the ingenue in "The Saphead," Metro production, is resting a week at the Hotel del Coronado, at Coronado Beach.

TO PRODUCE WILLIAMS' STORY

Preparation is being made at the Goldwyn Studios for an early production of "The Black Pawl" by Ben Ames Williams, which will be produced with an all star cast under the direction of Reginald Barker, who has just completed "The Branding Iron."

Charles Furthmann of Chicago is the guest of his brother, Jules Furthmann, scenario writer for Fox, at the Furthmann home in Hollywood.

Hugh Ryan Conway, director for Benjamin B. Hampton features, is trout fishing in the Sierras.

After an absence of two years in France Lieut. F. C. Lewis has returned to Los Angeles. He was falsely reported dead.

Irene Rich has been enjoying a week's rest between pictures by going fishing and camping with her mother and brother in Ventura County.

Ann May will complete work in the leading feminine role of Charles Ray's initial First National production soon. Thereafter she will make a flying visit to New York before commencing work in another production.

Henry Woodward, leading man for Maurice Tourneur, has opened recruiting offices at Room 9, 6412 Hollywood blvd., for the Third Battalion of the Los Angeles Infantry Regiment of the new California National Guard. Capt. Woodward commanded the Hollywood Officers' School during the war, and the officials in charge of the organization of the new guard have turned to him to recruit the Battalion allotted to Hollywood.

Ora Carewe has been dividing her time during the past week between location work at Mt. Baldy and personal appearances at a Broadway picture house in Los Angeles, where her first Selznick release is being shown.

Bert Lytell will go to New York to play the leading role in a series of four Metro plays to be produced at the new Eastern studios immediately following the completion of "The Price of Redemption."

Jean Havez has been engaged to write the scripts for Buster Keaton comedies.

Tom Santschi has returned from New York. He has purchased a new home in Hollywood.

Blanche Sweet has been confined to her home recently with bronchial trouble.

Bessie Barriscale will play a character part in her next film entitled "Life's Test."

Continuity Writing

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay Plots"

INSTALLMENT II.

In our last chapter we used only seven scenes to introduce three of our principal characters—Old Man Walton, his daughter Mary and Two Spot Joe. Our sixth scene showed Mary exit toward the house followed by Two Spot. We must now go back to the old man. We now have a full scene as follows:

8. Ext. Placer Claim—Full Scene.—The old man is still tinkering away. He takes hold of a lever and pulls on it timorously. It breaks and a part of the dam which is a part of the contraption comes away and lets a flood of water rush over. The old man steps back with the broken piece of handle in his hand and looks in dismay at the wreck of his machine.

9. Ext. Placer Claim—Closeup.—Of the old man as he looks in dismay at the apparatus. (This is just a flash to get over the expression of utter dismay on the face of the old man as he looks at the flood of water).

10. Ext. Placer Claim—Closeup.—Of the apparatus with the water flooding over. (Another flash to get over the significance of the break in the machine and the havoc which it is working).

11. Ext. Placer Claim—Semi-Closeup.—Of the old man. He looks from the machine to the broken piece of handle in his hand which is wrapped with rusty wire. He lets his hand fall slowly and the broken piece falls to the ground as his hand slowly relaxes.

12. Ext. Placer Claim—Full Scene.—The old man still standing looking at the wrecked contraption. He slowly turns, picks up a tool and exits.

We have given the old man several scenes here to get over the pathos of the situation and to emphasize the situation which makes him welcome the proposal, a little later, from Two Spot.

We have had the old father exit from the scene now, so we will go back to Two Spot and Mary. We will have to give them some little "business" to do before the appearance of the old father in order to give him time to come from the scene of the placer claim to the cabin—assuming that the two are not far apart. So we have—

13. Ext. Cabin—Semi-Closeup.—Mary and Two Spot on. He is still attempting to force his attentions on her. With a little struggle, she withdraws her hand from his. He starts as if to place his arm about her when his attention is attracted to the old man off scene. Mary does not yet see her father.

The reason why we do not have Mary see the old man yet is that we want to cut to a flash of the old man coming before Mary exits to meet him. When we have a character in a scene register that he or she sees something off scene, we must always immediately show what he or she sees. So we cut to—

14. Ext. Near Cabin.—The old man is coming toward the camera, dragging one foot after the other—with his eyes on the ground.

Then back to Mary and Two Spot, in—

15. Ext. Cabin—Full Scene.—Two Spot gets to his feet from where he has been sitting on the edge of the porch by the side of Mary. Mary looks around and sees her father just as the old man enters—and runs over to him. She realizes from his appearance and expression that something is wrong. The old man puts his tools down and leans on the girl dejectedly. They enter the cabin followed by Two Spot.

Another reason why we did not have Mary see the old man in time to run off scene to meet him, is that we save a scene here—which means that we save some film. If she ran off scene to meet him—and we are going to take them into the cabin—we would have to have them go over more ground to get to the cabin door—or in other words it would take two scenes to get them into the cabin, instead of one. We must watch our footage at all times and tell as much of the story as possible in as few scenes as possible, in order to keep from having our story drag—and using too much film.

Next week we will get over Two Spot's proposition to the old man—and give our audience an inkling that Two Spot plans some kind of a scheme that is going to cause trouble. This will establish suspense. We will not tell them just what he plans to do—but will put them to watching Two Spot closely. Let's not get impatient now, if the story appears to be progressing slowly. There is a lot of things to be considered in writing a continuity—so let us take our time and do it right.

SPECIAL PERFORMANCE FOR PROFESSION AND PRESS AT COMMUNITY THEATER

The present production of the Hollywood Community Theater, "A Successful Calamity" by Clare Kummer, has proven so popular that a third week's run has been arranged. The cast includes many well-known in picture circles, Winter Hall, Betty Linley, Phil Gastrock, Clark Marshall, Joyce Percey, J. Jiquel-Lanoe, Kathleen Bolton, Charles Parrott, Charles Geggus, Alfred Hollingsworth, Helenita Lieberg and Joseph Bell are cast in the play.

An extra special professional performance has been arranged for Saturday night, May 1st, at eleven o'clock when the members of the Majestic and Morosco theater companies, who have accepted Miss Dickson's invitation to attend, will be present as guests of honor. The other guests of the performance are being invited from among the most prominent and important members of the film, stage and journalistic interests. Due to the very limited seating capacity of the little theater the guest list will be necessarily small but distinctly representative of the community's accomplished personages. Admission will be entirely by card invitation.

Write Photoplays That Sell

The fourth largest industry in America was built on stories—just such stories as you know and could tell—if you knew how. Its raw material is story ideas—its finished product, motion pictures. It may pay you large amounts for providing some of this working material.

To this end, the Palmer Photoplay Corporation will train you to write your story idea into a form acceptable to the producers. Moreover, if the story is salable, we can sell it for you. Ours is the one plan endorsed and approved by the leading members of the profession. Rob Wagner, noted author and playwright, says: "A person who couldn't write a photoplay after digesting your plan simply hasn't it in him."

One student sold his first story for $2000 before completing the course. A story is seldom bought for less than $100, and often the price is well up into the thousands.

The advisory board is composed of Cecil B. DeMille, Thomas H. Ince, Lois Weber and Rob Wagner.

Scores of students from all walks of life are enjoying comfortable incomes as a result of turning their minds to the Palmer Course at home for a short time each day.

Have you an idea for a story? Then send for the 1920 catalog and our Booklet, "Proof Positive." This booklet contains the photographs and opinions of famous stars and directors. It is yours for the asking.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Edith Roberts has begun work on "Marama," under the direction of Norman Dawn. The story is by Ralph Stock, and the support includes Jack Perrin, Richard Cummings, Noble Johnson, Arthur Jervis, Lucile Moulten, and Lillian Phillips.

Marie Walcamp is busy on some interior scenes for her Oriental serial, "The Dragon's Net," at Universal City. Henry McRae, who directed the star's eight months' trip to the Far East to film this serial, is still in charge of the production.

Hoot Givson has started another of his Westerns called "The Fightin' Terror" under Mack Wright's direction. His feminine lead is Yvette Mitchell.

Among the interesting Chinese visitors at Universal City recently was Judge Peter Hing, of the Supreme Court of China, and president of the Kwongtung Railway Company. Mr. Hing has interested Chinese capital in the organization of a motion picture concern in his native land, and came to Universal City for pointers on the manufacture of the product.

A "supreme court" at Universal City has been named by Carl Laemmle, to decide all big questions at issue on the lot. It is composed of Isadore Bernstein, newly appointed producing manager; Sam Van Ronkle, assistant manager; Louis Loev, financial manager and Irving Thalberg, representing Mr. Laemmle, who, while making his headquarters in the east, will retain the title of general manager of the plant.

A United States customs inspector is now installed in the laboratory at Universal City to appraise the dutiable amount of film brought by Henry McRae from the Oriental expedition headed by Marie Walcamp. As in the cutting of the serial, "The Dragon's Net," much of the film exposed will be discarded, Universal will be saved the duty on negative that is not used.

number to about four hundred, of which the Royal-Apollo at Budapest is one of the finest.

Jugoslavia greatly depends on importation for films, as there is, excepted the one lately erected at Agram, hardly a big studio in the country. The Vojvodina Bank in Ujvidek has inaugurated a special division for film service, with the object of providing the whole of Jugoslavia with motion pictures and has concluded contracts with all Hungarian studios, so that nearly the entire output of Hungarian films will also be shown in Jugoslavia.

Some famous novels will be seen on the screen before long. The Ideal Film Company, a British concern, has just finished a version of Thackeray's "Newcomes," entitled "The Perfect Gentleman." This production is to be followed by Lord Lytton's "Ernest Maltravers," Lord Beaconsfield's (Disraeli's) "Sybil," Israel Zangwill's "The Bachelors' Club," Miss Braddon's "Lady Audley's Secret," and Sir James Barrie's play, "The Will." Sir James is also the author of that delightful comedy, "The Admirable Crichton," which was produced here in Los Angeles under the direction of Mr. Cecil de Mille and proved a source of pleasure to multitudes under the title of "Male and Female."

Sir Ernest Shackleton's film, relating his Arctic explorations and adventures, still attracts great crowds in England.

In several countries there is a movement on foot to stimulate the writing of scenarios by competition. An evening paper in Paris, the "Bonsoir," has opened one. The literary cinematographic society of Turin, Italy, also had organized a competition, with the following result: Of 132 scripts received, 25 were returned on account of non-conformation with conditions; of the remaining 97, ten were judged adequate in case of important alterations. None was found worthy of a prize.

At the beginning of February the foundation took place at Berlin with Anglo-American capital of a concern of very great financial resources, the "British-American Film Company, Ltd., with head offices in London, where Mr. Tarlo superintends transactions. At Berlin, Mr. Max Nivelli, assisted by an American and English staff, attends to the German affairs. Spectacular productions will form the chief program of this company.

The new German constitution gives proof of the extreme importance which modern statesmanship attributes to the influence of motion pictures on a commonwealth; moreover it is the first time in the history of the world that a constitution of a country refers to cinematography.

The tenor of the paragraph conveys, unless I am mistaken, the impression that the German congress believes the power of motion pictures for forming public opinion superior to that of the press or any other printed medium. Article 118 of the constitution of the Republic of Germany, says: "Every German has the right within the limits of the law to express freely his opinion by word, writing, printing, picture or in any other way. A censure does not take place, however, for motion pictures deviating directions may be given by special laws."

An interesting picture portraying the recent Allied pilgrimage to Lourdes and relating the history of that famous shrine, was shown in private view the other day at the New Gallery, Regent street, London.

The pilgrimage itself in a sense forms a reply to the following article published on July 30, 1914, on the outbreak of the world war by the "National Zeitung," a big German newspaper: "The Holy Mother of God, of Lourdes, will have much to do if she, the worker of miracles, is to mend all the bones which our soldiers will break on the other side of the Vosges. Poor France!" At a lunch given after the exhibition, Father Nicholson spoke of the high opinion which Father Bernard Vaughan holds of this picture.

Archbishop McIntyre, who said that in all his life he had only been six times inside a motion picture theatre, once in Rome by special dispensation, felt that the cinema was a powerful means of spreading the truth.

The profits of this film are intended for a permanent hospital at Lourdes for all English speaking peoples.

The Belgian ministry of justice and cults has prepared a law which, if passed, would prevent the attendance of moving picture shows by all individuals below the age of sixteen years. However, it provides the organization of instructive and scientific film shows for persons below this age limit. Like to most things, there are different sides to this question. The absence of minors would allow the treatment of many delicate subjects, which now are being avoided, or would enable very often a more realistic rendering of plays, than is now advisable. On the other hand, a good many parents, especially those of lesser means, who naturally form the majority of a population and cannot afford servants to take care of their children, would either have to leave their children at home alone of an evening, or else would have to stay away and refrain from this form of recreation.

MODERN MOTOR CARS

THE timeliness of the new Moon Six-48, apparent at a glance, is proved by an analysis of its design and construction.

Every line — from the sharp angles of the deep, nickel-silver radiator and the octagon lamps to the tilt of the extra tire carrier—conforms to the symmetry of its straight lines and squares. A four-inch longer wheelbase emphasizes the characteristic Moon balance and low center of gravity —features that insure smooth riding.

It is powered with a new high-speed motor of matchless flexibility. Full cord tire equipment cushions its pathway.

The model is made in touring, sport roadster, sedan and coupe body types—each selling at a price that is an appeal to your reason.

IN REGARD TO THE INCOME TAX

For some time past the Income Tax situation has occupied the attention of the thinking man and woman of the profession. Surprise rather than resentment met the statement from the Revenue Department, that the actor and director alike were to be treated upon the same basis as the ordinary salaried man. As a result the professional man's advertising, wardrobe and automobiles (absolute necessities in this business) were to be "disallowed" by Income Tax Officials.

This announcement occasioned the arrangement for the meeting of the revenue men, at the head of whom is Mr. Douglas, and representatives of the industry, at the Athletic Club, Thursday, May 6, in an attempt to "get together" upon the question and present to Mr. Douglas the basic principles of the profession which have obviously been misunderstood by his department.

A preliminary gathering of well known actors and directors was held the evening previous, for an informal discussion of the affair with the idea of obtaining personal and representative opinions on the subject.

Among the speakers were: Reginald Barker, Douglas McLean, Bert Lytle, William Duncan, Theodore Roberts, Tom Forman and Clifford Robertson.

The first question settled was that of classification. The professional man contracts his services and can parallel his case to any other type of contractor. He cannot be considered upon a salary basis, as his is entirely different from the condition of the book keeper who holds his position possibly the best part of a life time.

The average life of the star, it was decided, is five or six years. During that time he must make the greatest possible amount of money. To do this, he must advertise, as by so doing he becomes more valuable to his company, and is therefore in a position to demand an increase in salary.

A well-known casting director pointed out the fallacy of the argument that publicity is occasioned by the individual's vanity. He provided definite cases to prove that he has been instrumental in engaging not only actors but directors whose only recommendations to him have been through the medium of their personal publicity. Another speaker (who combines acting and directing) pointed out that by conducting an advertising campaign he had succeeded in raising his salary of thirty times its figure three years ago.

Therefore, as has long since been recognized in the case of Wm. Wrigley, Jr., publicity is the agent that causes progress in business, it is only fair that such an expenditure be "allowed" the profession in the income tax calculations.

The question of wardrobe was considered, and it was pointed out that the actor should surely be "allowed" that, since in his line of work he must purchase five times the number of suits he would need if he were a business man, as it is impossible to wear a suit in more than one picture. The companies do not permit it. Furthermore, much neces-

INTERNATIONAL REVIEWS By Edward Reinach

The private film, I hear from London, in which Miss Mary Pickford, Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland are the Dramatis Personae met with the warmest reception by the exclusive circle in which it was shown. His Grace as "crook," the Duchess as heroine, Miss Pickford as maid and Mr. Fairbanks as villain find an able support by an "atmosphere" including such notables as a Member of Parliament, a British admiral and a general.

It is generally interesting to know, what others say about us; it is usually more interesting to learn, what others think about us. The less the opinions expressed were intended for the ears of those to whom they apply, the more reason there is to believe that one encounters the true expression of the thought, thought uninfluenced by politeness, diplomacy or flattery.

It might therefore be well to start with an opinion, which, if absence of flattery be a scale of measurement for sincerity, is based on the quintessence of this great virtue.

"Modern civilization is rapidly relapsing into barbarism. The principles of order, moderation and self-control are giving way before barbaric manifestations; in painting we have the cubists; in poetry we have the brutal or the childlike" in habits, in beliefs, and especially in amusements, we have the barbaric predominant—and the chief of the people's amusements are "the pictures."

"The two main causes of this degeneration are I.) Democracy, with its inevitable low standards, and 2.) the influence of America. The so-called American civilization is entirely material and mechanical; therefore, debasing. If America were to disappear today, together with all she had created, we should miss nothing but mechanical inventions. The Ford car and the verses of Ella Wheeler Wilcox are both mechanical things constructed on the same principles. Nowhere is this more apparent than in American films, both in regard to subject and treatment. Their chief feature is their crude preoccupation with barbarous subjects; crime and violence, savage and sordid insistence on financial matters, as though money, murder, and lust, varied by orgies of sentimentality, were the only things that could interest an audience."

Were not Miss B. Solomon the speaker of this tirade and the Writers' Club, London, the audience, one might feel tempted to suspect a Prussian Junker the orator and a crowd of Pomeranian Feudals the cheerful listeners.

More gratifying than the above, sounds what Mr. Boyle Laurence, an authority on things theatrical, said at the General Annual Meeting of the Cinematographic Exhibitors Association (C. E. A.), London.

"We speak of the suppression of American pictures, and

AT THE AMERICAN LIFEGRAPH STUDIOS

Work this week has been commenced upon the third Lifeograph-Keefe society comedy under the supervision of W. E. Keefe at the American Lifeograph Studios, Portland, Ore. The working title of the picture is "Two Kisses and the Fatal Cherry Blossoms."

J. Park Jones again plays the feature role supported by Eugene Gilbert and Clare Morris.

TARKINGTON BAKER PRODUCTIONS

Booth Tarkington has affixed his signature to a contract whereby he agrees during the current year to write directly for the screen.

Tarkington Baker, who has just resigned as general manager of productions for Universal to start his own company is the man who signed the novelist.

Up to the present time Mr. Tarkington has been averse to writing for the screen. Not many months ago, he with other prominent authors expressed himself as dubious of the screen as a medium of expression. It was his judgment at that time that motion picture producers were too much inclined to sacrifice all other considerations to plot alone. He deplored the fact that characterization played as he saw it only an insignificant part in screen production.

Eventually, however, he was persuaded to write a series of two-reel boy stories for Goldwyn.

But there his yielding ceased until the present venture.

"No limitations have been placed on Mr. Tarkington's efforts," states Baker, "he has a free hand. I haven't the remotest idea what he will write about, that is his affair."

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

The Scenario Department announces the early production of "The Isle of Life," a novel by Stephen French Whitman.

Carl Laemmle will sail for Europe July 6th on a combination business and pleasure trip.

"The Cat that Walked Alone" is the story selected for Carmel Myers first starring vehicle under her new contract. Miss Myers will arrive at the studio from New York May 14th.

Norman Dawn has taken his company which is filming "Marama" to Monterey for location scenes.

F. C. Windermere has begun the production of a Rainbow comedy tentatively entitled "An Awful Skate." Zip Monberg is being featured.

Albert Russell has begun the twelfth episode of "The Moon Riders," the serial starring Art Accord.

Leo Kohlmar, who has been engaged for a series of comedies, is at work on "The Last Bottle" under the direction of John Hohengest.

COMPLETE CAST FOR "HARRIET AND THE PIPER"

The cast for Anita Stewart's new picture has been completed according to announcement from the Mayer Studio. It contains in support of the star, Ward Crane, Irving Cummings, Charles Richman, Myrtle Stedman, Barbara La Marr Deely, Byron Munson, and Margaret Landis.

Bertram Bracken is the director.

Monte M. Katterjohn arranged the screen version from the story by Kathleen Norris which appeared as a serial in the Pictorial Review.

ROBERT GORDON WANTS STORIES

Robert Gordon, who is to assume the responsibility of his own company in the near future, is looking for stories built about a character of rural type, or similar to Huck Finn, which he played in "Huck and Tom" He is as interested in original stories as in novels or plays.

TO BUY MORE STORIES FOR THE AMERICAN SERIES

Harry M. Ruby, president of the National Film Corporation, is now considering the purchase of several novels to be adapted for the screening of the All American Series of feature productions.

"Kentucky Colonel," the first of this series is now ready for release.

AT THE VITAGRAPH STUDIO

Henry A. Barrows and Allen Forest have been chosen for supporting parts with Earle Williams in "The Purple Hieroglyph," his next feature under the direction of Chester Bennett.

William Duncan has reached the fifteenth episode of his current serial, "The Silent Avenger." He has gone to Catalina Island for final scenes.

James Aubrey has signed a new contract for the next two years. He will continue to produce two-reel comedies. Jess Robbins is now directing him.

"The Girl From the Sky" company headed by Director Tom Terriss, has returned from Catalina and gone to Laguna Beach for airplane scenes. Wallace MacDonald heads the all-star cast.

"The Veiled Mystery" has been selected by Albert E. Smith as the title for Antonio Moreno's next serial.

AUTHOR TO FILM OWN STORIES

E. C. Maxwell has completed arrangements with a New York corporation to film his own stories. They will be known as Maxwell productions.

The first company (Constance Soullard Photoplay Corporation), started work Monday and is on location near Victorville.

Clyde McCoy is directing.

A second company will soon commence work at Universal under the direction of Jack Holloway upon the production of two-reel satires starring George Hernandez.

Mr. Maxwell has recently been with the National Film Corporation.

ALICE LAKE RETURNS FROM LOCATION

Alice Lake and members of the company filming "The Misfit Wife" have returned from location at Glendale where Western exteriors have been filmed for the past few days.

DOING SEVENTH PICTURE

"Smiling" Bill Jones is busy on his seventh Marion H. Kohn Productions, Inc. release at the Studios of the National Film Corporation in Hollywood.

Mr. Kohn personally selected the story which was written by Harry Wulze. Robin Williamson is directing Bill.

DOING "PEARLS OF PERIL"

The last of Polly Moran's two-reel slapstick comedies of this series is now being produced by the National Film Corporation for the Marion H. Kohn Productions, Inc. It is entitled "Pearls of Peril" and is being directed by Warde Hayes from an original story by L. V. Jefferson.

According to Marion H. Kohn Miss Moran will upon the completion of this production resume her "Sheriff Nell" roles.

GONE TO SAN FRANCISCO

Robert Thornby and his company left the Jesse D. Hampton Studios this week bound for San Francisco to spend two weeks filming ship scenes for Thornby's first special production, "Half a Chance" by Frederic Isham.

Among those who left were Mahlon Hamilton, Lillian Hall, Sidney Ainsworth, John Gough, and Little Mary McAllister.

Scott McKee, Who is Directing Kid Comedies.

SHOOTING TO START AT LAGUNA BEACH

Paul Hurst, Director of the Laguna Del Ray Art Film Corporation, which is producing feature pictures at Laguna Beach, Cal., reports that the scenario of "Byrd of the Dawn" by Lolita Perine is complete, and that all locations have been selected and everything is in readiness to shoot.

Hurst expects to complete the picture in two months. Hedda Nova, as previously announced will play the stellar role.

CAST FOR "THE BLACK PAWL"

Director Reginald Barker will commence work this week at the Goldwyn Culver City studios on the all-star production of "Black Pawl" by Ben Ames Williams.

Russell Simpson will play the title role.

The part of Red Paul has not yet been filled.

John Bowers will play Dan Durrin; Helene Chadwick will be Ruth Lytton, and Alec B. Francis will be Samuel Poor.

ON LOCATION

Mabel Normand, Director Victor Shertinger, and the entire company now making "Rosa Alviro" went to San Francisco last week to film boat scenes.

SELLS SCENARIO ON ROYALTY BASIS

H. H. Van Loan, scenarist and author of "The Virgin of Stamboul," has just sold a scenario to Hope Hampton productions on the royalty plan, according to word received from New York.

Heretofore it has only been the legitimate stage author who has been able to dispose of his work on a percentage basis.

JACK COHN ANNOUNCES NOVELTY

Closely following the announcement of "Screen Snapshots" his new bi-monthly release Jack Cohn is to launch another novelty reel which he will issue every other week, and so with "Screen Snapshots" offer a weekly short subject feature to exhibitors the year around.

'Laughographs' is the title given the new reel. It is composed of a succession of animated jokes and a varied assortment of quips and gags.

UNFAIR EXPLOITATION

One of Los Angeles moving picture houses drew audiences all last week under false pretenses. It was unfortunate for the public and was an unwise move for the house. The circumstance was this:

The theater booked an old Triangle picture, obviously produced several years ago. The featured actress therein was Gloria Swanson, who somewhat over a year ago came to the fore under the direction of C. B. de Mille. Gambling on Miss Swanson's recent popularity, a catchy title savoring of de Mille origin was attached to the antiquated "late" release, and then publicity blossomed forth to the effect that Gloria Swanson, C. B. de Mille's greatest star was to appear in her latest production, "You Can't Believe Everything" at the Alhambra.

The unusualness of the Alhambra showing a Paramount release occurred to some, but on the whole the ruse was successful. Even the press was in several instances duped. The fact that one of the foremost houses of the city threw slides upon the screen containing the same misleading description further assisted in the deception.

It would be impossible to review "You Can't Believe Everything" with any sort of satisfaction, since the details, story technique, etc., now taken into consideration in the judgment of a picture, are absolutely lacking. The play is a nightmare and affected the audience as such.

This in addition to the "clever" advertising which so took all of us in has served to disgust both the profession and the fan.

It is to be hoped that such methods will not soon be employed again, since they forever lose the confidence of the patron who reflects his irritation back upon the house.

Humanity loathes to be tricked and does not soon forget such an attempt. It is satisfaction that the exhibitor should produce. So long as he succeeds in this the public will insure his financial success.

JOE BRANDT ISSUES WARNING

Joe Brandt, Director General for the National Film Corporation of America, has issued a statement to exhibitors in which he warns them against booking old prints of the five-reel picture "Captivating Mary Carstairs," in which Norma Talmadge starred.

He says: "It has come to my attention that following the announcement that National would re-issue 'Captivating Mary Carstairs,' some people have been offering old prints of this picture to exhibitors.

"Any exchange offering for booking, or any exhibitor showing an old print of this picture, is doing so contrary to law, and may expect to be rigorously prosecuted therefor by National. All rights for booking or exhibiting these prints have expired."

The National Film Corporation has announced that they will shortly release the re-edited and re-titled version of the production, and that new posters, lobby displays, advertising and publicity matter has been prepared. It will be released on the State Rights market.

DWAN NEGATIVE SHIPPED TO NEW YORK

The negatives of the Allan Dwan production, "The Scoffer," have just been shipped from the Brunton Studio, Los Angeles, to Benjamin Prager, president of the Mayflower in New York.

"The Scoffer" is the most recently completed Dwan picture. Mary Thurman and James Kirkwood played the leading roles in the all-star cast. The picture will probably not be released until autumn.

CURRENT REVIEWS "THE WOMAN GIVES"

"The Woman Gives," Norma Talmadge's latest First National attraction, showed last week at the Kinema. It is undoubtedly the best vehicle that has been recently provided for Miss Talmadge.

The interest of the story lies in its humanness and the excellent performance of the cast. The star's work alone would carry a much weaker picture than "The Woman Gives."

The performance of Edmund Lowe as Robert Milton, the male lead, is the work of a finished actor. It is technically correct and his personality is more than pleasing.

John Halliday is splendid as Daniel Garford. His action is well timed and put over with ease.

Lucile Lee Stewart plays the small part of Mrs. Garford.

The picture was written by Owen Johnson and directed by Roy Neil.

"A FOOL AND HIS MONEY"

Eugene O'Brien appeared last week in "A Fool and His Money" at Clune's Broadway.

The story by George Barr McCutcheon lays claim to several thrills in the way of sleigh chases, etc., but the technique falls flat.

Many beautiful shots decorated the production.

Mr. O'Brien's work is up to its usual form but it fails to carry the story and the rest of the cast.

Ruby De Remer is scarcely the type either for her part as feminine lead or as an opposite for the star. Her lack of technique is more than apparent.

The remainder of the cast is more or less convincing.

Robert Ellis is responsible for the direction.

"THE SEA WOLF"

George Melford's version of Jack London's "The Sea Wolf" was last week's feature at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre (L. A.)

It is more or less of a disappointment to those who have witnessed previous adaptations of this novel.

Noah Beery's performance as the Wolf is, especially through the first part of the picture, somewhat overdone and stagey. He rather improves after the incident of his blindness, however.

Tom Forman does Van Weyden in almost as stiff a manner as can well be imagined, while Mabel Julianne Scott fails utterly to establish any sort of characterization in her attempt at Maud Brewster.

Raymond Hatton does the cook as Raymond Hatton would, providing the one delightful element of the play. There seems to be no end to his versatility.

Fred Huntly is more than satisfactory as Johnson.

Others in the cast are Eddie Sutherland, Walter Long and James Gordon.

Marie Prevost, Appearing in Mack Sennett Productions

SHULBERG IS NEW PRESIDENT OF THE ATTRactions DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

B. P. Shoulberg has acquired an interest in and been elected president of the Attractions Distributing Corporation which release the Katherine MacDonald productions through the First National Exhibitors Circuit.

B. P. Fineman, who has been president of Attractions since its inception a year ago, becomes Vice-President and will remain in Los Angeles to co-operate with Sam E. Rork. President of the Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corporation on the productions of this star and others whom Attractions plans soon to present on the screen.

Mr. Shulberg's headquarters will be in New York and he will move the offices of Attractions Distributing Corporation to those he has occupied for some time in the Longacre building.

GOLDWYN PRESS AND SERVICE MAN PROMOTED

John W. Rankin, who for the past year has been head of the Press and Service Department of the local Goldwyn Exchange, has been promoted to the position of supervisor of the coast division and will handle publicity and exploitation for the territories covered by the Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles branches. Mr. Rankin will work under the direct supervision of A. S. Aronson, District Manager of the territory west of Denver.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE. GEORGE L. COX.

George L. Cox, well known director, has enjoyed employment in nearly every department of the motion picture industry. The first period of his career was spent as a legitimate actor, during which time he supported Mrs. Leslie Carter, David Warfield, Mrs. Fiske, Alberta Gallatin, Laura Bert and Henry Standing, Nat Goodwin, etc. Later he filled stock and repertoire engagements.

There followed twelve years in screen work beginning as an actor with the Selig Polyscope Company (Eastern); then came scenario work, and finally direction.

Mr. Cox is at present in his second year with the American Film Company at Santa Barbara, where he is filming all star American specials. His current production is "Whispering Smith."

Elliott Clawson has completed the script of "Big Game," the filming of which picture by Metro will commence in about two weeks.

Mildred Davis has signed another contract with the Rolin Film Company to play opposite Harold Lloyd.

Richard Barthelmess has signed a new contract with D. W. Griffith.

Allen Holubar is at work on a new picture starring his wife, Dorothy Phillips.

Kathleen Kirkham has been signed by Thomas Ince to play the lead opposite Lewis Stone in "Beau Reval" by Louis Joseph Vance.

Harry Madison, vaudevillian, has been engaged by the National Film Corporation, to do character work in the Buddy Post comedies which that company is producing for Goldwyn release.

Jack Brammall has been signed to play an important part in "Whispering Smith," which is being produced by American at Santa Barbara under the direction of George Cox.

Ruth Brownson is doing a part in "The Purple Hieroglyph" with Earle Williams at Vitagraph.

Frederick Bond has left for the Orient to play a heavy for Aldrich. The first scenes will be taken in Hawaii.

T. W. Moore, father of Pat and Mickey Moore, has been engaged by J. Gordon Edwards, to play an important part in the forthcoming William Farnum production.

Lloyd B. Carlton, directing "Mountain Madness" for Clermont Photoplays Corporation, has a contract to make six special features for Selznick.

Three character actors of the old guard play prominent roles in King Vidor's "The Jack Knife Man." They are Fred Turner, Harry Todd, and Willis Marks.

Edward Jobson who has been working for the past three months at Metro, has been retained to play in Viola Dana's current picture, "Head and Shoulders."

E. C. Maxwell, formerly with the National Film Corporation, will act as scenario writer and production manager for the Constance Soullard Photoplay Corporation of New York.

"FIGHTING BILL" STILL FIGHTS

William Lion West is doing Tom Rogers, the fighting heavy, in Jesse D. Hampton's all star special, "Half a Chance," under the direction of Robert Thornby.

Viola Dana has started work on "Head and Shoulders" under the direction of William C. Dowlan.

Ann May, Leading Lady for Charles Ray

Melbourne MacDowell is playing the Factor of the Hudson Bay Post in "Nomads of the North."

Paul Scardon has been engaged by Jesse D. Hampton to direct Blanche Sweet in a series of features.

Little Frankie Lee, after seven weeks sojourn at Niles, Cal., with the Hurford-James Company, where he is being featured in a five-reel picture named "Little Boots," will return to Los Angeles about May 6th.

Mark Robbins has joined the Screen Classics scenario department.

Joseph Kilgour, formerly of the Metro stock company, has been engaged to enact one of the principal roles in "Hearts Are Trumps." Iris Lynne has also been signed to play an important part in this production which will be directed by Rex Ingram.

Thomas H. Ince has bought three stories by Charles Belmont Davis, brother of the late Richard Harding Davis.

Water and desert scenes for Vitagraph's serial, "The Veiled Woman," are being taken at Santa Cruz Island. Antonio Moreno and Pauline Curley were the only ones who hadn't the pleasure of mal de mer.

Bertram Grassby is playing the part of "Phillip" in Clara Kimball Young's latest picture, "Tidchannel," has just returned from a trip to Santa Barbara.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

WARNING IN TIME

By Jovan J. Knezevich

Necessarily the point of my writing for Camera! is different from my American co-writers. It will include new but certain facts which positively exist, but are not known even to those closely associated with the moving picture industry in America.

My intention is to bring forward just the main points in the beginning of the growth of the moving picture in a country of which very little known in America regarding that question, but well known to our rivals in Europe.

Could the moving pictures in the front where they are today, a higher "something," new and unknown, is necessary for the public; but that "new" must have a drawing power to arouse the interest of the American public.

French, English, Russian (?), Spanish, and Italian productions are too well known to the public. The Europeans are looking for something new.

It is known that in Japan and the far East, moving picture companies have been organized. Further more that two companies are started each with a capital of $10,000,000, does not sound very promising for our market in Japan. And when it is known that the "moving picture fever" has held even in the far east, then we must not be surprised to hear that in Serbia, as she is today, united with other Slavic states (Jugo-Slavia), the moving picture industry has a strong hold; not only with home capital, but also with French, English and German capital. Several small companies existed before the war, but with war which brought many changes, the industry took a firmer hold in Jugo-Slavia. The French, English and Germans during this war had opportunity to see and study the natural beauty of Jugo-Slavia, and the result was that today, several foreign and also a good number of home companies exist.

Today it is an every day sight to see cameras in all parts of Jugo-Slavia, especially on the beautiful shores of Dalmatia, which are the most beautiful in the world. Success is positive as Jugo-Slavia possesses unusual natural beauty, old cities of Roman, Turkish, and pure Serbian type. Besides all this there is Zagreb Agram, the most beautiful city in Europe called by American tourists "The jewel of Europe" and the Alps of romantic Korintia and Carolia which also are a part of Jugo-Slavia. All these facts are too well known to French, English, Germans and Italians; and they are leaving their countries and are racing to see who will be the first in Jugo-Slavia. At the same time we in America are racing for what French and English has left behind.

The main point is financial. Developing this industry is less expensive in Jugo-Slavia than in the whole of Europe. And of course when the mighty American dollar enters to spread the interest of the American industry in Jugo-Slavia, he would be a successful rival to all other European undertakings. Also the present government of Jugo-Slavia and the people would gladly prefer American capital to that of others.

On several instances it is seen in the Serbian papers where they request American capital, and American productions, but it seems that the American kings of the moving picture industry blindly are overlooking this worth, and do not see what danger is kept in store for them from these dangerous and unknown rivals.

MRS. HARRY NORTHUP ON VISIT HERE

Mrs. Harry S. Northup (Merceita Esmonde) and Mrs. John Emerson (Anita Loos) are in town for a two weeks' visit from New York.

When they return to New York, Mrs. Emerson will sail for Europe with her husband early in June, and Mrs. Northup will play an important part in "Clothes" for Metro at their New York studio, under the supervision of Maxwell Karger.

HOWARD GAYE

SCOTT McKEE PRODUCTION

"The Heroine," the Scott McKee production, work on which will start in a few days, is expected to create a sensation in the moving picture world. The leading characters will be played by children well known in the profession. The little star, who will play the title role, is only eight years old. The story is said to be clever, exciting and funny.

GOLDWYN BOOKER ELECTED PRESIDENT L. A. F. B. A.

Because of his promotion to manager of the Select Exchange, Harry C. Cohen, formerly booker, automatically steps out of his position as President of the Los Angeles Film Exchange Bookers' Association to give as an honorary member.

Mr. Neides, who has held an executive position in the local Goldwyn exchange for the past two years and first to hold office as Vice-President of the L. A. F. B. A., is especially qualified to head the organization. way to Harold D. Neides, Goldwyn representative, elected at the last meeting of the organization to fill the vacancy. Mr. Cohen still retains membership in the association

CAST FOR "MOUNTAIN MADNESS"

Mignon Anderson, Ora Carew, Howard Miller, and Edward Coxen are the big four in "Mountain Madness." Lloyd B. Carlton's next release through Selznick.

Miss Carew and Mr. Coxen take care of the mountain stuff, while Miss Anderson and Mr. Miller do the society roles.

THE BUTLER'S ENTERTAIN

On April 29th, David Butler and his wife celebrated the third anniversary of their marriage with a dinner at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, of which Mr. Butler is an active member. The dinner was one of the largest affairs of the Club's social calendar.

Conrad Nagel, leading man in "Athalie," the Sidney A. Franklin production for Mayflower, has purchased a bungalow on Cherokee in Hollywood.

Kathleen Clifford is enjoying a brief interval vacationing at Catalina Island.

The costumes worn by Frank Mayo in his next Universal special, "The Hitching Post," will be those used by his grandfather when he was starring in "Pudd'nhead Wilson" thirty years ago.

Dagmar Godowsky is collaborating with a prominent screen author who is writing scenarios founded on the romances of the great composers.

Julanne Johnston works before the camera all day long and is volunteer "prop man" and scene shifter at the Hollywood Community Theater at night.

Edward Sloman narrowly escaped drowning while location hunting in San Francisco recently.

Tom Moore is expecting his little daughter Alice Joyce Moore to arrive within a week from New York to visit him during the summer. Mr. Moore's mother is leaving shortly for her native land, Ireland, to visit for the summer.

It is rumored that Claire DuBrey is to be featured by prominent producing interests in a seven-reel special.

Raymond Hatton has just purchased a dwelling on Ozone avenue, at Venice-by-the-Sea, and is having it remodeled and redecorated.

William H. Crane, co-starring in "The Saphead" at Metro, last week celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday.

Mark Robbins, Metro scenario writer, recently addressed forty society matrons on the subject "Better Moving Pictures" at the home of Mrs. Elmer Barnes on Wilshire boulevard.

Major Jack Allen leaves New York for this city Sunday. He will produce his own pictures.

Bryant Washburn will make one more film for Paramount.

Little Marjorie Heck has recently finished with Sidney Franklin in his production in "Athalie" for Mayflower.

The many friends of Mollie McConnell will be glad to know she is convalescent from her recent serious illness.

Little Pearl May Norton has just finished an important part which extended over six weeks in Edwin Carew's Selig special, "The Trail's End."

Continuity Writing

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay Plots"

THE COUNTERFEIT TRAIL

INSTALLMENT FOUR

Last Week we got only as far as scene 14. So we will start now with 15. This takes to the interior of the old man's cabin. This is a set which is built on the stage and may be miles and miles away from the exterior where we had our three principals make their exit last week. However that makes no difference.

15. INT. CABIN—FULL SCENE

Mary and the old man enter as she assists him to a chair. Two Spot follows and looks on. As the old man sinks into his chair he looks at Mary an expression of utter hopelessness.

This was a full scene for the reason that we had to have three of our principals make an entrance and a full scene is necessary to establish the location of our characters and the general appearance of the room. We can now go to closeups as we get over bits of business between our people.

16. INT. CABIN—CLOSEUP

Of the old man and Mary kneeling at his chair. She is asking "What's the matter Dad?" The old man places his hand tenderly and caressingly on her head, sadly shakes his head and tells her that the result of his work for months has been lost.

17. INT. CABIN—CLOSEUP

Of Two Spot as he listens to the old man. (This is just a break scene to keep the scene between Mary and the old man from getting draggy and uninteresting.)

18. INT. CABIN—SEMI CLOSEUP

Of Mary and the old man. He is telling her about the machine. She shows her sympathy—turns and starts to get to her feet as she looks off in the direction of where Two Spot is standing.

We made this a semi-closeup for the reason that we wanted Mary to start to get to her feet. In a big closeup her head would go out of the picture before she had moved just a few inches. The scene may be shot from the same angle but with the camera further away—or it may be shot from another angle, depending on where Two Spot is standing. It would be a good idea to have Two Spot standing near the wall on which is the picture of the modern machine that the old man has torn from the pages of a catalogue and pasted on the wall. We can now come to a full scene as Mary gets to her feet and goes over to where Two Spot is standing. Therefore we have—

19. INT. CABIN—FULL SCENE

Mary gets to her feet from where she is kneeling by the old man and goes over to Two Spot. The eyes of the old man follow her. Mary is talking to Two Spot.

You will notice that in the semi closeup in scene number 18 we had Mary start to get to her feet. In the next scene which is a full scene we had her get to her feet and cross over to where Two Spot is standing. When the film is cut in the cutting room, these two scenes will be matched so that her action is continuous from the semicloseup into the full scene. Now that we want to get over some business between Mary and Two Spot we will go to a closeup of the two.

20. INT. CABIN—CLOSEUP

Of Mary and Two Spot. She looks up at him and says—

TITLE:

"THERE'S LOTS OF GOLD IN OUR SAND AND DAD WOULD SELL AN INTEREST IN THE CLAIM FOR MONEY TO BUY MACHINERY."

INSERT—CLOSEUP OF PICTURE

Back: Two Spot looks from the picture to Mary—then turns toward the camera and registers that he has evolved a plan.

SUBTITLE:

TWO SPOT DIDN'T HAVE ENOUGH MONEY TO BUY A GOG WHEEL, BUT HE DECIDED TO GET IT BY FAIR MEANS OR FOUL.

Back: Two Spot turns to Mary and tells her that he will get the money for the old man. She registers surprise and pleasure.

21. INT. CABIN—CLOSEUP FLASH

Of the old man as he hears Two Spot's announcement. His eyes open wide as he rises with an effort and looks off scene at Two Spot.

22. INT. CABIN—SEMI CLOSEUP

Of the old man still staring in the direction of Two Spot and Mary, who now enter the scene. The old man extends his hand and asks Two Spot if he means it. The latter replies that he does and the old man grips Two Spot's hand more firmly as the three settle down and begin to plan. FADE OUT.

We fade out because it is the end of a sequence. We will now have a lapse of time and then pick up some of the characters who represent another angle of the story. You will notice that we sometimes describe the speech made by a character in a scene. This does not mean that the speech is to be a title. Never use a title where the audience can tell from the action or from a reply that is made, what is being said or spoken. It will also be noticed that we have established some suspense in the title where we tell the audience that Two Spot will get the money by fair or foul means. We do not tell them what the means are, so we put them to guessing and wondering what it is to be. This is suspense, a very necessary ingredient in the drama.

Note: H. L. B. An iris out is where the screen goes dark from the outer edges toward the center by the operation of a diaphragm that stops down like that, in any kodak or still camera. Iris in is of course just opposite. The Mabel Condon Exchange is absolutely reliable and will no doubt return your story if you request it.

Thanks, B. A. T., Sheldon, Iowa, for your nice letter.

By the way folks this series of articles on Continuity writing looks like it would string out considerably. Are you getting tired of it or do you like it? I wouldn't bore you for anything in the world dontcherno.

Write Photoplays That Sell

The fourth largest industry in America was built on stories—just such stories as you know and could tell—if you knew how. Its raw material is story ideas—its finished product, motion pictures. It may pay you large amounts for providing some of this working material.

To this end, the Palmer Photoplay Corporation will train you to write your story idea into a form acceptable to the producers. Moreover, if the story is salable, we can sell it for you. Ours is the one plan endorsed and approved by the leading members of the profession. Rob Wagner, noted author and playwright, says: "A person who couldn't write a photoplay after digesting your plan simply hasn't it in him."

One student sold his first story for $2000 before completing the course. A story is seldom bought for less than $100, and often the price is well up into the thousands.

The advisory board is composed of Cecil B. DeMille, Thomas H. Ince, Lois Weber and Rob Wagner.

Scores of students from all walks of life are enjoying comfortable incomes as a result of turning their minds to the Palmer Course at home for a short time each day.

Have you an idea for a story? Then send for the 1920 catalog and our Booklet, "Proof Positive." This booklet contains the photographs and opinions of famous stars and directors. It is yours for the asking.

Or Care of Willis & Inglis

of course, as patriots, we wish our own country to be supreme. But we cannot, must not, taboo American pictures. They set a standard, they form a model for us to try to reach. Shall we ever in England be able to afford the glorious spectacles which America—and Italy, because of the comparative cheapness of its labor—have shown to us? Do we wish to banish such marvels as the American "Intolerance" or the Italian "Anthony and Cleopatra" from our screens? Never, I hope. How many years will it take us to gather together such a galaxy of talent and charm as the American studio has at its command? When shall we arrive at the perfection of detail, animate and inanimate, that we find in the American productions. In the harmony of ensemble, the absolute "rightness" of their casting of even the smallest characters? As a critic of the drama of twenty years' experience, I say with my hand upon my heart, that such perfection has not been seen, even upon the stage of the spoken drama, as is seen in American moving pictures."

Lord Northcliff's paper "Daily Mail" is of opinion, that: "So many fantastic French cabaret scenes have appeared on the screen of late, mainly in American films, that it is a relief to hear, that this company (speaking of the producers of THE FACE AT THE WINDOW) has arranged to take a number of photographs of a Paris cafe and its frequenters, and an exact reproduction will be built in the British studio. The types selected for the "crowd" will also be taken from these photographs.

The same critic under the Heading "Burlesque England" says this of another picture: "A new American film is described as a great and human drama with English life for its background," but it is English life such as has never been seen in England and rarely on the screen. In (I omit names) Castle, live an aristocratic family consisting a Lady X, her elder son Sir James X, and her younger son, the Honorable Philip X—the reason why the last is "honorable" being unexplained except that he is the hero." Fun is made here of the title erroneously attributed to a younger son of a deceased Baronet, who has no right whatsoever to an appellation of rank.

After mentioning some further details, he winds up, as follows: "Such is the representation of British life, that comes from over the water, but it is a burlesque of a period long since past, if it ever existed at all and it is difficult to understand why American producers try their hands at our country if this is the best they can make of it."

On another occasion the same gentleman gives this suggestion: "The firms issuing American films in this country would be well advised to revise the letter-press, which may have been understandable in the United States but is certainly gibberish here.

They might also translate American money into our own terms, for the kinema theatre audiences do not appreciate tests of mental arithmetic during a film. In this film appears the title "Four dollars and fifty cents—500 bucks would tide us over" and the audience is left guessing.

Favorable commentation by the Mail's correspondent also must be recorded, as for instance regarding the Fox production "A Tale of Two Cities." "The American producer of the version now before the British audiences deserves praise for an excellent piece of work. In the main the story is told faithfully, a rare virtue in an American film based on a classical novel. The producer has made much of the spectacular side of the story, the storming of the Bastille by a large mob being particularly well done."

INTERNATIONAL REVIEWS

Stockholm to one of the biggest British Trade papers: "During an interview which I had the other day with the official film censor, he passed the quite unsolicited remark that in comparing English and American films it was quite easy to see that the English were a far more cultured nation, and that if the technical quality of the English films were up to the standard of the American, they would be much more popular in that country. That is also the opinion of the vast majority of the Swedish public. They are getting tired of the "sameness" of the American films, and would welcome a change—but the change must be for the better. The buyers also would welcome another market from which to purchase films, but that market must be able to supply them with films of equal technical standards. Here, then, is the opportunity for British producers to pull themselves together, and strain every effort to reach and pass the American technical standard."

May we take this letter as an unintended acknowledgement of our efficiency?

The British Admiralty has made arrangements for a complete film record of the Prince of Wales' Australian tour, Mr. Will Barker being the official photographer.

The King of Italy has appointed Livio Pavanelli, the well-known film actor, Chevalier of the Crown of Italy.

The Italian concern Rosafilm, which has increased its capital to two million Lires, has engaged Maria Corvin to play Marie Antoinette in a great historical picture of the same title. Another historical, spectacular film, worth mentioning and just completed, is "The Borgias," treating on episodes during the reign of Alexander VI (1492-1503), a period rich in artistic magnificence, violent passions and crime. The representations of the interior of the Vatican cannot be too highly praised. The direction lay in the hands of Mr. Caramba.

sary and expensive wardrobe can never be worn in private life and is an utter loss after the completion of the picture.

Automobiles were next proven necessities, as in the case of location work, where they insure one's arrival at location in a far better condition physically and mentally, than when crowded into a seven-passenger open studio car, carrying fifteen people, and in the event of night work, which may commence or finish at an hour when no street cars are available.

The meeting displayed throughout a desire upon the part of those collected there to assist in the solution, not only of personal problems, but of those affecting the entire industry.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Douglas and his associates will consider the subject in an unprejudiced light, and remember the past courtesies of the profession to its government.

How to Judge the Safety of Securities

“Judging investments cannot be reduced to a mathematical science. Of course, comparisons of all the factors of an investment which can be reduced to mathematical calculation are useful in considering the value of an investment security. They alone, however, are not conclusive. Don't rely upon rating books.”

Magazine of Wall Street, Nov. 20, 1919

WHEN judging securities we give very serious consideration to the ratings of standard authorities. In addition we get the latest available reports of earnings and make a study of general business conditions, labor conditions and other vitally important considerations which might affect the security. For instance, the securities of California hydro-electric companies did not suffer from lack of earnings during the world war as did the railroad securities. The reason was that the demand for their product steadily increased and the California Railroad Commission gave them rates which were equitable to the company, consumer and security holder. Write, call or telephone for our latest list of securities yielding from 4½% to 7%.

WHY NOT A LITTLE SPRING STUDIO CLEANING?

There is a certain small studio in Los Angeles devoted to the manufacture (rather than production) of one and two-reel comedies, whose practices are a disgrace to the industry. Since this organization rather avoids publicity and is little heard of in or out of picture circles, its outrageous and unprofessional methods have not been generally discovered. This is due, however, to circumstances rather than to any effort, hypocritical or otherwise, on the part of its members to pretend to any unfamiliar standard of decency.

Briefly speaking, a few moments upon the lot (a veritable mad house) brings one to the realization that here is an organization whose members have so departed from any semblance of refinement and professionalism that they doubt their ability to stagger under the responsibility of a reputation including these qualities.

Could the studio be shut up with its maudlin crowd of degenerates safe inside, there would be no necessity for mention to be made of this odious situation here. Unfortunately, however, this is impossible.

Instances have been brought to our attention again and again where real professionals (usually of the feminine gender) as well as inexperienced youngsters just "breaking in" to pictures, have been met by the directors and other attaches of this place with propositions that are insults not to be tolerated. Is the industry going to stand for performances of a nature that can result only in lowering its position before the world? Isn't the toleration of such a condition criminal considering the profession's history-old struggle to establish itself in an unprejudiced light with conservatives?

Long ago our big producers eliminated immoral studio conditions because they recognized that in time those same conditions would prove killing. They furthermore realized that to some extent at least, the good favor of their neighbors was necessary to their success, even if common decency was not taken into consideration. Right here, let it be stated that it was and is considered by counting producers. The industry is through with elements that cause general harm and it is liable to be "through" with those that encourage such elements.

Therefore, it is time that such mentally and morally inferior institutions as still remain with us, either clean house or get out.

INTERNATIONAL FILM REVIEW

By Edward Reinach

That to film the sweep of a revolution is very different from being swept by revolution, while filming might appropriately be related by Mr. Sigismund Wesolowski, formerly manager of the Chanshencow Film Company at Moscow. This gentleman opened, during General Deniken's administration, a studio at Kief, surrounded by a circle of artists including Mesdames Lydia Pototzkaja of the Njeslobin Theatre at Petrograd, Golub of the late Imperial Theatre of Moscow, Urjan Borissowna of the Riga City Theatre, Mr. Michael Dalmtow of Moscow. When the Bolsheviks captured Kief they all fled with exception of the leading man, who could not escape in time. The company took refuge at Berlin, where they are continuing filming "The Sacrifice of Claudia Nikolajewna," a modern Russian drama, by Alexander Wosnessenski, after the unfortunate interruption.

The hero, who was swallowed up by the Bolshevik tide, is replaced by Mr. Heinrich Schroth, of the Lessing Theatre in Berlin, and an interpreter conveys the ideas of the director, who does not speak German, to the hero, who is unacquainted with the Russian language. The importance of excellent acting for the understanding of the action by a Russian audience may be judged by the fact that seventy to eighty per cent of the population are illiterate and yet wish to follow the development of the plot without being left in the dark.

Another Russian film, but made in Italy, is "The Fatal Orchid," with Mme. Tatina Pawlova in the lead, supported by Messrs. G. Runitch and M. Vavitch. Direction, Messrs. A. Uralski and A. Rosenfeld.

Gabriele D'Annunzio, poet, soldier and commander of Fiume, who still boldly defies the Allies, had his poem, "La Nave," (The Ship), filmed under the direction of his son, Gabriellino D'Annunzio. The story correctly relates the early life of those energetic and resourceful people, who fled to the Lagunes and in time became the founders of the proud Republic of Venice and masters of the Adriatic. Ida Rubinstein, whose graceful dancing inspired D'Annunzio's "San Sebastian" and "Pisanella," leads in the role of Basiliola.

FILM CAPITOL PRODUCTION NOTES

TO CARTOON "POTTS FAMILY" COMEDIES

Reversing the usual order of things, the Eclipse Film Company, producers of the problems of the Potts family, a series of two-reel comedies by Wycliffe A. Hill, has closed a contract with Pierre Artigue, cartoonist, to supply a newspaper syndicate with a comic strip using the characters which appear in the film series.

Dan Crimmins of the team of Crimmins and Gore, vaudeville headliners, has signed a two-year contract with Eclipse to be featured as "Pa Potts".

Hattie Wade Mack is "Ma," Allen Cuthbert plays the boob nephew, Lucile Pinson, the daughter, and Helen Carpenter, little sister.

Production is in the hands of Tom Gibson, who is assisted by Gene Walsh. John Lyman is the cameraman.

The series is being made temporarily at the David Horsley studios, but the company expects to build its own studio shortly. The first two stories have been completed and work has begun on the third.

HAYAKAWA TO BUILD STUDIO

With the announcement that he has completed plans to erect his own studio and that he has purchased three stories aggregating $125,000, Sessue Hayakawa departed last week for a month's trip to New York to sign final contracts for his new independent producing organization which will be known as the Sessue Hayakawa Feature Play Co. Hayakawa terminated his contract with Haworth last Saturday on completion of "An Arabian Knight."

Until his own studio shall be completed he will work at the Haworth studio on Sunset Blvd. His new plant is to be located on Melrose avenue, near Brunton. Work will be commenced as soon as he returns from New York.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Philip Rosen is filming a two-reel melodramatic comedy entitled "A Happy Fool".

Joseph McDonough and Horace Davie are co-directing a comedy featuring Harry Keaton. It is called "Twin Lizzies".

Lyons and Moran will begin filming "La La, Lucille," immediately.

Jack Ford has begun work upon the "Ride Along Kid," with Magda Lane, Edward Burns, Ralph McCollough and Princess Neola.

Rollin Sturgeon is to direct Carmel Myers' first production under her new contract, "The Cat Who Walked Alone."

"Out of a Clear Sky" has been bought to serve as a starring vehicle for Edith Roberts.

SCARDON AT WORK

Paul Scardon, the new Jesse D. Hampton director, started work last week on "Port o' Caprice," an original story by Kenneth B. Clark. It is the seventh Blanche Sweet production.

Albert Roscoe, Edwin Stevens and George Kuwa make up the cast.

TITLE OF FIRST IDA MAY PARK PRODUCTION ANNOUNCED

The first release of the new Ida May Park production will be "Red Pottage," taken from the English novel of the same name by Mary Cholmondeley.

HOME FROM CATALINA

Antonio Moreno has returned to the Vitagraph studio with the "Veiled Mystery" serial company after two weeks at Catalina Island taking scenes in the fourth and fifth episodes.

The company, which is under the direction of Webster Cullison, will spend a week in the studio before leaving for location in Santa Cruz.

Jack Colburn, who is at present filling an engagement with the Chester Comedy Company.

CAST FOR DWAN PRODUCTION

Allan Dwan has announced the cast for his sixth and last Mayflower picture which he has been rehearsing recently at his home on New Hampshire. The story is an original by Dwan. The title and theme are being kept secret.

The all star cast will be headed by Mary Thurman and Niles Welsh. Joseph Dowling, Eugenia Besserer, Frank Campeau and George Hackathorne are the other principals.

BENNETT STARTS

Director Chester Bennett has begun production of Earle Williams' next feature, "The Purple Hieroglyph." Vola Vale is again leading woman for Mr. Williams. The cast includes Henry A. Barrows and Ernest Shields.

ETHEL CLAYTON BUSY

Ethel Clayton is now at work on "A City Sparrow," by Kate Jordan, under the direction of Sam Wood. Upon her completion of this picture Tom Forman will direct her in a story by Cynthia Stockley. The original title is "Rosanne Ozanne."

PANTAGES TO PRODUCE

Alexander Pantages is the latest to enter the producing ranks. He will make pictures for his own circuit.

UNIVERSAL COMPANIES ON LOCATION

Norman Dwan, who is directing Edith Roberts in "Marama," by Ralph Stock, has taken his company to an island in the Pacific several miles from the California shore, where he has converted a part of the beach for the reproduction of the locale required by the story.

Harry Carey, who under the direction of Reeves Eason, is at work on "Fightin' Job," has gone with the entire company to Victorville to film desert stuff.

Lynn Reynolds, who is directing Frank Mayo in "The Red Lane," has taken his company to Big Bear Valley for snow scenes.

Albert Russell, directing Art Acord in "The Moon Riders," has gone to Yosemite for scenes in the twelfth episode.

Jacques Jaccard, who is producing a series of stories of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, featuring Leonard Clapham and Virginia Faire, has taken his company to Pa-coima Canyon for episodes in the third story, "The Death Trap."

TOURNEUR BACK FROM BALBOA

Maurice Tourneur has just returned from Balboa, where several days were spent filming scenes for his forthcoming production, "Caleb West, Master Diver."

Accompanying Mr. Tourneur on location were Barbara Bedford, Florence Deshon, Jack Gilbert, Henry Woodward, Jack McDonald, Lydia Yeamans Titus, George Nichols and Broerken Christians.

FOUR STORIES PURCHASED FOR THOMAS MEIGHAN

The following stories have been bought for Thomas Meighan: "The Frontier of the Stars," by Albert Terhune; "The Conquest of Canaan," by Booth Tarkington; "Cappy Ricks," by Peter E. Kyne, and "Easy Street," by Blair Hall.

LITTLE PAT MOORE TO HAVE HIS OWN COMPANY

Little Pat Moore, five-year-old screen star, is to be supported by a new company, now in the process of organization.

Negotiations are now under way to secure P. J. McCarthy as director general for the production.

Pat will be seen shortly in "Out of the Dust," a McCarthy feature.

RETURNED FROM LOCATION

Frances Edmonde has returned from San Francisco where she has spent the last two weeks with the entire cast of "Peggy Wise" filming street and water front scenes.

FRANKLIN NEARING COMPLETION OF "ATHALIE"

With location shots at Balboa, Redondo, and Palm Springs, the final scene for "Athalie," the Sidney A. Franklin production featuring Sylvia Bremer and Conrad Nagel, will be taken this week.

MOORE TO DO "STOP THIEF"

Tom Moore's next production will be an adaptation of "Stop Thief!" He will be supported by Hazel Daly.

W. D. TAYLOR TO DO "THE FURNACE"

Wm. D. Taylor expects to complete his production for Paramount-Artercraft, temporarily entitled "The Boy," this week.

In the latter part of May he will begin work on "The Furnace," by "Pan," the scenario for which will be written by Julia Crawford Ivers.

CURRENT REVIEWS

"PARIS GREEN"

"Paris Green," the latest Charles Ray release, was Grauman's feature last week.

It is a clear cut, swift moving, and highly entertaining story. The situations are clever, and the characterizations are good.

The foregoing accomplishments are assisted by unusually "punchy" subtitles and beautiful shots.

The star has done nothing so naturally for some time. He subdues his usual tendency to overact a bit, and builds an "honest to goodness" character.

Ann May does his little leading lady in a refreshing manner. It is apparent that her screen experience has been limited, but her performance on the whole presents a real girl naturally.

Perhaps a bit of the most subtle characterization is by Bert Woodward, who plays Charlie's father. His humanness is irresistible.

Gertrude Clair controls a great portion of the heart interest as the boy's mother.

Jerome Storm directed.

"NURSE MARJORIE"

"Nurse Marjorie," a Realart production featuring Mary Miles Minter, showed last week at Miller's Theatre. The story is more or less stereotyped, and fails to definitely establish an impression one way or the other. Its situations show stage possibilities, but as a screen play it is a fizzle. Several beautiful sets are employed in the production.

Miss Minter makes a very pretty appearance and although her role calls for very little exertion in the way of characterization, she does as much with her business as could have been expected.

Clyde Fillmore does the silly, inadmirable hero in a more or less puzzling manner, which results in a hazy characterization.

Frankie Lee is unfortunately given little opportunity to display his ability in the role of little Dick.

George Periolat is satisfactory as Mr. Danbury, and Lydia Yeamans Titus is clever in her portrayal of Biddy O'Mulligan.

Others in the cast are Mollie MacConnell, Frank Leigh, Vera Lewis, and Arthur Hoyt. William Desmond Taylor directed.

PATHE ANNOUNCES TITLE FOR ROLAND'S SERIAL

"Ruth of the Rockies" is the title selected for the fifteenth episode serial which Ruth Roland is now producing at the Astra Studio for Pathe. The picture will be Miss Roland's seventh Pathe serial.

The scenario by Gilson Willets is a picturization of "Broadway Bab," written by Johnston McCulley and published in "All Story" magazine.

Production was begun on the story in the middle of January.

The supporting cast is headed by Herbert Heyes and Tom Lingham. Other prominent parts are played by Jack Rollins, Fred Burns, William Gillis, Gilbert Holmes and Norma Nichols.

LESSER TO ANNOUNCE DISTRIBUTING PLANS FOR NEW PRODUCTIONS

Sol Lesser, who has been in Chicago recently, attending the First National Exhibitors' convention, will return to Los Angeles this week.

It is expected that Mr. Lesser will then announce the complete distributing plans for Annette's new comedy, "What Women Love," and Geo. Beban's six months' effort, "One Man in a Million."

"HIS PAJAMA GIRL" READY FOR RELEASE

The C. B. Price Company, Inc., have finished the editing and titling of "His Pajama Girl," starring Billie Rhodes, which they are releasing in the State Rights plan May 10th.

George Webb

ROBERTSON COLE ANNOUNCES HAYAKAWA'S LATEST

"The Devil's Claim" will be Sessue Hayakawa's latest offering to be released through Robertson Cole.

ALLIED PRODUCTIONS TO DISTRIBUTE ON THE STATE RIGHTS PLAN

Allied Productions, recently organized by Harry Owens, formerly production manager of the Capital Film Company, is in the market to distribute on the state rights plan, any independent releases of merit already having an established market through independent exchanges.

The Allied Company is also preparing to start production of pictures to fill prevailing demand of the independent market.

Leo White will be seen at Clune's Broadway this week with Bryant Washburn in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

Victor Potel appears this week at the California in "The Heart of a Child," starring Nazimova. Mr. Potel is at present being featured by his own comedy company at the Horsley Studio.

MRS. TEMPLE'S TELEGRAM—Paramount-Artcraft

This play, an adapted stage farce with Bryant Washburn in the leading role assisted by pretty Wanda Hawley, is one of the best things Mr. Washburn has done in months and should equal, if not surpass, in popularity his famous Skinners series.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

"Mrs Temple's Telegram" is one hundred per cent. The picture keeps the audience in a continual roar.

—Moving Picture World.

"THE SHADOW OF ROSALIE BYRNES" Select

This story presents Elaine Hammerstein in a dual role. The two characters are handled very capably by the star, who is assisted by competent players.

Exhibitors' Herald.

The story is minus the usual pretty settings in Selznick pieces, but what it lacks in beautiful photography is made up by intense dramatic action and pleasing sentiment.

—Moving Picture World.

"TERROR ISLAND"—Paramount-Artcraft

Houdini and Lila Lee are the principals in a cast numbering well into three figures. There is action galore, a degree of logic, excellent production technique, and an unbroken series of genuine thrills.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

The faults of "Terror Island" are the faults of Houdini alone.

"THE ORPHAN"—Fox

This is a typical western melodrama with a pleasing love story and a strong comedy running through it. A splendid cast including Louise Loveley, George Nichols, and G. Raymond Nye, lend Mr. Farnum excellent support.

—Exhibitors' Herald.

In "The Orphan" another powerful subject is added to Wm. Farnum's portrayal of western characters.

—Moving Picture World.

In order to promote closer relations between the First National producing units on the Pacific coast and the theatre owners, who comprise the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc., Sol Lesser, western impresario, was this week appointed western representative of the First National Executive Committee to handle all business affairs for the organization in Los Angeles.

Mr. Lesser will be empowered to pass on productions submitted for First National distribution and will form the connecting link between the producer and the distributing organization.

A general publicity bureau will be established under his supervision to supply the home office bureau under C. L. Yearlesley's direction with advertising and exploitation angles, photoplay news and feature stories from the Coast.

VICTOR POTEL HOMESPUN COMEDIES

The Victor Potel Homespun Comedy Company has started production at the Horsley Studio upon their first comedy, entitled "Slim Comes Back." Victor Potel, better known as "Slippery Slim," is being featured. Robert McKenzie is directing.

The cast is comprised of Ruby Kendrick, George Cummings, Thelma Percy, Jake Abrams, Harry Rattenbury, J. W. Clifford and Georgie Ward.

Edward Gheller is photographing.

The comedies will contain no slapstick.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE FRANK BROWNLEE

Frank Brownlee, who is enacting the leading male role in "Hearts Are Trumps," the third Drury Lane melodrama to be filmed by Screen Classics, Inc., has been a member of the professional world since a youth, and has had a most successful stage career, as well as screen career.

Mr. Brownlee started his stage career in his native state, Texas. After a few years, however, he traveled to New York and for nine years was a member of the Empire stock company under the management of Charles Frohman. This company was known as the foremost organization in the United States. Mr. Brownlee is a most enthusiastic booster for the stock company as a training for an actor or actress.

After his engagement with the Empire stock company Mr. Brownlee went with Henry Savage and acted as stage director for this producer, in addition to playing important parts in the productions. Mr. Brownlee was also associated with Henry Miller for five years and with Henry B. Harris for two years. Following this he played two seasons in musical comedy and one year with William Faversham in "Julius Caesar."

It was with the Wharton Brothers company in Ithaca, New York, that Mr. Brownlee made his screen debut. After acting for a short time he was appointed general manager for the production of "The Exploits of Elaine," a serial starring Pearl White.

In 1915 Mr. Brownlee came to the Coast and joined the D. W. Griffith forces, playing in "Intolerance," etc. Since that time he has appeared in four pictures with William Russell, among which were "Brass Buttons" and "The Lincoln Highwayman." He was in stock at Universal for a year and had important parts in "Desert Wheat" and "Desert Gold," two Zane Grey productions.

Recently Mr. Brownlee played one of the leading roles in the Universal production of "The Beachcomber," and he also enacted the part of Martin Berry in the Screen Classics production of James Aherne's play, "Shore Acres."

In "Hearts Are Trumps," Mr. Brownlee has a powerful character role which is said to be one of the strongest he has ever played before the camera. Rex Ingram is directing this Drury Lane melodrama which was written by Cecil Raleigh and adapted for the screen by June Mathis.

Dorothy Cleveland has just returned from Santa Barbara where she has been on location twice during the past thirty days.

Jack Colburn is playing an important part with the Chester Comedy Company, featuring children and animals.

Attorney John Munro of this city has accepted the position of vice-president and legal advisor with the Union Label Film Co.

Orra Devereaux has just finished a part with Dustin Farnum in "Big Happiness" under the direction of Colin Campbell.

Ray Elwyn recently completed a part with Anita Stewart in "Harriet and the Piper."

C. Barrell is directing Constance Souillard

Garrett Graham, assistant to Charles Hertzman, publicity director at Universal City, has accepted the editorship of "Tail Spins," an aviation magazine published at Chicago. His place is being filled by William Curley.

Thomas Jefferson has been cast for an important role in "Hearts Are Trumps," to be filmed by Metro.

Norval MacGregor is playing a part in "The Mutiny," at Metro.

Laddie Earle is doing a part with the Federal Company in "The Money Changers" under the direction of Jack Conway.

Ray H. Klaffkee has been appointed head of the Metro Studio photographic and laboratory departments. Mr. Klaffkee was formerly of Universal and Fox.

Peaches Jackson, One of Our Most Popular "Kiddie" Actresses

RITA WEIMAN PREPARING MACDONALD STORY

Rita Weiman, author of numerous Saturday Evening Post stories and current Broadway success, "The Acquittal," is now assisting James Young in the preparation of "Curtain!", of which she is also author. It is to be the next starring vehicle for Katherine MacDonald.

The story was purchased recently by D. P. Fineman, vice-president and general manager of the Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corporation, and he immediately made arrangements for Miss Weiman to come to Los Angeles to assist in the preparation of the scenario.

Gordon Johnson, brother of Gloria Joy, was recently appointed assistant to the publicity manager of Gloria Joy Productions, Inc., and Unique Films, Inc.

Katherine Angus, Eastern character woman, has just arrived from New York.

Eddie Sutherland, nephew of Thomas Meighan, is playing with the latter in the lasky picture, "Conrad in Quest of His Youth."

Irene Wallace, who cancelled an Orpheum engagement to accept the offer of Col. W. N. Selig, to play the lead in the feature comedy, "In for the Night," has begun work on this picture at the Selig studio. Director Frederick Sullivan was loaned to Col. Selig by Al. Christie for this production.

Contracts were recently consummated under the terms of which Barbara Bedford will be a member of Maurice Tourneur's organization for a number of years to come. Miss Bedford is doing the leading feminine role in "Caleb West, Master Diver."

Eddie Hearn is now playing the title role in the Irvin Willat Production, "Dabney Todd."

Bert Cann, former cameraman for Pathe in New York and Paris, is at present photographing "Yancona Yillies," the Douglas MacLean picture now in the course of production at Iace Studio. Mr. Cann has been with the MacLean Company since the star's initial production, "Twenty-three and a Half Hours Leave."

Robert Chambers is playing "Deacon Howe" in "Dabney Todd."

Ralph Bushman is playing a prominent role in the all star Goldwyn production, "Empire Builders," under the direction of E. Mason Hopper.

Geo. McManus is at the Christie Studio co-operating with Al Christie in the production of the "Bringing Up Father" series.

Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, left Los Angeles last week for New York after a ten weeks' stay at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where he combined a rest with work on the production plans for his company's studios in Hollywood.

C. H. Christie, general manager of the Christie, returned last week from New York. He made a twelve-day tour of exchange cities in the interest of Christie comedies.

For the first time since the stage production of "The Clansman," Charles Hills Mailes and his wife, Claire McDowell, have signed contracts to appear together. They are working at the Ince Studio in "Yancona Yillies."

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

PARTY FOR D. H. THOMPSON

David H. Thompson, production manager for the Metro Studio, was given a most successful surprise birthday party Tuesday evening by members of the Metro Studio personnel.

Among those who participated were Mr. and Mrs. David H. Thompson, James J. Dunn and mother, Arthur Lamb, John Ince, Edward Shoulter, John Arnold, Harold Winstrum, Walter Mayo, Joe Whalen, John Price, Miss Roesing, Miss Lee, Carol Lee, Everett Sullivan.

H. B. Warner is vacationing in Coronado with Mrs. Warner and baby Joan, prior to his departure for New York.

Harry Lostig, Intermountain and Pacific Coast Exchange manager for Metro Pictures Corporation, and Fred Voight, manager of the San Francisco Exchange, were visitors of the Metro Studio in Hollywood this week.

Mary McLaren has returned to Los Angeles following a two weeks' visit in San Francisco. During her stay there she was hostess to the San Francisco Aero Show, and made a number of flights over the city.

K. E. Anderson, film director of the Jesse D. Hampton Productions, is cutting "Leona Goes A-Hunting," the sixth Blanche Sweet feature.

Mrs. Clyde Balsley, wife of Capt. Clyde Balsley is visiting with her sister, Katherine MacDonald, here.

Dwight Cleveland, scenario editor of the Jesse D. Hampton Productions, has returned from a five weeks' business trip to New York. While in the East he arranged for the purchase of stories suitable for the Robert Thornby and Henry King Specials.

Alfred Hollingsworth last Wednesday and Thursday presented his own original novelty sketch at Egan's Little Theatre for the Amateur Players. It is a fifteen-minute sketch and only one word at a time is spoken by each character up to and through the climax.

Annette Kellerman recently journeyed to Laguna Beach to film the diving scenes which will be seen in her new comedy drama, "What Women Love."

Norma and Constance Talmadge, stars of the First National constellation, were in attendance at the convention of franchise holders and exhibitors held in Chicago last week, and were hostesses to the members of the press at an informal reception.

Wheeler Oakman is resting at his Hollywood home after an engagement in "What Women Love," opposite Annette Kellerman.

Maryon Aye, former Mack Sennett bathing girl, who traveled east with the original Mack Sennett Bathing Girl company and who in New York joined Bothwell Browne's vaudeville offering, will be seen at the local Orpheum theatre the weeks of June 21st and 28th, when she will appear as a featured player in Browne's revue. After her engagement here, she intends continuing her work in the silent drama.

Cecil B. de Mille will return from New York this week after a flying business trip. Just how soon he will begin work on his next production is not yet announced. His latest picture, "Something to Think About," is now being cut and edited.

Irene Rich, who was at Santa Barbara at the Flying "A" Studios, playing the leading feminine role in "Whispering Smith," under the direction of George L. Cox, appeared in person two nights last week in "Water, Water, Everywhere." Her appearance was advertised by the management and a large crowd of Santa Barbara fans turned out to see her.

Benjamin B. Hampton has started camera work on "The Money Changers," Upton Sinclair's novel. Hugh Ryan ("Jack") Conway directs. Wm. H. Clifford wrote the scenario. The cast is not yet complete.

John Henry, Jr., Who Bears the Title "Sennett Startlet"

That she may sign a contract that will place her at the head of Rosemary Theby productions is the word received from Miss Theby recently, who is in New York.

Kathleen Kirkham just returned from a week-end sojourn at Tia Juana.

Colin Campbell has just returned from location with the Dustin Farnum company.

Clyde Benson is nursing a broken nose for which his automobile crank is responsible.

Frank Keenan has a brand new grandson in Portland, Oregon.

Arthur Reddon has just returned from San Francisco, where he was on location with the David Butler company doing Micky in "Smilin' All the Way."

Winter Hall has been engaged for an important part in "Hearts Are Trumps," at Metro.

A. P. Younger of the Screen Classics scenario department, has started work on "The Waffle Iron," a story by Arthur Stringer.

Alfred Hollingsworth has been engaged by Marshall Neilan to play the part of "Judge Whitney" in the next Neilan production.

DIRECTOR REFORMS ACTOR

Director Hugh Ryan Conway, producer for Federal Photoplays Corporation, at Brunton Studios, has turned reformer. George Webb, for the past eight months in the Thos. Ince gallery of "bad men," has succumbed to the good influence exercised by Ryan and has amputated the "badge of evil," his mustache, and now bursts youthfully forth as a juvenile leading man.

Director Conway, in order to keep an eye on George until his reformation is complete, has engaged him as one of an all star cast in Upton Sinclair's story, "The Money Changers," now in course of production.

Pauline Curley was injured severely recently when struck by a rock on a cliff on Catalina Island where she was filming scenes in Vitagraph serial, "A Veiled Mystery," opposite Antonio Moreno.

News has been received by R. W. MacFarland, West Coast Manager for Mayflower, of the death of Frederick Prager, brother of Benjamin A. Prager, who succeeded Isaac Wolper last week as president of Mayflower. The deceased was manager of a chain of picture theatres in the New England states.

Milton Sills has been laid up for several days with a case of "Kleig" eyes. As a result of this George Melford's work on "The Translation of a Savage," has been held up.

Mary O'Connor will leave for New York in a few weeks to make a tour of Broadway theatres in the interests of the Lasky scenario department. Miss O'Connor will probably accompany Anita Loos on the latter's return trip east.

Wyndham Martyn, a novelist and magazine editor, whose book, "Anthony Trent, Master Criminal," is in the course of production by the Thew-Martyn company, has secured a beach home for his wife and two daughters, who will arrive the first of the week from Panama.

Casson Ferguson playing the juvenile lead in the Jack London picture being made at the Metro Studio, has begun the erection of an Italian villa in the Cahuenga boulevard residential district of Hollywood.

Katherine Reed wrote the scenario version of the Selznick picture now in production, entitled "The Palace of Darkened Windows."

The cities of Los Angeles and Hollywood were scoured for days with school teachers aiding in the search, for more than a hundred small children of proper types used in one of the scenes from "The Jack-Knife Man," King Vidor's second independent production for release through First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

Albert Capellani has been selected to direct the picturizing of Winston Churchill's novel, "The Inside of the Cup," which will feature Marion Davies.

Charlie Chaplin's five-reel comedy, called "The Kid," will feature Jack Googan, a prodigy discovered by the comedian.

Berty Lytell will return to his first love, the stage, at an early date.

Grace Darmond severely injured her right arm recently while engaged in filming a scene of the "Hope Diamond Mystery," under the direction of Stuart Paton.

Continuity Writing

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay
Plots"

INSTALLMENT FIVE

In our last installment we closed out the first sequence with an iris. We now take up the next sequence with the introduction of other characters. My readers are advised to refer back to the synopsis of the story which appeared in the first installment of the series as we develop the continuity. Our next scene is:

23. EXT. SHERIFF'S OFFICE—IRIS IN

Sheriff and one or two men in doorway. Man in garb of stage coach driver comes on and hands a letter to the sheriff, who opens it and reads.

24. EXT. SHERIFF'S OFFICE—CLOSEUP

Of the sheriff as he reads the letter.

INSERT—CLOSEUP OF LETTER

"—a handsome stranger who will try to unload a lot of counterfeit money, is thought to be heading your way. Look out for him.

"JIM COSTA,
"Sheriff King County."

Back: The sheriff finishes reading the letter and puts it in his pocket.

25. EXT. SHERIFF'S OFFICE—FULL SCENE

The sheriff confers a moment with two men who come on and the three exit into the office. Iris out.

You will notice that we have played this action in front of the sheriff's office instead of inside. This was done to save the construction of a set on the stage to represent the interior of the sheriff's office. It also saves footage or film because if we played the action on the interior of the office it would be desirable to show the exterior anyway as the stage coach driver comes on and enters the sheriff's office, which would mean added scenes. The identity of the sheriff is established in two ways. First, there is a sign over the door, which says "Sheriff," and when we come to the close-up of the sheriff as he reads the letter it can be plainly seen that he has on a badge.

We have now established in the minds of the audience that there is a counterfeiter in the neighborhood. More suspense. They will begin to wonder right away who he is and will fix the guilt on some character who is introduced soon after. To take advantage of this situation we will next introduce our hero.

TITLE:

PHILIP COOK, A COWBOY WHO FINDS HIMSELF FOLLOWING AN UNFAMILIAR TRAIL.

26. EXT. WOODLAND TRAIL—IRIS IN— CLOSEUP

Of Phil on his horse. He has just reined in his mount and is looking intently off scene at something that interests him and has aroused his curiosity.

27. EXT. BRANCHES OF A TREE—IRIS TRIM

The branches are waving violently.

28. EXT. WOODLAND TRAIL—CLOSEUP— FLASH

Of Phil as he continues to look.

29. EXT. TREETOP—CLOSEUP

The leaves are parted and Mary is peering out at Phil.

30. EXT. WOODLAND TRAIL—FULL SCENE

Phil dismounts, laughing and exit to tree.

31. EXT. TREETOP—SEMI CLOSEUP

Of Mary as she sees Phil coming. She scrambles, slips and almost falls.

32. EXT. UNDER TREE

Phil comes on and looks up at Mary. He has left his horse off scene.

33. EXT. UNDER TREE—CLOSEUP

Of Phil as he looks up at Mary with an amused and inquiring expression.

34. EXT. TREETOP—CLOSEUP

Of Mary as she looks down at him.

35. EXT. UNDER TREE—CLOSEUP

Of Phil as he speaks—

TITLE:

"S'POSE I CAN HAVE THE PLEASURE OF HELPIN' YOU DOWN, CAN'T I?"

36. EXT. TREETOP—CLOSEUP

Of Mary: She tosses her head and replies—and points up.

TITLE:

"NO, BUT YOU CAN CLIMB UP AND GET MY KITTY FOR ME."

37. EXT. UNDER TREE—CLOSEUP

Of Phil as he look in direction of the cat up in the tree.

38. EXT. TREETOP—CLOSEUP

Of black kitten on limb.

39. EXT. UNDER TREE—CLOSEUP

Of Phil as he laughs and tells Mary he will be glad to get the cat for her.

40. EXT. UNDER TREE—FULL SCENE

Phil near trunk of tree. Mary comes scrambling down into scene as easily as a squirrel. He is greatly impressed with her beauty and stands admiring her half bashfully. She comes over to him and then points back up and tree and says:

TITLE:

"WELL?"

Back: Phil recovers himself—goes over and mounts the tree out of scene.

TITLE:

COWBOYS ARE SUPERSTITIOUS ABOUT BLACK CATS, BUT AFTER HE GOT A GOOD LOOK AT MARY'S
PRETTY FACE, PHIL FORGOT ALL ABOUT HOODOOS, AND SO—

41. EXT. UNDER TREE—FULL SCENE

Mary on, waiting. Phil climbs down from the tree with the kitten. She takes it, caresses it, bows cutely and then scampers out of the scene before he even finds out who she is. He looks after.

42. EXT. UNDER TREE—CLOSEUP

Of Phil as he looks after Mary blankly, registers disappointment and says, "Well, I'll be damned!"

43. EXT. WOODS

Mary runs into scene, turns and looks back, peers coquetishly and exits.

44. EXT. TRAIL—NEAR TREE

Horse on. Phil comes on, unties his horse, looks after Mary, disappointedly; mounts and rides out.

My reader will observe that we have introduced a bit of "business" here that was not in the synopsis. This building-up Process is necessary, and here is where the continuity writers' imagination is called into play. We have figured out a cute little way of bringing our hero and heroine together and got very good comedy, too, which is very necessary. Incidentally, we have also built up suspense again. The audience is going to immediately become very much interested in whether or not Phil and Mary meet again. They will share Phil's disappointment when Mary runs away without even giving him her name. In the meantime, there is the question of whether or not Phil is the counterfeiter.

With the title, "Cowboys are superstitious, etc.," we cover the necessary time for Phil to get the cat out of the tree, which would take a lot of footage and at the same time establish the fact that he is greatly impressed with Mary. There is also comedy in the title.

The story starts moving rapidly in the next sequence, in which the melodrama begins.

are the terrestrial scenery and the little island of Torcello, with its wonderful Basilica, dating back to the sixth century, lends dignity to the religious side.

The thought underlying this work evidently is the intention to substantiate poetically Italy's claim to the Adriatic.

The King and Queen of Spain attended the showing of a big Columbus film made in Spain amidst the original surroundings, and portraying the career of the great explorer. The scenes illustrating life on board a ship during the Middle Ages deserve especial mention, as well as the historical correctness of the whole production, which is based on most careful documentary research.

The opening in Paris of an atelier for costumes by the Famous Players Lasky Corporation will not alone assure "le dernier cri" to their London Studios, but their Los Angeles companies also will have the advantage of obtaining the very latest feminine attire directly from the center of fashion for their players.

Gersta Harriet Graham has arrived in Los Angeles from Honolulu. She has for some years been concentrating on scenario writing, and her works are entirely different from the ordinary story, being tinged with the mysticism and folk lore of the Hawaiian Islands.

George D. Hale, owner and trainer of "Czar," the famous Russian wolfhound of the movies, passed away suddenly at his home in Pasadena, April 19, leaving a wife and three children.

The cast for Scott McKee's Kid Comedy Production, "The Heroine," will be announced soon.

Write Photoplays That Sell

The fourth largest industry in America was built on stories—just such stories as you know and could tell—if you knew how. Its raw material is story ideas—its finished product, motion pictures. It may pay you large amounts for providing some of this working material.

To this end, the Palmer Photoplay Corporation will train you to write your story idea into a form acceptable to the producers. Moreover, if the story is salable, we can sell it for you. Ours is the one plan endorsed and approved by the leading members of the profession. Rob Wagner, noted author and playwright, says: "A person who couldn't write a photoplay after digesting your plan simply hasn't it in him."

One student sold his first story for $2000 before completing the course. A story is seldom bought for less than $100, and often the price is well up into the thousands.

The advisory board is composed of Cecil B. DeMille, Thomas H. Ince, Lois Weber and Rob Wagner.

Scores of students from all walks of life are enjoying comfortable incomes as a result of turning their minds to the Palmer Course at home for a short time each day.

Have you an idea for a story? Then send for the 1920 catalog and our booklet, "Proof Positive." This booklet contains the photographs and opinions of famous stars and directors. It is yours for the asking.

THE SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wish the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past year in regard to the submission of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

ANITA STEWART CO., 3800 MISSION ROAD, LOS ANGELES. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 7100 SANTA MONICA BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner and W. Desmond; 5 reels. Also 6 and 7 reel features for Blanche Sweet.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS., LOS ANGELES. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

KING VIDOR PRODUCTIONS, 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., HOLLYWOOD: Will consider synopses, scenarios, books or play strong in heart interest and "homey atmosphere." Five reels or more.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 L. W. HELLMAN BLDG., LOS ANGELES. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

HERMANN FILM CORPORATION, 2435 Wilshire Blvd., Santa Monica, Calif. In the market for Five Reel Dramas, also two reel comedies and serials.

HAWORTH STUDIO, 4500 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES, is in the market for scenarios for Sessue Hayakawa, who plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels. Also desire scenarios for Edith Storey, with strong dramatic roles, dealing with society or out of doors.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCTION COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES. One-reel short stories for Teddy Sampson, Harry Depp, Molly Malone and Ray Gallagher.

WHAT SHALL THE FREE LANCER BE PAID?

Ever since pictures have existed they have been accompanied by the problem of the actor's salary. Today satisfactory methods are employed to determine the income of the star, lead, and "big part" men. Unfortunately we cannot say as much for the free lancer who does small parts, bits, or even that type of picture work which is termed atmosphere. He does practically everything that comes to hand, awaiting the day when he will graduate into the class whose screen value is out of his reach. Resultant of this, his work is necessarily irregular, and it is entirely up to himself and to his untiring energy to determine the number of days each week at the end of which he will accomplish the right to a studio check.

Possibly the so-called "extra man's" greatest problem has to do with the amount of that check. He recognizes that if he does not promote himself in this business, the chances are one to ten that he will not be promoted. Consequently he settles upon a daily check figure lower than which he cannot afford to work.

Sometimes, the cases are more or less rare (and let it be said here that there is no industry in the world whose members lie so consistently about the amount of money at which the profession values them), he sticks to his point. If he is an actor of sufficient recognized ability to be successfully independent, all is well. If this is not the case, he is bound to suffer financially and otherwise for his "holding out." As above inferred, the probabilities are that he will slip now and again when the need becomes greater than the principal.

If the individual were paid according to the amount and strenuousness of the work done, salaries would fairly fluctuate. This is, however, rarely the case.

Given a hundred people in evening clothes the tickets on one set are very liable to vary from five to fifteen dollars; this for exactly the same number of hours of work, the same type of costly clothing and the same amount of energy expended.

Such a condition is criminal. How can the man or woman who, usually through some freak of fortune and the lack of a little personal "pull" be expected to purchase and keep up clothes on a ticket one-third the size of his neighbor's, which last has ordinarily been just a little more "in luck" than himself.

On the other hand, enormous checks are often demanded by talent and paid by the studio in an extremity for a ridiculous piece of work that might have been done better for one-half as much by some more conscientious actor.

Or again, as has in several instances been brought to our attention, there are those despicable enough to raise the price of their services from the amount agreed upon previous to their engagement after they have been "registered" in a picture sufficiently that their appearance is absolutely required to complete a sequence. Such things are also unparadonable.

There is only one solution to the tangled situation. The price paid the "extra" must, insofar as the work and other requirements are equal, be made uniform. In other words, it should be impossible for the studio attachees to either play favorites financially or to be taken in by talent that could be easily duplicated.

Let a man earn as much as he is worth and he will grow, no matter whether it is more or less than the amount to which he is accustomed. If he demands a large salary and is worth it he should get it, but not by underhanded means of the type before mentioned.

Strikes and trouble will never settle the question. It is a plain case of "get together" for the big and little men of the industry. Only by so doing can satisfactory conditions for all be established.

THE PUBLIC MAKES A REQUEST

Is there any way, we wonder, by which it could be arranged that persons attending more than one picture show within the course of seven days would not have to be afflicted with the same news weekly and topical weekly (of Literary Digest compilation) over and over again?

The above attractions are both of a nature to be enjoyed once, but they are rarely exceptional enough to admit of four or five repetitions.

It almost seems as though our progressive theatre managers might get together for a little comparison of notes, and thereafter as a favor to the general picture public they might possibly arrange some variety in their incidental attractions.

If there are not sufficient short subject productions made to supply this demand, we might suggest that someone get busy in the contemplation of a producing venture. The public is sick and tired of this condition, and it's up to someone to make a suggestion.

OUR AFFAIR

We are sorry to note that during the past week Mayor Snyder has appointed two new policewomen to overlook studio conditions in the city. It is the business of the industry and its business alone to keep things right. Moreover, we are quite able to do so.

Although "spring housecleaning" has been referred to in these columns no one suggested that the presence of a street sweeper would be necessary.

FILM CAPITOL PRODUCTION NOTES

HOLUBAR CASTING

Allen Holubar has started producing on his own account at the Hollywood Studios. Al Kaufman, formerly an executive of the Famous Players-Lasky organization, is sponsor for the new Holubar-Phillips feature.

Several weeks were spent on the preparation of the story upon which Alga Linek Scholl collaborated with the director.

The script is now complete, and at present Mr. Holubar is engaged in casting the characters. According to his present contract the players must be selected by Holubar himself.

Mr. Holubar, who refuses to divulge the title of the theme of his new story, has organized his own technical staff, and has been joined by Harry Bocquet, who was his assistant at the "Big U."

MONROE SALISBURY PLAYERS

Monroe Salisbury has launched his own company, and will immediately begin the filming of "The Barbarian," an adaptation of a magazine story.

Salisbury's company will be known as "The Monroe Salisbury Players" and the star has announced that every member of the cast will receive full recognition.

The cast so far selected includes Jane Novak, Barney Sherry, Alan Hale, Eleanor Hancock, Milton Markwell, and Lillian Leighton.

The headquarters of the company will be at the Bronton Studios, and it is rumored that Donald Crisp will direct.

DWAN COMPANY BACK FROM LOCATION

The Allan Dwan Company has returned from Camp Keene, in the mountains south of Riverside, where the first scenes were taken for the sixth and last Dwan production for Mayflower.

Seven machines transported forty members of the cast and staff on the trip.

CAST FOR "THE MONEY CHANGERS"

The leading roles of Upton Sinclair's "The Money Changers," will be enacted by Betty Bryce, Roy Stewart, Claire Adams, Gertrude Claire and Edward Peil.

CAREWE COMPLETING CURWOOD PRODUCTION

Edwin Carewe, who is directing "The Trail's End," a screen adaptation of James Aliver Curwood's story, "Isabel," is nearing its completion. The cast contains House Peters, Jane Novak, Edward Peil, and Tom Wilson.

The production which is to be presented by Louis B. Mayer, is now being filmed at the Mayer Studio in Los Angeles.

The North Woods snow scenes were taken in the California Sierras near Truckee, where the entire company were snowbound for more than a week.

AT THE LEHRMAN STUDIOS

Work has commenced again at the Henry Lehrman Studios at Culver City, where Mr. Lehrman is beginning work on a series of two-reel comedies under the business management of C. L. Chester, producer of Chester Comedies, and Chester "Outings and Screening."

The new company has taken over a contract with the First National Exhibitors' Exchange to supply twelve of the Lehrman Comedies to this organization during the coming year.

Operations began last week on the first picture of the series which has received the temporary title of "Springtime." Albert Ray and Charlotte Dawn are being featured.

NATIONAL TO STAR HOXIE IN FIVE-REELERS

Jack Hoxie will not appear in the production of Edgar Rice Borough's "The Son of Tarzan," as previously announced, for it has been decided by National to feature him in a series of pictures. The present plans are to star Hoxie in five-reel comedy-dramas.

The first vehicle of the series has not yet been decided upon.

BETTY COMPSON COMPLETES "THE TEST"

Betty Compson has announced the completion of "The Test," which is the working title of the first of a series of super features on which she has commenced production at the Brunton Studios.

Chester Bennett, directing Earle Williams at Vitagraph

The direction of Miss Compson's initial starring vehicle was in the hands of Arthur Rosson, and the supporting company includes Roy Stewart, Emory Johnson, Ralph Lewis, Walter Miller, Clara Horton, Claire McDowell, Roscoe Karns, Betty Shade, Betty Linley, Kate Concray and Arnold Gregg.

DOWN FROM SANTA BARBARA

Director George L. Cox brought the entire company producing "Whispering Smith" by the American Film Company of Santa Barbara to Los Angeles last week where a number of railroad scenes were shot.

The cast includes Charles Clary, Irene Rich, Kathleen O'Connor and James Gordon.

Other scenes were filmed in the vicinity of Chatsworth.

FINISHING AT METRO

The following pictures are nearing completion at Metro Studio: "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," under the direction of Edward Dillon, "Hearts Are Trumps," under the direction of Rex Ingram, "Billions," starring Nazimova directed by Ray Smallwood, "Held in Trust," directed by John Ince, Winchell Smith's "The Saphead," "The Misfit Wife," directed by Edmund Mortimer.

ALLIED PRODUCTIONS TO FILM NOVELS

The Allied Productions recently organized is an independent producing and distributing organization, and will produce in the near future such pictures as the independent exchanges have first described as likely to receive a ready market.

Many of these pictures will be produced from popular novels now being acquired by this organization.

On a recent trip covering all the exchanges of the United States made by H. M. Owens, general manager of the company, a conference was held in each exchange center, and plans were definitely made for the production of such pictures heretofore mentioned.

Mr. Owens' associates are E. S. Bradley, Pittsburgh capitalist, and W. W. Wallace, oil man of Oklahoma and Texas.

The Allied Productions will produce on the Bronx lot at Edendale.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

"In Folly's Trail," starring Carmel Myers, will be produced by Rollin Sturgeon. Work will begin immediately upon the arrival of Miss Myers from the East.

Jack Ford is busy with the manuscript of "Hitchin' Posts" which will serve Frank Mayo as his next starring vehicle. Work will begin within the next few days.

Philip Rosen will direct Edith Roberts in "Out of the Sky," by J. U. Cissy.

Mack Wright is at work on a Western entitled "Counterfeit," featuring Leo Maloney and Dixie Lamont.

Horace Davey is directing a comedy entitled, "Has This Happened to You?" with Howard Austin and Bartine Burkett.

A burlesque, "Off His Trolley," is being produced by J. A. Howe. The featured players are Billy Engle, Dick Dickerson, Sam Newfield and Jessie Fox.

Elmo Lincoln is engaged in the third episode of "The Lightning's Eye," under the direction of Robert F. Hill.

FILMING ABBOTT'S STORY

"Old Dad," the Eleanor Hallowell Abbott serial which appeared in the Woman's Home Companion, is soon to be given to the public in motion picture form. The story has been purchased by Louis B. Mayer and Mildred Harris Chaplin is the star.

George Stewart, brother of Anita, is to appear opposite Mrs. Chaplin and the cast is to include Myrtle Stedman, Irving Cummings, John Sainpolis and Hazel Howell.

The picture is now in the course of production under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham. George Crome is assisting with Pliny Goodfriend at the camera.

SATURDAY EVENING POST STORY FOR BUTLER

The contracts have been closed with the Saturday Evening Post for David Butler's third story, and work will be started on the new picture just as soon as the film of the second one, "Smilin' All the Way," is cut and assembled. Paul Schofield, who furnished the continuity for the second picture, is now finishing the manuscript for the new production, the title of which is being kept a secret for the present.

FLORENCE VIDOR LOANED TO INCE

Negotiations have been closed whereby Florence Vidor has been loaned by King Vidor to Thomas H. Ince for one production. The picture, an Artcraft Special, is "Beau Revel," in which Lewis Stone will play the male lead.

John Ray will direct.

GOLDWYN SECURES CAPITOL THEATRE

President Messmore Kendall of the Capitol Theatre, New York, has announced the consummation of negotiations by which Goldwyn Pictures Corporation acquires an interest in the new Capitol Theatre, 51st street and Broadway, and the Capitol Theatre interests become associated with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation and will be prominently identified with the management thereof.

Edward Bowes, Capitol manager, is to become a member of the board of directors, and an executive of Goldwyn.

The board of directors of the Capitol Theatre, in addition to the present members, will include the following: F. J. Godsol, Samuel Goldwyn, Eugene Dupont, E. V. R. Thayer, Lee Shubert, M. Hilder, William Topkis, Henry Ittleson, and P. W. Haberman.

By this affiliation, Goldwyn has secured an interest in the largest theatre in the world, for the Capitol has a seating capacity of 5,400.

NEW THEATRE FOR HOLLYWOOD

As a result of the consolidation of the interests of three Hollywood theatre owners with the Gore Brothers and Sol Lesser, Hollywood is to have a new motion picture theatre with a seating capacity of twenty-five hundred. A half million dollar corporation that will control a new playhouse and the three smaller Hollywood theatres now in operation will be formed.

The theatre owners joining with the Gore and Lesser interests are J. L. Swope, owner of the Hollywood theatre, John Young, of the Apollo theatre, and Frank Grant of the Windsor theatre.

The new theatre will be built on Hollywood Blvd. at Ivor street. Actual construction will be started not later than June 1st.

Sub-franchises of the First National Exhibitors' circuit to furnish photoplays to these houses will be issued.

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGE INCORPORATES

The Educational Film Exchange of Southern California is the title of a new distributing organization formed this week by Sol Lesser and the Gore Brothers to distribute for Southern California and Arizona the output of the Educational Pictures Corporation of America.

The distribution will be handled under the general supervision of Dave Bershon, general manager of the Los Angeles First National Exchange.

The organization has filed articles of incorporation for $50,000. Chester Outing pictures, Chester Screenics, Chester Comedies, Christie Comedies and educational short reels will be handled by the corporation.

SPECIAL SHOWING OF MAYER PRODUCTION

Mildred Harris Chaplin's latest picture, directed by John Stahl, was shown recently to a number of exhibitors who attended the First National convention in Chicago, minus titles, art, and music.

The production, the name of which is withheld until its release through First National, will be offered to the motion picture public next fall. By the time it is ready for exhibition it will have taken six months of work on the part of the company and Director Stahl who is personally supervising the cutting.

According to announcement made recently, it will be a special, and the admission will probably be two dollars.

SELZNICK TO DO TWO MORE PICTURES HERE

Harry Rapf, general manager of the Selznick West Coast Studios, announces that he will make two more productions before taking his organization back East. One will be "Nobody," starring Olive Thomas, and the other will be "Who Am I?" with an all star cast directed by Henry Kolker. Both productions will be started this week.

Lionel Belmore, who plays Belcher in "Jes' Call Me Jim"

BRANDT ANNOUNCES "ILLITERATE DIGEST" TERRITORY SOLD

Joe Brandt, Eastern representative of the Marion H. Kohn Productions, Inc., who by special arrangement with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation are producing the weekly novelty reel, "The Illiterate Digest" by Will Rogers, reports that the following territories already sold by him are:

Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, to the Hatch Film Company.

Michigan to W. A. Haines of Detroit.

Ohio to the Standard Film Company of Cleveland.

Illinois and Indiana to Greater Stars Productions of Chicago.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota and South Dakota, to the Educational Film Exchange of Minneapolis.

Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and North Carolina, to the Sydney Lust Film Exchange of Washington.

New York and northern New Jersey to the Alexander Film Exchange of New York City.

California, Nevada and Arizona, to the Consolidated Film Exchange of San Francisco.

TITLE OF ROBERTSON COLE SPECIAL ANNOUNCED

"The Wonder Man" is the title which Robertson Cole has selected for the Georges Carpentier Super Special which will be given to the public through pre-release on May 30th.

"THE HEART OF A CHILD"

"The Heart of a Child," which was last week's attraction at the Kinema, adds one more triumph to the list of Nazimova's characterizations. In fact, her performance as the child is much more human and refreshing than anything that she has done in many months.

Charles Bryant as usual does the leading male role, which in this instance is Lord Kidderminster. His portrayal is quite typical.

John Stepping is very clever as Joe Mosenstein, and Claire Du Brey is satisfactory as Lady Dorothea.

Victor Potel, Nell Newman, Ray Thompson and Eugene Klum, lend both comedy and pathos as Sally's old friends, whom she consistently refuses to neglect.

Lady Fortive is played by Jane Sterling, Wm. J. Irving does Perry, the French modiste shop proprietor.

Ray C. Smallwood is responsible for the direction. Charles Bryant scenarized the story which was written by Frank Danby.

"MRS. TEMPLE'S TELEGRAM"

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram," a farce adapted from the stage production of the same name, was Bryant Washburn's offering at Clune's Broadway last week. The picture is an improvement over Washburn's late productions and boasts many clever subtitles. The play affords many more possibilities for the stage, however, than for the screen.

Wanda Hawley does Mrs. Temple somewhat too mechanically, but the role more or less fits her personality.

Walter Hiers does Frank Fuller, and together with Sylvia Ashton, "his wife," provides several good laughs.

Carmen Phillips as the good-natured "framed" vamp adds complicating touches and three remarkable costumes to the story.

Leo White makes a much better Italian hairdresser of temperament than is easily followed by the actress who does his wife. James Cruze directed the picture.

"THE COST"

Adolph Zukor presented an all star cast in "The Cost," last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre (L. A.). The story which is by David Graham Phillips, deals with an unpleasant theme, and as picturized, fails to make much of a point. There are several technical mistakes including a couple of noticeable errors in cutting.

Violet Heming heads the cast and possibly saves the story with her remarkable work. She is an actress of ability, and possesses an unusual screen personality. Her poise and refined womanliness would carry a much poorer role than that of Pauline Dumont.

Ralph Kellard is more than satisfactory as Jack Dumont, her husband.

Clifford Gray plays the rather unnecessary part of Fanshaw, and Warburton Gamble is another incidental character.

Mordant reminds one of his past screen performances with his subtle work as Pauline's father.

The picture is Eastern made, and the cast includes several actors little known on the screen.

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT TO PRODUCE PICTURES

Former President Wm. H. Taft is at the head of a new film syndicate called the American Picture associates, which will film twenty-four patriotic features.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE

GERTA HARRIET GRAHAM

A recent arrival in this city which is of interest to both profession and society is that of Mrs. Gerta Harriet Graham, well known author of Honolulu.

Mrs. Graham has for some time been a student and writer of scenarios, most of which deal with the mysticism and folk lore of the Hawaiian Islands, and as a result of a long growing interest in the motion picture industry, she has returned to the States to enter that field more actively.

It has not yet been settled as to whether she will associate herself with one of our big producing companies from the scenarial and directorial standpoint, or whether a special company will be launched for the production of her stories.

In any event the industry will hear much of Mrs. Graham and her unusual work in the near future.

LESTER LA MAIE

Lester La Maie, who was born in Marseilles, France, started his theatrical career at the age of seven as an acrobat with a circus, which position was followed by a number of vaudeville engagements.

Mr. La Maie enlisted during the Spanish-American war and for three years served as an orderly to General Bliss in the Philippines. Always seeking adventure, he then joined an expedition to explore the interior of Asia and was the only man of a party of fifteen who survived a trip from Canton, China, over the Himalaya mountains, to Bombay, India.

On Mr. La Maie's return trip to the United States, he stopped at the principal cities and lectured on his experiences in the Orient. He also has the distinction of being the first white man to successfully produce a series of comedy skits for the Kickapoo Indians.

His love for the dramatic art next lured him to the middle west where he operated a school for facial expression and his conception of correct gestures. A flattering offer from the Santa Cruz Motion Picture Company brought La Maie to California. While here he has written about forty different stories, which he intends to produce in the near future.

Mr. La Maie is at present directing Miss Frances Edmonde in "Peggy Wise," a six-reel feature, which he has written around her charming personality. This will be followed by "Antissa," a gypsy love drama, with a novel twist and unusual situations. Furthermore, he has in preparation, "Silenced by Love," and "Through Hell and Back," a stirring drama.

He conceives all his own settings and has everything visualized before starting a production.

Mr. La Maie's success is resultant of much concentrated labor.

Harrison Post, a ward of W. A. Clark, Jr., and a cousin of Guy Bates Post, has been engaged to play an important supporting role with the Monroe Salisbury Players.

Billie Burke has been engaged to star in several productions for Paramount.

Harry Cohn, who supervises the production of the Hallroom Boys comedies, has arrived in New York from Los Angeles. He will remain here indefinitely and is in conference with his brother Jack, regarding future plans for the Hallroom Boys comedies.

Victor Nulty has been placed in charge of the studios of the National Film Corporation, Hollywood.

PRODUCES CHARITY PICTURE

R. Dale (Army) Armstrong is the producer of a short picture entitled "Charity Begins at Home," which he made and donated to the cause of the Los Angeles Orphanage Drive last week.

The picture was shown at the Kinema, California, Grauman's, Clune's Broadway and the Orpheum Wednesday evening. In addition to the showing, it was accompanied by well known picture and society girls who made collections for the little orphans.

A substantial fund has been raised among our stars and directors.

Leo White, who appeared last week in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram"

SWEDISH COMPANY TO STAR "WINIFRED WESTOVER"

A Swedish picture company has persuaded Winifred Westover to visit that country and star in film versions of Ibsen plays. She will sail June 12th.

"Bonnie May," the new Bessie Love production is progressing rapidly under the direction of Joseph de Grasse.

Bessie Barriscale will for some time devote herself to screening novels and stories by Kathleen Norris.

Claire Du Brey has gone to San Francisco on a vacation.

Dagmar Godowsky will appear in an important role of "Hitchin' Posts," in which Frank Mayo will star.

Lillian Leighton has been engaged to play the Indian mother with the Monroe Salisbury Players production of "The Barbarian" under the direction of Donald Crisp. She is at present finishing a part in "The City Sparrow," under the direction of Sam Wood at Lasky's.

Bill Boyd is playing the heavy in Ethel Clayton's "The City Sparrow."

Eileen Sedgwick, who played opposite Edie Polo in "The Lure of the Circus," is to be starred by Universal in a serial adapted from the novel, "Wits and the Woman," by I. B. Irwin.

Templer Powell, who recently did the male lead opposite Edna Flugrath, sister of Shirley Mason and Viola Dana, in "The Pursuit of Pamela," for the London Film Company under the direction of Harold Shaw, is at present playing Prince Selim in "The Beach of Dreams," with Edith Storey.

Edwin Stevens has been secured by Henry King for the Hampton production of "The Brass Bottle."

Melville Brown has been engaged by Warner Bros. to write and direct Al St. John's next production.

William G. Badger is playing a part in the forthcoming May Allison production at the Metro Studio under the direction of John Ince. Mr. Badger will soon be seen in "The Yellow Typhoon," with Anita Stewart.

Douglas Dawson has been appointed Vitagraph casting director by Chester Bennett.

Little Mary McAllister is playing a part in Robert Thornby's production, "Half a Chance."

Metro has added Esther Ralston to the cast of "The Mutiny."

Jean Havez, author of all the plays of Trixie Friganza and Kolb and Dill, is writing the script for the Metro Buster Keaton comedies.

Sidney Franklyn has just signed with the Willat productions to play "Cash Bailey" in the Willat forthcoming production.

Hobart Bosworth, Anna Q. Nilsson, and William Conklin, principals of the J. Parker Read company filming "Under the Mast," are spending the week at Balboa Beach, where the final scenes of the picture are being filmed.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

METRO ENGAGES WRITERS

Bayard Veiller of the Metro scenario department returned to Hollywood last week from New York with half a million dollars' worth of stories which are to be produced by Metro.

Mr. Veiller also signed up a number of prominent writers who will soon come west to work at the Hollywood Studio. Among these are Irvin S. Cobb, Henry C. Rowland, Arthur Somers Roche, George Kibbe Turner, Arthur Stringer, Don Byrne, and Lucia Chamberlain.

VIDOR TO FILM "A SUCCESSFUL CALAMITY"

Clare Kummer's comedy, "A Successful Calamity," which starred William Gillette on the stage, will be filmed by King Vidor for First National.

HOME FROM SAN FRANCISCO

The David Butler company has returned from San Francisco where outdoor scenes were secured for the current production, "Smilin' All the Way."

TO START ANOTHER LONDON STORY

"The God of His Country" is the next Jack London story to be picturized by Metro.

The continuity for this story was prepared by Albert Shelby LeVino. Mitchell Lewis will be featured, and Edward Sloman will direct.

BUSTER KEATON TO STAR

The old Capital Studio where Buster Keaton comedies are to be filmed by Metro, has been remodeled under the direction of Lou Anger, and production on the initial comedy will start this week under the direction of Edward Cline.

STILL IN THE NORTH

Jack Pickford and company are still in San Francisco making scenes for his latest picture, "The Man Who Had Everything."

Upon completion of "The Hope Diamond Mystery," which was written especially for the screen by May Yohe, Grace Darmond, the star, will proceed to Honolulu on a vacation. It is rumored that she will sign a long term starring contract on her return.

A wire from Sessue Hayakawa states that he has sent a special representative to Europe to arrange the purchase of certain stories for his screen use. One is the work of Chateaubriand, which Hayakawa wishes to purchase for his wife, Tsuri Aoki, who is sojourning at present in Korea. She will return to this country in about two months.

Rosemary Theby will leave New York shortly for her home here, according to word received recently. On her return she will stop off to visit her parents in St. Louis, and is planning a visit with friends in Ogden.

Shirley Mason has secured as her next vehicle "Merely Mary Ann," and will commence work on the story in a few weeks. Her current Fox play will be known as "The Little Wanderer."

Bernard Durning, star of Humanity Pictures, is to leave for New York within a week to complete work on "Vengeance Is Mine," which is being produced at Universal City by O. L. Sellers.

Barbara Castleton has returned from a three weeks' shopping tour of New York.

MAETERLINCK FILM COMPLETED

Clarke Irvine has completed cutting and titling the one-reel personality picture featuring Maurice Maeterlinck. The film which Irvine directed shows the author of "The Blue Bird" at home and around the studio. It also introduces Gouverneur Maurice and Mme. Maeterlinck in a strenuous tennis game. This is the first screen appearance of the poet.

Otto Lederer, who is with us again after a long journey in the Orient with the Henry McRae Company

FUTURE MAYFLOWER PRODUCTIONS TO BE RELEASED THROUGH FIRST NATIONAL

R. W. MacFarland, Western manager for Mayflower, has announced that all Mayflower productions, with the exception of those contracted for, will be released through First National.

Two new stages are being erected at the Hollywood Studios to accommodate the newly formed Ida May Park productions and to permit of a greater latitude in the activities of the Bessie Love company.

It is rumored that an announcement will soon be made of the production of a serial featuring Tom Santschi.

Roy Stewart entertained his friend, Senator Mantle, of Montana, on the set at the Brunton Studios the other day. Mr. Stewart has the hero role in "The Money Changers" being produced from Upton Sinclair's novel by Benjamin B. Hampton Productions.

Robert McKim is the proud daddy of a brand new baby boy.

Alvin Keech, former picture man and inventor of the Keech banjo ukelele, writes from Paris that he has opened a shop in that city.

Mr. Putney has recently opened the adventure Scenic Film Corporation Laboratory.

HEDDA NOVA ENTERTAINS

Hedda Nova entertained a marine party at Laguna Beach last Saturday. The occasion was the Russian star's birthday.

A clam bake on the beach, a deep sea fishing trip, surf bathing, and other seashore sports were features of the affair. Numerous members of the film colony motored down from Los Angeles.

DUG-OUT DANCE

A complimentary dance will be given at the Dugout May 29th for Edward Sentons Lewis and Annabelle Wishart, who are to be married next month.

Both Mr. Lewis and Miss Wishart were founders of the Dugout and their romance commenced there.

Lenwood Abbott, laboratory superintendent for the National Film Corporation, was placed recently in complete charge of both the "lab" and the cutting rooms at that studio, while "Bernie" Burton was advanced to the position of head cutter. The "still" department head is Benjamin Sharrits, and the drapery department also has a new chief, E. H. Springer.

When William A. Seiter, director at the National Film Corporation of America's studios, starts his next production the chair at his left will be occupied by his wife, known professionally as Jill Woodward, who will collaborate with him hereafter.

Rev. George LeRoi Clarke, the preacher-actor, has signed a year's contract with the Paragon Pictures Corporation, with studios at Long Beach, Calif.

Harold Miller, who has just finished an important part in "Mountain Madness," will remain with the Clermont Photoplay Corporation despite other offers received by him.

Fred Lancaster, an old trouser just off the Pantages circuit, has just signed with Billy West to play heavies.

Jack Lott, casting director of the Clermont Photoplay Corporation, played the part of Ralph Denby in "Mountain Madness" in Lloyd Carleton's production.

When Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, "The Translation of a Savage," reaches the screen it will have the title, "Behold My Wife."

Sylvia Breamer, who suffered a nervous collapse at the completion of "Athalie," has recovered. She will leave soon for a six week's rest in the mountains, accompanied by her mother.

An allegorical production, "Friendship," is being filmed by Alan Dwan for the Unity League, the newly formed Anglo-American organization. The picture will be released free throughout America and parts of the British Empire.

Director Frank Lloyd starts work soon on "The Great Lover," at the Goldwyn Studio. It is to be a feature production with an all star cast.

Sidney A. Franklin has started to cut, edit and title "Athalie," the screen adaptation of the Robert W. Chambers novel which he made for Mayflower.

June Mathis left last week for New York where she will remain indefinitely.

INSTALLMENT SIX

As I promised my readers last week, the plot begins to thicken, in this installment. In other words, the dirty work begins. We closed our last installment with the end of a sequence. We did not iris out for the reason that we now have a title which not only advances the story but covers a lapse of time. It might have been the next day or the next week, it does not matter.

TITLE:

SOONER THAN HE EXPECTED,
TWO SPOT JOE SAW HIS OPPOR-TUNITY TO GET THE MONEY FOR THE MINING MACHINERY.

45. INTERIOR SALOON.

Men at bar, others at tables—the usual saloon crowd. At a table in the foreground are seated Two Spot Joe and a stranger. Joe is buying and the stranger is maudlin drunk.

We must now come to a closeup of the table where Two Spot and the stranger sit—and cut out the action in the background so as to center attention on our two principals. So we have—

46. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP ON TABLE.

Two Spot starts to pay the bartender who comes on for the drinks—the stranger drunkenly pushes his hand back and flashes a big roll of bills as he starts to peel one off.

To emphasize the fact that the stranger has a big roll of bills, we come to —

47. INT. SALOON. BIG CLOSEUP

Of roll of bills in stranger's hands. He peels off one of large denomination.

Now we want our audience to see very plainly the effect of the sight of the big roll on Two Spot, so we have—

48. INT. SALOON. BIG CLOSEUP

Of Two Spot's face as he looks at the roll of bills in the stranger's hands with a sinister expression.

49. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP ON TABLE

Two Spot is still looking at the roll as the stranger pays the bartender and carelessly places the money in his side pocket. Two Spot starts pollying the stranger. We are building our suspense now. Our audience will surmise that Two Spot will make an attempt to get the stranger's money, by means that are fair or foul. Just what means he will use, being unknown, is what will sustain interest and suspense. We did not introduce the stranger with a title, as being a stranger in the country, for the reason that it would point too plainly to his being the counterfeiter. We do not care if our audience does surmise or suspect that he is the counterfeiter, just so they do not know it absolutely.

50. EXTERIOR SALOON

Philip Cook rides in, dismounts from his horse, throws his reins over the hitching post and exits into the saloon.

51. INT. SALOON

Two Spot and the stranger's table in the foreground.

Phil comes on—looks around and takes a seat at the table with the two other men. As he does so, the bartender comes on to take his order.

52. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP ON TABLE. ANOTHER ANGLE

Two Spot pays no attention to the arrival of Phil, but is watching his chance to slip the money from the pocket of the stranger. The bartender takes Phil's order and exits.

53. INT. SALOON. DOOR IN BACKGROUND

The sheriff comes on into the door and looks over the crowd. He then exits past camera.

54. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP ON TABLE

Where Phil is seated. The sheriff comes into the background. The bartender comes on with Phil's drink—places it on the table and Phil takes out a roll of bills and questions the bartender about the price.

55. INT. SALOON. BIG CLOSEUP

Of the sheriff as he sees the roll of bills in Phil's hand. Suspects him of being the counterfeiter.

56. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP ON TABLE

Phil pays for his drink and the bartender exits. The sheriff scrutinizes Phil and exits.

You will notice that we had Phil stall just a moment before paying the bartender. This was for the purpose of giving times for a closeup flash of the sheriff as he looks at Phil and the money. We are building more suspense here as we establish the fact that the sheriff suspects Phil of being the counterfeiter. It also builds interest, as we can see that there are going to be some interesting complications arise.

57. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP

On Two Spot Joe and the stranger. The stranger sips from his glass and sets it down on the table.

58. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP

Of Phil. He sips from his glass and rests his elbow on the table and thinks intently as he looks down at the top of the table.

59. INT. SALOON. BIG CLOSEUP TOP OF TABLE. IRIS TRIMMED

Fade in and out the scene of Mary's face as she peers between the leaves and smiles.

60. INT. SALOON. SAME AS 58

Phil smiles as he shakes his head approvingly and says "Some girl!" He absent-mindedly sets his drink down on the table and upsets the stranger's drink. The liquor runs across the table.

61. INT. SALOON. FULL SCENE

Table in f. g. Both Phil and the stranger get to their feet at the same time. Phil is about to offer an apology when the stranger smashes him a blow which floors him.

62. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP ON FLOOR

As Phil falls to the floor and a chair falls across him. He pushes the chair off as he lifts himself on his elbow. As he glares at the stranger, his eyes narrow to slits—and then he springs up.

63. INT. SALOON. FULL SCENE

Phil comes up like a tiger at the stranger—makes a mad rush at him as he pushes over the table. Several other men rush in and grab Phil who struggles to free himself. Two Spot takes his intended victim by the arm and starts to get out with him. Phil continues to struggle with the men holding him and demands that they let him get at the stranger.

64. INT. SALOON. CLOSEUP AT DOOR

Sheriff comes on—sees fight and exits past camera.

65. INT. SALOON

Phil still fighting to get loose—dragging the men with him.

66. INT. SALOON. AT SIDE DOOR

Two Spot has the stranger by the arm—taking him out as he looks back over his shoulder apprehensively.

67. INT. SALOON

Phil fighting crowd. Sheriff forces his way in—grabs

TITLE:

"GET THAT MAN OUT OF HERE!"

Back. Phil still expostulating with the sheriff.

68. EXT. SALOON. SIDE DOOR.

Two Spot comes on with the stranger and they exit.

69. INT. SALOON.

The sheriff relaxes his hold on Phil, who takes his hat from one of the men—starts re-arranging his disheveled clothing and exits—the sheriff looking after.

The end of another sequence. This episode is introduced in order to get some good fast action and also to "plant" an enmity between Phil and the stranger, so that later when the stranger is murdered, the crime may logically be laid at Phil's door.

More melodrama in our next. We are going to kill a man in cold blood. Page Sheriff Cline.

VIDOR STUDIO NEARING COMPLETION

A complete Yankee village from toll gate to courthouse is just reaching completion in the 7200 block on Santa Monica Blvd. Beneath the rural roofs and behind the green shutters is every department of the cinema studio—the new home of King Vidor Productions—covering five acres.

The main buildings include:

- 1—Main stage, with courthouse exterior; 80x120 feet; scenic docks; technical offices; property rooms.
- 2—Administration building, in country home containing six offices and fronting the ensemble.
- 3—The Vidor cottage, complete to kitchenette and fireplace, with private offices and dressing rooms for King and Florence Vidor.
- 4—Laboratory, housed in a large country store exterior, 42x100; technical headquarters, cutting and projection rooms, still and printing rooms.
- 5—Dressing rooms in rural hotel structure, with "extra" dressing rooms in church building, planned for later addition.
- 6—Carpenter and paint shop in large grain warehouse, equipped with full machinery, concrete footed.
- 7—Generator building, resembling dairy cooling vault, of brick. 75 H. P. portable gas engine and generator outfit for immediate use, with 15 H. P. outfit ordered for permanent equipment.
- 8—Film and camera vault, over which rises a windmill.
- 9—Entrance offices, where the presiding gateman will have an old-style turnpike toll gate across the entrance.

"SCREEN SNAPSHOTS" TERRITORY SOLD

Write Photoplays That Sell

Success in writing photoplays that meet with all requirements of photoplay making is being attained by many persons studying at home the course of instruction offered by the Palmer Photoplay Corporation. This course can teach you THE SECRET OF SUCCESSFUL PHOTOPLAY WRITING for a remarkably small cost to you.

Your investment will be a two-cent stamp, bringing to you our handsomely illustrated book, "The Secret of Successful Photoplay Writing," and also a booklet called "Proof Positive," containing the evidence you are entitled to read about the success of a great enterprise. You will learn what some of the greatest photoplay authorities, producers and stars have to say about the Palmer Plan of Photoplay Writing. You will read letters from Palmer-trained writers who have been paid hundreds and, in some cases, thousands of dollars for their first efforts.

You will learn that if your photoplay is salable, Palmer can place it for you; that the Palmer Advisory Council consists of Cecil B. de Mille, Lois Weber, Thomas H. Ince and Rob Wagner, and that the Palmer contributors include some of the brightest names in the profession. Send today for these books; they are yours for the asking.

THE SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wish the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past year in regard to the submission of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

CINEMATOGRAPHERS OPEN EXHIB- ITORS CAMPAIGN

"Put the name of the cameraman on the screen." That is the slogan that is carrying the American Society of Cinematographers into a national campaign to prove to the theatre owners that the name of the cameraman is valuable to the screen.

Philip Rosen, president of the Society, is communicating with every theatre owner in the country.

"The name of the cinematographer on the screen puts him under obligation to do good work," he writes. "If the producer does not use the cameraman's name, he is opening the gates for slipshod, indifferent photography. If the exhibitor cuts off the cameraman's name, he is using the soft pedal on one of the best advertising angles that any picture has."

The American Society of Cinematographers is composed of sixty-one Ace Camera-men, who were invited to membership following several pictures of unusual photographic merit.

The fifth of the series of Flanagan and Edwards comedies, which are produced by the National Film Corporation of America for release through Goldwyn, is in production on the west coast. Harry Edwards is directing the two-reeler, which is from an original story by Harry Wulze.

D. J. Chatkin, of the Marion H. Kohn Productions, Inc., short subject producers, has left for New York to attend a convention of film men. Releasing arrangements for the Kohn productions, which include two-reelers featuring Grace Cunard, Polly Moran and "Smiling Bill Jones," will be announced after Mr. Chatkin returns to Los Angeles.

Bert Lytell departed last week for New York City, where he will make several pictures at the Eastern Metro Studio.

Frances Guihan has just returned from Imperial Valley where she went to get local color for a screen story she is writing.

TO MY FRIENDS—

A number of prominent and successful Los Angeles business men are backing a Company to produce "The Dress of Disaster," one of my stories—and other features.

A lot of my friends are taking stock. It looks like we will make about 10 for 1 on our money. Exchangemen all over the United States say they want the picture. It certainly has great advertising possibilities.

If you have a few hundred or thousand to spare, and would like to trail along with us—drop me a line, and I will give you all the dope.

The proposition is being handled by a member of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. It's a REGULAR proposition, folks.

How to Judge the Safety of Securities

“ Experience has shown that the study of the entire field of financial literature would not suffice to equip an individual so thoroughly that he may judge investments without help. It is most decidedly recommended that an individual contemplating making an investment should consult a responsible banking house. Don't try going it alone. ”

—Magazine of Wall Street, Nov. 29, 1919.

In order to practice medicine or law, years of study and experience are necessary in order to pass the examinations and qualify as an expert. An investment expert must have an equally thorough training. Conditions affecting investments are world wide. The judging of securities is a science worthy of the best efforts of the keenest minds.

We are specialists in California securities. We invest our own money in the securities we recommend only after a thorough investigation by attorneys, accountants and expert appraisers. In this way we safeguard the money of our clients.

An interview will enable us to demonstrate to you the care we take in analyzing the investment problems of our clients. If you cannot call, write or telephone for our latest investment list.

OUR FUTURE PRODUCTIONS

There has been in the past much concern occasioned by the lack of so called efficiency in the production of motion pictures. In fact, the industry at one time had acquired a nation wide reputation by its waste of both time and money to accomplish finished products for market. Business men pointed to the seeming truth that were the studios better organized and scheduled, and the pictures made from a commercial standpoint, the producer and his assistants would be monetarily benefited.

This view was sensible enough to cause its adoption by several well known companies who have as a result, been for some time engaged in the manufacture quickly and cheaply of program pictures. Apparently they have made the idea pay, in dollars.

Today, however, we are faced with the fact that the artists of our profession have become more than ever careless about the amount of effort (in the way of time and expense) that they invest into single productions. Months are being taken to do work which "more or less" efficiently might be completed in a fourth that time.

Why is this? Obviously our greatest producers have not lost their reason nor even, we are led to believe, their pleasure in a share of the world's finances. The answer is simply this: with their fingers on the pulse of the public, they have discovered the dissatisfaction which for some time has been stirring the picture fan. He has been overdosed with these commercial offerings and he must have immediate assistance in the way of a little art, if he is not to pass forever beyond the influence of our electric lighted cinema palaces, and their ridiculously untruthful publicity.

Real productions that unmistakably show effort expended alone will save the situation; and the recuperation of the public spirit and belief is necessary.

How will this new plan of procedure affect the industry? First of all it will provide a good market for all independent productions of merit, since the big companies will not be consistently in a position to keep the exhibitors overstocked with inferior "program stuff."

It will be advantageous to the actor, in that he will be allowed more scope in the way of carefully considering and creating roles. This will be, in view of the mad manner in which so many recent shadow characters have been thrown together, a wondrous relief to the public and also to the conscientious actor. Incidentally with the entire industry going steadily and the entrance into it of artists hitherto prejudiced by its commercial aspect to produce independently, the actor is sure to find continuous and congenial employment.

The opinion that the fan must see a star's face every so often to keep him worshipfully in mind may be in part true, but let us hope that we are beyond the day when the star's desire for fame will be permitted to over-shadow the knowledge that the production inevitably composed of, and representing more than Mr. Star comes first with the public, the industry, and art.

This new idea has enough of value in it to off-set all objections; those made in the past and those still forthcoming.

THE MOTION PICTURE AND OUR CHURCHES

"Pictures in the pulpit mean more people in the pews," declare a number of experienced pastors, and, under the impetus given by several leading denominations, the animated screen seems likely to be instituted as a part of the religious service by the Church at large, both in this country and in England. "The-American public, in church or out of it, is picture-hungry," says the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger in commenting favorably on this innovation; and the clergy, long aware of this increasing appetite, according to some of the religious weeklies, defer to it in the belief that "film sermons" now play an important role in the propagation every-day religion. In England the Established Church, we read in one London dispatch, "is beginning to take practical steps toward employing this unexampled means of providing rational amusement for her people, especially in secluded villages into which amusement and variety enter but seldom," and in St. Bartholomew's, Birmingham, and in two London churches pictures have been flashed on a screen hung in the chancel. In this country it is estimated that there are two thousand churches using the motion-picture, in pulpit, parish-house, or community hall, and the appeal and power of the screen has been officially recognized by several denominations, by social-welfare organizations, and by the Interchurch World Movement."

The above is a quotation from a recent issue of the Literary Digest and is truly a startling as well as interesting statement of fact. It means much to the industry to have conquered the prejudice of the world's most conservative class.

FILM CAPITOL PRODUCTION NOTES

CHINESE MERCHANTS ORGANIZE PRODUCTION COMPANY

A new organization to enter the field of film production is the James B. Leong Productions, Inc., which was incorporated under the laws of the state of California, October 27th, 1919, with James B. Leong, president and general manager; Dr. Siu Yee Chong, secretary; Low Song Kai, treasurer; Chew Kim, director, and T. A. Russell, director.

Most of the capital stock has been subscribed by prominent Chinese merchants of Los Angeles and San Francisco, although American interests are also represented.

The object of the company, which considers that China and its people have been misunderstood, is to produce high class Chinese pictures of real Chinese life.

Mr. Leong, head of the company, was formerly connected with an English newspaper in China, and was for several years secretary of a large corporation.

He has done the technical work in the following Chinese productions: "Broken Blossoms," "The Red Lantern," "The Mystic Faces."

His first production will be "The Porcelain Bell of China," an original story by himself.

TAKES MANAGEMENT OF ECLIPSE

Charles E. Carpenter, one of the founders of the Eclipse Film Company, who are producing "The Problems of the Potts Family," has taken active charge of the management and casting for that company.

Wycliffe A. Hill, the author and originator of the series, will retain his interest in the company, but will devote his time largely to the Metropolitan Film Company and the production of "The Dress of Disaster," a six-reel special feature, written by himself.

The Metropolitan will produce five or six two-reel special features per year.

Three two-reel stories of the "Potts Family" series have been completed by the Eclipse Company and production will start shortly on the fourth. Announcement of the release of the series will be made in the near future.

FIRST SOULLARD WESTERN FINISHED

The Constance Soullard Photoplay Corporation, newly organized for the production of two-reel Western dramas and two-reel situation comedies, has completed its first Western, entitled "The Love Rustler." The second production is being cast. The stories are by E. C. Maxwell, who is personally supervising the filming and editing.

Cash Darrell directed the just completed production, assisted by Wally Emerson, with Robert Phelan at the camera.

Warren Stokes, recently arrived from New York, will be director of publicity for the company.

ROBERT GORDON WITH VITAGRAPH

Robert Gordon has commenced work on "The Vice of Fools," a special Vitagraph production being made at the Brooklyn Studios.

Vitagraph secured Robert Gordon's release from J. Stuart Blackton, who holds a contract for his services until July.

Although it was announced some weeks ago that the star would have a company of his own at the expiration of his present contract, it is possible that he will sign with Vitagraph or another organization which has made a bid for his services.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Priscilla Dean's next feature, again under the direction of Tod Browning, is to be called "Outside of the Law."

DUNCAN SERIAL TO FINISH

William Duncan will finish his first million dollar serial under his new Vitagraph contract within a week.

He will take a brief rest before starting his next production, which will be the second of the six that he has contracted to make in three years. If the proper schedules can be made against release dates, he will produce the next one in South America.

Pat Moore, who is to have his own producing company

CASTS OF THE WEEK

"THE FURNACE"

The following cast will appear in Wm. D. Taylor's screen version of "The Furnace," which production he will commence for Paramount-Artcraft approximately May 31st: Agnes Ayres, Milton Sills, Jerome Patrick, Theodore Roberts, Lucien Littlefield and Helen Dunbar.

"THE DEVIL TO PAY"

The cast for Robert Brunton's first all-star production, "The Devil to Pay," from the novel by Nimo Green, includes:

Fritzi Brunette, Joseph J. Dowling, Roy Stewart and George Fisher.

"CURTAIN!"

Sam E. Rork, president and producing manager of the Katherine MacDonald Picture Corporation, announces the following cast for "Curtain!", Katherine MacDonald's next starring vehicle:

Miss MacDonald, Charles Richman, Lloyd Whitlock, Wilton Taylor and Florence Deshon.

The picture will be directed by James Young.

"HITCHIN' POSTS"

The following cast has been selected to support Frank Mayo in "Hitchin' Posts," work upon which will commence at Universal City in a few days, under the supervision of Jack Ford:

Beatrice Burnham, Dagmar Godowsky, Joe Harris, J. Farrell McDonald, Mark Fenton, Captain Anderson, Duke Lee and Maurice Biddulph.

WESTERN SCENARIO DEPARTMENT REORGANIZED AT UNIVERSAL

Following a general shakeup in the scenario department of serials and Western production at Universal City, Hope Loring, the executive head of this branch, announces the following personnel: Robert Horner, who is writing for "Hoot" Gibson; R. A. Sanborn for director Mack Wright; George Hively for Al Russell; Louis Stevens, who is writing continuity for Eddy Polo's new serial; Kay Harrison for Jacques Jaccard; George Pyper, preparing Eileen Sedgwick's new serial; and D. A. Epstein, executive secretary of the department.

FOURTH KEEFE LIFEGRAPH COMEDY FINISHED

W. E. Keefe, manager of productions for the American Lifeograph of Portland, Ore., announces that the organization has just completed its fourth society comedy, written jointly by W. E. Keefe and Eve Sturtevant, the temporary title of which is "Paul's Fight with the Spirits."

J. Park Jones again plays the feature role, supported by Eugenia Gilbert, Clare Morris, May Wallace and William Dills. Bob Gray directed the production.

SIX CURRENT VAN LOAN RELEASES

Six original stories from the pen of H. H. Van Loan will be released within the next eight weeks. They include "The Great Redeemer," a Maurice Tourneur production; "Danger," a Lewis B. Mayer special; "The Third Eye," the Pathe serial; "The Nobleman," with Eugene O'Brien; "Fightin' Job," with Harry Carey, and Hope Hampton in an Hawaiian picture.

Other pictures to follow are two Norma Talmadge specials, an Owen Moore feature, and a production with Geraldine Farrar.

MORENO SERIAL PROGRESSING

Antonio Moreno has reached the third episode of his new Vitagraph serial, being made under the working title of "The Veiled Mystery," and will work at the studio for the next several weeks, before going on location again.

The company has been away for the past month at Catalina and Long Beach.

WILLIAM DE MILLE TO DO HAMILTON STORY

William de Mille will complete "Conrad in Quest of His Youth" in about a week, and then will start almost immediately upon Cosmo Hamilton's story, "His Friend and His Wife," which has just been published in book form. No further details are as yet available.

AT THE METRO STUDIO

Preparation for the next round of Screen Classics productions has been started at the Metro Studio, where six stories are being adapted for the screen by the scenario department. The work of picturizing the stories is under the supervision of Bayard Veiller.

DANA TO DO "BLACKMAIL"

Viola Dana's next starring vehicle will be "Blackmail," a crook melodrama written by Lucia Chamberlain and adapted by Robert Shelby Le Vain. Miss Dana will start work immediately upon the completion of "The Chorus Girl's Romance," which is now being filmed.

ALICE LAKE TO START

"The Gorgeous Girl" will be Alice Lake's next Screen Classics production. It is by Nalbro Bartley, and was recently published in the Saturday Evening Post.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

NATIONAL ANNOUNCES TALMADGE RE-ISSUE SALES

Joe Brandt, director general of the National Film Corporation, states that the following territory has been sold for the re-issue, "Captivating Mary Carstairs," in which Norma Talmadge starred:

Southwest Film Company of Dallas, for Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

First National Exhibitors Exchange of the Northwest, for Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Hennessey and Moross of Detroit, for the state of Michigan.

Greater Productions Company of Des Moines for Iowa and Nebraska, and

The Exhibitors Film of Washington, for Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and North Carolina.

The film will be ready for release about June 1st.

HODKINSON NAMED CHICAGO MANAGER

Sid Goldman has resigned as manager of the Chicago office of the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation and Phil Dumas, who has for several years been a manager and salesman in that city with the Schiller Film Company, the V. L. S. E., Universal, Goldwyn, and Central Film Exchanges, has been named Goldman's successor.

Lillian Gish

PATHE SERIAL SHOWN TO EXHIBITORS

A trade showing of Pathe's newest serial, "The Third Eye," in which Warner Oland and Eileen Percy co-starred, was held in New York Tuesday, May 11th, at the Stanley Theater, Seventh avenue, near Forty-second street.

The first three episodes of the picture were shown, being held under the auspices of the Pathe New York Exchange.

CINCINNATI SHOWMAN BOOKS THREE PATHE FEATURES

Ike Libson, showman of Cincinnati, has just booked three Pathe features for first run exhibitions.

Blanche Sweet in "Simple Souls" will be played for a week in the Palace, and runs also will be accorded "Rio Grande," an Edwin Carewe attraction, and "The Blood Barrier," J. Stuart Blackton's latest offering through Pathe.

REELCRAFT TO RELEASE FRANEY COMEDIES

Reelcraft announces that it has contracted through Nat H. Spitzer, its West Coast representative, for the release of fifty-two one-reel Billy Franey comedies, one to be released each week.

The titles of the first six one-reelers are: "The Water Plug," "The Dog Catcher," "The Paperhanger," "The Glutton," "The Hasher," and "Hard Cider."

"RETURN OF TARZAN" TO SHOW AT BROADWAY (NEW YORK) THEATER

"The Return of Tarzan" will open for an indefinite run May 30th at B. S. Moss's Broadway Theater.

Goldwyn Distributing Corporation is handling the picture in all territories.

TO BE RELEASED THROUGH COMMUNITY

"Tomorrow," by C. S. Clancy, will soon be released by Community Productions, Inc. Ashley Miller directed the picture.

"THE DOUBLE STANDARD"

Jesse D. Hampton presented "The Double Standard," featuring H. B. Warner, at the Kinema last week.

The story is consistent and gripping throughout, and the cast is unusual.

Mr. Warner only further proves his great dramatic ability by his rendition of the role of Sylvester Lanyon. His performance is finished and more than satisfying.

James O. Barrows' characterization of Matthew Lanyon is splendid.

Claire Adams is pleasing as Ella De Fries.

Herbert Greenwood creates an unusual character in Ebenezer Usher.

Virginia Lee Corbin plays Dorothy Lanyon cleverly.

The cast further includes Donald McDonald and Ruth Renick.

Henry King directed.

"FOOTLIGHTS AND SHADOWS"

Olive Thomas appeared last week at Clune's Broadway in "Footlights and Shadows," a Selznick offering.

The story, by Bradley King, is inconsistent and the situations are oftentimes silly. The sub-titles are lame; and the cast mediocre.

Miss Thomas fails to establish much of a character in the role of Gloria Dawn, and the photography of her is at times very poor. She wears several novel costumes.

Alex Onslow plays Jerry O'Farrell, the male lead, in a slouchy, indolent manner that wins him little sympathy.

The remainder of the cast play unnecessary roles more or less satisfactory.

John W. Noble directed.

"MISS HOBBS"

Grauman's Million Dollar Theater last week presented Wanda Hawley in her initial Realart production, "Miss Hobbs."

Although the play is a much exaggerated farce it proved highly entertaining to the audience, and the star was supported by an excellent farce cast.

Miss Hawley creates a new personality in the role of Miss Hobbs, and her work is convincing.

Harrison Ford does the male lead excellently and reminds one of his old triumphs with Constance Talmadge.

Helen Jerome Eddy and as husband and wife, Julianne Johnston and Walter Hiers, betrothed, form an exceptional comedy support for the leads.

Emily Chichester has a small but characteristic role.

Donald Crisp directed the picture, which abounds in beautiful sets, locations and good photography.

PRE-VIEW OF ATHALIE

Sidney A. Franklin was host the other evening at the Brunton Studio and projection room to the cast of "Athalie" at a private pre-showing of the picture.

The production was recently completed under the banner of the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation, with Sylvia Breamer and Conrad Nagel in the leading roles. The cutting will soon be completed, and a large pre-view will be given at a Hollywood theater.

RIGHTS ON TELL PRODUCTION SOLD BY JANS

The state rights for Louisiana and Mississippi on the Olive Tell feature, "Love Without Question," have been sold by Jans Pictures, Inc., to the First National Exhibitors Exchange at New Orleans.

TO BE RELEASED THROUGH FIRST NATIONAL

According to recent announcements the following productions are to be distributed by First National:

All Mayflower productions after the next Tucker and Walsh pictures have been completed; two Parker Read, Jr., productions, starring Louise Glaum, and two of Mr. Read's with Hobart Bosworth as the featured player; two five-reel Mack Sennett comedies; and a screen picturization of the comedy, "Twin Beds," starring Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven, under the direction of Marshall Neilan.

NEW WINNIPEG PROJECT

The Board of Trade and leading citizens of Winnipeg signed contracts today with Ernest Shipman, president of Dominion Films, controlling screen rights to Ralph Connor stories unlimited. Backing was pledged for the making of "The Foreigner," a story of Winnipeg. Mayor Grey, hero of the big strike, will assist Ralph Connor in story construction. It was voted to grant Calgary the right to film two of the Ralph Connor stories. "The Sky Pilot" will be reserved. Shipman has left for New York to organize the production company. The pictures will be released over the First National.

"RETURN OF TARZAN" TO PLAY AT THE CALIFORNIA

Fred A. Miller has secured, for presentation at the California Theater early in June, a picturization of Edgar Rice Burroughs' "The Return of Tarzan," a continuation of the exploits of his romantic ape-man. The picture was produced under the direction of Harry Revier and supervised by George M. Merrick.

Numbered in the cast are Gene Pollar, George Romain, Franklin B. Coats, Armond Cortez, Walter Miller, Estelle Taylor, Betty Turner and Donna Pepita Ramirez.

GOLDWYN ORGANIZES LONDON DISTRIBUTING COMPANY

Samuel Goldwyn and Gabriel Hess are en route to America from England, having organized in London a distributing company to be known as Goldwyn, Ltd.

Ralph Block, A. Geo. Smith and Charles Lapworth will be in charge of the organization which will distribute British and European films together with American.

It is interesting to note that Harold Lloyd comedies will be distributed by this firm in England.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

REID TO DO ANOTHER "POST" STORY
"The Charm School" will be Wallace Reid's next vehicle for Paramount-Artcraft following his brief excursion into legitimate drama.

Sam Wood will direct the story by Alice Duer Miller, which has been scenarized by Tom Geraghty.

Catherine Wallace has joined the Goldwyn players and is now at the Culver City Studio, appearing in "Cupid, the Cow-puncher," starring Will Rogers.

Monte Katterjohn is at present working on his third adaptation for Anita Stewart, namely, "Sowing the Wind."

Raymond Hatton has been assigned a character part in Tom Moore's next picture, "Stop Thief," under the direction of Harry Beaumont.

Fred M. Malatesta has signed a contract with the Famous Players and will support Ethel Clayton in her next production, which is to be a screen adaptation of Cynthia Stockley's story, "Rosanne Ozanne."

Ernest C. Ward will start preliminary work immediately on "The Devil to Pay," Robert Brunton's forthcoming feature production.

Lloyd Ingraham is to direct Carter de Haven in "Twin Beds" for First National release.

Elinor Fair has been re-engaged to play with Lew Cody in his new production.

Clark Comstock is playing the heavy with Edith Sterling.

Florence Deshon has been engaged for the leading role with William Russel in a film version of Ridgewell Cullum's novel, "Twins of Suffering Creek."

W. S. Van Dyke, who directed Jack Dempsey in Pathe's "Daredevil Jack," is directing the serial in which Charles Hutchison is starring for Pathe, under the supervision of Robert Brunton, at the latter's studio.

Jack Robson, formerly with Goldwyn's art titling department, has joined D. Anthony Tausky's staff at Metro.

Russell Simpson has been assigned the title role in Goldwyn's adaptation of Ben Ames Williams' "The Black Pawl." Mr. Simpson and the company of players under the direction of Reginald Barker are at Catalina.

Finis Fox is writing the continuity for "The Turning of the Worm," a comedy drama recently purchased by Metro Pictures Corporation. The story was written by Hannah Hansdale.

Margaret McWade is playing with Wanda Hawley in her forthcoming Realart production.

G. Allan Gilbert, illustrator and poster artist, is working out what is said to be an entirely new style of art titles for Winchell Smith's "The Saphead," a new Metro production.

Director Stuart Paton of the Kosmik Company is on location at present, making the fourteenth episode of "The Mystery of the Hope Diamond."

CALIFORNIA THEATER ORCHESTRA TO FEATURE COMPOSITION BY GOLDWYN BOOKER

Harold D. Neides, booker for the Goldwyn Exchange, has written a selection that has been accepted by Production Director Bert St. John of the California Theater for rendition by the theater orchestra as a feature number. The selection is entitled "Turkish Belles," and is a one-step with an Oriental theme.

Christy Cabanne has finished his first Frothingham feature, in which Bessie Barriscale starred, and is shortly to begin another production.

John Stepping, who is appearing this week in "Sick-a-Bed" at Grauman's

Colleen Moore has signed to play one of the leading roles in the Christie film version of "So Long, Letty."

William Conklin has been assigned to one of the leading parts in "Beau Revel," being produced by Thomas H. Ince.

Johnny Dooley is at work on his first five-reel Radin Comedy, to be named "Skinning Skinner."

William Fox has engaged Boris Rosenthal, formerly identified with the Hebrew Actors' Union in New York, and will feature him under another name.

Kathleen Kirkham will appear opposite Lewis Stone in "Beau Revel."

Henry King has again been assigned to the direction of an H. B. Warner feature, and will soon start production upon "The Brass Bottle," F. Anstey's stage phantasy adapted by Fred Myton.

Philip Hurn has finished the continuity of "Out of the Sky," which will serve Edith Roberts as her next Universal starring vehicle.

June King, aged three years, is appearing as the infant Marama in support of Edith Roberts, who does the same role "grown up."

Don Kahn, formerly on the staff of the New York comic weeklies, Puck and Judge, is writing comedies for Universal. His first story, "Twin Lizzies," has just been finished under the direction of Joseph McDonough and Horace Davey.

Beatrice Burnham has been engaged to play opposite Frank Mayo in "Hitchin' Posts."

Flora Braidwood is playing the leading roles in Western dramas at Universal.

William Robert Daly has been engaged by Ervin V. Willet to play in his new production.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

IRVINE LEAVES GOLDWYN

After a year in the publicity office at the Goldwyn Studios, editing "The Skeleton" and directing exploitation motion pictures, Clarke Irvine has severed his connection with Goldwyn.

His immediate attention is to be concentrated on the coming production of "Arizona," by Augustus Thomas, the American Legion show given under the auspices of Hollywood Post No. 43, the post to which the majority of film men belong.

After the big play is over, Irvine is to take a vacation, the first since he was in the navy, then he is going to let fly on his new job—which he will tell upon his return. Before going into the war, Clarke was publisher of "The Screamer," a weekly film newspaper of Los Angeles, and is known to most every photoplayer on the coast.

Ann May will finish her engagement this week with Charles Ray in "Peaceful Valley."

Lois Zellner has departed for New York to join her husband, Arthur Zellner, where they will both become associated with Maxwell Karger's scenario staff.

Teddy, the little dog appearing in the Screen Classics picture, "Held in Trust," has been very sick for the last few days. During his absence he has been doubled for by a dog closely resembling himself, but the studio says that Teddy is the only one of his breed who can play the part properly and his return to the studio is awaited eagerly.

Blanche Gray has just finished the mother part in Bryant Washburn's picture, "Burglar Proof," under the direction of Major Campbell.

After spending two months on the Metro stages, Finis Fox has returned to his office and is preparing the scenario for "The Turning of the Worm."

Edward Dillon is able to be about again after a week spent in the hospital, where he underwent an operation. He will soon depart for New York to direct Billie Burke in a series of special productions.

Dallas Fitzgerald is taking advantage of a short vacation by touring Southern California in his newly purchased automobile.

Alexander Pantages witnessed a special showing of Douglas Fairbanks' "The Molly Coddle" at the Big Four Studio last week. Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks were both present at the showing.

Winchell Smith will leave in the near future for New York, where he will supervise the production of his newest play, "The Wheel," on Broadway.

Herbert Blache is preparing to depart for New York, where he will be affiliated with Maxwell Karger at the Metro Studios in the East.

Dustin Farnum and Director Colin Campbell have finished "Big Happiness" and are now engaged in cutting the picture.

William Desmond's latest picture, which was produced under the working title, "The Man From Make Believe," has been given the name, "A Broadway Cowboy," and will be released through Pathe. Byron Morgan wrote the story, and Geo. H. Plympton is responsible for the adaptation.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CINEMATOGRAPHERS FILL IMPORTANT POSITIONS

Los Angeles film producers called upon the American Society of Cinematographers for two executives, and filled two chairs within an hour.

Roy Klaffki, one of the charter members of the society, has been made the cameraman in chief and laboratory superintendent at Metro, while L. Lyman Broening fills a similar capacity at the Al Kaufman Studio.

It is said that C. B. De Mille's "Old Wives for New" will be re-issued next month.

Paul Weigel

ART DIRECTORS ENTERTAIN

The Art Directors Association will hold its first annual dinner and dance at the Alexandria Hotel on the evening of June 12th.

The affair will be informal, and tickets have already been issued and are on sale at all the studios.

Edward Sutherland and Bessie Barriscale are to officiate as godparents at the christening of Tom Powers Forman, Jr., month-old son of Tom Forman, the actor-writer-director of the Lasky establishment.

The next picture for Jack Pickford is to be "Just Out of College." Al Green will direct.

Samuel Merwin's story, "Dinner at Eight," will be called "Crooked Streets" on the screen. Ethel Clayton is the star.

The Inter-Collegiate Vocational Guidance Association has requested Ida May Park to write an article upon her profession as a vocation for women, to be distributed among the colleges of the country as an aid to women undergraduates in choosing their occupations.

Owen Moore and his director, Victor Heermans, will leave in about ten days for New York, where they will take the remainder of their current Selznick production.

HOLLINGSWORTH PLAY TO HAVE NEW YORK PRESENTATION

Alfred Hollingsworth, who is playing Judge Whitney in Marshall Neilan's production of "Dinty," is collaborating with Luther B. Anthony, the editor of "The Dramatist," on a three-act play, "The God of Success," which it is expected will be produced in New York.

Mr. Hollingsworth also writes short stories, one of which, "Playing With Fire," will appear in early issue of Young's.

MISCHA ELMAN VISITS MAY ALLISON

Mischa Elman paid May Allison a visit at the Metro Studio last week. He was conducted on a tour over the studio and then watched Miss Allison film a scene in her new picture, "Held in Trust."

Mrs. Norton, mother of Stephen F. Norton, died suddenly last week at her home in Buffalo.

Mary O'Connor, film editor at the Lasky Studio, leaves soon for New York to confer with the Eastern department.

Frances Parks is the possessor of a new Sedan. Evidently she believes in taking the whole family.

Gouverneur Morris is negotiating with Mexico for the purchase of two small islands lying off the coast of Southern California, and if the deal goes through Mr. Morris intends to set up an empire of his own. The islands are uninhabited.

Madge Kennedy's supporting cast for her next Goldwyn picture, "The Girl with the Jazz Heart," has not yet been selected.

Jimmy Aubrey is suffering a dislocated shoulder from a fall when a tree limb broke under the weight of himself and "Babe" Hardy, his "heavy" man.

Victor Schertzinger, who is directing Mabel Normand, has let a contract for the building of a $75,000 home in Beverley Hills.

Faire Craven and Bill Wickersham recently danced "The Waterfall" at an entertainment given by the Plumbers' Union.

Director Clarence G. Badger of the Goldwyn has purchased a riding horse for use in the hilly country near his home.

Harry Leon Wilson and William Allan White arrived at the Brunton Studios last week to supervise work on their novels, "The Spenders" and "A Certain Rich Man," which B. B. Hampton will produce shortly.

David Warfield, George Probert and Upton Sinclair also made a recent tour of the plant as guests of Robert Brunton.

John Krog, cashier of the Brunton Studios, died last week at his home in Los Angeles after a short illness.

Every one on the Goldwyn lot is absorbed in the occupation of whistling, singing or humming Al Green's new song. The song, which was inspired by the filming of "The Man Who Had Everything," directed by Green and featuring Jack Pickford, will probably be introduced to the public by Al Jolson under the title "Oh! That Baby of Mine."

Mrs. Martha E. Ball, mother of Eva Lewis, died last week after an illness of three months.

INSTALLMENT SEVEN

We finished our last sequence with an exciting episode in the Saloon between our hero and the victim of the villain. It is very necessary that we sustain our love interest so we will now go to that angle of the story. The little sequence which we will now introduce will also serve to cover a lapse of time as well as keeping our heroine before the camera.

69. INT. WALTON CABIN

The old man is seated in his chair as he fondly watches Mary who is busying herself about the stove preparing a meal for him. She turns to him—thinks a moment and then starts toward him.

70. INT. WALTON CABIN. SEMI CLOSEUP.

Of the old man in his chair. Mary enters—caresses the old man a moment and then says—

TITLE:

"DADDY, I SAW THE NICEST MAN TODAY, THAT I WISH WOULD BUY AN INTEREST IN OUR MINE—BUT HE CALLED MY KITTY A HOO-DOO, AND I DON'T LIKE THAT."

Back: The old man shows an interest as Mary tells him about meeting Philip. She then says—

TITLE:

"—BUT I DON'T 'SPOSE I WILL EVER SEE HIM AGAIN. HE'S A STRANGER AND I FORGOT TO ASK HIM HIS NAME."

Back; The old man affectionately caresses Mary and talks to her in a reassuring manner. Presently he calls her attention to the kitten off scene. Mary looks—

71. INT. WALTON CABIN. SEMI CLOSEUP.

The kitten walking on the dough on the table and picking up its feet gingerly—or might have the kitten drinking milk that Mary does not intend that it shall have. Mary runs into the scene, takes the kitten and spansks it playfully.

Here, you see, we break from a semi-dramatic scent to a little touch of comedy. There is comedy in the title where Mary tells her dad that Phil called her kitty a hoodoo too. There is not only comedy in the little scene with the kitten on the table but some heart interest—which is always good. This little scene gives Mary a chance for a little bit of "business" which makes the audience love her all the more. I might add that I wrote this scene into the original script which was produced by the Universal Film Company, but the director left it out. Too much trouble to fool with the kitten I suppose. However, it is little touches like this that have made D. W. Griffith famous. If I were directing the picture I would put it in.

We will go back to Phil now—and start the story moving rapidly. So we have—

TITLE:

CONCLUDING THAT LUCK WAS AGAINST HIM IN HOLBROOK COUNTY, HIS PONIE'S HEAD WAS TURNED WEST.

72. EXT. ROAD. SUNSET EFFECT

Phil riding along. His mood is retrospective.

TITLE:

WHILE THE SHERIFF DECIDED TO TRACK A SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER.

73. EXT. SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Horse on. Sheriff enters, mounts horse and rides out.

74. EXT. ROAD

The stranger riding toward camera—drunk—swaying. He almost falls off his horse as he tucks a roll of bills in his boots.

There is a reason why we have him tuck the roll of bills in his boots. In other words this is a "plant." We are going to have Two Spot rob him, but there must be a roll of the counterfeit bills which Two Spot does not get and which later identifies the stranger as the counterfeiter.

75. EXT. ROADSIDE

Two Spot comes on and dodges behind a rock as he adjusts a mask over his face.

76. EXT. ROAD. FLASH.

Stranger coming along.

77. EXT. ROADSIDE. CLOSEUP. FLASH.

Of Two Spot as he watches the coming stranger and prepares to cover him with his gun.

78. EXT. ROADSIDE. FULL SCENE.

The stranger rides in. Two Spot emerges and covering him orders him to dismount. The stranger hesitates—Two Spot menaces him—the stranger complies.

79. EXT. ROADSIDE. ANOTHER ANGLE.

Two Spot takes the stranger's money and gun and starts to back away. The stranger watches his chance and engages Two Spot in a scuffle. Two Spot hurls the stranger from him and backs out of the scene. The stranger staggers up against the rock—puts his hand in his inside pocket as if to pull another gun.

It is always advisable where a scene is going to run pretty long to shoot it from several angles, which has the effect of relieving the monotony. At the same time it enables the cutter to eliminate any slow or bungling action which might otherwise "crab" the scene. We have Two Spot back out of the scene for the reason that the censors have ruled against showing a man shoot another one down where both men are in the same scene and where the gun is shown, so we now have—

80. EXT. NEAR ROADSIDE. SEMI CLOSEUP. FLASH.

Two Spot raises his gun.

81. EXT. ROADSIDE. SEMI CLOSEUP.

The stranger recoils and falls as a puff of smoke enters the scene.

Here, you see, we get it over that Two Spot has shot the stranger without actually seeing him perform the act. We must establish the fact now that Phil is nearby and hears the shot so we go to—

82. EXT. CROSS TRAIL.

Phil on—hears shot and exits quickly.

83. EXT. ANOTHER SPOT ON TRAIL.

Sheriff on—hears shot—tries to locate direction of sound and exits hurriedly.

84. EXT. ROADSIDE.

Two Spot on with gun in hand, body of stranger on ground. Two Spot throws the gun on the ground and exits hurriedly.

85. EXT. BRUSH.

Phil picks his way through the brush and exits.

86. EXT. CROSS TRAIL.

Sheriff rides through rapidly.

87. EXT. ROADSIDE.

Phil rides in—dismounts—walks over to dead man.

88. EXT. ROADSIDE. SEMI CLOSEUP.

Phil picks up the gun and looks at body of stranger.

89. EXT. NEAR ROADSIDE.

Sheriff rides in and looks—sees Phil—dismounts as he draws gun and runs out.

90. EXT. ROADSIDE.

Phil on with gun in hand. Sheriff runs in with gun in hand covering Phil—commands him to hold up his hands.

91. EXT. ROADSIDE. SEMI CLOSEUP.

Phil tries to explain—sheriff forces him to put up his hands and drop the gun—puts cuffs on him. Iris out.

Now we have some excellent suspences established. How will Phil succeed in clearing himself? More fast and exciting action in our next installment. Those who have just began to study this series are advised to secure back numbers of Camera—including the issue which contains the synopsis of the story.

TO GO TO SAN FRANCISCO

Chester Bennett will take Earle Williams and supporting players to San Francisco this week to take Chinatown and submarine scenes for "The Purple Hyeroglyph."

Vola Vale, Henry A. Barrows, Allen Forrest and Ernest Shields will be included in the company taking the trip. Two weeks will be spent at the Bay City.

SEMON COMEDY FINISHING

Larry Semon will finish his latest special Vitagraph comedy, "The Stage Hand," within another week.

AT THE SELZNICK STUDIO

Olive Thomas has just completed "Jennie," and will start immediately upon "Nobody," under the direction of Lawrence Trimble.

Henry Kolker will commence at once upon the production of "Who Am I?"

Casting for both pictures is now in progress.

SHOOTING RACE PICTURE

Fred Windermeyer is making a race horse picture, and the entire company have just returned from location at Tia Juana, where track scenes were shot.

The cast includes Charles Dorety, Harry Keaton and Consuela Henley.

DOING NORTHWEST STORIES

Leonard Clapham is being featured by Universal in a series of stories built around the activities of the Northwest Mounted Police.

He is under the direction of Jacques Jaccard.

"MOVIE MADNESS," NEW HALLROOM BOYS COMEDY

The moving picture craze will be the basis of the theme for the next Hallroom Boys comedy, according to an announcement from Jack and Harry Cohn, producers of the two-reelers.

"Movie Madness" is the title given the picture.

BACK FROM LOCATION

Betty Compson has returned with her company to the Brunton Studios, after a brief location trip to San Francisco, where she filmed a number of exteriors for her initial independent production.

Jacques Jaccard has started work on "Under Northern Lights," featuring Leonard Clapham and Virginia Fair.

Carmel Myers' initial production under the direction of Rollin Sturgeon is entitled "In Polly's Trail."

Hoot Gibson is working on a two-reel Western entitled "The Boss of Blue River." Dorothy Woods is his chief feminine support.

Write Photoplays That Sell

Success in writing photoplays that meet with all requirements of photoplay making is being attained by many persons studying at home the course of instruction offered by the Palmer Photoplay Corporation. This course can teach you THE SECRET OF SUCCESSFUL PHOTOPLAY WRITING for a remarkably small cost to you.

Your investment will be a two-cent stamp, bringing to you our handsomely illustrated book, "The Secret of Successful Photoplay Writing," and also a booklet called "Proof Positive," containing the evidence you are entitled to read about the success of a great enterprise. You will learn what some of the greatest photoplay authorities, producers and stars have to say about the Palmer Plan of Photoplay Writing. You will read letters from Palmer-trained writers who have been paid hundreds and, in some cases, thousands of dollars for their first efforts.

You will learn that if your photoplay is salable, Palmer can place it for you; that the Palmer Advisory Council consists of Cecil B. de Mille, Lois Weber, Thomas H. Ince and Rob Wagner, and that the Palmer contributors include some of the brightest names in the profession.

Send today for these books; they are yours for the asking.

KATHRYN ADAMS ENTERTAINED

A party was given Kathryn Adams Sunday, May 23, in honor of her birthday at her home in Hollywood. Among the guests were Tula Belle, Mr. Hollingshead, Virginia Walker, Mrs. Sinks, and Mr. Steiner.

Miss Adams has just completed the feminine lead in Dustan Farnum's "Big Happiness."

Director George L. Cox of the American Film Company, Santa Barbara, has just finished work on "Whispering Smith," by Frank Spearman. Many of the biggest scenes were taken between Santa Barbara and Ventura.

Hallam Cooley, who has just finished work in the Vitagraph special production, "The Island of Love," will take a short vacation before starting his next picture.

It is said that Pell Trenton may head his own company in the near future.

Charles Vidor, manager of King Vidor productions, and William Paker, scenario chief, have gone to New York on matters pertaining to the purchase for production of various well known vehicles.

It is rumored that Helen Jerome Eddy is soon to be starred by a large production company.

Thornton Edwards is playing the heavy in the first of a series of stories being produced by Scott Sidney at the Christie Studio.

The sympathy of the profession is extended to Dorothy Hagan, whose husband,
John W. Thayer, passed away on May 22nd.

Lillian Nicholson is playing the governess in the serial being directed by Van Dyke at the Brunton Studio.

Frances Parks has been cast for an important role in the new Holubar picture, the name of which has not been given out.

May Allison's next picture will be a screen adaptation of Arthur Stringer's story, "The Waffle Iron," which recently appeared in McClure's.

Sarah Y. Mason of the Metro scenario department, is preparing the script for "The Five Dollar Baby," the first Irvin S. Cobb story to be filmed by Metro. It will be an all star cast production.

Invest Your Money in "White Coal"

Hydro-electric power is the only fuel on which California's great industries can rely.

Our oil resources are rapidly becoming exhausted. We have no wood. Transportation costs make coal prohibitive. And yet, we must have fuel.

California's continued prosperity depends upon the further development of hydro-electricity.

That's why you can get such a good return on your money invested in such a security as the Southern California Edison Co., General and Refunding Mortgage 6% Bonds.

There's nothing speculative about California hydro-electric securities—for they return you an income that is certain and regular and are backed by properties of great earning capacity.

Many well-known members of your profession are getting regular dividend and interest checks from their investments in California hydro-electric securities. Decide today that you will provide yourself with a certain and regular income from the sound investment of your money. Call on us for investment advice—and ask for descriptive circulars of our latest offerings.

CONCERNING THE SERIAL

There is probably no type of motion picture production which is today more abused than the serial. It is quite true that due to its fading popularity with the city audience, the episode story has slid considerably from its former position of rank in producing circles giving place to features, so-called super productions, etc.; but just so long as there are small towns containing twice a week "movies" there will be a market, a good paying market for such long run stories as display a degree of sanity.

It appears from late reports, and many of them, that the intelligence of even the rural public can be insulted. Our attention has been repeatedly brought by irate fans to instances where such has been the case. It is apparent that several of our serial producers have been so absorbingly occupied making dollars that their original vocation has suffered. At times, we understand, the suffering has verged upon agony. Cheapness of production and incompetent acting have long been earmarks of their attempts at public entertainment. These inexcusable errors have been stood—grumbly, perhaps—but when the serial companies for some professionally unworthy reason, monetary or otherwise, allow their stories to assume the guise of crazy nightmares, it is time to call a halt.

A thrill means nothing to the audience if it is so over-done as to be ridiculous. Burlesques are usually labelled such, and should not be handed out as sincere drama. If this condition at present predominating in the serial field is not righted that form of screen drama is "finished" for good.

This inevitable result of such unpardonable abuse will indeed be unfortunate, for there is and will be for years to come a great place for consistent, clear cut sense in the way of serials. The industry will be the loser if it permits a mixed idea of values to wreck any department of its production.

THE STUDIO CLUB

We hear that the Studio Club is launching a membership drive among the studio girls this week. This means that those who take advantage of the opportunity will, for an inconsiderable sum of money, be allowed the privilege not only of benefitting by the superior atmosphere surrounding the club, but they will be in a position, as the result of the favorable development of recent plans, to increase their knowledge of the various branches of production work, thereby rendering themselves more valuable to the organizations by which they are employed.

Briefly, the growth of the Hollywood Studio Club has been such that it is now possible for it to offer to its members, participation in classes upon the subjects of continuity writing, dancing, gymnasium, art embroidery, inexpensive remodeling of clothes, dramatics, etc.

These courses can not help proving invaluable to the coming women of the industry.

The Studio Club has been without a doubt one of the best influences among picture girls and it should be recognized as such, not only by those who need it, but by those of the profession who are in a position to assist it in any way. Anything that goes to increase the efficiency of any part of a class of humanity, must be supported by the whole.

Our producers and stars should ask themselves what they can individually and collectively do to aid the organization that has accomplished so much of good in picture circles.

BILLBOARD ATROCITIES

It seems indeed a pity that under any circumstance whatsoever, the exploitation of a picture should be permitted to injure instead of encourage the public's interest in a production.

Even the ridiculously padded and exaggerated publicity that oftentimes leads the expectant fan to an inferior picture and much disgust is to be preferred by the profession, for at any rate, in such an instance he is forced to give the publicity man credit for effectiveness.

Of recent weeks, contrary to the above condition the Los Angeles billboards have failed in their mission to create favorable interest. Several have done absolute harm with their insipidity.

For instance the outrageous posters upon "The Dark Mirror" last week proved a great detriment if comment in and out of the profession is to be credited.

If it were only a case of butchering art, such atrocities might be stood, but when they hurt business—it is time to investigate.

FILM CAPITOL PRODUCTION NOTES

TOURNEUR TO STAR HOPE HAMPTON

Work on the second Hope Hampton production has been started under the direction of Maurice Tourneur at Tourneur's Studio at Universal. It is entitled "The Tiger Lady." The feature will be known as a Maurice Tourneur production starring Hope Hampton and it will be the first time in years that a Tourneur picture has had a star. An agreement has been reached whereby the billing and advertising for the production will read "Maurice Tourneur presents Hope Hampton in 'The Tiger Lady' directed by Maurice Tourneur," both director and star's name in the same sized type.

MONTAGUE LOVE TO PLAY WITH FARRAR

Montague Love has just been engaged by Edward Jose to play an important part in Geraldine Farrar's First Associated Exhibitors' production, "The Riddle Woman," which will be distributed by Pathe.

Coincident with this announcement Associated Exhibitors reports that Miss Farrar has returned from her Southern operatic tour, and that preparations have been completed to begin work immediately.

The production is to be filmed under the direction of Mr. Jose in the Tanhauser Studio in New Rochelle.

ADOPTS THEATRICAL SCHEDULE

Allan Dwan has adopted the theatrical schedule for production work on his latest Mayflower feature, now being filmed at the Brunton Studios. His company is called two afternoons in every week, matinee style, and each night including Sunday, and each night including Sunday.

Among those in the cast of his new picture are Mary Thurman, Niles Welch, Eugenie Besserer, Joseph J. Dowling, Frank Campeau, and George Hackathorn.

PURCHASES NEW STORIES FOR KATHERINE MACDONALD

President Sam Rork of Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corp., announces the acquisition of two novels which are soon to be picturized for First National Exhibitors Circuit by Miss MacDonald.

They are Louis Joseph Vance's "The Brass Bowl" and "The Second Latchkey," which is a collaboration of C. N. and A. M. Williamson.

ARBUCKLE TO START

Fatty Arbuckles will begin filming "The Salesman" under the direction of Joseph Henabery June 7th. There are no further announcements regarding the cast as yet. The scenario is by Walter Woods.

FORMAN DIRECTING CLAYTON

Tom Forman is starting work in the new Ethel Clayton picture for Paramount Artcraft, adapted by Mary O'Connor from Cynthia Stockley's story "Rosanne Ozanne," the title, however, will be changed. Jack Holt will do the male lead.

BRUNTON FEATURE TO START

Actual filming of Robert Brunton's initial all star feature, "The Devil to Pay," from the story of the same title by Frances Nimmo Greene will begin next week.

Mr. Brunton now has under consideration several novels by prominent authors from which he will select the story of his second special production.

TAKING CHINATOWN SCENES

Hugh Ryan Conway, who is directing B. B. Hampton's production of "The Money Changers," has sent his assistant, Virgil Hart, to San Francisco to film several hundred feet of Chinatown.

NEILAN COMPANY HOME FROM LOCATION

Marshall Neilan and members of the Dinty Company have returned from San Francisco where they spent four days filming station, street and ferry boat scenes.

Members of the cast are Colleen Moore, Wesley Barry, Marjorie Day and Pat O'Malley.

Laurence Underwood, director for the Herman Film Corporation, who produced "That Something." Mr. Underwood will start production soon at the company's new studio in Santa Monica on "Something More."

J. A. BARRY FOR J. M. BARRIE

The First National director is considering an offer from London producers to do plays of his distinguished namesake, the author of "Peter Pan," and also works of Dion Clayton Clathrop, noted English playwright. The drawback is the exorbitant British income tax, which exceeds sixty percent.

SECURES SOUTH AMERICAN RIGHTS ON PATHE PRODUCTIONS

Francisco di Domenico, senior partner of Domenico Hermanos and Cia of Bogota, Columbia, S. A., has contracted for the Pathe Productions for several years to come in the territories of Columbia, Venezuela, Central America, Panama, including the Canal zone, Jamaica, Guiana, the lesser Antilles, and Hayti.

PATHE TO DISTRIBUTE DESMOND PICTURE

"A Broadway Cowboy" has just been taken over for distribution by Pathe Exchange, Inc.

The production was made by Jesse D. Hampton for the story, "The Man from Make-Believe," written by Byron Morgan.

Desmond is surrounded by the following cast: Thomas Delmar, J. P. Lockney, Paddy McGuire, Clark Comstock and Evelyn Selbie.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Preparations are being made for the filming of the next Jewel production, "Outside the Law," starring Priscilla Dean.

Albert Russell is beginning the fifth episode of "The Moon Riders," starring Art Acord.

A new series entitled "The Diamond Master," will commence at once. Eileen Sedgwick will be starred.

Hoot Gibson is appearing in "Lyn," assisted by Dorothy Woods.

Mack Wright is producing "Our Turn to Lose."

George Webster is at work on "The Sheriff of Wampus County," with a cast headed by James B. Warner and Flora Braidwood.

AT THE GOLDWYN STUDIO

Will Rogers is scheduled to begin work this week on "Old Hutch," a story by Garrett Smith, which ran in the Saturday Evening Post. The cast has not been completed but it is decided Mary Alden, who recently finished work in "Milestones," will play the part of "Mrs. Hutch."

Mabel Normand will begin work shortly under direction of Victor Schertzinger in "Head Over Heels," the Mizzi Hajos play.

E. Mason Hopper will complete work this week on Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, "Empire Builders," and will shortly begin making the fifth of the "Edgar" stories being especially written for Goldwyn by Booth Tarkington.

AUTHOR TO DIRECT OWN STORIES

E. C. Maxwell, who has recently been supervising a series of two-reel Western dramas taken from his magazine stories of "Montana Nights," produced by the Constance Soullard Photoplay Corp., has signed with a New York releasing organization to film a number of his "Jimmy Stories."

Mr. Maxwell will write and direct his own satire comedies and has signed Wally Emerson to play the role of Jimmy.

CASTS OF THE WEEK

"THE JUCKLINS"

George Melford's production for Paramount Artcraft, "The Jucklins," by Opie Read, will have the following cast: Bill Haws—Monte Blue.

Lem Jucklin—Charles Ogle.

Guinea Jucklin—Mabel Julienne Scott.

Work starts June 7th.

"STOP, THIEF!"

Work has commenced upon Tom Moore's picturization of "Stop, Thief!" under the direction of Harry Beaumont for Goldwyn. The support includes:

Hazel Daly
Irene Rich
Raymond Hatton
Kate Lester
Molly Malone
Otto Hoffman
M. B. Flynn
John Lince
C. B. Griffin

"IN FOLLY'S TRAIL"

"In Folly's Trail," a magazine story by Katherine Leiser Robbins, is serving Carmel Myers as her first vehicle under the direction of Rollin Sturgeon.

The cast includes:
Thomas Holding
George B. Williams
Arthur Clayton
William Bainbridge
Beth Evans
Viola Lind

CURRENT REVIEWS "SICK-A-BED"

Wallace Reid's popularity is growing greatly as a result of the splendid vehicles with which he has been recently provided. Possibly the fact that "Sick-a-Bed" was originally a stage farce accounts for the cleverness of the sub-titles in its picturized version which played last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre.

In any event the production is a huge success, due both to the splendid performance of the cast and its unusual direction details.

The star's is a role delightfully suited to him and his character (Reginald Joy) is more than amusing.

Bebe Daniels adds a little complication to the whole in the small part of Nurse Durant. John Stepping cleverly characterizes John Weems and thereby furnishes the audience with more "joy."

Winifred Greenwood is more than satisfactory in the rather involved role of Mrs. Weems.

George Kuwa adds a different touch to a part that might easily have been that of the stereotyped Chinese servant.

Robert Bolder, Lucien Littlefield and Lorenzo Lazzarini are successful in their attempts at further mixing things up.

Donald Crisp directed the production.

"THE DARK MIRROR"

"The Dark Mirror," an Associated Exhibitors offering featuring Dorothy Dalton in a dual role was the attraction last week at Clune's Broadway.

The story holds the interest throughout due largely to its theme, psycho analysis. However, it is treated somewhat hazily and the key to the explanation of the plot will forever remain a secret from the public.

Dorothy Dalton is provided ample opportunity to display versatility, even though her roles are inconsistent.

Huntly Gordon does the male lead satisfactorily. The role does not call for much in the way of action.

Walter Neeland's characterization of Red Carnahan is excellent, and Pedro de Cordova is convincing in his interpretation of Mario.

Others in the cast are Jessie Arnold, Lucille Carney, Donald MacPherson and Bert Starkey.

Chas. Gyblin directed.

NEW YORK STRAND

Following the indorsement of the California Theatre, Los Angeles, Joe Brandt, General Representative of the Marion H. Kohn Productions, now reports that "The Illiterate Digest" by Will Rogers has been booked for an indefinite run at the New York Strand Theatre.

Contrary to a recent statement that the New York and Northern New Jersey rights to this subject had been sold to the Alexander Film Exchanges comes the correction that the rights for this territory have been allotted to the New York Independent Master-Films Company.

AUTHOR TO PRE-VIEW PICTURE

Mary Roberts Rinehart, one of the Goldwyn Studios "Eminent Authors," arrived from the East Friday afternoon to attend the pre-view of her picture, "The Empire Builders," directed by E. Mason Hopper, and featuring an all star cast. Mrs. Rinehart will also write the sub-titles while here.

H. H. Van Loan is on his way from New York to collaborate with Catherine Carr on Hope Hampton's next cinema production, which will probably be directed by Maurice Tourneur.

PRICE REPRESENTATIVE GOES EAST

C. A. Meade, sales manager of the C. B. Price Co., Inc., has left for a trip through the Middle West. He will stop at Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee and Pittsburgh, where he will screen the five-reel comedy-drama which his company is marketing, namely, "His Pajama Girl," featuring Billie Rhodes.

Anne Schaeffer, playing Mrs. Jacobs in "The City of Masks," at Grauman's this week

THEATRE OWNERS ENTERTAINED BY GOLDWYN MANAGER

Mr. Maurice Wolfe, resident manager of the Goldwyn Distributing Corp. in Los Angeles, was host to a number of theatre owners last week.

The big feature on the program was a visit to the studios in Culver City, where Vice-President Abraham Lehr presided at a luncheon in their honor.

Among those present were the following: L. A. Grant, Windsor Theatre, Los Angeles; F. A. Grant, Windsor Theatre, Los Angeles; J. Leslie Swope, Hollywood Theatre, Los Angeles; W. G. Bailey, Lyceum Theatre, San Francisco; M. Blumenfeld, Empire Theatre, Napor, Calif.; C. C. Griffin, New Piedmont, Oakland, Calif.; A. Markowitz, Strand Theatre, San Francisco; D. S. Markowitz, Crescent Theatres, Inc., San Francisco; A. M. Jackson, Crescent Theatres, Inc., San Francisco; J. M. Young, Apollo Theatre, Hollywood; D. V. Vanderlip, Huntington Theatre; Sol Lesser, Claremont Theatre, Oakland, Calif.; T. Karski, Royal Theatre, San Francisco; S. Franko, Hayward Theatre, Hayward, Calif.; M. Klein, Majestic Theatre, San Francisco; A. L. Salmon, Pope St. Theatre, San Francisco; and Glen Harper, Apollo Theatre, Hollywood.

"SCREEN SNAPSHOTS" TO HAVE PREMIER

"Screen Snapshots," Jack Cohn's new feature single reel bi-monthly, will have its premier showing soon, as the first and second reels are now ready for issue.

The showing will probably occur at one of the Broadway theatres.

ROLIN COMEDY RELEASED JUNE 6th

"You're Pinched," the latest Rolin comedy featuring Snub Pollard and Marie Mosquini, will be released June 6th, according to the New York Pathe Exchange.

CRITICISMS OF LATE RELEASES

"THE COURAGE OF MARGE O'DOONE"—Vitagraph.

This play should leave behind it an enviable record of box office successes. In it Pauline Starke, Niles Welch, and a capable cast give excellent portrayal to the James Oliver Curwood characters familiar to the reading public.—Exhibitors Herald.

It makes on the whole a worthy companion to "The River's End" by the same author. It is an outdoor subject of first rank, carrying an appealing story and abundantly supplied with suspenseful melodramatic moments.—Moving Picture World.

"A LADY IN LOVE"—Paramount-Artcraft.

With a less popular actress than Ethel Clayton in the leading role this would be a dull picture indeed. It presented even a more slender plot than most adapted stage successes. It seems a pity that such a splendid supporting cast should be wasted on such a mediocre play.—Exhibitors Herald.

Taken altogether "A Lady in Love" is a bang-up light comedy suited to any audience not absolutely primitive.—Moving Picture World.

"FORBIDDEN TRAILS"—Fox

This play marks another step in Buck Jones advance to popular favor. A Western story of not wholly unfamiliar design, it provides ample opportunity for the star's display of talent. Winifred Westover is a satisfactory leading lady, and a Fox supporting cast gives uniform assistance.—Exhibitors Herald.

A consistent Western story of good dramatic structure, punctuated at intervals by big melodramatic incidents. Buck Jones is an acquisition to the band of Western heroes to be reckoned with.—Moving Picture World.

"NOTHING BUT LIES"—Metro

This production presents the facially adept Taylor Holmes in a characteristic portrayal. In it the alleged discrepancy between advertising and truth is made the foundation for a loosely constructed series of mildly engaging situations.—Exhibitors Herald.

The six-part adaptation features Taylor Holmes, but fails to provide him with the opportunities required for his best work. The picture has an interesting and capable cast, and the average audience will no doubt find the production satisfactory.—Moving Picture World.

"FRIVOLOUS WIVES"—Fidelity

This is a society drama based on intrigue and blackmail with an all-star cast. The photography of the picture undoubtedly represents some of the best work that has been done in this phase of production for some time.—Exhibitors Herald.

There is not enough that is essentially new or vital in the story or in its treatment to classify the story as extraordinary. The plot is a purely conventional one unrelieved by original touches. The subject is treated in a dilatory and sometimes ambiguous style and the whole suffers from incompetent direction. The cast is comprised of some of the less known players who for the most part accomplish good results with mediocre roles.—Moving Picture World.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE—WILLAT DIRECTS

Over at the National Studios there is a company whose production promises more in the way of direction than is usual, or even, in the minds of some of our scheduled organizations, necessary.

The picture, being made with an all star cast, has as yet been given no public title, but the fact that Irvin V. Willat is directing and the company is his own, is sufficiently interesting in itself to arouse curiosity.

The profession as a whole realizes the record accomplished by the director who made "Behind the Door," and "Below the Surface." Possibly what is not known is that Mr. Willat's success has been due largely to his technical knowledge of every department of work connected with picture production. He is an expert cameraman and frequently shoots difficult scenes himself. Furthermore, he has made an intensive study of the laboratory, continuity, etc.

The directors who thus combine art and technique are few. From results, however, it may be judged that such an ability is an invaluable asset.

Bob Horner, continuity writer from the East, who recently associated himself with the Universal Film Co., is scenarizing Louis D. Lighton's series of Western dramas for Hoot Gibson.

Will King, formerly personal representative for Larry Semon, has been appointed assistant director by the comedian.

Nola Luxford is now playing the ingenue with the Dial Film Company at the Brunton Studio.

Robert McKim has signed a contract that will keep him in Benjamin B. Hampton pictures for a term of years.

Irene Rich will support Tom Moore instead of Will Rogers in her next Goldwyn picture according to a report from Culver City.

Arlene Manning has been cast in "Nobody," Selznick's next Olive Thomas feature.

Ernest Butterworth Jr., who has just finished a three months' engagement with Lasky's, appearing with Wallie Reid in "Too Much Speed," and in D. W. Taylor's picture, "The Boy," has been signed to play the part of Mitchell Lewis as a boy in the star's new Metro feature.

Alexander Alt and Robert Doss, Inc., is the name of the new company who have taken space temporarily at the Balboa Studios. Alex Alt will be the featured lead and Helen Howell, for the past year with the National Film Co., will play opposite him.

Stuart Paton of the Kosmic Co., is back at Universal from location and will proceed with the interiors of "The Hope Diamond."

George Dromgold has been engaged by Marshall Neilan as Assistant Director of the second Neilan unit.

Valerie de Chavellier, formerly of the Comedie Francaise in Paris, has been chosen for an important role in the first independently produced Allen Holubar Dorothy Phillips production, which is now being filmed at the Hollywood Studios.

VIDOR MOVES INTO NEW STUDIO

The administration offices of King Vidor Productions are being moved to Vidor's just completed studios on Santa Monica boulevard, where the next picture, the third independent production for release through First National Exhibitors Circuit, will probably be started within a fortnight.

Mahlon Hamilton has been engaged by Jesse D. Hampton to play opposite Blanche Sweet in her forthcoming production, "The Girl Montana."

Harold Oliver, who was formerly technical director with Irvin V. Willat at Lasky's and Ince's, has accompanied Mr. Willat to the National, where the first Willat super production is being filmed.

Cash Darrell returned last week from Victorville where he had taken his company on location during the filming of the first of the circle of stories by E. C. Maxwell which appeared in Ainslee's Magazine. Constance Raymond is playing the lead with the company, namely the Constance Soullard, Inc. Productions.

Wm. Moran, who played the part of Frank Gleason in "The Path She Chose" at the Superba last week, has been engaged to play the part of "Graham" in the new Edgar Lewis production.

Calvert Carter has signed with the new Katherine McDonald picture.

Scott McKee has occasioned considerable comment by his work as the dope fiend in "The Gift Supreme."

Louise Lamont is doing leads with the Union Label Film Co. Fred Caldwell is directing.

Carmel Myers has arrived at Universal City from New York and will again star for that company.

Edward Kull has been commissioned to direct Eileen Sedgwick in the forthcoming serial, "The Diamond Master."

CINEMATOGRAPHERS BACKING UNIVERSITY CAMPAIGN

A campaign is to be directed to the heads of all state universities for the establishment in each of a department of scientific motion picture photography according to H. Lyman Broening, secretary of the American Society of Cinematographers.

Thomas Meighan has gone East to do "The Frontier of the Stars," at the Eastern Famous Players Studio.

Louis B. Mayer has purchased "Drums of Jeopardy" by Harold McGrath for Anita Stewart's use.

Seena Owen, starring in "The Gift Supreme" just released, is looking for a scenario of Western life with plenty of action which will give her an opportunity to ride a horse, shoot, lasso, etc.

Basil King plans to leave for New York next week.

Bert Ensminger, assistant director with Vitagraph's "Hidden Dangers" Company, was severely lacerated about the right arm in a battle with a bear.

Tom Terriss has finished his latest production, "The Girl out of the Sky" and has returned to New York.

M. C. Levee, Vice-President and Business Manager of the Brunton Studios, returned to Los Angeles this week after a business trip to New York where he closed contracts with a number of producers who intend to make their headquarters shortly at the Brunton plant in Hollywood.

Frederick Starr, who was cast for a principal part in Benjamin B. Hampton's production, "The Money Changers," is ill at his home in Hollywood. His place will be taken by Stanton Heck.

Ward Crane, who has just finished as leading man for Anita Stewart in her two latest pictures, leaves California this week for New York.

Robert Brunton, supervising the serial in which Charles Hutchison is to star for Pathe, has selected three players to complete the supporting company for the first episode. They are Jack Mathers, Natalie Warfield, and William Brown.

Installment Eight

We left our hero in a pretty predicament last week. Caught at the scene of a murder with the pistol in his hands. Looks pretty black for him does it not. Well, we will get him out of it some way without having to engage the services of J. Morgan Marmaduke or some other noted criminal attorney. Let us cover a lapse of time here with a title.

TITLE:

TWO SPOT DECIDED TO MAKE THE MOST OF PHIL'S MISFOR-TUNE.

92. INTERIOR SALOON. IRIS IN FULL SCENE.

Gang at Bar. Two Spot in f. g. He is hilarious, steps out and invites the house to drink on him. He is being lionized by those nearest him.

93. INT. SALOON. SEMI CLOSEUP.

Same general activity as in preceding scene. Two Spot bangs his money down on the bar and beckons to those about him to come on and drink.

94. INT. JAIL. SEMI CLOSEUP.

Of Phil. He sits in all the silent manliness of grief—twirls his broad-brimmed cowboy hat thoughtfully.

95. INTERIOR SALOON.

Gang around Two Spot. He is making a speech to them.

96. INTERIOR SALOON. CLOSEUP.

Of Two Spot. He says in a very loud voice—

TITLE:

"IT'S GETTIN' SO IT AIN'T SAFE
FOR NOBODY IN THESE PARTS!
LET'S SWING HIM MEN!"

Back. Two Spot finishes speaking title with a flourish.

97. INT. SALOON. FULL SCENE.

The men are excited by Two Spot's suggestion. They applaud. "Come on, let's do it now!" several of them yell. One man runs into the scene with a rope—they start to exit to carry out Two Spot's suggestion.

98. INT. JAIL. CLOSEUP. NEAR WINDOW.

Phil hears noise of approaching mob and looks out the window.

99. EXT. WESTERN STREET.

Mob coming toward jail. Two Spot in the lead.

100. INT. JAIL.

Phil leaves the window and tries the side door which leads to the sheriff's office. It is locked.

101. EXT. JAIL.

Mob comes on and storms door. Several men heaving against it with their shoulders.

102. EXT. SHERIFF'S OFFICE. SEMI CLOSEUP.

Sheriff comes to door. A man rushes in and tells him that the mob is after his prisoner. The sheriff exits hurriedly back into the office.

103. EXT. JAIL.

Mob at door. Several men are bringing up a battering ram.

104. INT. JAIL.

Phil near door—looks wildly about as he fumbles the empty holster at his belt.

105. EXT. JAIL. SEMI CLOSEUP.

Mob at door. One ruffian whips out a gun and is going to shoot through the door. Two Spot knocks his arm down and shouts at him—

TITLE:

"SPOIL ALL OUR FUN—DAMN FOOL!"

Back. Two Spot waves the fellow back and takes hold of the end of the battering ram.

106. INT. JAIL. SHOOTING TOWARD SIDE DOOR.

Phil stands with his hands clinched. The door from the sheriff's office opens and the sheriff rushes in—goes past Phil and over to the other door. Phil exits thru door to sheriff's office.

107. INT. JAIL. SHOOTING OVER HEAD OF MOB.

The door opens and the sheriff faces the mob with two guns in his hands. He levels them on the mob and says—

TITLE:

"THE LAW MUST TAKE IT'S
COURSE. I WILL DROP THE FIRST MAN WHO MAKES ANOTHER MOVE!"

Back. The mob falls back in awe. They know that the sheriff means business.

108. EXT. SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

Horses on. Phil comes on from sheriff's office, makes a flying leap to a horse and rides out.

109. EXT. JAIL.

Mob on. Sheriff in door. Man on steps points off. Sheriff steps out and looks—after glancing back into the cell.

110. EXT. WESTERN STREET. FLASH.

Phil riding at top speed.

111. EXT. JAIL.

Sheriff, followed by men, make run out of scene.

112. EXT. WESTERN STREET. HORSES ON.

Sheriff and men run in, mount horses and ride out.

113. EXT. ROAD. FLASH.

Phil riding.

114. EXT. ROAD. FLASH.

Sheriff and men thru scene.

115. EXT. WESTERN STREET.

Two Spot talking with a couple of men. He exits. This scene is put in to establish the fact that Two Spot does not accompany the mob in the pursuit of Phil because we must take him to old man Walton's cabin. And—it also affords a little lapse of time. We now have several chase scenes. The director may take more or less than the script calls for—depending on the footage that he has to spare. They run about as follows:

116. EXT. ROAD.

Phil riding—looking back.

117. EXT. ROAD.

Sheriff and men in pursuit.

118. EXT. TRAIL.

Phil riding toward camera. He rides past. Sheriff and men thru same scene after him as soon as the dust clears. As the sheriff rides past camera he raises his gun and fires.

119. EXT. TRAIL.

Phil riding toward camera—falls from his horse—rolls off scene when he hits the ground.

Writing continuity for fast physical action, like this, is easy. My readers must not get the idea that heavy dramatic action where it is necessary to introduce pathos, heart interest, or plot, can be dashed off this way. We will end this installment by leaving Phil in another pickle. That's the way all good serials end you know—"to be continued in our next" just when it gets the most exciting.

"THE MISSING LINK BETWEEN THE FOREIGN TRADE AND US"

"Reporting on the National Foreign Trade Convention which was held in San Francisco the week of May 12th, and which was attended by representatives of all trades, and delegates from all foreign countries representing different industries in which we would be interested in in regards to imports, it is with regret that I advise of the non-interest shown by the Moving Picture Industry and their trade papers, by their non-attendance as well as by the fact that the convention itself, taking the universal manufacturers and advertisers represented there, who are using the film as a medium of propaganda in the foreign fields, have entirely ignored the industry, not realizing that the first and most effective agent which speaks all languages is the Moving Picture Film.

"The different trades represented in the convention were also covered by trade advisors, domestic as well as foreign. The absence of any such trade advisors covering the Moving Picture industry in its various branches was to be regretted, as well as the omission of any discussions pertaining to this trade in reference to foreign countries. The committee making up this program of special sessions and discussions must have overlooked the trade and its importance in relation to foreign developments entirely.

"It is a known fact that previous to the war, the American Moving Picture industry had an uphill fight in all foreign countries against French, German, Italian, Austrian and English competition, but during the period of the war the American Film by force of circumstance has taken first place against competitors in all foreign countries, and today 90 per cent of the pictures shown in all allied countries of the world are of American manufacture, and even in the Central Empires, and the near-Eastern countries, wherever it is possible to obtain such films, the American product is preferred to quite a percentage. The industry must realize the fact that we have changed from a debtor to a creditor nation; and also that in order to keep in touch with conditions in the foreign fields there is great importance attached to joining the foreign trade councils and international chambers of commerce. These last will look out for new developments in those countries, and will work in close co-operation with the Department of Commerce.

"The first step in this connection should be for the National Association of the Moving Picture industry to join the International Chamber of Commerce, and to insist upon the Department of Commerce having a commercial trade attache appointed who will cover the foreign field in an official capacity in the interest of the Moving Picture industry, in order to gather such data as is available for the benefit of all American manufacturers intending to enter a foreign field with their product.

"The American producer must realize that his attention for a period of time must be centered upon the far Eastern countries and the South American countries where our trade balances lay today on account of the present favorable exchange rates.

"With the proper representation in the Department of Commerce the trade will be able to get such information as will enable them to extend with the aid of their bankers, such credits as are justified in the South America and far Eastern markets in competition to the foreign nations who have studied these conditions in the respective countries and have extended a certain line of safe and justified credit in competition to the American exporter who has up to date been quite ignorant on the subject.

"Realizing that the Moving Picture industry today is too busy to give these matters much consideration, the only message I can send from the National Foreign Trade Convention is that there may come a time when they will find themselves face to face with the conditions above outlined, and it would be well for the industry to be prepared for this emergency. We cannot look at the situation from a selfish standpoint, but as Americans and as part of the role which we are going to play in the future as a creditor nation, now is the time for us to work and prepare for the future."

E. H. KAUFMANN,

Delegate to the Foreign Trade Convention, representing The Inter-Ocean Film Corporation, 218 W. 42nd St., New York City.

Editor's Note—The above is a report which should be of interest to our producers, in view of the foreign situation soon to be faced according to all obtainable information, from the authorities on the subject.

"THE FLAPPER"—Select

Olive Thomas is excellent in a vehicle adapted for the screen by Frances Marion, who has included some very clever work in the finished production. Cast, photography and direction are excellent.—Exhibitors Herald.

Miss Thomas gives a highly intelligent in her role as a flapper attempting to appear mature and experienced. Able direction adds considerably to the general charm, though there is apparently too much use of unnecessary scenes. "The Flapper" must be ranked very high as an amusing entertainment.—Moving Picture World.

"HARRIET AND THE PIPER" FINISHED

Anita Stewart's latest Louis B. Mayer First National attraction has been completed at the Mayer studio. It was directed by Bertram Bracken from Monte M. Katterjohn's screen version of the Pictorial Review serial by Kathleen Norris.

Bobby La Verne, who recently finished with W. S. Hart, is considering an offer to do special stunt riding feats with a big production company.

YOU HAVE A PHOTOPLAY IDEA

Many pictures you view have been made from incidents of real life.

In your life and in the lives of your friends there have been incidents upon which you could base a picture story—if you knew how to go about it.

Incidents are ideas but are worthless until converted into action.

The Palmer Plan of Photoplay Writing teaches every phase of picture construction. It shows you in a clear, understandable way just how your idea can be picturized and made suitable for the screen.

Cecil B. De Mille, Thos. H. Ince, Rob Wagner and Lois Weber comprise the Advisory Board of the Palmer Photoplay Corporation. It has among its contributors many other photoplay authorities.

Write your name and address across the face of this advertisement and we will send you FREE, two booklets, "The Secret of Successful Photoplay Writing" and "Proof Positive," together with a copy of the "Photoplaywright," the Palmer Magazine, usually distributed to students only.

Twenty-five Year External Gold Loan

7½% Sinking Fund Redeemable Bonds

Belgium—Area, 11,373 square miles; population, 7,500,000; most densely populated and intensively cultivated country in the world.

National wealth estimated at 55,800,000,000 francs (par of exchange, $10,769,000,000).

Principal industries are coal mining, textile mills, glass industry, etc. Belgium's rapid recovery is most remarkable; both manufacturing and trading is on a healthy basis.

Sinking fund provision requires annual payment of $2,300,000 to be applied to retirement of bonds by lot at 115% of principal amount and accrued interest. This loan will be secured ratably with any future loan with a lien on any specific revenue or asset of the Kingdom.

The yield on these bonds ranges from 24.89% to 7.95%, depending upon the year in which they are drawn by the sinking fund. By operation of sinking funds all bonds will be redeemed by 1945 at 115.

Subscriptions are now being received by Blyth, Witter & Co. at 97¼% and interest.

Call in person at our office, write or phone for full information about this loan. Ask for Circular C-62.

AN ACTOR PROTESTS

It seems that a little misdirected loyalty has been recently employed by one of the profession, which has resulted in a general city upheaval. Briefly, Walter Long, stage manager of the Motion Picture Benefit, "Arizona," which played at Clune's Auditorium last week, caused much agitation both in and out of the profession when he refused to allow a school bond campaigner to speak from his stage. He said that his action was occasioned by the bad treatment socially and in a business way of the industry by the city, and he further stated that the picture people had banded together and pledged to fight all Los Angeles projects to the finish.

The circumstance was a gold mine for our dailies and as could have been expected, they nobly insisted upon giving it every attention.

Statements were obtained by them from the Chamber of Commerce, prominent Woman's Club members, and leading producers on the subject. The Chamber of Commerce emphasized its cordial feeling for the industry, and the Woman's Club a little more carefully did likewise.

The opinion held generally by our producers seemed to be that Mr. Long was not representative of the entire industry and therefore was wrong in taking the responsibility of such a position. Some of them protested that their treatment socially and commercially by the city left no room for complaint. Others pointed out that their relations with Los Angeles had been unpleasant from a social standpoint only.

The entire affair was a mistake in that it led to nothing, and solved no problems, which, although their presence has been questioned, still are as they long have been before us.

The attitude of Mr. Long which was evidently caused by many bitter grievances, was unfortunate since it was directed at a worthy cause. Moreover, the statement that the profession was pledged against the city was not strictly true; nor should it be. The community in which one lives must be supported by him. If there are existant conditions which tend to destroy harmony between classes in that community, they should naturally be investigated and improved, but the mere spiteful attempt of either side to thwart the other results only in general harm and is utterly useless.

There are fairer and more effective methods by which the profession can obtain the sort of respect it desires. (And all diplomatic statements to the contrary, there do exist thousands of conservatives in Los Angeles today whose treatment of the industry has been abominable in every way, as a result of prejudice.) The time to settle scores is election day when it is our privilege to choose the men who will insure conditions necessary to our efficiency, progress and happiness.

Let's don't express ourselves in small manners; that is too like our antagonists. Moreover it makes so much more work for our conscientious newspapers.

THE CINEMA MERCANTILE COMPANY

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the Secretary of State for a five hundred thousand dollar corporation to be known as the Cinema Mercantile Company.

The object of the organization is to purchase, own, improve, lease and deal in real and personal property of all kinds, thereby consolidating and co-ordinating the buying power of the entire Motion Picture Industry so as to secure wholesale prices and terms on everything used in the making and marketing of moving pictures. It will in this way be possible to purchase direct from the mills all equipment and supplies necessary to the different technical departments of film manufacture.

The above will naturally do away with the huge profits which the industry feels that the Los Angeles retail dealers have made at the former's expense. It is a step in the right direction, and cannot help but improve heretofore unsatisfactory conditions.

The names of the incorporators are:

Abraham Lehr, Vice-Pres., Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.
Jos. W. Engel, Treas. and Genl. Mgr., Metro Pictures Corporation.

C. H. Christie, Vice-Pres., Christie Film Company.
Robert Brunton, Pres., Robert Brunton Studios, Inc.
Wm. S. Smith, Vice-Pres., Vitagraph Company.
Sol. M. Wurtzel, Genl. Mgr., Fox Film Corporation.
Frank A. Garbutt, Vice-Pres. and Genl. Mgr., Lasky and Morosco Studios of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.
R. R. Nehls, Vice-Pres., American Film Company, Santa Barbara.

H. R. Hough, Genl. Mgr., Robertson-Cole Studios, Inc.
Mack Sennett, Pres., Mack Sennett Films Corporation.
Carl L. Laemmle, Pres., Universal Film Mfg. Company.
Thos. H. Ince, Pres., Thos. H. Ince Studios, Inc.
Hal E. Roach, Pres., Rolin Film Company.
Louis B. Meyer, Pres., Louis B. Meyer Productions.
W. J. Reynolds, Secy., Motion Picture Producers' Association.

"THE BOTTOM OF THE WORLD"

"The Bottom of the World," the remarkable picturization of Sir Ernest Shackleton's South Pole Expedition, showed last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre (L. A.) where it scored a huge success. Not only was it headlined by the signs in front of the play house, but it commanded by its merit the same position on the bill with the audience.

It is the most unusual travel picture that we have witnessed, and was obviously accomplished at the risk of lives, and the sacrifice of comfort.

More of such instructive, and at the same time interesting pictures, would be appreciated by the American public.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

AT LASKY'S

Ethel Clayton is beginning work on her last picture to be made for Paramount-Artcraft prior to her vacation, after which she will go to London to make at least two pictures there. Tom Forman is directing the present film which is an adaptation by Mary O'Connor from Cynthia Stockley's short story, Rosanne Ozanne.

C. B. deMille will not start work on his next special before the first of July. The nature or title of it is as yet unannounced.

Walter Woods has almost completed the scenario for "The Traveling Salesman," which will afford a starring vehicle for Roscoe Arbuckle.

Wallace Reid will start immediately upon "The Charm School," under the direction of James Cruze.

William deMille is about ready to commence "His Friend and His Wife," by Cosmo Hamilton. Following this he will produce "Footlights" by Rita Weiman.

AT VITAGRAPH

William Duncan is now on the final thrills of his million-dollar serial, "The Silent Avenger."

Antonio Moreno and "The Veiled Mystery" serial company have returned to the studio from various locations in Southern California.

Cleveland Moffet, who collaborates with Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph in writing serials, has returned to New York for the summer.

Larry Semón is completing "The Stage Hand," his latest Vitagraph special comedy and is writing his next story.

AT UNIVERSAL

Albert Russell is about to complete the fifteenth episode of "The Moon Riders," starring Art Acord.

Elmo Lincoln is working on the fifth episode of "The Lightning's Eye." In his support are Louise Lorraine, Roy Watson, Fred Hamer, and Fay Holderness.

Horace Davie is engaged in a one-reel fun film called "Lend Me a Ring." The featured players are Howard Austin and Bartine Burkett.

AT GOLDWYN'S

Will Rogers has commenced work on "Old Hutch," which was put into scenario form by Arthur S. Statter. Clarence Badger is directing.

The cast for "Stop Thief" was completed this week, and the taking of the picture was commenced under the direction of Harry Beaumont. Tom Moore is being starred with Hazel Daly playing opposite him.

TUCKER TO FINISH MAYFLOWER CONTRACT

R. W. McFarland, Western manager of the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation, has been advised by Benjamin A. Prager, president of the Corporation, that George Loane Tucker, producer of "The Miracle Man," has patched up his difference with Mayflower and will begin work to complete his contract.

Tucker will continue the cutting of "Ladies Must Live," in which Betty Compson is featured. He will then do four more features.

NEW LAKE PICTURE

"Body and Soul" will be the title of Alice Lake's next starring vehicle, instead of "The Gorgeous Girl," heretofore announced by Metro. William Hurlburt is the author. Edwin Mortimer will direct. The production will start next week.

FRANKLIN FARNUM STARTS ON NEW CONTRACT

William E. Wing's after war story, "Riding the Winds," is under production at the Selig studio, with Franklin Farnum in the title role. This is the first of a series of five-reel features which the star will do under a new contract just signed. Thomas S. Nash is manager of the company.

Soreboe & D'Yorkin, Photographers

J. A. Barry, who directed "Passion's Playground," is finishing cutting and titling his own independent production. The subject of the story, which was written by Mr. Barry, is withheld until the development of certain impending events with which the subject deals.

H. B. WARNER SIGNED BY BRUNET

H. B. Warner is to appear in a series of productions for Pathe distribution, according to an announcement by Paul Brunet, vice-president and general manager of the Pathe Exchange, Inc.

The announcement follows a visit to New York of Jesse D. Hampton under whose management Warner has been starring for more than a year. The final details of the contract were concluded at a conference of the two men, after which the latter returned to Los Angeles to begin preparations for filming.

RAY COMPANY RETURNS

Charles Ray and his leading woman, Ann May, returned Monday from Del Monte, where the final scenes of "Peaceful Valley" were filmed under the direction of Jerome Storm.

CLERMONT TO DO KING STORY

"Beyond the Cross Roads," by Bradley King, has been purchased by Clermont Photoplays Corporation as the vehicle for the second special feature to be filmed by Lloyd Carleton productions for release through Selznick.

BUTLER TO START

"Girls Don't Gamble Any More," is the working title of the third independent picture that will be made by David Butler for the D. N. Schwab Productions, Inc.

Work will be started on this feature at the Hollywood Studios under the direction of Fred J. Butler just as soon as the cast is completed.

MRS. SYDNEY DREW IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Sydney Drew has completed the fourth of her series of two-reelers for Pathe distribution in the Essanay Studio in Chicago. "The Unconventional Maida Greenwood" is the title of the successor to "The Emotional Miss Vaughn," which was released on May 30th.

John Cumberland, who is starred in the series, will close his theatrical season in Chicago in a short time, and will then return to New York to begin production of the fifth of the Julian Street stories.

SALISBURY BACK FROM LOCATION

Monroe Salisbury has returned to the Brunton Studios after a week of location work in the vicinity of Mount Shasta, where he filmed a number of forest and water exteriors for his first independent production, "The Barbarian," a story of the Canadian Northwest.

The Victory Theatre will open under its new management Sunday, June 13th, with C. B. deMille's picture, "Old Wives for New," and by that time the first of extensive improvements will be completed according to Arthur Wenzel, who has just been appointed to take charge of the theatre.

Negotiations are now under way between Wenzel and a number of producers looking toward the booking of features for the coming months.

SOL LESSER IN NEW YORK

Sol Lesser left Los Angeles last week for New York, where he will confer with General Manager J. D. Williams of First National about future West Coast Productions for that organization.

Since his recent appointment as special Western representative for First National, Mr. Lesser has been perfecting plans for the building of the new First National Picture Theatre, which is soon to be erected in Los Angeles.

REPRESENTATIVE OF PATHE CINEMA ARRIVES IN U. S.

Mr. Leon Madieu, chairman of the Board of Directors of Pathe Cinema, Paris, and Treasurer of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., of the United States, arrived in this country recently on the American liner St. Paul. During his stay here he will confer with Paul Brunet, Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe, upon the affairs of Pathe Exchange and plans for the coming year.

TOURNEUR PICTURE TO BE RELEASED

"The Great Redeemer" produced under the personal supervision of Maurice Tourneur and written by H. H. Van Loan, is to be released shortly. Favorable reports come from the recent trade showing in New York.

SECURITY PICTURES OBTAINS TALMADGE RE-ISSUE

Si Grier of the Security Pictures, Chicago, has purchased the Illinois and Indiana right to "The Captivating Mary Carstairs," the five-reel Norma Talmadge production, which National Film Corporation will re-issue. The picture has been re-edited and re-titled.

BLACKTON PICTURE TO BE RELEASED

"Passers By," the latest J. Stuart Blackton production with Herbert Rawlinson heading the cast, will be released June 20th by Pathe. The story is by C. Hadden Chambers.

"BELOW THE SURFACE"

"Below the Surface," the Thomas H. Ince production directed by Irvin V. Willet, which has just completed a several weeks' run at Grauman's Rialto is undoubtedly one of the strongest dramas recently produced. The story possesses a novel plot and many real thrills. The cast is exceptional.

Hobart Bosworth's performance as "Flint" is characteristic. His is the ability to instill in any audience recognition of, confidence in the strength of his roles.

The youth in the story (Flint's son) is well played by Lloyd Hughes, who makes the pathetic youngster human and more than convincing. He has the sympathy of the audience always, and knows what to do with it.

George Webb cleverly enacts the heavy role, adding much to the plot. He makes a splendid opposite for Grace Darmond, whose work in this production is without question her best. As a refined versatile lady crook,

SCHLAGER TO TOUR THE COUNTRY

Sig. Schlager, general sales manager for the J. Parker Read Productions, is preparing another national tour in the interest of the Hobart Bosworth and Louise Glaum features.

He contemplates making two of such tours each year.

Otto Lederer, Who Is Directing Franklyn Farnum in "Riding the Winds" for Selig she is convincing. Her performance is consistent throughout.

Gladys George adds a touch of wholesome romance to the story as the girl who loves Flint's son. Her characterization is symbolic of a type which contrasts effectively with the part done by Miss Darmond.

The photoplay throughout is excellent.

"DON'T EVER MARRY"

Marshall Neilan presented "Don't Ever Marry" at the Kinema last week. The production, a Marion Fairfax adaptation from the Edgar Franklin story, is a quick turn, interesting farce with an excellent all star cast.

Matt Moore plays Joe Benson, the leading role, cleverly, and Marjorie Daw, who is first Dorothy Whynn, his sweetheart, and then his wife, does probably the best work of her career.

Tom Guise delightfully characterizes Col. Whynn, the exaggerated ogre father, in a mirth producing manner, and Adele Farrington provides complications as Mrs. Whynn, his jealous spouse.

Mr. Dow, business associate of the Colonel is done by Thomas Jefferson. (The two parts form an interesting contrast.

Mayme Kelso is a satisfactory "other girl" as Barbara Dow.

David Butler plays the small role of Bill Fielding satisfactorily.

Wesley Barry as the bell hop, and Tom Wilson as the house detective, possibly form the combination most appreciated by the audience. They occasion much enjoyment with their clever teamwork.

Christine Mayo plays Myra Gray, and Herbert Standing has the small part of John Sitterly.

The picture is well staged and entertaining. The fact that at times it verges upon slap-stick, does not harm the general effect in the slightest.

"THE CITY OF MASKS"

George Barr McCutcheon's "The City of Masks," was presented at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre last week by Jesse L. Lasky.

The story, starring Robert Warwick, has a fanciful exaggerated typically McCutcheon theme, notwithstanding which, possibly on account of which, it is highly entertaining.

Robert Warwick's popularity will be increased by his work as Tommy Trotter in it. It is the type of role admired by the public.

Lois Wilson does the female lead prettily and satisfactorily.

Theodore Kosloff controls most of the heart interest with his exceptional interpretation of Bosky, the poor violinist.

Edward Jobson cleverly provides much comedy in several plot turns as Con McFadden.

J. M. Dumont plays Stuyvesant Smith Parvis successfully in so far as he gets the heavy role loathed by the audience.

Anne Schaefer as the hard pawnshop princess, provides the story with a clever and consistent characterization.

Robert Dunbar and Helen Dunbar play the Smith Parvis parents satisfactorily.

Others in the cast are Frances Raymond, Bill Boyd, George Berrell, Snitz Edwards, Richard Cummings and T. E. Duncan.

Thomas Heffron directed.

"A LADY IN LOVE"

Lasky offered Ethel Clayton in "A Lady in Love," at Clune's Broadway last week. The story is a sad mixture of farce and drama and fails to reach the Paramount standard. Most of the sub-titles are either unnecessary or ridiculous. The good cast is lost in a maze of impossible situations and silly roles.

The star has not had a poorer vehicle lately and in her role of Barbara, the careless convent child, fails to convince.

Harrison Ford is better cast as Brent, the leading male role, but he is greatly handicapped by the poorly staged weak situations in which he takes part.

Boyd Irwin is satisfactory as Burton Sedgewick.

Ernest Joy plays cleverly and consistently Rhodes, the principal heavy.

Frances Raymond, as Mrs. Sedgewick, is better cast than C. H. Geldart, as her son George.

Elsa Lorimer does the latter's jealous wife.

Ernee Goodleigh plays Anna.

Walter Edwards directed the production.

"PASSION'S PLAYGROUND"

"Passion's Playground," starring Katherine MacDonald, showed last week at Tally's, following its week at the Kinema. The production lays claim to some unusual shots and elaborate sets. The cast is on the whole good.

Miss MacDonald's is the role of Mary Grant, a convent girl, transplanted to Monte Carlo.

Norman Kerry is satisfactory as Prince Vanno della Robbia, the male lead.

Marie Grant is played by Nell Craig, and Rudolph Valentino does Prince Angelo della Robbia, her husband. Both parts materially aid in the development of the plot.

Howard Gaye's characterization of James Hannaford is very good.

Jacqueline Bruneau enacts cleverly the role of Mme. d'Andre.

Lord and Lady Dauntry were done respectively by Edwin Stevens and Virginia Ainsworth.

The cast further includes Alice Wilson, Sylvia Jocelyn and Walt Whitman.

J. A. Barry ably directed this production.

WILLIAM ROBERT DALY

William Robert Daly belongs to that school of professionals who laid their foundations by years of legitimate work. In fact, Daly was for a long time a well known director as well as an actor in that line.

In 1909, however, he deserted the spoken drama for the screen via the Imp Company, for which organization he played characters with King Baggott and Florence Lawrence.

There followed for him long directing contracts with Selig and Universal. Under the terms of the latter he directed his wife, Fritzi Brunette.

His return to the screen after a two years' absence due to illness will be in the sympathetic character role of Irvin (V. Willat's forthcoming production, the title of which has not yet been made public.

Whether Mr. Daly will continue acting or follow up his return with another directorial position has not been decided.

Evelyn Selbie has been cast for the part of Mrs. Roan in Robert Brunton's all star cast production, "The Devil to Pay."

Lindsey McKenna, former publicity representative for Selznick, has been engaged as publicity director for the Betty Compson company now producing at the Brunton Studio.

Virginia Pearson is to return to the screen as the star of a production selected for her by Sheldon Lewis, her husband.

Rose Curland, formerly dramatic editor on the Galveston Post, has taken an editorial position with a Hollywood Production company.

Lincoln Hart, production manager for the J. Parker Read, Jr., Productions, is perfecting plans for Louise Glaum's next photoplay.

Henry Woodward, leading man for Maurice Tourneur productions, is now playing opposite Hope Hampton in a screen version of "The Tiger Lady."

Frank Holland has signed with Lasky to play a part with Fatty Arbuckle in "The Traveling Salesman."

Wm. J. Irving has signed with Carter de Haven to play in "Twin Beds."

Charles Rosher has been loaned to Marshall Neilan by Mary Pickford until her return from the East.

Philip Rosen has just finished a contract with Universal and has signed with Metro to direct "Are All Men Alike" from the story, "The Waffle Iron," by Arthur Stringer.

Gilda Gray is making a number of scenes in "The Girl with the Jazz Heart," which Madge Kennedy is making now at the Goldwyn Studio in New York.

Ernest C. Warde is directing Robert Brunton's initial all star feature, "The Devil to Pay."

Ann Forest has been engaged to play in the all star production which will be made under the supervision of Sam Rork of the Katherine MacDonald Studio.

William Desmond has been loaned to First National by Jesse Hampton for a special engagement in which he will play with Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven in "Twin Beds."

STANDING SIGNS WITH METRO

Wyndham Standing has been engaged to play the lead opposite Viola Dana in the Metro production, "Blackmail."

Edward Cecil has signed to play an important role in "Blackmail" in support of Viola Dana.

Hurlburt Footner, author and playwright, has been added to Metro's staff of story producers.

Richard Headrick, a Child-Actor, who has recently scored big hits with Wm. S. Hart, Mildred Chaplin, etc.

DORALDINA TO STAR FOR METRO

Mme. Doralдина, Spanish and Hawaiian dancer, has been signed by Metro to star in a picture being specially prepared for her, "The Passion Flower."

Production will commence immediately upon her arrival from New York, where she has been for the past year following the production of her two photoplays, "The Naulahaka" and "The Charm of Nasoni."

Wallace MacDonald has signed to play the leading male role opposite May Allison in "Are All Men Alike?" at the Metro Studio.

John Sainpolis has been engaged for the title role in the Goldwyn production, "The Great Lover."

Allan Holubar has engaged C. J. Silliman, F. Pieru and George Cox to look after the musical department of his production.

Dick Story is co-directing "Beau Revel" at the Ince Studio.

Eugene W. Presbrey has joined the Metro scenario staff.

Dallas FitzGerald will direct Viola Dana in her new Metro picture, "Blackmail," by Lucia Chamberlain.

Lloyd Ingraham, who is to direct Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven in "Twin Beds", has engaged Ross Fisher, former cameraman for Betty Compson to do the cranking on this First National production.

Kathleen Kirkham is playing an important role in Thomas H. Ince's "Beau Revel."

Sam de Grasse has been cast by Erich von Stroheim for his next Universal Jewel production, "Foolish Wives."

Edward Kull has been selected to direct the next Universal serial, "The Diamond Master," production on which will begin in a few days.

Rudolph Christians, for some years leading man and director of the Irving Place Theatre in New York, and Lee Kohlmer, who has played many feature comedy roles in Broadway productions, will be co-starred shortly by Universal.

Milla Davenport has been cast as the mother with Bebe Daniels in the star's initial Realart production, "We Never Know."

Guy Milham, a member of David Warfield's company, has deserted the legitimate stage to play an important role in the production now being filmed by Director George L. Cox at the American Studio in Santa Barbara. It is an adaptation of one of Robert Browning's poems.

Helen Jerome Eddy is to be the instructor in a class of dramatics to be established by the Hollywood Studio Girls' Club.

William Conklin will next be seen in "Beau Revel," now being made on the Thomas H. Ince lot.

Gertrude Claire is playing a grandmother part in Allan Dwan's sixth and last Mayflower production.

The first of Metro's new Buster Keaton comedies will be completed this week. The contract under which Keaton is working calls for eight productions a year.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

JOHN McCORMACK VISITS GOLDWYN

John McCormack, Irish tenor and grand opera singer, turned technical director for a day at the Goldwyn studio in Culver City this week, when he conferred with Director Frank Lloyd on the presentation of grand opera scenes for "The Great Lover," Leo Dietrichstein's play, which is being made into a photoplay, with an all star cast. McCormack was in Los Angeles for a concert, and Mr. Lloyd arranged an interview with him to get side lights on scenes and deportment.

ATHLETIC ACTOR TRAINING FOR OLYMPIC TRYOUTS

William Lion West, the fighting villain in Robert Thornby's special all star production at the Jesse D. Hampton studios, is training with his shot, hammer, and discus for the Olympic Try-Outs to be staged at Pasadena late this month. In addition to this he is working on a story which he expects to have published before the end of the year.

Mildred Harris Chapman left Los Angeles last week for San Francisco where she will make personal appearances at one of the theatres in connection with the showing of "The Inferior Sex." Upon her return next week she will immediately begin work upon her new production, "Habit," which will be directed by Edward Carew and released by First National.

Rita Weiman, author of the Saturday Evening Post story, "Curtain!" which is now being filmed by Katherine MacDonald for First National, is leaving California for New York this week. Miss Weiman has been in daily consultation with Director James Young and Producer Sam Rork during the past month regarding this production.

Peronne and Constance Artzenius of the Hague, Holland, were guests of the Benjamin B. Hampton company this week. The Misses Artzenius, song and dance artists of Holland, are friends of William Allen White, one of the novelists whose works are being produced by Hampton. It is their intention to learn photography and picture methods and then tour Africa, photographing the savages and wild animals in the Dutch possessions.

Victor Eubank, New York free lance continuity writer, is one of the latest to quit the East and join the Los Angeles film colony. He has just completed a seven-reel submarine script for the Williamson brothers.

Jimmy Aubrey has returned from San Diego where he spent a week recovering from injuries sustained in a scene.

In order to obtain real snow scenes for "Hearts Are Trumps," now being filmed by Metro, Rex Ingram and twenty-seven members of his company traveled 356 miles to Huntington Lake last week.

Harry Hammond Beall has been inaugurated as President of the S. P. A. instead of Walter Huntington, resigned.

Edward Coxon, who was hurt when his horse fell on a steep trail during the filming of "Mountain Madness," the first Clermont special feature directed by Lloyd B. Carlton, has recovered.

According to advance notices Hugh Sax on's name is mis-spelled in the cast of Wm. S. Hart's "Sand," showing this week at Grauman's. Phonetically speaking, it is correct, however.

SCREEN WRITER TO GO ABROAD

Dennison Clift, recently a director of features for William Fox and well-known writer, has laid aside the typewriter and megaphone to spend the summer and fall abroad. Mr. Clift is now on his way to New York, from which city he will sail for France on the St. Paul, June 26th. His object is to study new world conditions, life at first hand, and possibly make several features in one of the larger London studios. He will visit all the battlefields of Italy, France and Belgium, and then tour Switzerland and the British Isles before returning.

Mildred Harris Chaplin, Whose Latest Production Is Entitled "The Woman in His House."

THE HERMANN STUDIOS

E. P. Hermann, president and general manager of the Hermann Film Corporation, has left for San Francisco in the interest of the photo play, "That Something," now running in that city, and which has just closed a long season at the Victory Theatre in Los Angeles. Mr. Hermann's next production will be a six-reel feature, "Something More."

Louise Glaum is taking a short rest for the first time in four months.

Charles Stumar, cameraman with the Louise Glaum Company, has gone to Yosemite to shoot sunset scenes for the star's latest release.

It is said that when Nance O'Neill's play, "The Passion Flower," completes its trans-continental journey, it will be filmed largely with the original New York cast at a Southern California studio.

Christy Cabanne, who has just completed a feature with Bessie Barriscale, is on his way to New York to sign a new contract. His new affiliation has not yet been announced.

Jack Curtis, Sidney Payne, and Ruth Brownson returned last week from Pismo Beach, California, where they were on location with Edith Storey, in "The Beach of Dreams."

"Shadows of the Past," by William Piggett, will be Fritz Brunette's next starring vehicle.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR JIMMY DUGAN

A short time ago when Olive Thomas and her supporting company were in San Francisco filming scenes for the recently finished production entitled "Jennie," a birthday party in the nature of a complete surprise was given to Jimmy Dugan, the star's assistant director. The entire company was in attendance, and presented Mr. Dugan with a set of platinum and pearl cuff buttons, studs, and vest buttons. Al Jolson and the entire "Hitchie Koo" company joined in the festivities.

BOB KERR IS SIGNED TO DIRECT HANK MANN

Hank Mann has signed Bob Kerr, formerly with the Mack Sennett forces, for a long-term agreement whereby he will alternate with Charlie Parrott, formerly director of Carter DeHaven stories, in the direction of the comedian's two-reel subjects.

L. V. Frank has just returned from two weeks' location with the Hutchison Serial Company at Balboa.

Clarence Hatton has just finished playing the lead and directing the second of a series of two-reel Western dramas for which he has a New York contract.

Benjamin B. Hampton's editorial staff has started continuity work on the William Allen White novel, "A Certain Rich Man," which will be produced shortly at the Brunton studios.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brunton returned to Los Angeles this week after a short vacation trip to Coronado Beach.

Lawrence Underwood, director of the Hermann Film Corporation, has taken up his offices in the new studio at Santa Monica which bids fair to be one of the beauty spots in film land with its up-to-date equipment, artistic grounds and naturally beautiful surroundings. The environment was chosen by E. P. Hermann for his new studio as a fit setting for the type of plays that are to be fostered by this company, in keeping with the spirit of "That Something," a popular picture of the season.

Virginia Lee Corbin and Ben Alexander are being groomed for an appearance in vaudeville.

Hereafter C. B. DeMille will devote his abilities in the main to the production of magazine stories and novels.

Herbert Standing is recovering slowly from his injury, which was occasioned by a street car last month.

Metro announces that "God of His Fathers" is to be released under the title of "God of His Country." The company authorities believe they can make this slight change without offending any of London's readers.

The direction of the picture is to be handled by Edward Sloman.

Jay Belasco has just finished a juvenile lead for Selznick.

Owen Moore, accompanied by his director, Victor Heerman and Fred Almy, business manager of the Owen Moore company, expects to leave for New York City Sunday, where his current Selznick production will be finished.

THE COUNTERFEIT TRAIL

Installment Nine

We closed our last installment leaving our hero Philip Cook in a very dangerous, or perilous position. The sheriff and his posse are pursuing him. Phil falls to the ground after the sheriff has raised his gun and fired. If you did not know anything more about the story, I would have kept you in terrible doubt as to the outcome, at this precarious moment. The serious question is: "Did the bullet from the sheriff's gun find its mark in our fleeing hero. This is suspense. On this particular occasion, however, we cannot sustain this thread for any length of time. As I explained in my series of articles on "Scientific Plot Building" which ran in Camera! some time ago, there are two threads of suspense which carry through a story. One is that which leads up to each little climax and then is broken, only to begin again almost immediately, and the other is the main thread which runs, unbroken from the beginning of the story until the final big climax which determines the fates of all the characters involved. Our action is moving very rapidly here and it would be fatal to cut away to some other angle of the story, with the sheriff still in pursuit of Philip.

Our next scene is:

120. EXT. NEAR TRAIL.

Phil rolls into the scene—seizes his elbow and frowns. Has hurt his arm. Looks back—gets up and exits hurriedly.

121. EXT. TRAIL. SAME AS 119.

Sheriff and men ride in—dismount and look around for Phil. Sheriff directs his men to circle around, and he exits in direction taken by Phil.

122. EXT. PRECIPICE.

Phil runs in, hesitates a moment and then vaults down precipice clinging to shrubbery or vines.

Now to give Phil time to hide himself from the sheriff we put in:

123. EXT. NEAR PRECIPICE.

Sheriff through scene with gun in hand—feeling his way and listening.

124. EXT. PRECIPICE. SAME AS 122.

Sheriff comes on and looks around.

TITLE:

TREED AGAIN—BUT NOT AFTER A BLACK CAT THIS TIME.

125. EXT. TREETOP. CLOSEUP.

Of Phil as he peers through the branches.

126. EXT. PRECIPICE. SAME AS 124.

Sheriff looks around, does not see Phil—concludes that he is below—exits.

With the title above, we inject a little comedy into a very dramatic situation.

127. EXT. TRAIL. SAME AS 121.

Couple of men on with horses—waiting for sheriff. He comes on—tells them that the refugee has given them the slip. They mount their horses and ride out.

This is a little climax. We have now established the fact that Phil has given the sheriff and his posse the slip, and that they have given up his trail—temporarily at least—so we can go to another angle of the story.

We will do it with a title.

TITLE:

IN THE MEANWHILE—

128. INT. WALTON'S CABIN.

Two Spot is showing the old man the roll of bills and telling him now that he will be able to buy his machinery. The old man's eyes bulge out as he reaches out for the money. Two Spot draws it back and looking intently at the old man, tells him that there is a condition.

129. INT. WALTON'S CABIN. CLOSEUP.

Of Two Spot as his face takes on a mercenary expression and he tells the old man that the loan is on condition that he gets Mary.

130. INT. WALTON'S CABIN. CLOSEUP.

Of Walton. The old man's face hardens—pales with rage. He says excitedly—

TITLE:

"SO YOU WANT ME TO SELL MY LITTLE GAL! GET OUT! GET OUT!
—BEFORE I KILL YOU!"

Back. The old man is trembling all over as he indicates the door.

131. INT. WALTON'S CABIN. FULL SCENE.

The old man is denouncing Two Spot. Match position of old man with that in closeup—pointing to the door. Two Spot becomes indignant—curses the old man. Walton flies at Two Spot's throat—and then suddenly grasping his breast over the heart convulsively, falls in a heap on the floor. Two Spot looks down at him in alarm—stoops and feels his heart—sees that he is dead—looks around to see if anyone is present—gets up and slinks out.

Here, you see, we did not find it necessary to show the entrance of Two Spot to the Walton Cabin. There has been plenty of time for that to have taken place while the sheriff was pursuing Phil—so we open right up on the important business at hand. Too many continuity scenes retard the development of the story and make it draggy. The cutter will throw them away anyway—if he knows his business. That means time and money wasted. In the closeup of Two Spot, it was not necessary to put a title explaining what he is saying to the old man, as the spoken title from old Walton is explanatory. It is necessary to establish the fact that Mary is somewhere nearby, so we have—

132. EXT. PRETTY SPOT ON BROOK. CLOSEUP.

Mary has constructed a crude little waterwheel which is being actuated by the little stream of water and is playing with it—watching it turn. There is a glad smile on her face. She then gets up to exit.

The psychology of this scene is that the little girl is in full sympathy with her father's heart's desire for some kind of a machine to operate his claim. Here we have pathos by contrast also. The happy little girl playing with the flutterwheel—and the poor old father in the cabin—dead.

133. EXT. PRETTY SPOT. FULL SCENE.

Mary leaves the flutterwheel and exits toward the cabin. We have to give Mary time to get to the cabin, and to establish the fact that Phil is in the vicinity, so we cut to—

134. EXT. BRUSH.

Phil works his way cautiously from behind the brush—looks—listens—and exits.

We also want to keep Two Spot nearby so we have—

135. EXT. TRAIL. NEAR CABIN.

Two Spot comes into scene—stops and loiters—and listens.

We are working up to a good situation here—one that is replete with suspense and dramatic interest. We are drawing our three principals together. The girl is going to find the father dead. Now the question is:

CONTINUITY WRITING—Continued

What is she going to do? Will Phil and Two Spot collide outside the cabin? And if they do, what will happen?

136. EXT. WALTON CABIN.

Mary comes on and trips light-heartedly into the cabin.

Our next installment will have some big stuff in it. We are getting close to the big climax in the story. When Mary discovers the dead body of her father, we have some real drama which calls for some honest-to-goodness acting on the part of the girl.

By the way, I wish the editor of Camera! would wipe that smear of ink off my face at the top of this page. It is getting my goat.

"THE DOUBLE DYED DECEIVER"

Goldwyn presented Jack Pickford in "The Double Dyed Deceiver," at the California Theatre last week. The screen story from the original by O. Henry is disappointing in comparison.

Jack Pickford is badly miscast in the role of the Llano Kid, a bad man and killer.

Marie Dunn plays the ingenue lead with obvious amateurishness.

Edythe Chapman and James Neill are convincing as Senor and Senora Urique.

Sydney Ainsworth plays Thacker, the heavy, characteristically.

The locations and sets are unusually good.

Al Green directed the production.

"THE MAN WHO LOST HIMSELF"

Selznick presents William Faversham in "The Man Who Lost Himself," at Grauman's Rialto for an indefinite run. The story is of English life, and Faversham plays a dual role. His work is characteristically correct.

Hedda Hopper is well cast as the Countess of Rochester, and plays the part with unusual humanness.

Mathilde Brundage, Emily FitzRoy, and Downing Clarke, are more or less satisfactory as the Rochester family.

The story, while not markedly new in theme, will be appreciated by a certain class of fans. It is a little heavy.

George D. Baker directed.

BEACH PLAY TO SHOW AT THE CALIFORNIA

"Going Some," the new Rex Beach picture, is the latest Goldwyn offering at the California, starting June 13. The cast in the production is an all-star one, including Cullen Landis, Lillian Hall and Kenneth Harlan. Harry Beaumont directed.

MANN STARTS

Hank Mann this week commenced work on the 16th of his series of 26 two-reel comedies a year at his studios in Hollywood. The final scenes to his last fun film, "Don't Chango Your Mrs.," were shot last week when the company went to the Sierra Madre mountains on location.

Forrest Stanley has been re-signed by Metro to appear as leading man for Alice Lake in her new picture, "Body and Soul."

H. B. WARNER TO START WORK

H. B. Warner will start work immediately on his twelfth picture for Jesse D. Hampton.

John A. Morosco's novel, "The People Against Nancy Preston," will be filmed under the working title of "Going Straight." Henry King will direct. Lillian Rich has been cast in the leading feminine role.

AUTHOR HAS SIX CURRENT RELEASES

Tom J. Geraghty wrote the scenarios for the following recent and forthcoming releases:

"The Mollycoddle," "When the Clouds Roll By," "The Charm School," "Burglar Proof," "The Devil's Brand" and "The Adventuress."

Chas. F. Gentry has had an offer to return east for a legitimate engagement, but he prefers California and pictures.

J. A. Barry is responsible for the direction of "Passion's Playground," contrary to a previous notice.

Robert H. Poole, managing director of the California Theatre, Los Angeles, since S. L. Rothapfel left for New York, has resigned to take the management of Harold Bell Wright's works. Mr. Poole's distinctive presentations at the California have won him an enviable reputation in the motion picture world.

STAHL TO DIRECT STEWART

According to announcement from the Mayer Studio, John M. Stahl will direct Anita Stewart in her next Louis B. Mayer First National attraction, "Sowing the Wind," taken from Sydney Grundy's stage play of the same name.

Miss June Mathis, head of Metro Scenario Department, has been recalled from New York to begin work on the script for the production, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." She will return to Hollywood as soon as she completes the script for "Polly with a Past," in which Ina Claire will star.

Basil King, the English writer, has written a scenario entitled "The Ultimate Aim," which he hopes will be instrumental in further cementing friendly relations between his country and the United States. The scenario is dedicated to the Anglo-American Unity League, Inc.

The Mission at San Juan Capistrano will form the background for some of the most important scenes in "Hearts Are Trumps," now being produced by Metro.

Eugene Pallette has departed for a visit in New York.

C. Allen Gilbert, illustrator and poster artist, is now preparing the art titles for Winchell Smith's Metro production, "The Saphead."

Cleo Madison has been signed by Metro to play the leading role in "Big Game," one of the new plays recently acquired by that company. It was written by Willard Robertson and Kilbourn Gordon, and was produced at the Hudson Theatre, New York. It is now being adapted for the screen by Ruth N. Morgan.

John Ince has been assigned to direct "Some One in the House," a new all star production about to be filmed by Metro. The picturization is by Lois Zellner.

Albert Shelby LeVino has commenced work on the scenario for "The Star Rover," the third Jack London story to be filmed by C. E. Shurtleff, Inc.

Write Success Into Your Photoplay Stories

Photoplaywriting is a profitable and pleasant field for people with real ideas, effectively presented.

The Palmer Photoplay Corporation teaches such people the all-important fundamentals of the art of writing for the screen. The Palmer Plan has the endorsement of leaders in the motion picture industry. Following are members of the Palmer Advisory Council: Thomas H. Ince, Cecil B. de Mille, Lois Weber and Rob Wagner. Other notable persons are contributors to the Palmer course.

BOSWORTH MAKES PERSONAL APPEARANCE IN SAN FRANCISCO

Hobart Bosworth has just returned from San Francisco, where he made a personal appearance in conjunction with the showing of "Below the Surface." While in that city he completed the ship burning scenes for his newest J. Parker Read, Jr., production.

COMPSON CASTING

Betty Compson is preparing to commence production on her second starring picture at the Brunton Studios. She has re-engaged Arthur Rosson to handle the direction, and he will be assisted by his brother Richard. The play is now being cast.

H. B. Warner has returned from a six weeks' vacation.

Roscoe Karns married Miss Mary Matilda Frass of Higgins, Texas, a week ago at Santa Ana.

Myron Selznick, president of the Selznick Picture Corporation, and his brother, David, of the same organization, are spending the week in Los Angeles, holding daily conferences with Harry Rapf, general manager of the Selznick producing companies at the Brunton Studios.

Katherine Hilliker has formed an organization of title writers to be known as the "Hillikeriters," which include besides herself, Raymond S. Harris and H. H. Caldwell, all three of whom were recently associates in the Outing Chester Picture Organization.

Caldwell left Hollywood Sunday for New York where he will close pending deals for the new organization, at the D. H. Hilliker Studio.

The Hillikeriters will be represented by Edna Schley.

The Motion Picture Art Directors' Association will hold its first annual dinner dance at the Alexandria Hotel on the evening of June 26th, instead of June 12th, as was previously announced. All arrangements for the affair were settled at a meeting of the organization last Thursday evening.

Eddie Polo has returned from New York where he secured a number of circus scenes to be used in his next Universal production, "Circus Life."

According to announcement the title of Mildred Harris Caplin's last Louis B. Mayer First National release is to be "The Woman in His House."

Ariel Ghazalla, who has been dancing for the past four weeks at the California Theatre, gave a five-minute act at Clune's Auditorium last week for the benefit of homeless children.

Hallam Cooley has a big automobile and also a small car, which he has named after Bud Fisher's two famous characters.

Antonio Gaudio, cameraman for the Allan Dwan company, is the proud father of a brand new baby.

Sidney A. Franklin has purchased property in Withey Terrace, Hollywood, where he will build a home soon.

Mary Roberts Rhinehart has returned to her home in Chicago after cutting and subtitled her picture, "The Empire Builders," produced by Goldwyn and directed by E. Mason Hopper.

"An Off Shore Pirate" is the title of the second story by F. Scott Fitzgerald to be purchased by Metro.

We believe in taking a chance on favorable oil land—for the person who never takes a chance never makes a big clean-up. The Roosevelt Oil Co. is spending upwards of $100,000 to prove up our leases in the famous Pecos Valley.

We don't believe in taking a chance on oil "stocks" or on Govt. or State lands where titles are cloudy under "Oil Leasing Bill" recently passed by Congress. Our leases at $15 an acre are from private owners. 150 wells going down nearby—50 big wells now in. Prices may go up any hour. Get your lease here and now! See, phone or write today. These notes are convertible at option after November 1, 1921, and until ten days prior to maturity or redemption into 7% Cumulative Sinking Fund Preferred Stock on the basis of 100 for these notes and 95 for the stock. With these notes at 96½ this is equivalent to buying the stock at 91½.

Thus you see that at your option you have either a long-term, high yielding preferred stock or a short-term, high-yielding note. Preferred stock is subject to call at 110 and accrued dividends, and the usual features of safety.

This Company is one of the largest and most successful of its kind in America. It does a world business. Gross sales increased over 400% in past five years.

Total assets after deducting all indebtedness, except this note, amount to more than four times principal of this issue.

Net earnings for past ten years have averaged more than four and one-half times interest charges, and during the past five years more than seven times.

There is no other bonded or funded indebtedness and at present no outstanding preferred stock.

You will want to invest your savings and surplus funds in this decidedly good investment. Call, write or phone for Circular C-63.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CO-OPERATES WITH THE INDUSTRY

That the differences which have so long occasioned an under current of strife between the city of Los Angeles, including its social and business interests, and the motion picture industry might be analyzed and some method of satisfactory settlement decided upon, a meeting was called by the Chamber of Commerce of the city, of motion picture producers, business men and press Friday the 18th, at noon.

After a luncheon, which was served in the directors' room of the chamber, the present conditions were considered from several different angles. The informal discussion was preluded with an explanatory talk by the president of the Chamber to the picture interests. In it he pointed out the fallacy of the statement, at one time circulated, to the effect that his organization was not cordial in its attitude toward the profession. Thereafter, upon the invitation of the chair, Mr. Loeb, attorney for Louis B. Mayer, and other big producers, opened for the picture interests by explaining the prejudice of the city socially and commercially with regard to the industry, as he has heard it from members of the latter. He declined to substantiate his statements from personal observation, however.

A talk by Mr. Anger of the Capitol followed, in which he laid particular stress upon the unfair manner in which the newspapers have long accented misdemeanors, and alleged misdemeanors, of film people. He explained how such undesirable publicity has been greatly responsible for the rancor between classes here.

Mr. Abraham Lehr suggested that the Chamber of Commerce might beneficially encourage the press to give credit where it is due and not generalize to such an extent in its recordance of such unfortunate occurrences.

Other angles, such as discrimination of city assessors against studio property, were set forth. Investigation of general conditions was invited.

Altogether, the spirit displayed by all representatives in question was highly commendable, and much may be expected as a result. Co-operation between these classes is as pleasant a contemplation as it is novel. Only by using it can accomplishment of any note be effected.

THE MOTION PICTURE PEOPLE'S CHURCH

Out at the Lasky studio there is a minister of the gospel acting in the capacity of technical director for William D. Taylor in the latter's production of "The Furnace," by Pan. Nor is the clergyman in question one who has changed his profession in response to the lure of the cinema. He is in fact, no other than the Reverend Neal Dodd of the Motion Picture People's Church, and his temporary studio work is being done in addition to his regular duties. He is staging, costuming, etc., a large English wedding which will form an elaborate episode in the production.

The noteworthy point in connection with the above, is the spirit displayed by this man who is big enough to realize that religion, contrary to general ministerial belief, as we have known it, has a place for the theatrical man.

For several years, Reverend Dodd has quietly carried on his work among the studios, firm in his conviction that his field was as worthy as any other, and that time would more than accomplish his plan to move his flock out of the Little Church Around the Corner, and into the new building which will house the Motion Picture People's Church.

His idea has been as large as his feeling for the industry, but it is today nearing fulfillment. Upon the completion of his work with Lasky, Mr. Dodd will bend his spare time effort to the organization and progress of a campaign for the collection of the funds necessary to finish the project. In appreciation the profession will "see him through."

As recent city controversies clearly show, the industry has not been treated cordially by Los Angeles churches in the majority of cases. This has been the result of prejudice, honest and otherwise. No wonder that our "holier" brethren have been little annoyed by our attentions.

Always, however, we have been able to turn for instant contrast to Rev. Dodd, who has been consistently at the disposal of the profession.

Not only will our regard for him be proven by the outcome of this drive, but we will accomplish in the establishment of such a church a monument symbolizing our recognition of the birthright of every human—honest belief.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Under the direction of Rollin Sturgeon, progress is being made on Carmel Myers' first Universal feature since her return to the screen. The story is entitled "In Folly's Trail."

Rudolphe Christians and Lee Kohlmar are engaged in the production of "The Watchmaker" by George Hull under the direction of Harry Franklin.

Hoot Gibson is at work on a two-reel Western by Louis D. Lighton entitled, "Marryin'".

Dorothy Woods is his principal feminine support.

Elmo Lincoln is at work on the seventh episode of "The Lightning's Eye."

Director J. P. McGowan has started on a special feature, "Below the Dead Line."

"Leaping Lions and Jail Birds" is the title of Wm. Watson's Lion picture now in production at Universal.

Director Wm. Craft has started "The World Inside."

"The Orchid," a story by Margarita C. Storra, has been purchased as a vehicle for Carmel Myers, as has "Kate of Crime Street" by Edgar Wallace.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran announce that their next will be entitled "Once a Plumber—" by Edgar Franklin.

AT THE VITAGRAPH STUDIO

Director Chester Bennett with Earle Williams and "The Purple Cipher" company has just completed a week's work at San Pedro where submarine scenes were taken.

Starting with the fifth episode Wm. J. Bowman has undertaken the direction of Antonio Moreno in "The Veiled Mystery."

The Joe Ryan and Jean Paige serial, "Hidden Dangers" will be released early in July.

Director David Smith is preparing the continuity on another James Oliver Curwood story which may be started in a few weeks.

AT THE GOLDWYN STUDIO

E. Mason Hopper will commence within the next few days filming "Edgar's Sunday Courtship," the next of the Booth Tarkington Edgar series.

Jack Pickford is scheduled to commence this week upon George Ade's "Just Out of College."

Mabel Normand has returned from her New York vacation and will begin filming "Head Over Heels" at once.

SEITZ TO PRODUCE FEATURE IN SPAIN

George B. Seitz, producer of Pathe serials, is going to Spain to film his first feature picture. Following arrangements made with Paul Brunet, Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe, June Caprice will be co-starred with Mr. Seitz. Marguerite Cortot and Harry Semmels are also in the cast. The company will sail for Algeciras, Spain, on July 6th.

The story selected for the first feature is an adaptation of a play he wrote some time ago entitled "The Golden Senorita."

TOURNEUR TO START "BIG SIX" PICTURE

Maurice Tourneur has actually commenced work upon his initial production for Associated Producers. He is the first of the "Big Six" to do so. Although he is not yet "shooting," sets are under construction, the scenario is being completed, and the cameras will click July first.

According to an announcement from the Tourneur studio the title which is said to be universally known, is not being divulged. Outside of the fact that Barbara Bedford will appear in the picture, no cast details are forthcoming.

READ TO DO ALL STAR PRODUCTIONS

J. Parker Read, Jr., producer of the Louise Glaum and Hobart Bosworth photoplays, is making ready to launch two all star productions. These films will be additions to the five Glaum and five Bosworth pictures scheduled for the current year.

METRO PICTURE BEING CAST

With the script for "Someone in the House" completed, selecting for the all star is now being made. Lois Zellner of the Metro scenario department wrote the screen adaptation from the stage play of the same name. John E. Ince will direct. Production is expected to commence in a few days.

Lloyd B. Carleton, Director General Cleve-mont Photo Play Productions

JOE ROCK HAS OWN COMPANY

The latest producing unit to be added to the moving picture industry in Los Angeles is the Joe Rock Film Company, which is headed by Joe Rock for five years the Vitagraph comedian, and member of the team of Montgomery and Rock.

A group of Santa Ana capitalists and Los Angeles film men are associated with the comedian in the new venture. The company will start production on June 28th. One and two-reel slap-stick comedies, and two-reel comedy-drama will be made on regular schedule.

Mr. Rock flew from Los Angeles to Santa Ana Friday to sign his new contract, where the mayor and business men had arranged a ceremony to inaugurate the new organization.

Grover Jones, who directed Rock in his last Vitagraph comedies, will be associated with him in the new company. A second director will be named to alternate with Mr. James keeping the comedian constantly working and insuring the completion of each picture well in advance of release date.

AT LASKY'S

George Melford's company filming "The Jucklins" will go almost immediately to a location in Northern California, where important action will transpire.

Bryant Washburn is in the midst of "Wanted, A Blemish" under the direction of Maurice Campbell.

It will be two weeks before William De Mille gets started upon "His Wife and His Friend." The cast has not yet been chosen.

CRITICISMS OF CURRENT RELEASES

"THE WONDER MAN"—(Robertson-Cole)

"The picture will catch on big because it has none of the unpleasant element usually attached to stories of the sporting fraternity. Carpentier screens well and has a magnetic personality; his appeal will be universal."—The Billboard.

"This production seems destined for success. It reveals unexpectedly a genuine talent possessed by the ring idol. His bearing is excellent, his camera presence that of a veteran, and the production promises much from the box office standpoint. It should be backed by extensive exploitation which is thoroughly justified."—Exhibitor's Herald.

"The sum of values in this Robertson-Cole super product is so high that it will prove a sure winner irrespective of the star's drawing powers, a thoroughly pleasing and clean entertainment of itself."—Moving Picture World.

"This is the first of a series of three pictures Georges Carpentier is under contract to make for Robertson-Cole. If his initial effort and drawing power are a criterion he should clean up a fortune without wasting a blow."—Variety.

"THE COURAGE OF MARGE O'DOONE"—(Vitagraph)

"A brown bear, a half-wolf dog, vast snow scenes, and rough unshaven men are the chief attractions of this filmization of the Northwest country. Lacks the sympathetic appeal of "Back to God's Country."—The Billboard.

"The result is a very draggy feature, where any number of uninteresting scenes are overshot while others with the real action did not get the footage that they deserved."—Variety.

"The story is well told. It is decidedly picturesque and beautifully photographed amid snow and ice that bespeaks the environment of the Curwood story. David Smith has done a master's job of directing."—Dramatic Mirror.

"THE MAN WHO LOST HIMSELF"—(Selznick)

"While the dominant element contributing to the composite of successful production is that of William Faversham's personality and fine interpretation, there are others of importance. The structure of the play deserves high commendation. It enlists interest from the outset and holds it through some very risqué situations."—Moving Picture World.

"William Faversham has turned out an exceptionally interesting, fascinating romantic drama produced in a comedy way, and made all the more absorbing by some ingenious double exposure. This screen vehicle is superior in many aspects for general motion picture appeal."—Variety.

"HUMORESQUE"—(Cosmopolitan)

"Throughout there is excellent acting."—Dramatic Mirror.

"Up to the middle it seemed like a wonderful picture. Then things began to slip. The continuity based by Frances Marion on the original story by Fannie Hurst was inadequate. Even so, you can throw over-

EDGAR LEWIS SIGNS NEW PATHE CONTRACT

Four or five big Edgar Lewis productions are assured for Pathe distribution during the coming year, under a new contract just signed by the producer and Mr. Paul Brunet, Vice-President and General Manager of Pathe Exchange, Inc.

This is exclusive of "Sherry" which has just been released, and "Lahoma" which Mr. Lewis has just completed for release in the early fall.

The new Lewis contract calls for the production of "four or five super-feature photographs to be produced during the year commencing on or about May 15th.

Karla Schram Doing Jane Porter in "The Return of Tarzan," at the California Theater.

board this and Frank Borzages at times illuminatingly careful direction—forget most of what went to make this a picture, and you will have left the appealing and moving performance set before you by Vera Gordon."—Variety.

"THE RETURN OF TARZAN"—(Numa-Goldwyn)

"The Return of Tarzan" is an improvement over the preceding Tarzan productions from at least one point of view—action. The story obviously has been arranged to give Tarzan every opportunity for adventure. It is a combination of coincidences that puts a heavy strain on credulity. At the close there are several loose ends not accounted for. The photography is very good."—Variety.

"The Return of Tarzan" forms a fitting sequel to the popular "Tarzan of the Apes." The scenes, well directed by George Mooser, contain a varied assortment of thrills, many of which keep the spectator on the edge of his seat."—Dramatic Mirror.

"THE WONDER MAN" BOOKED AT NEW YORK BROADWAY THEATRE

Moe Mark, director of the Strand Theatre, New York City, has booked "The Wonder Man," the Georges Carpentier picture. It will be shown, according to an announcement by Robertson-Cole, which is distributing the production, for a week in the New York house, immediately following the close of the Astor engagement, and in the Brooklyn house for the week following this.

Together with the Astor Hotel showing of eight days, which began Saturday evening, May 29th, this will give "The Wonder Man" fifteen days on Broadway.

"GOING SOME"

Rex Beach and Samuel Goldwyn presented the former's story, "Going Some" at the California Theatre last week. It is one of the most satisfactory farces produced by Goldwyn recently and scores heavily with the audience. The comedy touches are well placed and clever.

Cullen Landis plays J. Wallingford Speed entertainingly.

Lillian Hall does not particularly impress as Helen Blake, his superficial little sweetheart.

Kenneth Harlan and Ethel Gray Terry are satisfactory as Mr. and Mrs. Donald Keap.

Lillian Langdon characterizes splendidly the perhaps somewhat exaggerated role of Miz Gallagher.

M. B. Flynn is good as Skinner, and together with Walter Hiers who plays Berkeley Fresno and Snitz Edwards (Willy), provides general mirth.

Frank Braidwood and Nelson McDowell play respectively Culver Covington and Still Bill Stover. The former's part was obviously mutilated in the cutting room.

Others in the cast are Hayward Mack and Willard Louis.

Harry Beaumont directed.

"SAND"

William S. Hart in a typical Hart picture, "Sand," appeared last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre. The film contains one of the usual characterizations of the star, the same beautiful scenery, and the well remembered horseback thrills. A good cast supports.

Mary Thurman does the leading feminine role in a satisfying manner.

G. Raymond Nye plays well the not too unique heavy role, Garber.

Patricia Palmer adds a bit of complication as Josie Kirkwood, and William Patton plays Pete Beckett opposite her.

Hugh Saxon not only accomplishes a good characterization as "Pop" Young, but almost fools his friends with his effective make-up.

Lon Poff does Jim Kirkwood.

Lambert Hillyer directed.

"THE DESPERATE HERO"

Owen Moore appeared last week at Clune's Broadway in his current Selznick production, "The Desperate Hero." The story falls down sadly in entertainment value, principally on account of the star's obvious lack of interest. In the light of Moore's several late lacksadaisical offerings the above trait has become more than noticeable. His role is that of Henry Baird, an inconsequential part poorly interpreted.

Gloria Hope does Mabel Darrow, as well as possible taking into consideration the hopeless situations, indifferent opposite and insipid role provided for her.

Arthur Hoyt is well cast as "Whitty."

Others in the cast are: Henry Miller Jr., Charles Arline, Nell Craig, Virginia Caldwell, Emmett King and Tom Ricketts.

Wesley Ruggles directed.

"THE LOVE EXPERT"

Schenck presented Constance Talmadge in "The Love Expert" at the Kinema last week. The story is the usual Connie Talmadge vehicle, only much more so. In other words, Connie's screen offerings are steadily growing a bit naughtier. In any event the audience seemed to be more than entertained, as could possibly have been expected.

Sarah Y. Mason of the Metro Scenario Department started work on the script for "The Five Dollar Baby," which will be the first Irvin S. Cobb story to be filmed by Metro.

Doris Deane of Pasadena who recently returned to the East where she appeared in the supporting cast of the J. Stuart Blackton productions, is signed for the second lead in the next Mabel Normand picture for Goldwyn. Miss Deane is the niece of "Uncle Bill" Haas, publicity director for Jack Root's Strand Theatre in Pasadena.

Ruth Stonehouse has resigned with Metro for one of the leading parts in "Are All Men Alike?"

Alfred Allen will enact one of the important roles in "Blackmail," Viola Dana's new starring vehicle.

Miss Turner is the new casting director at Haworth Studio.

John Colton of the Universal scenario staff has finished a comedy-drama, tentatively called "The Hooch Hound," which will probably be used by Harry Carey.

John E. Elliott has been signed by Metro to support May Allison in "Are All Men Alike?"

Ann May is playing Bryant Washburn's lead in "Wanted, A Blemish."

Merwyn LeRoy, cousin of Jesse L. Lasky, has just finished with Ethel Clayton, and contemplates an early return to vaudeville.

Margaret Ettinger for several years connected with the trade and fan papers of the picture industry has made a connection with the Mabel Condon Exchange, where she will interest herself in publicity and casting.

Miss Ettinger succeeds Miss M. E. M. Gibson.

HARRY NORTHRUP WITH ANITA STEWART

Harry S. Northrup has been engaged by Louis D. Mayer to play an important role with Anita Stewart in "Sowing the Wind."

H. B. Lull has been appointed assistant to John W. Stahl by Louis B. Mayer in the direction of Anita Stewart's "Sowing the Wind."

Bradley King has joined the Thomas H. Ince Scenario staff to write originals and Clermont Pictures Corporation recently purchased the rights to "Beyond the Cross Roads" and Edith Storey has acquired the rights to "The Open Door," two published stories by this author, whose "Footlights and Shadows" recently starred Olive Thomas, and whose "The Gilded Butterfly" has been purchased as a starring vehicle for Eugene O'Brien.

John West, the European director, who came to America a few months ago to study American methods of production, will direct Chris Rub in a series of two-reel comedies.

Molly Malone has signed with the Goldwyn Studios to appear in their production for five years.

Harold Greve, New York architect and designer, has been added to the technical staff of the Robert Brunton studios, according to an announcement by Art Director Jack Oakley. Greve was formerly connected with the World Film Corporation in the East.

Lila Lee will play the lead opposite Wallace Reid in "The Charm School" under the direction of James Cruze.

R. S. Sanford has been chosen as the new assistant to Ernest C. Warde, who is now directing "The Devil to Pay," Robert Brunton's all star production.

Betty Francisco has been signed to play in the all star production at Lasky's which is being filmed under the direction of Wm. B. Taylor.

Billy Bevan is at present on his sixth consecutive picture playing opposite Louise Fazenda at the Mack Sennett studio. He is also working in one of Sennett's special five-reel pictures.

The latest addition to Benjamin B. Hampton's scenario department is Blanche May.

Rosemary Theby has been signed to play opposite Otis Skinner in "Kismet."

Jack Brammal is to play a part at the William Fox Studio under the direction of James Hogan.

Frank Losee has been engaged for the important part in support of Geraldine Farrar in her first Associated Exhibitors production being made in the East. The title of the picture is "The Riddle Woman."

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITORS VISIT BRUNTON PLANT

A party of twenty-six exhibitors from Sidney and Melbourne, Australia, were visitors last week at the Robert Brunton Film Plant.

Among the guests were H. L. Townsend, who controls thirty-one Australian picture houses, and James Colby, head of the Colby Theatres Syndicate.

After a luncheon at the Studio Cafeteria, the exhibitors inspected the three-hundred foot dark stage, the Italian garden, Mr. Brunton's Studio Home, Mary Pickford's Bungalow, the Hospital, and the Fire Department.

Before leaving the guests were taken to one of the projection rooms where they reviewed rushes of preliminary work on Robert Brunton's new feature, "The Devil to Pay."

FORD TO FEATURE TOD SLOANE

Francis Ford will direct Tod Sloane, former world known jockey, in a five-reel feature according to announcement.

George Hackathorne has finished in Allan Dwan's latest production and has gone to Riverside for a rest.

Maurice Tourneur denied the rumor that he will erect a Hollywood studio. He will continue to make pictures at Universal City.

Wallace MacDonald has refused an offer from Edward Jose to go East to play the leading role in Thomas Dixon's "The Way of a Man."

Edward Jobson has left on an automobile tour of Northern California, during the course of which he will visit his brother in San Francisco.

Hope Hampton made a flying trip to San Francisco last week.

After spending a week in Los Angeles as the guests of Jack Pickford and his wife, Olive Thomas, Myron Selznick, president of the Selznick Pictures Corporation and his brother, David, treasurer of that organization, left for New York last Sunday accompanied by Owen Moore, and his director, Victor Heerman.

Ruth Renick left this week with the George Melford company for a four or five weeks' sojourn in the Truckee and Big Bear country.

Sam Rork, president of the Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corporation, returned this week from San Francisco, where he held conferences with Eugene Roth relative to new production plans now under consideration.

Miss Patricia Owen, daughter of Seena Owen, recently celebrated her third birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Washburn, upon the completion of his present vehicle for Paramount-Artcraft will go vacationing to New York. It is possible the trip will be extended to Europe.

House Peters is soon to head his own producing company according to announcement.

Priscilla Dean has just returned from a week's trip to San Francisco.

Leonard Clapham is training for the Olympic Try-Outs.

PLAYWRIGHT ENTERTAINS

Winchell Smith gave a farewell dinner at Beverly Hills Hotel recently for the members of the cast and the officials of the Metro Studio who took part in the preparation of "The Saphead" from his story, "The New Henrietta."

Among the sixty guests were William H. Crane, Buster Keaton, Joseph A. Engel, and C. Allen Gilbert.

Mr. Smith will return to New York soon to supervise the production of his new stage play, "The Wheel."

Nelson McDowell, Who Appeared in "Going Some" at the California Last Week

ACCORDING TO SCOTTY

"Frank Braidwood after his latest exploits whilst taking motor scenes for Irvin Willat, has to drive on his lonesome."

Jack Wagner, production manager of the Allan Dwan productions, filmed the final scenes for Dwan's sixth Mayflower picture at Keen Camp last week.

David J. Chatkin, Secretary of the Marion H. Kohn productions, who recently visited New York to attend the independent producers' convention, has returned to the coast.

Gouverneur Morris is entertaining his friend, E. C. Potter of New York, at his home in Hollywood.

It is said that Eric Von Stroheim, Universal Director, is to wed Valerie Germondez, who played a leading role in "Blind Husbands."

Chester W. Babcock, Superintendent of Construction at the Robert Brunton Studios, was killed instantly last week, when he stumbled into a ravine behind his Sawtelle home and broke his neck.

Mr. Babcock was one of the oldest employees on the lot and the building of practically every large structure in the studios was done under his supervision.

Samuel Goldwyn, president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation of New York, is expected to arrive in Los Angeles the first of next week according to advices received at the Culver City Studio by Vice-President Abraham Lehr.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS' BALL

The Assistant Directors' Association is making plans for its second annual ball at present scheduled to be held the latter part of next month.

Where the affair is to be held is not yet announced, but it will probably be at one of the larger Hollywood studios.

Allan Watt and Chester Bennett, representing the committee in charge, are arranging the program.

ARTISTS HOLD RE-UNION

Six artists who studied together at the Julian Academy in Paris held a re-union in Hollywood last week. They were Ferdinand Earle, Ralph Willis, Ira Rempson, C. Allen Gilbert, David Anthony Tauszky, and Gilbert White.

Mrs. Braidwood, mother of Frank Braidwood, has just gone to Truckee to play a part with Lasky Corporation, under direction of Geo. Marshall.

Dorothy and Jack Morgan have returned from location at Victorville with Harry Carey.

The Lasky Scenario department is shortly to be enlarged by the addition of eleven rooms to be formed by a two-story annex to the present structure housing the literary fraternity of the plant.

Josephine Crowell plays an important role in Robert Thornby's all star production, "Half a Chance."

Charles Stumar has just returned from Yosemite Valley where he went to obtain scenic material for the latest Louise Glaum feature.

Harry Lichtig, players' personal representative, has just returned from a short vacation at Catalina Island. Mr. Lichtig recently placed Robert Henri, formerly of Special Pictures Corporation, in charge of the publicity department of the Lichtig offices in Hollywood.

Betty Blythe, having completed work in "Nomads of the North" for First National, is taking a vacation at Catalina Islands before commencing another production.

A recently patented cotton culling machine has claimed the attention of Sessue Hayakawa, and he has journeyed to San Diego to acquire an interest in the manufacture. On his return within the week he will at once commence work upon his new production, "The First Born," and will take his company to the Sacramento River valley for location scenes. While in New York, Hayakawa acquired the film rights to "East is East" which he will produce this year.

Rosemary Theby has entered into an agreement with a St. Louis newspaper to conduct a weekly column of film events.

Hope Loring, who has been in charge of Universal City serial and short reel department, has resigned to take an aeroplane honeymoon with her new husband, Lieut. Louis D. Lighton, former army aviator. After that she will devote her energies exclusively to feature scenarios.

Abraham Lehr, Vice-President of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, was recently made a member of the committee of Manufacture of the Chamber of Commerce. J. Stewart Woodhouse, Director of Publicity for the same organization, is a member of the Chamber of Commerce Committee on Publicity.

Continuity Writing

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay
Plots"

THE COUNTERFEIT TRAIL

Installment Ten

We now have some heavy dramatic acting for the girl who plays the part of Mary, in our story. Up to this time she has had very little to do.

137. INT. WALTON CABIN. CLOSEUP AT DOOR.

Of Mary as she comes into the door with a smile on her face—is going to tell Dad about the little water wheel that she has invented. She looks around the room for just a second—calls "Oh, Dad!" then sees the old man on the floor. Her expression changes to terror as she looks down at him.

138. INT. WALTON CABIN. FULL SCENE.

Mary at door—runs toward camera and falls on her knees by her Dad—calls to him—shakes him—discovers that he is dead—screams.

139. EXT. BRUSH NEAR CABIN.

Phil hears the girl's scream—exits hurriedly.

140. EXT. PATH. FLASH

Of Two Spot as he stops and listens—is trying to make up his mind whether or not to go back. This flash is put in to give Phil time to get to the cabin. Just about five feet of film.

141. INT. CABIN.

Mary crying over body of father. She turns to camera with tears streaming down her face. Presumably hears the entrance of Phil at the door.

142. INT. CABIN. CLOSEUP AT DOOR.

Of Phil as he sees Mary and an expression of alarm comes over his face.

143. INT. CABIN. FULL SCENE.

Phil comes over to where Mary is crying by the side of the old man's body. She sobs as she tells him that the old man is dead—that he had heart disease and how she came in and found him this way—and she breaks out with another burst of tears. Phil is all sympathy.

You will remember that we planted the fact in a spoken title from Two Spot early in the story, that the old man has heart trouble. This prevents our present situation from appearing to be a forced one.

Now we do not want to show Phil lifting the dead body of the old man and placing it on a couch. Such a scene would look awkward and be very disagreeable. Still, we want him to do it, so we will have to cover a little lapse of time here, during which we accomplish our purpose. Now while we are at it we might as well advance the story and establish further suspense. We can do this by showing that the sheriff suspects that Phil is in the vicinity of the Walton cabin and starts from town to the cabin. We must start him from town because we do not want him to show up at the cabin for some little time yet—until we have had a chance to show some very exciting action at the cabin.

144. EXT. SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

The sheriff comes on from his office—confers with a deputy a moment—says:

TITLE:

"THERE IS NO PLACE HE COULD BE HIDING AS WELL AS AT OLD WALTON'S CABIN. I'M GOING TO RIDE OVER THERE."

Back. The other man agrees that the sheriff is right. The sheriff mounts his horse and rides out.

145. INT. WALTON CABIN. FULL SCENE.

Phil has placed the old man on the couch. Mary is standing nearby—in tears. Their attention is attracted by the approach of Two Spot, as they look through window.

146. EXT. NEAR CABIN. FLASH.

Two Spot coming up path toward camera. Remember when you show a character look off scene at something, to flash that something right away.

147. INT. WALTON CABIN. SAME AS 145.

Phil grabs Mary's arm. He recognizes Two Spot as the leader of the mob that has tried to lynch him. He says to Mary:

TITLE:

"I'VE GOT TO GET THAT FELLOW, LITTLE GAL! HAVEN'T GOT TIME TO EXPLAIN NOW!"

Back. As he speaks title Phil reaches for the old man's rifle on the wall and starts to level it on Two Spot through the window. Mary grabs his arm.

148. EXT. CABIN. FLASH SEMI-CLOSEUP.

Of Two Spot as he comes toward camera and stops and listens.

This scene prolongs our suspense here. Will Phil shoot Two Spot? It also gives Mary time to tell Phil that Two Spot is her father's friend—which she believes to be

149. INTERIOR WALTON CABIN.

Mary pleading with Phil. He hesitates as he lets the muzzle of the gun down. Mary motions toward the closet. Phil shakes his head—tells her that he will face Two Spot. She shoves him, or half drags him, off scene. We will save a scene here and at the same time keep the audience guessing. We will not show the girl shove Phil into a closet, but will cut to Two Spot instead. This will leave our audience guessing for a few minutes as to where Phil is.

150. EXT. WALTON CABIN.

Two Spot comes on and enters the cabin. Now our stage is set for some real business, which takes place in our next and last installment. Do not miss it.

SOME POSITIONS PROVED

Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts has been nominated for Vice-President by the Republican party. In view of which, it is interesting to note that the Governor has this month proven his fairness and interest in the welfare of our profession by vetoing a very undesirable censorship bill which was recently passed by the Massachusetts legislature.

He considers that the measure is unconstitutional in that it violates the constitutional guarantee of freedom of expression. Hence the veto.

A victory of such a kind, and the man who made it possible will not be overlooked by the Motion Picture Industry, when it is in a position to assist him in any manner.

Right in line with this, comes the consideration of the possibility that McAdoo will be nominated for President on the Democratic ticket. Los Angeles film folk, in such an event, will be liable to remember his picture connections, chief among which was his association with the "Big Four."

Candidates have long been forced to express themselves upon big issues. It is time that the pictureman's questions were answered beforehand also; and the individual or individuals who do so satisfactorily, may look for the profession's political support. The infant industry is "coming along."

CURRENT REVIEWS

As Babs, the star has a characteristic role and makes the most of it.

John Halliday "gets by" with Jim Winthrop mostly as a result of the comparative unimportance of the part.

Marion Sitgreave is so amateurish that she ruins Aunt Emily.

Natalie Talmadge, as Dorcas Winthrop, Fannie Bourke as Matilda Winthrop, and Nellie Spalding as Aunt Cornelia are all well cast.

Others in the cast are: Arnold Lucy, James Spottwood, David Kirkland and Edward Kapler.

David Kirkland directed.

Jean Calhoun has been signed by Allen Holubar for an important role in Dorothy Phillips' first independent starring vehicle.

Florence Deshon has completed work in the leading role opposite William Russell, and has signed for a part in "Curtain!" with Katherine MacDonald.

James Morrison has just arrived in Los Angeles to play the juvenile lead in Anita Stewart's latest production, "Sowing the Wind."

Thomas Holding has been engaged as leading man for Carmel Myers in her Universal feature "In Folley's Trail."

Eugene Corey is playing "The Great Lover" at the Goldwyn Studio.

Clarence B. Luddy has entered into a long term contract with Hank Mann for whom he will henceforth devote his services in the preparation of forthcoming stories for the comedian.

CONCERNING CONTINUITY

The present series of articles on Continuity Writing, by Wycliffe A. Hill, will end with the issue of June 26. It has been devoted to the construction of the melodrama.

Would the readers of Camera! be interested in another series treating upon the construction of the comedy, which is a totally different phase of photoplay writing? If so, let us hear from you. Fill out the blank below and mail it in.

DWAN FINISHES

Allen Dwan has completed filming his sixth and last picture under his contract with the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation. The production has not been named. Several weeks will be devoted to its cutting, editing and titling by the directors.

ANOTHER "JIGGS" STORY TO BE RELEASED

"Jiggs and the Social Lion" is the title of the third of the "Bringing Up Father" Comedies. The picture will be released by

Cecil B. de Mille is still in the throes of preparation for his new production, the starting date for which is yet indefinite. Forrest Stanley, stage and screen actor, has been signed by Mr. de Mille as leading man, but no definite choice has yet been made of a leading woman.

Madge Tyrone, former newspaper woman and author, is now a member of the scenario staff at the Louis B. Mayer studio and is working on the First National offerings of both Anita Stewart and Mildred Harris Chaplin.

Jack Conway, who recently finished "The Money Changers" for Benjamin B. Hampton, is vacationing between pictures in the San Jacinto mountains.

Robert McKim has been loaned by Benjamin B. Hampton to Robert Brunton for one picture, "The Devil to Pay," an all-star special directed by Ernest C. Warde. Claire Adams, also of Mr. Hampton's repertory, goes to Goldwyn for a picture, "The Great Lover." Both players had important roles in "The Money Changers." Mr. Hampton's big special adaptation of the Upton Sinclair novel.

Edward Jobson has commenced work in an important role written for him by Finis Fox, in "the Turning of the Worm."

Mollie McConnell has recovered from her long illness, and will start work next week at the Ince studio in a picture with Douglas McLean.

THE SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wish the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past year in regard to the submission of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

ANITA STEWART CO., 3800 MISSION ROAD, LOS ANGELES. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, SANTA BARBARA, CALIF., is in the market for strong stories requiring balanced casts.

N. W. ARONSON, CRUSADER SERVICE, CITIZENS TRUST BLDG. Pico 750. Author's representative. Books only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY, CALIF. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; and feature character stories for Priscilla Dean.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST., LOS ANGELES. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust Avenue, New York.

D. N. SCHWAB PRODUCTIONS (Inc.), AT HOLLYWOOD STUDIO, 6642 SANTA MONICA BLVD., is in the market for 5 and 6 reel comedy dramas for David Butler, preferably stories befitting the big, smiling country boy type, with at least part of the setting in rural locale.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG., LOS ANGELES. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

HERMANN FILM CORPORATION, 2435 Wilshire Blvd., Santa Monica, Calif. In the market for Five Reel Dramas, also two reel comedies and serials.

HAWORTH STUDIO, 4500 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES, is in the market for scenarios for Sessue Hayakawa, who plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels. Also desire scenarios for Edith Storey, with strong dramatic roles, dealing with society or out of doors.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCTION COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES. One-reel short stories for Teddy Sampson, Harry Depp, Molly Malone and Ray Gallagher.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

KING VIDOR PRODUCTIONS, 6411 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., HOLLYWOOD: Will consider synopses, scenarios, books or play strong in heart interest and "homey atmosphere." Five reels or more.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS., LOS ANGELES. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 7100 SANTA MONICA BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner and W. Desmond; 5 reels. Also 6 and 7 reel features for Blanche Sweet.

METRO, LOS ANGELES. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melo-dramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

Ye Home Folks—

Why Deprive Yourself Of the joy to be found in planning your own HOME?
Of the satisfaction in owning a HOME "Built for YOU"?
And of the saving that you'll make by building?

You'll Save The usual profit that an owner makes, and have you any idea what the average is?

You'll Save The commission that is usually paid an agent. And you'll save money on the labor and material.

Building activity this spring is less than 50 per cent of what it should be, based on a very conservative estimate of the fall demand for homes, and on account of this inactivity, building material, lumber especially, is being sold locally at greatly reduced prices, and likewise good labor and skilled mechanics are more easily obtained.

The majority of real estate and home owners are aware of the above facts, and in most cases they predict that the shortage of homes this fall will even be in excess of last fall. Therefore very few, if any, are making any "sacrifices" on well-built and desirable homes.

Consequently, doesn't it seem to you that NOW IS THE PSYCHOLOGICAL TIME TO BUILD?

It does to us, and we will furnish the plans and specifications and build your home to suit your individual ideas for the actual cost of the labor and material, plus 10 per cent.

You will save money by coming to see us, unless you delay until material takes an advance, which we predict will be shortly.

MODERN MOTOR CARS

THE Moon responds so readily to spark and throttle that one almost forgets it is a thing of mechanical parts.

The high-speed motor accelerates from the pace of a walk to 45 and 50 miles an hour with lightning-like rapidity and without a single false vibration.

Motor flexibility is made absolute by a matchless oiling system that lubricates automatically under all conditions of speed and strain.

The finish and fit of body parts gives visual evidence of Moon capacity for sturdy performance. Full cord tire equipment cushions its pathway.

These and the many other Moon endowments are included at a price within the bounds of reason.

THE EXHIBITOR WILL DECIDE

From over the entire country, the exhibitor has issued a cry which has taken on the note of a warning. Obviously, he is dissatisfied with the conditions under which he must operate, and his dissatisfaction is more than liable to alter them materially.

The day seems to have passed when the picture showman, either big or little, must or will receive cheerfully any sort of a deal that is handed him by the releasing organizations. He is demanding what he considers square treatment, and we have an idea that he will obtain what he desires.

That he is at present a vital factor to be dealt with, was demonstrated by the Exhibitor's Convention at Cleveland, this month, where unprecedented things were accomplished in that department of the industry.

One thing is certain, if many of the alleged unfairnesses of the big organizations are substantiated, a revolution will issue that is bound to reach clear through to the producer. Briefly, the independent exchanges will receive the patronage heretofore cornered by capital, which will naturally open up unlimited possibilities for meritorious independent productions which have had little chance under the old regime.

Will such be the case, or will the big exchanges discover in time that in this instance, the welfare of the exhibitor means not only their own progress, but their very life?

THE INDIFFERENT ACTOR

It is presumably inevitable that we shall be entertained and irritated respectively by the work of clever actors and unsatisfactory ones. Moreover, it may even be necessary, if we wish to retain a comparative set of values, for such to be the case, since it is by contrasts that standards are established.

There is, however, one characteristic brought repeatedly to our attention recently, which must be eliminated from the actor's list of possessions for the benefit of himself, his company, and the discriminating fan. This is because there is no trait that, quick to reveal its presence to the educated cinema patron, is more annoying than mere indifference.

It is surprising to note the number of clever actors and well-known stars who have been allowing carelessness to ruin productions made by them under contracts procured on the strength of thoughtful work done in the past. The fact that an actor may hold a long term contract does not justify work of an inferior nature, and even if he considers only his own welfare, he should be brought to the realization that such a course will bring direct disaster upon himself.

During the past few months there has been a growing tendency for actors of ability to slump in this inexcusable fashion. The producer should remedy such a condition by refusing to accept slighted, poorly thrown together work. That he neglects this displays inefficiency on more parts than one.

The day of hit or miss, slimy picture construction belongs to the dead past. It should be forgotten.

WHY THANK ANYBODY?

"A resolution presented at the Cleveland convention last week, to thank the trade press, was withdrawn when an exhibitor-delegate read from 'Wid's' an article he termed a deliberate mis-statement. The convention seemingly agreed with the speaker. Regardless, though, why thanks to the trade press? What does the trade press do that entitles it to thanks? Whenever a showman wants to give thanks for publicity, give it to a daily or a magazine. That's publicity that's extra, not in the trade press that must publish the news of the trade. Some of the trade press is always upholding the trade, 'friendly'—because it thinks there's money in that policy. Others of the trade press may be against the trade when there isn't enough money in it for them, and so on. Don't kid the trade press and don't let the trade press kid you, nor any theatrical paper, like Variety or anything else. A showman runs his theatre or show to attract business. Yes? Well, a newspaper of any trade runs itself to attract business the way that looks the easiest to it. All show business is showmanship which takes in the ever-increasing trade press."

The above extract from the current issue of Variety reminded us of several recent local demonstrations of the attitude herein treated. Why say more?

LASKY COMPANIES

Truckee, California, is the present scene of George Melford's activities for the production of "The Jucklins," Paramount picture, with an all-star cast.

Wallace Reid, under the direction of James Cruze, journeyed last week to a nearby town to secure scenes of a large school building for "The Charm School." Alice Duer Miller's story, which was scenarized by Tom Geraghty.

Ethel Clayton, having completed her last Paramount picture in the West Coast studios for some time, has departed for New York where she will leave for Europe for a tour. Meanwhile, Tom Forman, director of the picture, which is temporarily titled, "Rosanne Ozanne," and was scenarized by Mary H. O'Connor, is completing the picture with a number of scenes which do not require the presence of the star.

Roscoe, "Fatty" Arbuckle, directed by Joseph Henabery, is still in Jamestown, California, making the exterior scenes for "The Traveling Salesman," adapted by Walter Woods from the James Forbes play of the same name. Betty Ross Clark is leading woman for Mr. Arbuckle.

William de Mille, it is believed, will not be able to start his Paramount picture, "His Friend and His Wife," by Cosmo Hamilton, with scenario by Genevieve Daniel, until about the middle of July, owing to extensive sets that must be prepared. Ora Carewe and Conrad Nagel will play the leads in an all star cast.

Cecil B. de Mille will probably start within a couple weeks on his newest Paramount production, concerning which there is no information available.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Erich Von Stroheim and his staff of directorial and technical assistants are busy with their preparations for the production of "Foolish Wives."

Albert Russell has reached the sixteenth episode of the "Moon Riders," starring Art Acord.

Hoot Gibson is now at work on his latest action Western, "Marryin'."

Reeves Eason is busy with the manuscript of "Out of the Sky," in which he will direct Edith Roberts.

William Craft is filming the final scenes of "The World Inside," a drama featuring Eileen Sedgwick and Joy Moore.

Jacques Jaccard with a company of sixteen people and enough provisions to last them a month, have departed for Little Bear, where outdoor scenes for a series of three two-reel pictures will be taken.

UNION LABEL FINISHES COMEDY

Fred Caldwell, director of the Union Label Film Company, announces the completion of another of a series of two-reel comedies featuring Cost Angeles.

Louise Lamont plays the feminine lead.

FILMING ANITA STEWART FEATURE

Production has been started on "Sowing the Wind," the new Louis B. Mayer First National attraction, starring Anita Stewart. It is from the play of the same name by Sydney Grundy. John W. Stahl is directing and Rene Guissart is in charge of the photography and effects.

ROBERT GORDON FINISHING VITAGRAPH SPECIAL

Robert Gordon will complete work next week in the Vitagraph Special now bearing the title, "The Vice of Fools," for which he was engaged by special arrangement by J. Stewart Blackton. Mr. Gordon's contract with Blackton expires in July.

THORNBY DIRECTING SWEET

Following the recent completion of "Half a Chance," which is his initial special, Robert Thornby has returned to the production of Blanche Sweet features.

He commenced this week the picturization of Marah Ellis Ryan's novel, "That Girl Montana." The exteriors will consume at least three weeks in the making and will be filmed at Truckee, Calif.

George Webb in "Let's Be Fashionable" at Clune's Broadway this week.

PRODUCTION STARTED ON "SO LONG, LETTY"

They have commenced filming "So Long Letty," at the Christie Studios, which was adapted for the screen from the stage farce in which Charlotte Greenwood starred.

MARION DAVIES TO WORK AT BRUNTON

The International Film Company, releasing through Cosmopolitan Films, and featuring Marion Davies, has taken offices at the Brunton Studios, and commenced technical work on her new picture, "Buried Treasure."

Direction is under George Baker.

Miss Davies will probably arrive in Los Angeles this week.

BRUNTON SERIAL COMPANY TO GO ON LOCATION

The seventh episode of Charles Hutchinson's serial, "The Double Adventure," now being produced by Robert Brunton, has been completed, and work will begin at once on the eighth.

Director W. S. Van Dyke expects to take the company on an extended location trip to San Diego this week.

UNIVERSAL ACQUIRES NEW STORIES

The Universal Scenario Department announces the purchase of "The Orchid" from the pen of Marguerita C. Storrs, which will serve as a starring vehicle for Carmel Myers; "West Is West," by Eugene Manlove Rhodes, which will be used for Harry Carey; "White Youth," by Clara Barringer and Forrest Halsey, and "Black Friday," the novel by Frederick S. Isham, which will be used as a starring vehicle for Frank Mayo.

"THE RETURN OF TARZAN"

"The Return of Tarzan," the Numa production distributed by Goldwyn, showed last week at the California and is showing this week at Miller's. The story is more or less episodic as presented and strains the audience's credulity somewhat, but it certainly will never be accused of lack of action.

Gene Pollar plays "Tarzan," not exactly according to our conception of the ape man, but he is so taken up with one hand-to-hand battle after another, that we haven't the heart to blame him. He has a terrible time.

Karla Schram does Jane Porter, the feminine lead. Interest would have been added had this role been introduced a bit sooner in the production.

George Romain and Estelle Taylor appear in the parts of the Count and Countess De Coude. There is no reason for their inclusion in the adaptation, save that they provide four or five additional fights for the jungle hero.

Ormand Cortez and Louis Stearns enact the persistent "Villyuns" in a manner which further encourages Tarzan to fistic expressions.

Others in the cast are Walter Miller and Franklin B. Coates, and Estelle Evans.

Harry Revier directed.

"THE MOLLYCODDLE"

Douglas Fairbanks' latest and best, opened last week for an indefinite run at Grauman's Rialto. The story is exceptionally entertaining and unusually consistent. The comedy touches are clever and well placed. The entire cast is good and the production setting among the Hopi Indians of the painted desert is as instructive as it is novel.

The star without doubt offers in "The Mollycoddle" his best work. For once he has an excuse to allow his personality and imagination full range.

Ruth Renick is a delightful lead for Fairbanks and plays her part of the secret service agent convincingly.

Wallace Beery is more than satisfactory in a characteristic role, Van Holker.

Four or five supplementary parts are included in the whole which, though inconsequential in themselves, add complication to the plot and form an interesting background for the main action.

Victor Fleming directed.

"REMODELING HER HUSBAND"

Dorothy Gish, under the direction of Sister Lillian, remodeled her husband, at Clune's Broadway last week. The story, which deals with a theme that it is unwise to burlesque, is handled fairly well under the circumstances, and there are several good laughs in the production occasioned entirely by the star's eccentric mannerisms.

James Rennie is satisfactory in the more or less inane role of Hubby, who scarcely seems worth remodeling.

Others in the cast are Marie Burke, Downing Clarke and Frank Kingdon.

"THE FIGHTING SHEPHERDESS"

"The Fighting Shepherdess," a Louis B. Mayer attraction, starring Anita Stewart, showed last week at the Symphony. The story is a melodrama of the old type, but it is entertaining and is an improvement on recent Stewart vehicles. The entire cast is unusually good.

Wallace MacDonald does Hugh Disston, the male lead, cleverly, and forms an interesting opposite for the star.

Noah Beery creates a real character in Mormon Joe, the kindly old shepherd, and Walter Long is convincing as Pete Mulendore, the Mexican heavy.

KINEMA TO HAVE PREMIER OF SENNETT FIVE-REELER

The Kinema will shortly stage the premier of Mack Sennett's First National five-reeler entitled "Married Life." Jack Callicott is making arrangements to surround the comedy with an atmospheric bill. Ben Turpin is expected to make a personal appearance during the evening presentations.

Ruth King, who is playing the lead with Edgar Lewis in "A Beggar in Purple"

Eugenie Besserer further proves her versatility by her work as Jezebel, the star's mother.

Gibson Gowland is Bowers to everyone's satisfaction, and Calvert Carter is good as the mayor.

The cast includes in addition John Hall, Billie DeVall, Maud Wayne, Ben Lewis, and Will Jeffries.

Edward Jose directed.

"HOMER COMES HOME"

Charlie Ray played again at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre last week in a Thos. H. Ince production, "Homer Comes Home." The story, while a wild dream of childhood, is yet one of general appeal, and has a sufficient number of laughs and heart throbs to be thoroughly entertaining. The star is at his best, and the remainder of the cast cleverly enacts typical small town roles.

Priscilla Bonner does the little country town girl, who is the feminine lead, delightfully. Although not very well known she is an artless depicter of the regular girl.

Ralph Fee McCollough is very good as the petty villain, and his action assists the plot materially.

Jerome Storm directed.

KELLERMAN PICTURE HAS NEW YORK PREVIEW

Sol Lesser has wired his associates, the Gore Brothers, that his "What Women Love," with Annette Kellerman, had a preview last Tuesday evening at the Broadway Theatre. Mr. Lesser will announce his distributing plans within a week.

Kathleen O'Connor has just signed up with an eastern organization to play leads in a forthcoming production.

TWO FEATURES ON PATHE'S PROGRAM FOR JULY

Two feature productions for July release by Pathe are "A Broadway Cowboy," a farce produced by Hampton with William Desmond in the title role, and "Man and His Woman," a dramatic offering produced and directed by J. Stuart Blackton.

The release dates are July 4th for "A Broadway Cowboy," and July 11th for "Man and His Woman."

The Blackton picture will present the following cast: Herbert Rawlinson, May McAvoy, Warren Chandler, Eulalie Jensen, Charles Kent and Louis Dean.

HOLUBAR PRODUCTION TO BE RELEASED THROUGH FIRST NATIONAL

Negotiations were concluded this week whereby Allan Holubar and Dorothy Phillips will distribute their first independently produced feature through the First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

The deal was closed between Albert Kaufman, former Famous Players-Lasky executive, who stands sponsor for Holubar, and J. D. Williams, general manager of First National.

The director and star have adjusted all legal difficulties between Universal and themselves, and are now free agents, making their own productions.

The first offering, a seven-reel feature, will be ten weeks in preparation.

CRITICISMS OF LATE RELEASES "REMODELING HER HUSBAND"

"Directed and played by a woman star, should attract interest, a story only mildly amusing. Would fall decidedly flat minus the Gish mannerisms."—The Billboard.

"This is Lillian Gish's first attempt at directing, and probably because of the fact that she is a novice and furthermore, had to direct her own sister, she allowed Dorothy to occupy the center of the stage most of the time to the exclusion of the story, plot and everything. It is a Lillian-Dorothy sketch of five reels. Will probably please as well as the average five-reeler, but don't expect too much from it."—Exhibitors' Herald.

GEORGE B. SEITZ COMPLETES SERIAL FOR PATHE

George B. Seitz has completed the serial "Velvet Fingers," in which he will star with Marguerite Courtot, and has commenced production of "Rogues and Romances," the feature in which Pathe will star him with June Caprice. Mr. Seitz intends filming but few of the scenes, interior of "Rogues and Romances" in his New York studio, for on July 6th he will sail with a company to Algeciras, Spain, where the major portion of the scenes will be taken.

NOVEL FEATURES IN SALISBURY FILM

A film without a single cut-back will be presented by Monroe Salisbury in his independently produced picture, "The Barbarian."

Salisbury considers that the successful photoplay story must be told in direct continuity.

The feature is also novel in that it has no heavy. The film will have all scenic titles obtained by a double exposure process.

The company is now on location at Castle Lake in the Mount Shasta country.

FIRST NATIONAL TO RELEASE DWAN FEATURE

Allan Dwan's initial release through First National will be Harold MacGrath's "A Splendid Hazard," with Henry Walthall in the leading role supported by Ann Forrest.

ARCHER McMACKIN

Archer McMackin, director, and Carl Widen, cameraman, have been loaned by the Historical Film Corporation to the F. S. Wythe Pictures Corporation of San Francisco, to make a short series of educational films to be used in public schools. The Historical Film Company that is filming the Bible, is awaiting the completion of several large Palestine sets, which will require several weeks for completion before the Bible players will again don the grease paint and flowing robes.

Mr. McMackin has completed cutting the second of the two-reel subjects, which will later find their place in the completed "Pageant of the Bible," to be released in two-reel episodes until the entire 104 reels are completed.

Mr. McMackin is well known in picture circles both in Los Angeles and New York, being one of the pioneer directors. He entered the picture business first as scenario editor of the Essanay. After two years' editorial work was given the megaphone. He has directed Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne, Dorothy Phillips, Dolores Cassinelli, Bryant Washburn, and others. For several years he specialized in light comedy, having handled the American Beauty comedies. He also initiated Flanagan and Edwards, "The Hall-Room Boys" into picture work and made the first four pictures of this series, released by National.

Mr. McMackin is the originator of exterior night photography and is a specialist in lighting effects. He is the author of more than five hundred original subjects and director of nearly as many produced subjects.

His latest picture, soon to be released, is "Lucid Intervals," starring Douglas MacLean, a Thomas H. Ince feature.

Mr. McMackin was selected by the Bible company because of his familiarity with the subject, and special qualifications for this type of work. In his search for Bible subjects he has accumulated more than twenty-odd Bibles. The collection contains many rare old tomes, one of them bearing the date "London, 1599". This particular Bible is designated by collectors as the "Breeches Bible," and was printed several years before the St. James version, now accepted as the standard translation for the Protestant churches. The appellation "Breeches" is given it because, in Genesis it is written that Adam and Eve made themselves "breeches" out of fig leaves with which they did cover themselves. All other translations differ, reading "aprons" instead of "breeches". This rare edition is claimed by collectors to be valued at several hundred dollars. Mr. McMackin found the volume on a dusty shelf in a Los Angeles book store and purchased it for a song.

The first subject, directed by McMackin, will be released under the title of "As We Forgive." The story is founded on St. Paul's Epistle to Philemon, one of the shortest books of the New Testament, but one containing a dramatic story. The production was photographed at Santa Barbara. The cast includes Albert Van Antwerp, in the role of Onesimus, Allan Garcia, as Philemon, Gordon Sackville as St. Paul, with D. Mithoras, Whitney Raymond, Henry Christen Warnack and others in important roles.

Alic Terry will have an important role in "The Four Horsemen of The Apocalypse."

Grace Morse is to be seen in an important role of "Let's Be Fashionable," Douglas MacLean's current offering at Clune's Broadway.

WINIFRED WESTOVER TO BE STARRED ABROAD

Winifred Westover has left for a five-months' stay in Sweden, where she will be starred in Swedish authors' plays.

Ben Alexander is working in the current Harry Carey special.

Claire Adams has been loaned to Benjamin B. Hampton by Goldwyn for one picture.

Charles Gordon, who has just completed the lead opposite Bessie Love in "Bonnie May"

METRO SCENARIO CHIEF HOME

June Mathis, head of Metro's West Coast scenario department, is again at her desk in Hollywood, after a hurried trip to New York.

Ralph Lewis has been signed by Louis B. Mayer to play "Bragazon" in Anita Stewart's "Sowing the Wind."

Bennie Singer has been appointed casting director at the Metro Studio.

Edward Connelly has been cast in an important role in "Someone in His House," upon which production will start in a few days under the direction of John E. Ince at Metro.

Lew Morrison is at the Kinema this week in "Burning Daylight," playing Dan McDonald.

Hayden Talbot, playwright and author, has been permanently engaged as a member of the scenario staff at Metro.

Ora Carew has signed a contract to appear in "His Friend and His Wife," Wm. de Mille's next production for Paramount.

Waldemar Young, formerly connected with the scenario departments of Universal, Louis B. Mayer and Brunton Studios, has been signed by Bayard Veiller, head of Metro Scenario staff, to write a minimum of four scenarios a year.

Ray Elwyn has been engaged by Louis B. Mayer to play the mother in "Sowing the Wind."

Edward Jobson is the newest member of the Metro stock company, having signed a long term contract with that company last week.

Hulbert Footner is the first of a list of writers under Metro contract to reach the company's West Coast studios.

Stuart Holmes has been engaged to enact one of the leading roles in "Body and Soul," Alice Lake's new starring vehicle.

Helen Jerome Eddy will start work soon in "The First Born," Sessue Hayakawa's next picture, which is his first production under his new contract with Robertson-Cole.

Florence Turner has signed with Metro to support Viola Dana in her new starring picture, "Blackmail."

William Irving is the first member of the cast selected for the Metro production of "Someone in the House."

Elinor Fair has been cast to appear opposite Otis Skinner in his production of "Kismet."

Courtney Foote has signed with Metro to enact the leading male role in "The Star Rover," the Jack London story upon which production was started this week under the direction of Edward Sloman. Mr. Foote was brought from New York for the picture.

Fred Kelsey has been engaged by Metro to play a part in "Blackmail."

Arthur Millett is now with Wm. Farnum at Catalina on location.

Edward Peil has just signed up to play the heavy with Blanche Sweet, Jesse Hampton production.

A. D. A. AFTER PHOTOS

Plans have been made by the Assistant Directors' Association to secure an autographed photo of each and every motion picture producer and star, which will be framed and hung in the club rooms. Several pictures have already been obtained.

Erich Von Stroheim announces that Jack Proctor and Seigmund Herzog will act as his assistant directors in the filming of the next Universal-Jewel production, "Foolish Wives." Ben Reynolds will be chief cameraman and Alfred W. Alley, his technical director.

Paul Hurst, who is to direct a production to be made by the Laguna Del Rey Art Film Company, was a visitor in Los Angeles this week. He was accompanied by Hedda Nova, his wife and the star of the Laguna company's new picture.

Jack Livingston is preparing for a tour through Canada with "The Golden Trail," a picture made in Portland some time ago with Jane Novak in the lead.

Work is progressing steadily on Robert Brunton's initial all star production, "The Devil to Pay."

The Morosco Theatre was taken over one night last week by the Katherine McDonald company at the end of the evening's performance for the period of twelve hours for the purpose of securing scenes for Miss McDonald's newest film play, "Curtain!" The picture is under the direction of James Young and is in the third week of production.

As a sequel to his Wallingford stories George Randolph Chester has written "The Son of Wallingford," for Vitagraph.

Carter De Haven has recovered from an attack of ptomaine poisoning, and is proceeding upon his film version of "Twin Beds."

Eileen Percy's first picture for Fox will be "Myra Meets His Family."

On the completion of his third independent picture, "Girls Don't Gamble Any More" for the D. N. Schwab Productions, David Butler will leave for a vacation in New York. While there he will attend to business relative to the release of his pictures and the purchase of new stories for production.

Hank Mann, Charlie Parrott, and Vernon Dent, members of Lodge 9, B. P. O. E., participated in the festivities of the Elks' Annual two-day barbecue, which was celebrated last Saturday and Sunday in Elks Canyon, near San Bernardino.

Dwight Cleveland, chief of the Jesse D. Hampton scenario department, is lining up suitable subjects for the Robert Thornby and Henry King specials.

William Duncan, Edith Johnson, and other members of his Vitagraph serial company, are taking a brief rest upon the completion this week of "The Silent Avenger." Mr. Duncan will start another serial soon.

Frances Edmunds is entertaining her entire company for a week at Catalina.

Larry Semon is taking a brief recreation trip before commencing his next special Vitagraph comedy early next week.

MASTER PICTURES TO COMMENCE SECOND FEATURE

The first picture of The Master Pictures, Inc., is nearing completion with an all star cast in which W. L. Hall is playing the lead.

Casting of the second Feature Play has commenced, and work will start on the same within a week. It will be a six-reeler with a large cast.

George King will direct the second picture and Hotaling, who made the first, will likewise direct the third.

Alfred Allen, who is playing Nathaniel Letton in "Burning Daylight" at the Kinema. Mr. Allen will be remembered as "Hell Morgan."

MR. LEVEE IN SAN FRANCISCO

M. C. Levee, business manager of the Robert Brunton Studios, left last week for San Francisco on a combined business and pleasure trip. He was accompanied by Mrs. Levee and will probably return to Los Angeles by motor.

STORY SECURED FOR WARNER

"The Checked Suit," a story by Freeman Putney, Jr., has been secured by Jesse D. Hampton as a starring vehicle for H. B. Warner.

Fred Myton, adapter of "Simple Souls," is writing the scenario.

Laura La Varnie suffered a severe fall down a staircase during the filming of a scene in John Ince's picture at Metro Studio. In consequence, she is going to take a course of treatments at Dr. McCoy's sanitarium.

Statements that King Vidor has settled on Clare Kummer's stage success, "A Successful Calamity," for his next First National Exhibitors Circuit release, are denied by him.

Waldemar Young, who wrote the screen adaptation of Mary Pickford's recently completed production, "Suds," has been engaged to provide the continuity for her next picture, which will be made at the Brunton Studios upon the star's return from Europe.

TITLE CHANGED

The title of Harry Carey's next Western picture, which comes to the Superba shortly, has been changed from "Fighting Job" to "Blue Streak McCoy." The story was written by H. H. Van Loan.

George Loane Tucker will be four more weeks cutting, editing and titling his second independent production to be presented by Mayflower, "Ladies Must Live."

Sidney A. Franklin is on a vacation at Yosemite.

Sylvia Breamer has been invited to participate in a San Diego Auto Club's reception to the Los Angeles automobile men.

"The Great Accident," starring Tom Moore, which is at the California Theatre this week, is a screen adaptation of the Ben Ames Williams story, which recently appeared in serial form in the Saturday Evening Post.

When the current Maurice Tourneur production, "The Tiger Lady," starring Hope Hampton, is finished Miss Hampton will go East to make a picture written by H. H. Van Loan.

Marcelle Le Picard, filmer of Goldwyn plays, has been elected to membership in the American Society of Cinematographers.

Charles Gordon has just finished the lead with Bessie Love in "Bonnie May."

Ariel Ghazalla finishes her sixth and last week engagement at the California Theatre this week. It is rumored that she is to have her own company.

Allan Dwan is engaged in cutting and titling his last Mayflower production.

Ben Turpin has been spending the past week vacationing after completing his strenuous role in the Mack Sennett-First National comedy, "Married Life."

Lillian Leighton is going with Sam Woods, who is directing Wanda Hawley in "The Masked Ball."

Through the courtesy of Allan Dwan, Tony Gaudio has been loaned to the Kismet Company to film that production.

Al Rogell is in town between trip to New York with the Bessie Love features, "The Midlanders" and "Bonnie May."

Wallace Clifton has been added to the Universal scenario staff under Lucien Hubbard's supervision.

Jack Roseleigh, who has just completed a season playing the lead opposite Mme. Kalisch in the stage presentation of "The Riddle Woman," is a recent addition to the Jesse D. Hampton productions.

Ernest Butterworth, Jr., has been engaged to play "Danny" in Edgar Lewis' production, "The Beggar in Purple."

Macey Harlan has arrived here from New York to play the heavy in Betty Compson's second starring production, which has not yet been named. When Mr. Harlan completes the role he will return to New York.

Virgina Norden, who has been acting in an executive capacity at the Louis B. Mayer Studios, is making preparations for a visit to New York on confidential business for Mr. Mayer.

Continuity Writing

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay Plots"

THE COUNTERFEIT TRAIL

Installment Eleven

We started out in the beginning to write this continuity in about 160 scenes. Now we already have 150. Luckily, however, we are getting mighty close to the end of the story—so we will not miss it very far. Things are going to happen mighty quick and fast in the next dozen scenes. We have all of our principals pretty close together—as is proper at the climax of a story—so let's bring on the clash and the climax.

151. INT. WALTON CABIN. FULL SCENE.

Mary is just coming into the scene from where she has shoved Phil out. Two Spot comes on from the opposite side and stopping, looks her up and down. He says—

TITLE:

"I HEARD YOU SCREAM."

Back: Mary points sadly to where a blanket covers the form of the old man. Two Spot walks over to the couch followed by Mary

152. INT. WALTON CABIN. AT COUCH.

The camera should cut just over the face of the old man on the couch, so that it is just out of scene.

Two Spot throws the blanket back in an unconcerned way and looks down at the old man. Mary replaces the blanket. Two Spot turns to Mary and says, unfeelingly—

TITLE:

"I TOLD YOU THE OLD MAN WOULD KICK OFF SOME DAY AND LEAVE YOU WITH NOTHIN'. BETTER COME ALONG WITH ME NOW!"

Back: Mary looks at Two Spot in amazement—then becomes incensed at his words.

Now we will disclose the location of Phil, and by quite a long close-up showing his expressions, get it over that Two-Spot is saying unpleasant things to Mary.

153. INT. CLOSET. CLOSEUP.

Of Phil as he hears the words of Two Spot and his face hardens. Make this quite a long closeup, with several emphasized expressions of Phil as he hears Two Spot talking to Mary. He indicates that he will interfere. Here is some more suspense. What will Phil do? Will he play the hero and interfere or will he remain in concealment to protect himself. We, of course, know that he will go to the girl's rescue—that is, we are almost sure he will—but how soon?

154. INT. WALTON'S CABIN.

Two Spot has the roll of bills which he has taken from the murdered man and is flourishing them as he talks to Mary. He steps toward her. She retreats. He grabs her by the arm and says—

TITLE:

"YOU ARE GOIN' WITH ME, RIGHT NOW! LET SOMEBODY ELSE BURY THE OLD MAN!"

Mary struggles to free herself and looks in the direction of the closet.

155. INT. CABIN. SEMI-CLOSEUP AT CLOSET.

Phil emerges—with a steely glint in his eyes. He speaks. In a commanding voice he demands that Two Spot release the girl.

156. INT. WALTON CABIN. FULL SCENE.

Two Spot hears Phil—releases Mary and starts to pull his gun. Phil springs in and at him like a tiger. The two men fight, all over the place.

157. INT. WALTON CABIN. CLOSEUP

Of Mary as she cringes near the wall and looks on the two men fighting.

158. INT. WALTON CABIN.

Phil and Two Spot fighting.

159. EXT. TRAIL.

Sheriff through scene.

160. INT. CABIN.

Phil and Two Spot fighting. Mary shielding the still form of her father as the two men sway back and forth in the room. Phil gives Two Spot a punch that reels him. Hits him again and knocks him down—takes his gun away from him and shoving it in his face, makes him put up his hands.

161. EXT. CABIN.

Sheriff rides up—dismounts and enters cabin.

Here, you see, we have the sheriff arrive just the crucial moment when it looks like Phil is going to be victorious. All of our sympathy is with him and when we see the sheriff enter, old man suspense jumps to fever heat. Now poor Phil will go to jail, will he not? He will NOT. Leave that to us.

162. INT. WALTON CABIN. CLOSEUP AT DOOR.

Of the sheriff as he comes on with raised gun and commands Phil to put up his hands. Pointing gun in direction of camera.

163. INT. CABIN. FULL SCENE.

The sheriff advances with gun on Phil. No one speaks for ten seconds. The sheriff commands Mary to place the handcuffs on Phil. Two Spot smiles sardonically. Mary obeys reluctantly.

Let's get in a little tender touch here—and at the same time break up a long scene.

164. INT. WALTON CABIN. CLOSEUP.

Of Phil and Mary. As she looks up at him, her eyes tell him that she loves him and that her heart is breaking with tender sympathy for him. He understands as he hands her the gun and she puts the cuffs on him. In my treatise on "Surprise," I give a list of twists that may be given to a story. Now right here is where we will inject one that is a total surprise. It is, "Where the positions of the hero and villain are unexpectedly reversed."

165. INT. WALTON CABIN. FULL SCENE.

As Mary steps back, the sheriff walks over toward Phil. Two Spot stands with a look of demoniac triumph on his face. The sheriff looks down and sees the roll of bills on the floor, which Two Spot has dropped in the fight. He picks them up—looks intently at the money and asks—

TITLE :

"WHOSE MONEY IS THIS?"

Back: Two Spot steps forward and claims it. The sheriff suddenly covers Two Spot and has Mary take the cuffs off of Phil and put them on Two Spot, very much to Two Spot's surprise. The sheriff then says to Phil—

TITLE:

"GUESS YOU'RE NOT A MURDERER OR COUNTERFEITER EITHER, YOUNG FELLER—THEM FAKE BILLS MATCH UP WITH THE ONES WE FOUND IN THE DEAD MAN'S BOOTS?"

Back: Finishing his speech the sheriff turns to Two Spot, whose face is blanched and orders him to "come along. They then exit as Mary edges up to Phil.

If we were not running long on footage I would say to

AT VITAGRAPH

Antonio Moreno and his company filming "The Veiled Mystery," left this week for Truckee to remain until about July 4th. Director Wm. J. Bowman will complete the eighth and ninth episodes while on location.

Director William Bertram has reached the twelfth episode of "Hidden Dangers," co-starring Joe Ryan and Jean Paige.

James F. Whitehorn has just returned from San Francisco by way of the coast, at night, making only two detours, one at Santa Maria and the other at Los Olivos. The road is perfect. Mr. Whitehorn used his Kissell Sedan and traveling was so comfortable that the use of wraps was unnecessary, all of which proves conclusively that a closed car is a perfect touring vehicle.

GET YOUR OIL RIGHTS FROM PRIVATE OWNERS!

We believe in taking a chance on favorable oil land—for the person who never takes a chance never makes a big clean-up. The Roosevelt Oil Co. is spending upwards of $100,000 to prove up our leases in the famous Pecos Valley.

We don't believe in taking a chance on oil "stocks" or on Govt. or State lands where titles are cloudy under "Oil Leasing Bill" recently passed by Congress. Our leases at $15 an acre are from private owners. 150 wells going down nearby—50 big wells now in. Prices may go up any hour. Get your lease here and now! See, phone or write today. Many members of the M. P. profession have good leases. Why not YOU?

make a closeup of the roll of bills on the floor as the hand of the sheriff picks it up, but the title that he speaks, tells us that it is money, and we have seen Two Spot with the roll of bills before, so we are taking a chance that it will get over. It is just a little too soon to have Mary and Phil go into a clinch here—the whole thing has been so sudden—so let's put in this scene—

166. INT. WALTON'S CABIN. SEMI-CLOSE UP AT DOOR.

The sheriff shoves Two Spot out the door ahead of him and then turning back to the camera says—to Phil—

TITLE:

"TAKE CARE OF THE LITTLE GAL."

Back: The sheriff winks and exits after Two Spot.

167. INT. WALTON'S CABIN. SEMI-CLOSEUP.

Of Phil as he looks sheepishly after the sheriff and then at Mary—then puts his arm about her. FADE OUT.

We could fade out and end the story here—but to do so in a room where a dead man lies, would not leave a good taste. Let's take the curse off of it with a little "aftermath."

TITLE:

AND IF THE SPIRIT OF OLD MAN WALTON RETURNED TO HOVER OVER HIS LITTLE GAL. IT MUST HAVE BEEN A HAPPY ONE.

168. EXT. PRETTY SPOT ON HILLSIDE. SEMI-CLOSEUP.

Of Phil and Mary—with backs to camera. His arm is about her. He points off to—

168. EXT. MINE. LONG SHOT. Machinery, smoke stacks, etc.

170. EXT. PRETTY SPOT. SAME AS 168. Phil and Mary turn to camera and it can be seen that she has a pretty little baby in her arms. Phil kisses the baby—then Mary—then puts his other arm about her. FADE OUT.

THE END.

There you are. Ten scenes too much. Gosh darn it. Oh, well, let the cutter worry over it now. The darn director will go and shoot a lot more anyway. They always do. Durn 'em.

THE SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wish the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past year in regard to the submission of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

Your Money's Safe, Your Income Certain

No investment field in California offers better opportunities than hydro-electric securities. The companies are efficiently managed, the demand for power unprecedented, the policies of the regulatory body liberal. Such conditions insure the safety of your principal and certainty of your income on money invested in

PACIFIC GAS & ELECTRIC COMPANY

Five-Year 7% Collateral Trust Convertible Gold Notes

Price: 97 1/8 Yielding 7.70%

Proceeds of this issue are to be used for generating and transmitting power from the Pitt River to industrial and agricultural Northern California. This project will save thousands of barrels of expensive oil and will materially increase the earnings of the company.

This is a direct obligation of the third largest gas and electric company in America. In addition, they are secured by deposit of the Company's Mortgage Bonds whose market value will be maintained at 15% above par value of these notes.

The Company's ability promptly to pay interest and principal on all its obligations has been thoroughly established by the past fifteen years of successful operation. During this time, earnings averaged more than two times interest charges.

We recommend this security to our clients everywhere because we believe it to be a sound and profitable investment. It is exempt from personal property tax in California. Decide that you will investigate it today by calling, writing or phoning for Circular C65, fully descriptive of it.

Write today for our investment suggestions for the immediate profitable employment of your July funds—a comprehensive little folder that is yours for the asking.

WHY NOT SOME HUMAN INGENUES?

We have accomplished the customary weekly reviews and therefore have been inflicted with all the ingenue insipidity that it will be necessary to tolerate for another few days. Having done so, we are inexpressibly relieved.

Why is it, we ask you, that the entire American public must continually endure the universally brainless performances of this class of picture actress? It is safe to say that for every intelligent looking ingenue in the business, there are ten sloppy, cow-eyed individuals, who seem to consider that an habitual expression of quivering despondency is all that is required of them for the construction of an entertaining characterization.

In reality such performances are merely disgusting the fan and injuring the pictures in which they occur.

Of course the mistaken actress cannot be blamed, because nature forgot to endow her with an appearance of much gray matter, and because some director who should know better allows, probably encourages, her in her inanity. But who is it that makes these mental disappointments possible?

After all, the picture play is presumably but a story of the real lives of human beings, and as such does not need the addition of characteristics not included in humanity's list.

Instead of the unsatisfactory feminine lead being an infrequency, she has very nearly become a habit with several of our producing companies. Like all bad habits, she should be discontinued. There must be women, even young women in the world, who, in an emergency, can command an intelligent expression. Possibly with the expenditure of a little effort, they could be discovered. Almost it would seem to be a good idea.

When the motion picture which comprises the chief form of entertainment for the masses is permitted by the heads of the industry to slip in value to that public, it is time for consideration and readjustment.

REHEARSING PICTURES

Will the motion picture producers of tomorrow rehearse pictures previous to the actual filming? Today they are divided upon the question which naturally gives rise to much discussion pro and con. Whether or not it is the only method, as many believe, can only be judged by results.

D. W. Griffith has long produced pictures after from one to two weeks spent in a concentrated rehearsal of the entire play. Many companies engaged in the adaptation of farces from magazine stories are doing likewise, successfully. Among these last is the Douglas MacLean Company at the Thomas H. Ince studio.

The advantages are many and obvious. The primary one is, of course, that the actor becomes familiar in this way with every detail of the character that he is to interpret. He is bound to gain a perspective, as he is in a position to get placed in mind his role in its entirety, which accomplishment will eliminate the possibility of his characterization appearing choppy. Rehearsals of this kind have also often improved a story, resultant of the invaluable suggestions often occasioned by the concentrated attention of the cast and directorial staff.

On the other hand, many of our most progressive companies are not taking to the idea, or at any rate are not considering it seriously. For instance, out at Lasky's they rehearse in this fashion, only in the event of a scenario hold up, in order to save time. The general belief seems to be that the rehearsal of each scene when ready to be shot is sufficient to insure a successful production, and that since each scene must be gone over prior to filming anyway, the preliminary work is more or less of a loss, or at least unnecessary.

The solution of such problems is of course up to each individual producer, but his serious consideration of them is compulsory if he is to continue to head an industry, the development of which is unprecedented.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

LASKY COMPANIES

According to wires received by Charles Eytan, general manager of the Lasky studio, George Melford is having considerable difficulty with the elements in the northern part of the State, where he is making exterior scenes for "The Jucklins." Hail and rainstorms in the vicinity of Truckee have prevented the company from obtaining the necessary scenes. As a consequence, they will stay over. Upon completing work in this district, they will journey to Nevada to film a number of other important scenes.

Upon the completion of this picture, Melford will direct "The Faith Healer," by William Vaughan Moody.

Roscoe Arbuckle, under the direction of Joseph Henabery, has returned from Jamestown, and will continue work at the studio on "The Traveling Salesman," on the completion of which he will do "Brewster's Millions."

July 12th is the date set for the start of "His Friend and His Wife," William de Mille's production of Cosmo Hamilton's novel, following which he will make "Footlights," by Rita Weiman.

Cecil B. de Mille will start work between the 6th and 9th of July upon his new picture, which has not been permanently titled as yet, with Forrest Stanley and Ann Forrest in the leading roles.

Wallace Reid, directed by James Cruze, is somewhere in the neighborhood of Pomona on location. The company is expected back within a short time. When he finishes "The Charm School," Reid will do "Always Audacious" (Toujours de l'Audace). The story, which is by Ben Ames Williams, will be directed by James Cruze.

Tom Forman has completed Ethel Clayton's last Paramount vehicle, "The Sins of Rosanne."

Approximately August 1st Thomas Meighan is expected back at the Lasky studio, after completing "The Frontier of the Stars" in New York. He will at once begin work on the starring vehicle for Paramount, "Easy Street," by Blair Hall.

MARION DAVIES AT BRUNTON

Marion Davies, star of the International Film Company, releasing under Cosmopolitan Films, Inc., arrived at the Brunton Studios last week with her director, George Baker, and the entire cast for her new picture, "Buried Treasure," by F. Britten Austin, production upon which will be commenced immediately.

While in California, Miss Davies will begin work on another Cosmopolitan production adapted from "The Love Piker," a short story by Frank R. and Leslie Adams.

Frank Borzage who recently completed the direction of Fannie Hurst's "Humoresque," is expected to arrive at the Brunton Studios next week to start preliminary work on "The Love Piker," which he will direct.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Another action Western is being filmed by Hoot Gibson, under the direction of Lee Maloney. The title of the story is "A Gambler's Fool."

Jacques Jaccard wires from Bear Valley that he has begun work upon "The Timber Wolf," the cast of which is headed by Virginia Faire and Leonard Clapham.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are preparing to begin their third comedy feature, "Once A Plumber—," by Edgar Franklin.

Reeves Eason is busy with the manuscript of "Out of the Sky," a circus story which will star Edith Roberts.

Edward Kull is ready to start on his new serial, "The Queen of Diamonds," featuring Eileen Sedgwick.

NEW COMPANY TO PRODUCE IN GLENADLE

The Pinnacle Productions have taken over Doctor Bachman's studio in Glendale. The company, which will feature Neal Hart, will start production about July 15th upon the first of a series of five-reel Westerns to be released independently.

C. M. Giffon is representing the company.

Leonard Clapham, who is on location with his company in Bear Valley

HERMANN PLANT NEARS COMPLETION

A new unit producing plant consisting of three or more stages is to be erected on Wilshire Blvd., at Santa Monica, Calif., according to an announcement by E. P. Hermann, President and General Manager of the Hermann Film Corporation.

The first stage will be ready for use within a few days, while work will commence upon the other two within a short time.

The Hermann Film Corporation will put two or more of its own producing companies to work and will lease additional space in the studios to independent producing units.

AT THE GOLDWYN STUDIO

E. Mason Hopper has commenced filming the fifth of the Booth Tarkington Edgar stories, which will be called "Edgar's Sunday Courtship" starring Johnnie Jones.

Director Frank Lloyd took his company to San Francisco last week to get some trans-Pacific boat scenes.

BOSWORTH TO START

Lincoln Hart, Production Manager of the J. Parker Read, Jr., productions, has started the Louise Glaum company on the filming of "The Leopard Woman," an adaptation of Stewart Edward White's novel, and is now preparing to launch the next Hobart Bosworth vehicle.

Rowland V. Lee will direct the Bosworth feature.

MARGERY WILSON DIRECTING

Margery Wilson has completed the first of a series of two-reel comedies which she is producing and directing. The first picture entitled "Two of a Kind" was written by Hubert La Due, and features the Tower twins.

Miss Wilson will continue an extensive program of comedy production and later will film a drama in which she takes the leading role in addition to directing.

BUSTER KEATON STARTS SECOND COMEDY

Buster Keaton has completed his initial two-reeler entitled "One Week," and is well under way with his second. Sybil Sealey is playing opposite him, and Joe Roberts is playing the heavy.

CHESTER TO HAVE OWN PLANT

Plans for the new administration building that he is erecting at Sunset Blvd. and Gower, have been approved by G. L. Chester, and will be ready for occupancy by September 1st.

Mr. Chester's various enterprises include the Chester Outings, the Chester Comedies, Screenies, and Gale Henry Comedies.

LAKE PRODUCTION UNDER WAY

Production of Alice Lake's new Metro starring vehicle, "Body and Soul," was started this week under the direction of Charles Swickard.

The story was written by William Hurlbut and adapted for the screen by Marc Robbins and Hayden Talbot.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

CRITICISMS OF LATE RELEASES

"A WORLD OF FOLLY"—Fox

"The picture will measure up to the standard of direction, settings and action set by her (Vivian Rich), previous publication, 'Would You Forgive?' The production has an excellent exploitation title and should be capitalized by the exhibitor."—Exhibitors Herald.

"While not constructed with the dramatic suspense necessary to achieve a powerful subject of its kind, this five reel Fox production has a great deal in it to hold the interest. The acting is sincere and intelligent."—Moving Picture World.

"THE CITY OF MASKS"—Paramount Arcraft

"The indorsement of patronage that the book public has placed upon the novels of George Barr McCutcheon should be duplicated by the screen public when the present picturization of one of his most romantic compositions is put to the test. It has all the attributes of the narratives that made the author famous, action is lively throughout, the incidents occurring in brisk orderly progression. Exploitation possibilities are obvious."—Exhibitors Herald.

"With a rather out of date associate theme in the plot, yet highly entertaining, 'The City of Masks' is a picture that should give universal satisfaction. The entire cast is made up of talented people quite faithful to their types."—Moving Picture World.

"MADONNAS AND MEN"—Jans Pictures, Inc.

"Here is a picture that will set thinking people thinking more, and those who are not inclined to think to plunge into thoughtful wonder. The story is splendid, the scenario writer capable, the titles, technical work and photography gratifying, and the direction commendable."—Exhibitors Herald.

"A picture of fine sentiment and high ideals, 'Madonnas and Men' is a fascinating compound of spiritual beauty and purely sensuous charm. The play is well conceived by Cary Wilson and Edmund Goulding, and the scenario worked out with skill by Violet Clark, all in harmony with the remarkably artistic direction of B. A. Rolfe. It is one of the rare examples we count upon to stand as a justification of the art of picture production."—Moving Picture World.

BUTLER STORY SOLD TO FIRST NATIONAL

D. N. Schwab, President of the D. N. Schwab Productions, Inc., wires from New York that he has sold "Sitting on the World," David Butler's first starring vehicle, to First National Exhibitors.

Upon the completion of his forthcoming production, "Girls Don't Gamble Any More," Mr. Butler will himself depart for New York on business.

The pictures are being directed by Fred J. Butler.

FRANKLIN PRODUCTION SHIPPED TO NEW YORK

The first edition of "Athalie," the Sidney A. Franklin production, has been shipped to the New York offices of the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation, where President Benjamin A. Prager will review the print.

The completed negative will soon leave the Brunton Studios, where Franklin is finishing his task of cutting and editing.

FORMER HODKINSON MANAGER HERE

Dell Goodman, formerly Hodkinson Exchange Manager in St. Louis, is visiting Sig Schlager, and Larry Weingarten, at the Ince Studios in Culver City.

Mr. Goodman's plans have not been announced save that he expects to remain in Los Angeles indefinitely.

CURRENT REVIEWS

"THE PRINCE CHAP"

Jesse L. Lasky presented William de Mille's "The Prince Chap" at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre, last week. The cast, headed by Thomas Meighan, is an all-star one, which, for the most part, assisted in rendering the story a delightful one.

Meighan's work in the title role is probably his best. He is called upon to play many of his scenes with a child and his treatment of it is certainly an intelligent and artistic improvement over average male management on the screen.

Kathlyn Williams is clever as Alice, and handles the last two sequences in which she appears with particular subtlety.

The child, Claudia, is played at the age of four years by Peaches Jackson. Possibly the most promising thing about Peaches is her very apparent power of concentration. Her interpretation of the little orphan is absolutely pleasing as is that of May Giraci who does the kiddie at eight years. The youngsters are exceptionally well matched, and grow consistently into Lila Lee, who is Claudia at eighteen. Why is it that, although young children may depict real little humans with spirit, an ingenue must eternally mope around with cow eyed despondency no matter what the emotion to be expressed?

Ann Forrest does Phoebe Ruckers very well. Although a small part it is undoubtedly her best.

Charles Ogle is Runion, the butler, and C. H. Geldart is Helmar, each of which is a characteristic portrayal.

Casson Ferguson, Bertie Johns and Theodore Kosloff lend atmosphere as artist neighbors of the Prince Chap.

Others in the cast are Lillian Leighton, Agnes Marc and Florence Hart.

The clay figures appearing in the production are the creations of Carlton Gardelle, and were posed for by Yvonne Gardelle.

"THE GREAT ACCIDENT"

"The Great Accident" was last week's attraction at the California Theatre. The story, which is by Ben Ames Williams, makes a fairly entertaining screen adaptation. The cast is ordinarily good.

Tom Moore, who is the star, gives a good account of himself as Winthrop Chase, Jr., his home town's accidental mayor.

Jane Novak plays his inconsequential little sweetheart who reforms him without having to become overly strenuous.

Willard Louis does the best work in the picture as Amos Caretall, a typical small town political boss with inclinations that might be better and could be a lot worse. His characterization displays the use of more than a little technique.

Ann Forrest plays Hetty Morfee, another "weak sister" role, satisfactorily if somewhat mournfully.

Philo McCollough is Jack Routt, the would be villain.

Andrew Robson and Lillian Langdon are good as the young man's parents.

Others in the cast are Otto Hoffman, Roy Laidlaw, Edward McWade, Don Bailey, and Lefty Flynn.

Harry Beaumont directed.

"BURNING DAYLIGHT"

"Burning Daylight," the first Jack London story to be offered by C. E. Shurtleff, Inc., ran last week at the Kinema. The adaptation, although quite entertaining, fails to live up to the promise the first two reels hold forth, for which the direction is probably responsible. In other words, with somewhat different handling, a real twist could have easily added fifty per cent to climax interest.

Mitchell Lewis plays the title role, "Burning Daylight," in his customary big easy-going manner.

Between the handling of Helen Ferguson, who plays Dora, and the inanity of the lady as adapted, the feminine lead is more or less messy.

William Mong not only presents a clever characterization as Necessity, but carries a situation or two that might have easily fallen flat.

Alfred Allen plays Letton, the principal heavy, in a more than satisfactory manner.

His secretary, Howison, is well done by Arthur Carew, and his further associates in crime are Edward Jobson and Robert Bolder.

Gertrude Astor plays Lucile, and Lew Morrison does Dan McDonald.

Newton Hall plays Jack, the cripple child.

Some beautiful snow scenes are included in the production, which was directed by Edward Sloman.

"LET'S BE FASHIONABLE"

"Let's Be Fashionable," a Thomas H. Ince production, featuring Douglas MacLean and Doris May, showed last week at Clune's Broadway.

A well handled farce that is highly entertaining and an improvement over "Mary's Ankle," one of the recent offerings by this team.

Douglas MacLean's performance as Henry Langdon, is possibly the most mirth producing of the cast, while Miss May principally assists in the development and complication of situations for his entanglement.

George Webb plays the "Honest to goodness" heavy cleverly.

Others in the cast are Wade Boteler, Grace Morse, Wilbur Higby, Molly McConnell and Norris Johnson.

Lloyd Ingraham directed.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE

Jimmy Aubrey

Because of the wide popularity that has been won by his films throughout the country, Vitagraph has lifted Jimmy Aubrey out of the ranks of program comedians and made his productions special "Big V" releases. An ideal team was created when Jess Robbins was obtained to direct Aubrey and the success of their pictures has prompted Vitagraph to abandon all limits of expense for their productions. In the picture just completed, a two reel comedy, a chorus of 125 girls was used, only one example of the lavish scale under which Aubrey comedies will now be made.

Jimmy was born in England and came through the harsh school of the stage there that permits no person to star until years of experience and skill prove him worthy. For many years he was popular in London and he then came to America to accept an offer from Ziegfeld to appear in the Follies.

His entrance into pictures was typical of him. Visiting friends at a studio, a director bawled at him: "Say, are you the fellow they sent to play this part?" "Sure," said Jimmy, who had not been sent and didn't know anything about the part. He came through with a bang, however, and won a good offer. After a year with Pathe he joined Vitagraph in New York, and later came to the Western studios of the company to make his pictures. He will continue to produce in Los Angeles.

Director Robbins and the comedy star have surrounded themselves with an excellent stock company, which includes Oliver N. (Babe) Hardy, Evelyn Nelson, Kathleen Myers and Jack Lloyd.

Clarence McDermott is assistant director and Irving Ries is in charge of the camera staff.

Hank Mann has promoted Frank Caven-der, formerly bookkeeper for his company, to the office of casting director.

"Doc" Cannon is working with Metro under the direction of Edward Sloman in "The Star Rover."

Helen Weer has been signed by Metro to play the leading feminine role in "Some One in His House."

Henry Lehrman is personally directing the series of twelve comedies that he is making for First National.

Charles Swickard has been signed to direct Alice Lake in her next starring picture, "Body and Soul."

Leatrice Joy will appear in Metro's forthcoming all-star production, "Some One in the House."

David E. Epstein, formerly assistant to Hope Loring, in charge of the short reel and serial scenarios at Universal City, has been promoted to succeed his former chief.

Leslie Gordon has resigned as director of research at the Robert Brunton studios to take over an important executive position with a Los Angeles retail establishment.

Stanley Goethals is making his screen debut at three years of age with Priscilla Dean in her current feature, "Outside the Law."

Little Mary Jane Irving has been loaned by Robert Brunton to Ince for one picture.

DORALDINA ARRIVES IN LOS ANGELES

Mme. Doralдина has arrived in Los Angeles from New York, and is conferring with Bayard Veiller regarding her first Metro production, "The Passion Fruit," work upon which will start in the near future.

Walter Kolomoku is at present on his way from New York to appear in the dancer's supporting cast.

Ted Sloman will direct the production.

BRANDT RESIGNS FROM NATIONAL

New York, June 28—Joe Brandt, Director General for the National Film Corporation and Eastern representative for the Marion H. Kohn productions, has resigned from National, according to personal telegraphic advices received by Joe Weil, director of publicity for these companies.

The resignation will probably take effect as soon as Brandt can complete the marketing arrangements for "The Kentucky Colonel." He is expected back in New York within the week, when he will probably announce his plans.

W. A. Orlamond will play the part of "Doctor Bellaire" in "Body and Soul," now being filmed by Metro.

Nigel De Brulier has been engaged by Erich von Stroheim for the role of a monk in "Foolish Wives."

M. C. Levee, business manager of the Brunton studios, returned to Los Angeles after an extended business trip to San Francisco.

Malveene Polo, daughter of Eddie Polo, will appear in "Foolish Wives."

Lionel Belmore is now playing in "The Great Lover" at Goldwyn's.

Janie MacPherson, C. B. de Mille's scenario writer, will continue to write exclusively for that producer for the next five years.

Richard Lappan has been engaged for an important part in Robert Brunton's first feature production, "The Devil to Pay."

Max Linder has begun work on the first of several five reel comedies which he came to this country to make.

Howard Hickman, for some time director of his wife, Bessie Barriscale, has put aside the megaphone and will go back to acting.

House Peters has been engaged by J. Parker Red, Jr. to play the male lead opposite Louise Glaum, in her next production. Following this engagement Mr. Peters plans to head his own producing company.

Margaret Lockwood, who in private life is Mrs. E. P. Hermann, will be the art director of Mr. Hermann's next production, "Something More," according to a recent announcement. She will also play an important part in the picture.

Barney Sherry has been cast for an important role in support of Dorothy Phillips in her first independently produced Allen Holubar feature.

Raymond Hatton is now working with Tom Moore in "Stop Thief."

Viola Mallory has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Allen Holubar-Dorothy Phillips independent productions.

Alfred Allen has left for Pleasanton with several members of the Bessie Barriscale company for location work on the special feature, "The Broken Gate," to be made under Edwin Carewe's direction of Emerson Hough's novel.

May Foster has been cast with Charles Ray as "Mrs. Purdy" in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," a character which she also played in the original stage version.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

GOODSTADT CASTS

Some three years ago Louis M. Goodstadt came to Hollywood from New York, where his business had been the management of concerts and legitimate companies, to accept the position of casting director, at the Lasky studio.

Since that time he has installed and developed at the big production plant on Vine street, a system of casting which makes it possible for his department to take efficient care, not only of the parts and the bits, but also of the many mobs necessary in the construction of photoplays by the six companies which average the studio's active force.

The work of each actor whom he engages for a part is personally known to Mr. Goodstadt, as are the capabilities of practically every extra.

With the aid of his assistant, he supervises the filling of all places and is responsible for the presence of each actor to correspond with the schedule of the company by which he is engaged. This last is an emphasized feature at the Lasky plant.

As the proof of any system is in its results so does the class of people and their account of themselves in Lasky productions speak for the effort that has been so well expended in Mr. Goodstadt's department.

Paul Brunet, vice-president and general manager of the Pathe Exchange, sailed for Paris June 24th on La France. He will return September 1st.

June Caprice has just signed a long-term contract with Pathe.

The Kismet Company started production on Monday.

Billy Elmer is supporting Lieutenant Ormer Locklear in his present Fox picture.

Tom Mix will go to Prescott, Arizona, to film the exteriors of his next picture "The Texan," and while there will be a judge of the Rodeo.

Will Russell with Director Scott Dunlap is back from Big Bear, filming a few interiors before leaving for the desert.

Hampton Del Ruth, supervising director of Fox Sunshine Comedies, is back from New York and is preparing to shoot another six or seven reel super-comedy, having been given carte blanche from headquarters.

Gilbert P. Hamilton, director general of the R. C. P. Smith Corp., announces that the firm will take over the whole of the Horsley Studio at Washington and Main streets, on the 12th of July and prepare them for their own producing units.

The Cyrus J. Williams Company has started production on the first of their two reels starring Tom Santchi at the Brentwood studio.

Victor Schertzinger, Goldwyn director, intends installing a $10,000 pipe organ in his new home now being erected.

Priscilla Bonner, now supporting Will Rogers in his latest Goldwyn picture, is the daughter of Lieut. Col. John Bonner on the staff of General Leonard Wood.

Louise Lorraine suffered two fractured ribs a few days ago while filming a scene in the ninth episode of the Universal serial, "The Lightning's Eye," in which she played the feminine lead.

DENT ENTERTAINS COMPANY

Vernon Dent, character heavy with the Hank Mann Comedy Company, has extended an invitation to the members of his company to partake of a chicken dinner at his ranch in the San Gabriel valley on Sunday. The invitation has been unanimously accepted.

William Moran, who has just finished his character heavy in "The Beggar in Purple"

SPECIAL PICTURES CORPORATION CELEBRATES

The third birthday of the founding of the Special Pictures Corporation, a Los Angeles organization dealing in short-reel subjects exclusively, was celebrated last Wednesday with a general "jolly-up" at the Long Beach studios.

Wednesday marked the end of the third month since the organization was launched upon its own hook. The officers of the company are Louis W. Thompson, president; H. J. Roberts, general sales manager; Earl Shanks, business manager, and Ward Lascalle, director-general.

Starting with one release a week, the company has expanded to four issues weekly, and has established exchanges of its own in every part of the country, as well as sending expeditions to Alaska, Sweden, Norway and Mexico.

The first release of the Special Picture Corporation was the comedy-art. The company recently arranged for the Sunset-Durand Scenics, covering the Pacific Slope from Tijuana, Mexico, to Nome, Alaska, and for the Clayplay, animated mud comedies, made by Dawn Films, Inc. The fourth release, now being kept secret, will be announced soon.

Alfred Allen is cast for an important role in Emerson Hough's "The Broken Gate" with the Bessie Barriscale company.

Director Sidney A. Franklin of the Mayflower forces has departed for the Yosemite on a short fishing excursion.

VACATION NEWS

By Hugh K. Hartung

Little Mary McAllister and her mother want to spread the leisure hours between the sea and the hills.

George Pierce says he will forget the silent drama and be a silent fisherman for a while.

Shirley St. John, formerly of the Lasky studio, who now presides over a home in West Hollywood as Mrs. Tabor, will go motoring much with friend husband and pet son, as fancy suggests.

The Raymond Hattons tied to a cottage at Venice are not very anxious to leave.

Frances Clanton, formerly with Lasky and Hampton, has rented a bungalow at Carmel by the sea.

Irene Rich has her vacation plans in abeyance.

Evelyn Selbie has just returned from a riding and camping trip to take the role of Mrs. Roan in the first of the Brunton all-star productions, "The Devil to Pay."

The James Neills of Glendale will not motor far this year.

Capt. Henry Woodward, Tourneur's new leading man, with Mrs. Woodward, thinks his foothill home is the thing.

Cleo Madison, who has been resting for a long time, is at it again, having signed a Metro contract to play the lead in "Big Game."

Mrs. Rose Hatch, character actress just engaged by Natasha Navarra for "The Dawn of Truth," will rest at Carmel briefly.

Miss Ethel Church, who does much writing in her Laurel Canyon home, will confine herself to mountain heights.

Walter Hiers says he will stick to the salt sea strictly this season.

Mahlon Hamilton on account of having been engaged to play opposite Blanche Sweet in "That Girl Montana," will have to take his rest periods in small doses.

Caroline Putney, recently in grande dame roles with Mildred Harris Chaplin and Anita Stewart, will motor with friends.

Frances Raymond says she wants a lap full of books, a seaside cottage, a hammock for siestas—no more.

Ruth Roland has bought a pony blimp at a cost of $25,000. She will use it both for joy riding and for scenes in a new serial.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Washburn left Tuesday for New York, whence they will sail for England.

Mrs. "Smiling" Bill Jones has gone to Dowagiac, Mich., to visit her son who is in the aeroplane service.

Four motion picture studios in Hollywood have been offered to the Assistant Directors Assn., for its second annual barn dance, which is to be held July 31st.

Maurice Tourneur's home on a Hollywood hilltop is rapidly nearing completion.

Harry Lorraine is negotiating with Otis Skinner to play the high priest in "Kismet."

THE SCENARIO DEPARTMENT WILL CARRY ON

Commencing with the next issue of CAMERA! (July 10th), its readers will enjoy a second series of articles upon continuity writing by Wycliffe A. Hill, well known scenario writer.

This time, however, the object of the articles will be to teach comedy construction, which involves entirely different principles from those which are observed in the preparation of the drama, articles upon which have been running recently in this publication.

CAMERA! has contracted with Mr. Hill for this additional series as a result of the many requests received from its subscribers for a continuation of the subject.

In view of the present unlimited field in the comedy line, such instruction will undoubtedly prove invaluable to the "coming" film play writer.

DWAN PRODUCTION NAMED

Allen Dwan has announced that his latest production to be presented by Mayflower will be "The Sin of Martha Queed," the cutting of which is almost finished.

NEXT MacDONALD PICTURE ANNOUNCED

Sam Rork, President of the Katherine MacDonald Picture Corporation, announced last week that Miss MacDonald's next starring vehicle will be "The Second Latchkey" by the Williamsons.

NIBLO MAY LAUNCH COMPANY

Fred Niblo wires from New York that he expects soon to make important production announcements with regard to the launching of his own company for the production of Enid Bennett-Fred Niblo specials. Niblo's present contract with Thomas H. Ince has expired.

LINDER PRODUCING AT TOURNEUR STUDIO

Max Linder, the French comedian, has started production, at the Maurice Tourneur studio at Universal City. He is producing independently a series of five reel pictures, for which he is leasing a stage from Tourneur.

MORENO OFF FOR TRUCKEE

Moreno and his company have left for Truckee, California, where they will spend several weeks filming scenes in his new serial, "The Veiled Mystery," six episodes of which have already been completed.

B. B. HAMPTON TO PRODUCE ANOTHER NOVEL

It has been announced that the next Benjamin B. Hampton production will be "The Spenders," by Harry Leon Wilson. The photo-dramatization has been completed and the cast has been selected. Camera work will start within a week under the direction of Jack Conway. None of the cast is as yet announced.

Harry La Verne has just finished with Anita Stewart in "Sowing the Wind," and has accepted a nine months' engagement starting July 15th on the road.

GILBERT TO DIRECT

Maurice Tourneur is going to put an independent company under the the direction of Jack Gilbert in a few weeks. A year ago Mr. Gilbert was free lancing as a juvenile. About that time he was engaged by Tourneur for one picture, after which he was given a story to write for that company.

Since then he has been adapting the Tourneur stories. At present he is at work on the first subject to be filmed under the new Associated Producers' banner.

MAY GIRACI

May Giraci is the little girl who has recently occasioned much comment by her natural child interpretations.

We first remember seeing her in Cecil B. De Mille's "For Better or For Worse," and the recollection is a pleasant one. Since then she has made several appearances, one of the most interesting of which is her role as the child Claudia, at eight years, in William De Mille's "The Prince Chap."

This week she will be seen at the Kinema in "The Miracle Woman" a Metro production featuring May Allison.

DRYDEN ENTERTAINING

Wheeler Dryden, star of "The Crucifix of Destiny," the six-reel dramatic film written by R. Dale Armstrong, produced an entertainment for the members of the Good Fellowship Club of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral last Friday. The show was given at the Parish Hall Auditorium adjoining the Cathedral, and consisted of a one-act comedy, dances, songs, a violin solo, and three excerpts from Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," in which latter presentation Wheeler Dryden enacted the role of Shylock. The proceeds of the entertainment were donated to St. Paul's building fund. Several young ladies from the Los Angeles Orphanage Asylum were present at the performance as guests of the film star.

William Irving has been engaged for an important part in "Some One in the House," a Metro production.

FINISHING "DINTY"

Since his return from New York, where he was engaged in conferences with First National executives over future productions for that organization, Marshall Neilan has been putting the finishing touches on his latest First National release, "Dinty." Wesley Barry is featured in this production, and the cast includes Colleen Moore, Marjorie Daw and Pat O'Malley.

JUANITA HANSEN DOING SERIAL FOR PATHE

Production on the second Pathe serial, starring Juanita Hansen, was begun June 28 at the George B. Seitz studio in New York. The cast supporting Miss Hansen includes Warner Oland and Marguerite Courtot.

Bertram Millhauser is directing.

MAYER NEGATIVE ON WAY TO CHICAGO

"Old Dad," the Eleanor Howell Abbott story starring Mildred Harris Chaplin and directed as a First National release for Louis B. Mayer by Lloyd Ingraham, has been cut and assembled, and is now on its way to the Rothacker plant in Chicago where prints are to be made.

CODY COMPANY TO LEAVE GLENDALE

According to the last plans of Lew Cody, his entire company will move from the Astra Studio at Glendale to a studio in Hollywood, where production will continue until the new Robertson-Cole lot is completed and ready for occupancy.

SOULLARD CORPORATION TO START

"The Love Rustler," the first independent production filmed by the Soullard Photoplay Corporation, is ready for release.

The company expects to start its second production within the next few days, the cast for which is now complete.

NEGATIVES LEAVE BRUNTON STUDIO

The negative of "Big Happiness," Dustin Farnum's latest Sydney L. Cohan production, has been shipped east. It will be followed this week by the already cut and titled Brunton picture featuring J. Warren Kerrigan, "The Coast of Opportunity."

Arrangements have been completed by which Charles Wakefield Cadman will write the musical score for "The Crucifix of Destiny," recently produced by R. Dale Armstrong, featuring Wheeler Dryden.

Dorothy Cleveland is finishing the ingenue's mother in Eddie Polo's Universal serial.

AT VITAGRAPH

Joe Ryan and Jean Paige have completed aeroplane exteriors for the tenth and eleventh episodes of their serial "Hidden Dangers."

William Duncan will return to the studio next week from his vacation.

Director Jess Robbins is starting a new two-reel comedy with Jimmy Aubrey.

Samuel Goldwyn reached the West Coast Studios for a business conference with Abraham Lehr in charge of the West Coast productions.

William Moran has just finished the character heavy with Edgar Lewis in "The Beggar in Purple."

PATHE MANAGER PREDICTS BIG BUSINESS IN WESTERN STATES.

Prospects of large crops throughout the West give promise of prosperity and the exhibitors of Montana and Washington are preparing for the biggest season in three years according to P. L. Carroll, Pathe's Spokane Branch Manager, recently a visitor in New York.

He has been with the Pathe organization for seven years and is familiar with all conditions in his territory which covers a larger space than any other branch in the country. His business is for the most part with houses in small towns.

William Allen White stopped in Los Angeles on his way to San Francisco to confer with Benjamin B. Hampton concerning the photoplay of "A Certain Rich Man" which Mr. Hampton is to film shortly.

Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey was one of the guests of honor at the official opening of the new William Fox building on West 55th St., New York, last month.

Fannie Hurst stopped off at Los Angeles for a week while on her way to San Francisco, where she covered the Democratic convention for the McClure syndicate, and spent part of her time visiting at Universal City.

Mabel Normand experienced a serious accident last week when a Thermos bottle exploded, and several fragments of glass embedded themselves in her right eye.

Over eight thousand people thronged Universal City last Sunday when, for the first time in two years, the studio grounds were thrown open to the public.

Mildred Considine is the author of "Let's Be Fashionable" the photoplay starring Douglas MacLean and Doris May, which showed at Clune's Broadway last week.

Harris Gordon, who plays in Tom Moore's latest Goldwyn picture, "Stop Thief," recently motored from New York to Los Angeles, taking twenty days for the trip.

Mrs. John F. Hyland, wife of the Mayor of New York City, with a party of friends stopped off for a day in Los Angeles on her way to the Democratic convention at San Francisco, and visited Universal City.

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" which will be Rex Ingram's next production for Metro, has been christened by the property men of the studio "The Four Cowboys of the Eucalyptus."

Viola Dana and members of her company filming "Blackmail" have been at Pasadena for the past few days filming exterior scenes of the Jewett mansion.

Edmund Lowe, who came from New York to play in the all-star Metro production of "Some One in the House," is planning to remain in Southern California indefinitely.

Director Paul Hurst has been making sundry and divers trips across the Mexican border lately seeking local color for the production of "Byrd of the Dawn," starring Hedda Nova, which will be filmed by the Laguna Del Rey Art Film Co., at Laguna Beach.

WHAT IS DUE THE SUPPORTING ACTOR?

Much attention has been given through the years to the question of efficient production, by the business men of the motion picture industry; and in an attempt to accomplish economy in the making of the picture play, the technical departments of the various studios have been organized and re-organized with greater or less success.

Today the old question re-arises, presenting a more than vital angle which has to do directly with the actor. He has long been looked upon by the working man of the studio as negligible in his attitude toward his profession. This feeling is due somewhat to the flashes, or temperament, call it what you will, which accompanies all arts and has been known to produce in its victims utter disregard for any restraint or schedule, including that established by high salaried efficiency men; and a great deal to the state of carelessness and disinterest which the performer has long excused as the above condition.

We can discover in ourselves little sympathy for an element, if it be such, that lacks so much in constructive power; and yet we recognize that much of the fault lies at the producer's door. By insuring his immediate gain he has failed to take into consideration the chances which every long sighted investor must. Having staked everything upon his principal undertaking, the star, he has overlooked his best bet, often intentionally.

The first love of every actor is a recognition of his work. Salary means less to him than publicity. This the producer has denied the supporting artist in the fear that, having collected a following, he would demand more financial compensation.

Perceiving only this evident truth, the big men of pictures have forgotten that what they consider a loss in the free lancer's salary of today, will tomorrow return to them tenfold as a result of weeks of time saved and better characterizations occasioned by the actor's stimulated interest, as well as his increased drawing power with the public.

The supporting man, who in reality forms the foundation of any successful photoplay, should never be condemned for independence and indolence until he has been given the publicity and salary that his indispensable position justifies. The mere flash of his name upon the screen is insufficient to satisfy either the public or himself.

Through their press agents the producers should get busy.

(Our editorial ends with the last period, but we might add for the benefit of the next in line, namely, the publicity shark, that the press might find a little real news of the regular actor a sedative for the headache you often cause with your atrocious stories of Angeline Adorable's new pet monkey. In anticipation we thank you.)

THE ASSISTANT DIRECTORS MAKE AN INTERESTING ANNOUNCEMENT

At last we discover an organization that is actually going to give an entertainment, with programs the advertisements in which are not going to be taken from the much pestered actor. For such an indulgence he will solemnly thank Heaven.

Until now, every public festivity of the industry has been accompanied by the loud mouthed program space seller—that it is worth an advertisement to dodge. Naturally this new policy will be such a relief that it will hold publicity value in itself.

The fellows—thus humanitarian and clever—are the Assistant Directors, whose annual barn dance will be held on the world's biggest motion picture stage at the Brunton studio the evening of July 31st.

Good luck, boys!

THE WAR CONTINUES

At a recent meeting of the North Carolina Exhibitors' Association held at Wrightsville Beach, N. C., resolutions were passed to form an alliance with the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, and to assist in the fight against the discriminating producing concerns.

Perhaps one of the most important of these resolutions was as follows:

"This convention looks upon the independent producer and the independent distributor, who do not compete in the exhibiting field, as the most important factors in the maintenance of a steady film supply and the preservation of the exhibitor's independence. This convention therefore pledges its support to the independent producer and the independent distributor, and, other things being equal, they ask the members to give due preference to the independent producers and the independent distributors."

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

DOMINION FILM COMPANY, INCORPORATED, STARTS PRODUCTION

New York City, July 5th. Henry Mettæ has been engaged as supervising director of the new company, which is to produce the Ralph Connor stories. The first to be filmed is "The Foreigner."

The policy of the company will be to produce big outdoor pictures.

Ernest Shipman, President and General Manager, says he will spend $100,000 on these productions.

These pictures are to be released through First National.

LA CARMEN PRODUCTIONS TO START

About July 15th Mr. Barber will have completed his cast for his first five-reel dramatic production.

Antonio Stanich, operatic star, has been engaged for leading man. The balance of the cast will be announced shortly.

Dolores Lopez is the author of the first story.

BUTLER FINISHES

The Butlers, Senior and Junior, Dave and his Dad, have their third picture, "Girls Don't Gamble Any More," cut and titled; and if they live up to their past reputation, before the ink is dried on this, they will have their fourth under way.

We hear the title of the next is to be, "Us Boys Are Taking an Awful Chance."

LASKY ACTIVITIES

George Melford will soon begin work on "The Faith Healer," from the stage play by the late William Vaughan Moody. Milton Sills and Mabel Julienne Scott will play the leading roles. The scenario for this picture was written by Frank Condon.

William de Mille will start Monday on the Cosmo Hamilton novel, "His Friend and His Wife." Thus far the only members of the cast named are the two leading principals, Conrad Nagle and Ora Carewe.

Lila Lee will support Wallace Reid in "Always Audacious," which will start production July 19th.

Cecil B. de Mille will start Monday.

AT THE VITAGRAPH

Earle Williams has returned from Catalina where he has spent a week's vacation, while Director Chester Bennett and Harvey Thew prepared the continuity on his next feature, "The Romance Promoters." Production is expected to start today.

William Duncan and his leading woman, Edith Johnson, returned this week from Denver, where they represented Vitagraph at the Annual Convention of the Rocky Mountain Screen Club. The star will start another serial shortly.

Larry Semon has started on a new comedy. Semon has just returned from a business trip to New York.

Antonio Moreno and a company of serial players have returned from location at Truckee, and expect to go back again Monday, to finish the tenth episode of "The Veiled Mystery."

Jimmy Aubrey has started a new comedy under the direction of Jess Robbins. Robert Kerr has joined the staff to collaborate with Director Robbins on stories.

"Hidden Dangers" will be completed some time this month. Joe Ryan and Jean Paige start Monday on the fifteenth episode of this serial.

Vitagraph Studio contemplates extensive expansion. A force of workmen have started work on the eighth studio. It is said that the work will involve an expenditure of $100,000, and will be completed by September 1st.

JOHN INCE STARTS

"Some One in the House," from the stage play which was adapted for the screen by Marc Robbins and Lois Zellner, is under way. It is a master crook story, to be directed by John Ince with an all star cast.

NEW MANAGER FOR WHITE & HAMILTON

Henry J. Arenz has been appointed general manager of Jack White and Lloyd Hamilton comedies now being produced at the Astra Studios. The company is planning a trip to Catalina for locations for their next picture.

GLADYS GEORGE LEAVES INCE

One year ago Gladys George was taken from the stage production, "The Better 'Ole," by Mr. Ince. Her first part was opposite Charles Ray in "Red Hot Dollars." Since then she has played leads with Lloyd Hughes and Douglas MacLean.

The critics agree that Miss George furnishes an exception to the claim that leading women take no interest in their work.

No announcement has as yet been made concerning her plans for the future.

BIG PLANS FOR LINCOLN MILLER PRODUCTIONS

Production on an extensive scale is contemplated by the Lincoln Miller Film Company, according to first hand announcement from Mr. Lincoln himself.

It is the intention of the company to produce fifty-two single reels and eight five reels during the next year. There will be two companies devoted to making the five-reel comedy dramas, and it is their aim to make four pictures each a year.

One of these companies will feature Charles Meredith, who has left Famous Players to join this organization. Mr. Meredith will be remembered as having played with Constance Talmadge, Marie Walcamp, Dorothy Dalton, Marguerite Clark and other well known screen favorites.

The other five-reel company will make comedy dramas featuring Christian Rub. His stories will be written by Geo. Hall and Reinhold Hirsch.

Mr. John West, who is a well known European director, will act as co-director with Mr. Miller.

"SOMETHING MORE"

The Hermann Film Company is expected to start production next week on "Something More."

Margaret Lockwood, former Broadway player, will be the assistant director as well as art director.

UNIVERSAL

Harry Carey and his company, under the direction of Val Paul, have gone to Barstow to spend ten days doing the desert scenes of "Sundown Slim."

Tod Browning is doing the first sequence of "Outside the Law" with Priscilla Dean.

Jacques Jaccard is starting on "The Law of Average." This is the third picture at Little Bear.

Albert Russell has finished the final episode of "The Moon Riders," the serial starring Art Acord, which has been nine months in filming.

Louise Lorraine has resumed work in "The Lightning's Eye," Elmo Lincoln's serial. The company was interrupted during the filming of the tenth episode by an accident in which Miss Lorraine sustained two broken ribs.

Hoot Gibson, directed by Leo Maloney, has just finished "A Gambling Fool," and starts on another Western, "Grinning Granger," Monday. Dorothy Woods plays opposite Hoot.

Fred Fishback has finished his two-reel comedy entitled "Cracked Wedding Bells."

The Universal Scenario Department has acquired "The Gilded Dream," a magazine story by Katherine Leiser Robbins, for Carmel Myers. Doris Schroeder is preparing the scenario. "Black Friday," a novel by Frederic S. Isham, is being adapted for Frank Mayo. Jack Ford is to direct Mayo in this new one.

Harry Brown, Universal's chief electrician, is supervising the construction of a new motor generating station, which is to supply Universal City with light and power.

Eric Von Stroheim is scheduled to start production on "Foolish Wives" Monday, and will go to San Diego to photograph the Exposition Grounds.

MAYER STUDIO TO CLOSE

As soon as Mildred Harris Chaplin and Anita Stewart finish their productions the Mayer Studio will close for six or seven weeks.

Mrs. Chaplin is going to New York and Miss Stewart is expecting to visit Honolulu.

Louis B. Mayer is planning to add three special companies to produce all star features, in addition to the companies he now has, to begin work early in September.

Virginia Norden has arrived with a number of new books and plays selected for Mr. Mayer's next year's productions.

CASTING "THE SPENDERS"

Jack Conway, who directs Benjamin B. Hampton's pictures, is casting the new seven-reel photoplay of Harry Leon Wilson's novel, at Brunton's Studio.

Production will start in a few days.

TOURNEUR RETURNS

After spending eight weeks at Catalina Island the Maurice Tourneur Company has returned to its Universal City Studio to finish interiors.

BARRISCALE COMPANY GOES NORTH

Bessie Barriscale and the entire cast of her new Robertson-Cole production, "The Broken Gate," have gone to Pleasanton, Calif., where two weeks will be spent in filming exteriors.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

"THE FIGHTING CHANCE"

"The Fighting Chance," the Lasky all star production of the Robert W. Chambers story, showed last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre. In spite of the rather straining Chambers situations, the story is satisfactory, due in great part to the acting.

Conrad Nagle, well remembered for his portrayal of "Youth" in the stage play of "Experience," heads the cast as Stephen Siward, a victim of hereditary drink. By combining dramatic genius, technique, and subtlety in his characterization, he succeeds in taking the picture.

Anna Q. Nilsson is rather well cast as Sylvia Landis, the feminine lead.

Bertram Grassby again displays his villainous versatility as Howard Quarrier, fiance of Miss Landis and man of affairs.

Clarence Burton is good as Leroy Mortimer, the crude, petty character that is the second heavy.

Dorothy Davenport plays the small role of his wife, Lela Mortimer, in a manner that reminded us of the old days in which she was a reigning favorite.

The cast further includes Frederick Stanton, Ruth Helms, Herbert Prior, and William H. Brown.

Charles Meigne directed.

"THE INVISIBLE DIVORCE"

"The Invisible Divorce," a United Picture Theatres all star production, played last week at Clune's Broadway. The play, which is an adaptation from a magazine story, lays claim to a novel plot, and more heart interest and human incidents than any recent release.

Walter McGrail is typical as Jimmie Ryder, the enthusiastic, egotistical, withal rather lovable young husband.

Leatrice Joy as his worshipping, trusting, sometimes hurt little wife does probably her most subtle work. She controls the audience's sympathy throughout the piece.

Grace Darmond is good as the other woman who loves Jimmie Ryder, and who gives him his chance after she has been married to John Barry, well interpreted by Walter Miller.

Tom Bates adds a characteristic touch as Peter Carr.

Thomas R. Mills directed the production.

"THE INVISIBLE DIVORCE"—National Picture Theatres

"The picture contains a great deal of heart interest and should please in almost any house. A capable cast appears in Miss Joy's support."—Exhibitors Herald.

"DANGEROUS TO MEN"

Screen Classics presented Viola Dana at the new Victory, or rather at the Victory under its new management, last week, in "Dangerous to Men." The story with more efficient handling might have proven an entertaining farce. As treated, however, it is a ridiculous affair abounding in silly situations.

Miss Dana is an attractive figure in the production but lacks something that made the old Dana pictures so exceptional.

Milton Sills is absolutely out of his element in the male lead.

Helen Raymond is well cast as the female heavy. She is a newcomer to the screen and promises much for the future, although her motions are as yet poorly timed for the camera.

Mollie McConnell plays the character more than satisfactorily.

Wm. C. Dowlan directed.

PUBLICISTS FLIT

Sig Schlager and Larry Weingarten, the J. Parker Read, Jr., publicists, better known as the "Duo," have gone to San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, San Diego and other important coast cities. Schlager will tour the northern part of the state while Weingarten will take the southern portion. The purpose of the trip, it is reported, is to make final arrangements with the newspaper editors for the sensational scenario contest, to be hooked up with Louise Glaum's new production, "Love Madness."

FONTAINE LA RUE

Metro signs Fontaine La Rue to play the part of "Blanche" in the production of "Body and Soul," under the direction of Charles Swickard.

She will be seen soon in "The White Rat," in which she plays the lead.

"THE SLIM PRINCESS"

Mabel Normand played last week at the California theatre in "The Slim Princess," a Goldwyn adaptation of the George Ade story. On the whole, the production is a bewildering mixture of slapstick and farce, of proportions that do not mix. Evidently the picture entailed an enormous financial outlay, not warranted by its entertainment value.

The star offers one of her characteristic performances, which is more or less lost in the fantastic setting, and insane situations, with which she deals.

Hugh Thompson does the uncertain male lead rather excitably.

Tully Marshall seems out of place in the absurd role of Popova, whom we took for Kalora's nurse maid.

Russ Powell and Lillian Sylvester are equally heavy in the respective roles of the Governor General and Jeneka.

Harry Lorraine and Pomeroy Cannon are also in the cast.

Victor Shertzinger directed.

"THE SLIM PRINCESS"—Goldwyn

"Belongs in the dark ages when opera bouffe was amusing. Today it is only stupid and boring, ruining whatever chances Mabel Normand had to register entertainingly. George Ade's old stage play does not screen convincingly."—The Billboard.

"RIDERS OF THE DAWN"

Benjamin B. Hampton presented "Riders of the Dawn" at Tally's Broadway last week. The play, which is an adaptation of Zane Grey's "Desert of Wheat," is a hair-raising, blood and thunder drama of rural Scandinavian life in this country. It abounds in weird, law breaking gangs, and galloping vigilantes, a la Ku Klux Klan. It contains too many strenuous crimes to be classified as particularly entertaining. However, in action it is a supreme triumph.

Roy Stewart heads the cast as Kurt Dorn, the old time hero, who is continually saving the females of the cast from uncertain tortures, and being framed on by beefy looking tramps.

Claire Adams plays Lenore Anderson, the hero's little sweetheart, whose life is just one fluttering breath and quivering chin after another.

Marc Robbins cleverly characterizes Chris Dorn, father of the hero.

Robert McKim is good as Henry Neuman, the man higher up, who with peculiarly little reason directs the murders, home-burnings, etc., executed by what appears to be an army of hoboes.

Frank Brownlee plays Gliddon, the somewhat cruder character just beneath, who personally instigates the hate which rides rampant through the production.

Marie Messenger does Kathleen Anderson, the little sister of the heroine. In an attempt to work up sympathy for the child she is given a wearying amount of footage, and then she is brutally murdered by one of the mob.

Violet Schram further messes things up as the French girl in whose possession is a forged marriage certificate entangling the hero.

Nelson McDowell plays Jerry Bowles, the foreman, in his usual satisfactory manner.

Others in the cast are Joseph Dowling, Frederick Starr, and Arthur Morrison.

Hugh Conway directed.

CRITICISMS OF CURRENT RELEASES

"SUDS"—United Artists

"Suds" comes to a public rendered expectant by 'Pollyanna' well qualified to approximate its highly successful predecessor in popularity and pleasing power. The box office power of Mary Pickford's name, with the exploitation possibilities presented to work with and the picture itself as a basis, should make the engagement of 'Suds' a highly profitable one."—Exhibitors Herald.

"THE LADDER OF LIES"—Paramount Artcraft

"The Ladder of Lies" makes acceptable summer entertainment, although the story is not new and the plot rather hackneyed. Ethel Clayton makes the most of the role of a young artist, plays the part with unusual sympathy and wears a series of beautiful gowns. Not as satisfying as former Clayton vehicles."—Exhibitors Herald.

HANK MANN CONVALESCING FROM INJURIES AT RANCH

Hank Mann, comedy star, who sustained a fractured spine and three broken ribs last week while working with his company on location, has gone to his ranch in the San Fernando valley where he will remain until he has fully recovered from his injuries. A doctor and nurse are in attendance.

Beginning July 26 the Hank Mann comedies will be shown on Broadway, according to word from the Peerless Film Exchange, which states it has just secured a downtown playhouse for the Mann pictures after many weeks' effort.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PLANS RE-UNION OF STARS WHO STARTED AT VITAGRAPH

Antonio Moreno is planning a re-union banquet for the many stars who worked together in the early days at the Vitagraph studio in Brooklyn. Many of the players, who eight years ago were playing bits in two and three reel productions are now in California.

Harry Morey is expected to join the group within a few weeks.

James W. Morrison arrived a few weeks ago to serve as leading man for Anita Stewart, who also is an early Vitagrapher.

Constance Talmadge is expected in September to make a picture on the coast for First National.

Among the big "V" pioneers who already are located here are Moreno, Earle Williams, Clara Kimball Young, Maurice Costello, Anita Stewart, Alice Lake, Edward Earle, Mae Marsh, Edith Storey and Mabel Normand.

Carl Girard has been engaged by Metro to support Alice Lake in "Body and Soul."

A. E. Frudeman is designing the sets for Alice Lake's latest production at Metro.

Roland Lee has been signed to direct Hobart Bosworth in his forthcoming J. Parker Read, Jr., production.

Ethel Gray Terry is supporting Mildred Harris Chaplin in "Habit."

Gertrude Olmstead, who hails from La Salle, Ill., winner of the beauty prize contest held by the Chicago Herald and Examiner, has signed a contract to play in Universal pictures. She arrives next week.

Katherine MacDonald will journey to Laguna Beach for a vacation. On her return she will begin work on "The Second Latchkey," from the pen of C. N. and A. M. Williamson. Meanwhile President Sam Rork will be busily engaged in picking the cast for this new production.

Louis K. Webb is cast for the American professor in "Foolish Wives."

Mlle. E. de Ponti, formerly of the Royal Italian Opera, London, is to give some operatic performances.

Otto Lederer has been cast as the heavy with Jack Conway. This is Lederer's first free lance engagement, having previously been under long time contracts.

Mary Hay, Mrs. Richard Barthelmess, is to appear in Griffith productions opposite her husband.

Abraham Lehr, of the Goldwyn Company, is a proud father of an eight-pound boy, and everything's O. K.

Henry Conjeager is Maurice Tournour's new cameraman. He was formerly with the Marshall Neilan productions.

C. S. Widom, costumer and wardrobe man, has just severed connection with Goldwyn. No announcement is made as to where he will go.

Kathleen Kirkham, having just finished her role in "Beau Revel," will leave next week for a stay in Big Bear country. Her mother, nephew and niece will accompany her.

Olive Thomas left Brunton studio this week for New York along with a general exodus of Selznick players.

"DOC" WILLAT IN NEW YORK

C. A. (Doc) Willat, General Manager of the National Film Corporation, is in New York on a flying business mission.

He announces that production is to begin on a large scale soon.

Joe Brandt, who recently resigned as Director General of the National Film Company, is in New York. It is said that Brandt is to take the managership of the Federal Film Exchanges, also as head of another producing organization.

LESSER QUILTS

Owing to the importance of his new position as representative for the Associated First National Pictures, Incorporated, Sol Lesser announces that he intends to quit the producing end of affairs and to devote his entire energies to matters connected with the First National and his own theatrical interests. He will remain here some six weeks, and then will return to New York where he has established offices in the Mecca Building. While there he will launch the E. H. Hermann feature, "That Something," and the latest George Beban production, "One Man in a Million."

Mr. Lesser holds starring contracts with Annette Kellerman and Wheeler Oakman, and the settling of these matters will necessitate some of his time before going back.

Miss Ann Cudahy, daughter of Jack Cudahy, is playing with Monroe Salisbury in "The Barbarian."

Ben Reynolds, of the American Society of Cinematographers, is to head the organization of cameramen who will film "Foolish Wives," Erich Von Stroheim's next.

A. F. Mantz is doing the art work for Viola Dana's new picture, "Blackmail."

Frederick Peters has been cast for Goliath, the Giant, in "Edgar's Sunday Courtship."

Ruth Renick, who has been at Truckee for three weeks with George Melford's company, will return to Los Angeles the latter part of this week to confer with some producers who have made her starring offers, after seeing her work in "The Mollycoddle." Miss Renick was formerly a stock player in Oakland, Seattle, and Los Angeles.

"Margaret Armstrong" is the new name given to Von Stroheim's new leading lady. Who she was we are afraid you'll never find out—it's a secret.

NEW FEATURE

Camera! wishes to announce the acquirement of an exceptional feature. Beginning with next issue, Fritz Remont, the famous graphologist, will write a series of analyses of character from handwriting. Send your signature on plain white paper to Fritz Remont, Box 310, Main Office, San Francisco, Calif. Then your signature will be reproduced and analysis from it published in Camera!

Next week we will publish Miss Remont's readings of George Hackathorne, Charles Ogle, Margaret Shelby, Thelma Percy, and Bertram Grassby.

EXHIBITORS TO ACT SOON

Interview With President Cohen

(As published in "The Billboard.")

"As president of your national organization I am receiving enthusiastic assurances of support from every section. The tenor of most letters is optimistic, but there is an undercurrent which makes it plain that the great exhibiting body of the country demands action against the aggression of certain producers.

"The great responsibility that the convention has laid upon my shoulders makes it imperative for me to consult with the Executive Committee. We propose to move and move quickly, but we do not propose to move without due deliberation. I have received many suggestions and we will consider them carefully.

"If certain offending elements persist in their mistaken policy of seeking to undermine our investments they must be prepared to meet the consequences. One concern engaged in distributing has intimated a desire to co-operate with the exhibitors, and we have assurances from one of the big producing companies that they want to discuss the situation with us in a spirit of reason and amity. The men who will see the light and accede to the just demands of the organized exhibitors of the country will show good business sense.

"The Executive Committee of the organization is preparing a complete printed record of the proceedings and all the official documents which played a part in the deliberations at Cleveland. The bulletin will be published under the seal of the organization and will constitute the official record.

"The exhibitors, big and small, throughout the country, realize that the one reliable source of insurance for the protection of their investments is a powerful national organization. No time is being lost in providing adequate quarters properly equipped where data may be gathered from all over the country as to conditions existing, and if any inroads are being made by producer-exhibitors, so this organization can meet the attack. In a very short time organizers will be sent out in order to bring the organization to the exhibitors throughout all parts of the country, so that every exhibitor, no matter how small his investment may be, will be given an opportunity to join with his fellow exhibitor in bringing about a one hundred per cent national organization, an organization that will prove its motto, 'An Injury to One Is the Concern of All.'"

Continuity Writing

COMEDY

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay Plots"

Installment One

Comedy writing is one of the most difficult branches of scenario work. Some writers are naturally adapted to it, while with others it is simply out of the question. The fact that a writer is an adept at dramatic construction does not necessarily mean that he, or she, can write good comedy. Those writers who are sufficiently versatile to be good at both, are few and far between. The same may be said of directors and actors. Some are especially adapted to comedy and others are not.

Producing companies, as a rule, have apparently not yet come to appreciate the value of writers and directors of good comedy. I say this because they do not pay such salaries as would indicate that they have. The average price for the synopsis of a two-reel comedy is around one hundred to one hundred and fifty dollars. It should be nearer five hundred. And, instead of paying the comedy director—I mean the one who is producing two-reel comedies—two hundred and fifty dollars per week, they should pay as much as the dramatic director receives. Just because one man is allowed five thousand feet of film in which to tell his story, and the other is limited to two thousand, does not seem to me to be a legitimate reason why the two-reel director should be paid half as much salary as the other fellow. Nevertheless, such is usually the case. The same argument would apply to the writer, in my opinion. The market simply must have comedies. They are an essential ingredient of the exhibitor's program. The margin of profit made by the producer on good comedy is just as great, or greater, than that made on the five-reel drama. Then, considering the fact that good comedy is more difficult to write—and direct—why should the scenario writer and director be put in the two-by-four class?

However, I am getting off the track. We were going to discuss comedy construction. Let us first classify comedy. There are several kinds. We have straight comedy, or situation comedy—

A. D.'S TO DANCE AT BRUNTON'S

The Assistant Directors' Association will hold its second annual barn dance July 31, at the Brunton studios, according to Allen Watt, chairman of the committee in charge, who selected the location after a careful study of four of the largest film plants in California that had been offered for the occasion.

Through the courtesy of Robert Brunton, the association has had placed at its disposal for the affair a stage 250 feet long by 150 feet wide, which has just been constructed at the studios and is said to be the largest motion picture stage in the world. Approximately 5,000 people, it is planned, will attend the affair. A refreshment bar the width of the stage is now being constructed and appropriate decorations are being prepared. Two orchestras, it is said, will furnish music for dancing, while "Blondy" Clark and a number of entertainers have promised to be present and make the evening a most interesting and enjoyable one for all attending. The association is planning to make its second occasion the greatest social event of the industry and no stone is being left unturned towards this end.

FLORIDA HAS NEW COMPANY

St. Petersburg, Fla., July 2.—A studio is being constructed by a new firm known as the Quality Film Company. H. A. Kelly is manager and director. Mr. Kelly is in New York now placing an order for $20,000 worth of equipment.

slapstick comedy—and burlesque, or "hokum" comedy, as the three general heads. There are several varieties of each.

Straight comedy is legitimate, funny situations in which some character is placed in an embarrassing, ridiculous, ludicrous, or in other words, funny position, such as might actually happen in real life, and is not exaggerated. For instance:

"A young lady who has just graduated from a medical college is given charge of her uncle's practice. A former sweetheart of hers, and a graduate of the same medical college, puts out his shingle in the same little town. He is disguised with a very professional looking Van Dyke beard. The girl has not seen her new competitor. He goes to her office and poses as a patient. She gets wise and puts him through a course of treatment that is extremely embarrassing to him, but funny to an audience."

This is situation, or straight comedy. I am using this as an example for the reason that it is one of the situations in the comedy which we shall build, in this series. Let us have an example of "hokum" comedy. The story which we are going to build in this series is a mixture of straight comedy, hokum, and slapstick. I have selected it for that reason. Here is one of the "hokum" situations:

"A doctor places his patient on the table for an examination. Taking his stethoscope, he begins feeling along the patient's side. Finally, he locates a fat pocketbook—taps it complacently, and announces that he has located the trouble. As he takes his instrument away, the bulge of the pocketbook begins to pulsate up and down, very much to his amazement."

Pure hokum, or in other words what comedy producers call a "gag." It is exaggerated, unnatural comedy, but it is so ridiculous that it makes you laugh. No such doctor ever existed, nor was there either such a pocketbook ever owned by anyone. As stated in one of my previous articles on "Scientific Plot Construction" in Camera!, burlesque or "hokum" is an imitation of drama, done in ridicule. It is clownish, while satire, which is a variety of straight comedy, is dignified. Satire is in reality a form of comedy-drama. A very good illustration was "American Aristocracy," done by Douglas Fairbanks. "The Geezer of Berlin," which was a travesty of "The Beast of Berlin," produced by Universal, was a good sample of a five-reel burlesque comedy. It was full of "hokum."

There is very little story or plot necessary in slapstick comedies. Slapstick is mostly melodrama exaggerated to the point that it becomes ludicrous.

"Gags" and rapid, funny action are the chief ingredients of slapstick comedy. Funny titles also play a very important part in comedies. I received a letter a short time ago from a producer, in which he told me that I had increased the value of his first production a hundred per cent by writing a new set of sub-titles for him. It enabled him to get a release, or sales contract, for his entire series.

In the next issue of Camera! we will have the synopsis of a two-reel comedy which will be followed by the continuity and full development. As before stated, it will be a combination of straight comedy, "hokum," and a touch of slapstick. Each kind will be pointed out for my reader as we go along.

NEW BOOKING OFFICE

James R. Fish, formerly of the Screen Talent Players, has associated himself with Tom Brown, and they have opened an office to supply the studios with high class talent. They have already started to register, and there is no registration fee necessary.

Word comes from the personal representatives that they have secured the services of Robert P. Thompson, late assistant director with the Bessie Love Productions during the filming of "The Midlanders," as their outside representative.

Ora Carewe will soon finish her work in "The Cross Roads," Clermont Photoplay production, and will at once join the Lasky forces as leading woman in William de Mille's production.

John B. Seitz has joined the camera brigade to be used by Rex Ingram in his forthcoming production. Seitz is a member of the American Society of Cinematographers.

GRIFFITH TO RETURN

From a reliable source comes the information that D. W. Griffith will arrive in Los Angeles about October 1st with the entire company, staff, and mechanical forces, to spend the winter.

Richard Barthelmess, Dorothy Gish, and Robert Herron, with their own individual companies, will also accompany Mr. Griffith.

No definite studio location has yet been announced.

Viola Vale will play one of the leading roles in the Metro all star production, "Some One in the House."

Sidney Smith is to play the king's jester with Otis Skinner in the Gasnier production of "Kismet."

Courtenay Foote has completed his work in Metro's "The Star Rover," and has gone to Santa Monica mountains to do some landscape painting.

June Mathis is back in her office at Metro studio, engaged in preparing the scenario for "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Walter Mayo has been selected as assistant director to Rex Ingram. Tom Storey will photograph.

Marion Mackay, who has played several parts with Christie comedies, will be seen this week at Miller's Theatre as Mrs. Astor-bilt in "Bringing Up Father."

Harry D. Wilson has just returned from the East and will associate himself with Sol Lesser in Los Angeles.

Mayron Aye, who has been seen as a feature member of the Bothwell Browne revue at the local Orpheum, leaves the Browne cast Sunday and will remain in Hollywood, her home.

J. Brien Chapman has resigned as publicity director for Federal Photoplays, Zane Grey Pictures and Benjamin B. Hampton productions. He will take a flying trip to New York as his first vacation from publicity and scenario work for four years. On his return he will start a publicity and news service with offices in Hollywood. His place with Hampton productions will be filled by Jack Lewis, former publicity director for Selznick.

Robert McKim is taking a few days vacation between pictures, most of the time admiring his baby boy, "Robert Junior." He recently completed "The Devil to Pay," an all star Robert Brunton production directed by Ernest C. Warde. Mr. McKim is a Benjamin B. Hampton star.

Charles Fortune, famous acrobat, juggler, and clown, of the famous Fortune Brothers who have appeared with every circus and in every important vaudeville theatre in the world, is now playing the role of the clown with Eddie Polo in his Universal serial, "Circus Life."

Gladys Walton is to play the lead in "The Watchmaker," under the direction of Harry Franklin. Miss Walton is soon to be starred by Universal.

FIRST NATIONAL ACQUIRES HOLUBAR PRODUCTIONS

Allen Holubar is making his first independent production starring Dorothy Phillips, under the financial sponsorship of Albert Kaufman.

It is his intention to produce seven-reel super specials.

The scenario was written by Olga Linek Scholl.

The first production is to be released through First National.

THE SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wish the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past year in regard to the submission of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

ANITA STEWART CO., 3800 MISSION ROAD, LOS ANGELES. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, SANTA BARBARA, CALIF., is in the market for strong stories requiring balanced casts.

N. W. ARONSON, CRUSADER SERVICE, CITIZENS TRUST BLDG. Pico 750. Author's representative. Books only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY, CALIF. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; and feature character stories for Priscilla Dean.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST., LOS ANGELES. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust Avenue, New York.

D. N. SCHWAB PRODUCTIONS (Inc.), AT HOLLYWOOD STUDIO, 6642 SANTA MONICA BLVD., is in the market for 5 and 6 reel comedy dramas for David Butler, preferably stories befitting the big, smiling country boy type, with at least part of the setting in rural locale.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG., LOS ANGELES. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

HERMANN FILM CORPORATION, 2435 Wilshire Blvd., Santa Monica, Calif. In the market for Five Reel Dramas, also two reel comedies and serials.

HAWORTH STUDIO, 4500 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES, is in the market for scenarios for Sessue Hayakawa, who plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels. Also desire scenarios for Edith Storey, with strong dramatic roles, dealing with society or out of doors.

SCREEN WRITERS ORGANIZE

A mass meeting was held Thursday evening at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, by more than one hundred noted screen writers, for the purpose of forming an association which is to be affiliated with the Authors League of America. The new organization is to be known as the Screen Writers' Guild, a fraternity to protect and promote the interest of its members. An arbitration board will be selected to settle all grievances which might arise among the authors and producers.

A committee of thirty was selected, with Frank E. Woods as chairman, to perfect the constitution and by-laws and to make arrangements for permanent headquarters. Hollywood seems to be the likely place for the offices and club house.

The qualifications for membership are much the same as those of the Dramatist League, whose requirement is that the applicant must have had a play on Broadway. The detail of eligibility of the candidate for membership in the new guild is to be presented at the next meeting, which will be called very shortly by Mr. Woods.

With the sincere enthusiasm being shown by the one hundred charter members, a powerful association is assured.

WE HAVE TOO MANY CRYING MEN

According to W. Stephen Bush, Editor of the Billboard, who says:

"Twice now within a few days women who are regular patrons of motion picture theatres have spoken to me on the prevalence of crying men on the screen. Usually the toughest sort of men, miners, cowboys, all rough Western types, burst into a flood of tears generally because their 'gal' has run away with the other chap. Men who think nothing of pumping lead into their fellows and who have contracted the habit of killing as you and I contract the habit of using the left hand are seen in moving close-ups, their begrimed and hardened features stained and often almost washed with tears. To women this false type of men does not appeal, and it is only for the sake of the women's feelings that men keep from booing this sort of spectacle. There are too many false, stereotyped figures on the screen. A 'bawling killer' is the most laughable of them all."

Every Time You Turn on the Lights—

You realize the essential nature of electricity in your home life every time you turn on your lights. You know that you could never deprive yourself of the comforts and conveniences of electricity and go back to the kerosene lamps of another day.

Just as electricity has become essential in our home life, so has it for economic reasons become essential to our future industrial prosperity. The fuel situation in California is such that our industries can use all of the electric energy that can be produced for many years to come.

When you realize these facts, you more readily appreciate the assured earnings of Southern California Edison Company. And you realize that the welfare of the public demands the continued prosperity of this company.

The especial significance for the investor is that the securities of this company are a good, sound investment for savings and surplus funds.

We are offering and recommending to our clients everywhere the General and Refunding Mortgage 6% Bonds of this Company. At market price, these bonds are now yielding about 6.94%.

You can well afford to investigate carefully this and other California hydro-electric securities. You can do so easily by calling at our office, writing or phoning for full information contained in Circular C73.

Ask also for "Investment Recommendations for July, 1920" — a handy, informative folder.

DE BRIE MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS

The following list of reasons is far from complete. If you want others, ask anyone who has seen a De Brie.

1. Absolute elimination of static.
2. Instantaneous gear change to 1 and 1 movement.
3. Simplicity of construction.
4. Light and compact (weight 13 lbs. complete).
5. Simple focusing device. Image is magnified to actual size and is right side up.
6. Quickest lens change ever devised.
7. No changes necessary for reversing. Just turn the handle backward. YOU WILL BE INTERESTED IN SEEING ONE.

AN EXPRESSION FROM ENGLAND

The following article from an English paper recently came to our attention and appeared worthy of notice. Perhaps it will be a bit of a blow for the industry to discover just what the Britisher thinks of our knowledge of him and his customs. It might even occur to us to make remarks concerning English productions, one of which it has never been our privilege to run into; but the fact remains that if we are aggravating any class of our public with inaccuracies that may seem to it unpardonable, it is necessary to change conditions.

America must continue to lead the world in picture production, and Los Angeles must continue to lead this country. In the light of this, even small leakages should not be tolerated.

"The day will perhaps come when foreign producers of films will discover that the British peer is not always a good-natured idiot or an inebriate, as our well-known contributor, 'Sapper,' protested yesterday. Peeresses do not habitually drink cocktails in the morning, and they have not assimilated the Transatlantic fashion—excellent though it is—of swallowing a glass of iced water at breakfast. Nor are they waited upon at that meal by a posse of powdered flunkies.

Again, peers do not usually curse their servants; nor, when they are of Scottish origin, are they invariably apparelled in kilts. They do not go to dinner parties in black velvet jackets, worn with a white waistcoat, with a natty made-up tie and a double collar. They do not always affect monocles nor have they all receding chins and sheep-faces. Some of them do not wear loud checks in ordinary daily life nor extravagantly cut knickerbockers. In short, these unfortunate people are very much like other human beings, and do not revel in social solecisms.

It is a mistake in the manufacture of films to disregard these doubtless small but important points. It is a still greater mistake to lampoon—in sheer, blissful ignorance—a whole class of our "new poor," and to do it continuously."

WHAT DOES THE SMALL TOWN EXHIBITOR WANT?

The small town exhibitor has, without doubt, a need to fill that is entirely different from that of any other class of picture showman. The public with which he deals necessarily is not so film wise, in many respects, as city audiences, but it knows what it wants. For instance, it is not so prone to take a chance upon new and untried stars held enticingly forth for the trial of the theater owner.

All star casts are growing in popularity with these people, but a very few long idolized favorites still hold the foreground.

The artistic flights of some of our foremost producers, over which the city critics rave in rapture, absolutely fail to appeal to the small town fan. Beautifully photographed, highly imaginative themes haven't the entertainment value for him that the practical, consistent, everyday story possesses.

There is, and will be, a much greater demand by this class for interesting and swift moving independent productions, as is easily perceived by the present controversy between the exhibitor and producer. All will not be well if the former is not satisfied soon.

PAGE THE CUTTER

Innumerable recent productions have been injured by the careless and illogical cutting in of sub-titles. A cutter who does not realize that a spoken title cannot be satisfactorily thrown in after a speaker has finished a remark, nor yet made use of a jump ahead of time, is not an efficient cutter; and a producer who allows such is slashing his own profits needlessly.

It stands to reason a great portion of a picture's audience will be in a stage of film education that needs assistance rather than hindrance in following a story. Misplaced sub-titles are bound to confuse this class, and they are no less annoying to the observing fan.

Goodness knows, there are enough inconsistencies to be met in the majority of film play plots without getting the conversation "balled up."

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

TEXAS FILM COMPANY INCORPORATES

With the purpose in view of preserving in film form for future generations the habits and legends of the American Indian, the Texas Film Corporation has been organized to produce a series of all Indian features. Production headquarters have been established at Lyton, Okla., and business headquarters in the Superba Theatre Building, Los Angeles.

The company also expects to revive the interest of the present generation in the romantic history and lore of the redman, as distinguished from the "wild and woolly" thrillers that have been thrown upon the silver sheet in the past.

The continuity for the first production, to be titled "The Daughter of Dawn," has been prepared by Northbert Myles, who is director general of the company. The productions will be filmed about twenty miles from Lawton, where the Comanche and Kiowa tribes are located. Included in the cast will be a number of Carlisle graduates, who will materially aid in transferring to the screen the true history of the Indians in their peaceful pursuits.

The organization is composed of S. E. Fisher, president; J. M. Williamson, first vice-president; A. K. Gillis, second vice-president; W. F. Gillis, third vice-president; R. E. Banks, secretary and treasurer; Northbert Myles, director general; John P. Powers, business manager; Ray Reis, head cameraman, and Roy Coulson, assistant director, all of whom, excepting Mr. Powers, are in Oklahoma. Mr. Powers heads the business organization in Los Angeles, where studios will be secured for future productions, though most of the scenes will naturally be exteriors.

Mr. Powers is manager of the Capital Studios in Los Angeles.

D. W. GRIFFITH INCORPORATES

Articles of incorporation have been granted by the State of Maryland to an organization which will be known as D. W. Griffith, Incorporated. The new company will take over and control the present Griffith real estate holdings at Mamaronock, New York, Griffith's fifth interest in the United Artists' Corporation, the two Griffith pictures now ready for release, and the players and staff now employed by the company.

Stock in the new organization is now being sold.

The board of directors includes D. W. Griffith, Albert L. Grey, J. C. Epping, Albert H. T. Banzhaf, Charles Counselman and Lee Benoit.

OLIVER MOROSCO PRODUCTIONS

With a capitalization of $2,500,000, the Oliver Morosco Productions, Incorporated, at the head of which is Oliver Morosco, is preparing to film the Morosco stage successes with their original casts.

A list of some ten productions to be filmed has already been announced, which is headed by "The Humming Bird" and "Seven Miles to Arden."

All the productions will be made in Los Angeles.

Associated with Mr. Morosco in this enterprise are George R. Bentel, well known as manager of the Ascot Speedway, and Frank C. Egan, identified with the management of the Morosco interests in Los Angeles.

STUDIO TO BE BUILT AT SANTA VENETIA

What is to be known as Argonaut Film City will be constructed at Santa Venetia, California. William Vincent Goin, formerly of Berkeley, is largely responsible for the plans of this artcraft colony, which hopes to reach perfection in picture making.

Announcement will be made shortly as to studio construction plans.

SATURDAY EVENING POST STORY FOR CLERMONT

"Hard Boiled Mabel," George Weston's story which recently appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, is being made into a comedy-drama by Francis Powers for the Lloyd Carleton productions, as a second offering on the Clermont program. It will be directed by Lloyd B. Carleton.

George Webb

TALMADGE PURCHASES POLLOCK PLAY

"The Sign on the Door," by Channing Pollock, in which Marjorie Rambeau is now appearing at the Republic Theatre in New York, has been sold to Norma Talmadge for screen production.

Miss Talmadge is now at work upon "The Branded Woman," founded upon Oliver D. Bailey's play, "Branded." Immediately upon its completion, she will film "Smiling Through," in which Jane Cowl played the stellar role.

Betty Schade is playing Mrs. Richley in "The Village Sleuth" at Grauman's this week.

AT THE LASKY STUDIO

For the second time in his career, Wallace Reid in "Always Audacious" (Toujours de l'Audace) will play a dual role. James Cruze will direct the picture, the cast for which has not yet been announced. Thomas Geraghty is writing the scenario from the story which was written by Ben Ames Williams for the Saturday Evening Post.

Joseph Henabery will very shortly start work on "Brewster's Millions," by George Barr McCutcheon.

William de Mille has begun active work on his next production, which is an adaptation of Cosmo Hamilton's "His Friend and His Wife."

George Melford has returned with his company from Truckee, Cal., and will finish up "The Jucklins" at the Lasky Studio. Having completed this production, he plans to begin work on William Vaughan Moody's play, "The Faith Healer," in which Milton Sills and Mabel Julienne Scott will play the leading roles.

Cecil B. de Mille has begun work on his next production, as yet unnamed. The story is an original by Jeanie Macpherson.

AT UNIVERSAL

After eight weeks of preparation, Erich Von Stroheim is ready to begin the filming of his newest feature.

Gladys Walton and Jack Perrin are sharing the leading honors in "Out of the Sky," under the direction of Reeves Eason.

Frank Mayo is preparing to begin work upon his next feature, "Black Friday."

Jacques Jaccard is now at work on the last of his series of northern wood stories, "The Forest Runners."

Rollin Sturgeon is preparing to film "The Gilded Dream" with Carmel Myers.

"Kate Plus 10," by Edgar Wallace, has been adapted for screen purposes by Wallace Clifton, and will soon go into production under the guidance of Stuart Paton. Eva Novak will be starred.

Edward Kull has begun production on the first episode of "The Queen of Diamonds," starring Eileen Sedgwick.

Eddie Polo is now at work on the third episode of "Circus Life."

Robert Hill is at work on the eleventh episode of "The Lightning's Eye."

AT VITAGRAPH

Chester Bennett has started "The Romance Promoters," Earle Willams' next feature.

William Duncan will start this week on his second serial under his new three-year contract. Edith Johnson will appear opposite him.

Director David Smith will soon start another special to follow his "The Courage of Marge O'Doone."

NEILAN BACK FROM LOCATION

Marshall Neilan has returned from San Francisco, accompanied by Pat O'Malley, Wesley Barry, Marjorie Daw and other members of the "Dinty" company. Mr. Neilan has been shooting Chinatown scenes for this production.

AT BAKERSFIELD

Phyllis Haver, Ben Turpin and Jimmie Finlayson have journeyed to Bakersfield to take comedy water scenes on the Kern river. Mal St. Clair is directing the location scenes under Mr. Sennett's supervision.

MacDONALD TO START

Katherine MacDonald will start work next week upon "The Second Latchkey," by C. N. and A. M. Williamson. Dave Hartford will direct the production, the cast for which will be announced in a few days.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

LESSER TO ATTEND FIRST NATIONAL CELEBRATION IN SAN FRANCISCO

Sol Lesser announces that he will go to Oakland on July 24th to attend the First National celebration on the following day.

The mayor of that city has declared a holiday for the motion picture industry, and there will be several celebrations including a parade, baseball games, Chamber of Commerce banquet, etc.

The entertainment is in the hands of E. L. Perry, Oakland Manager of the T. & D. Theatre.

Mr. Lesser states that several of the First National stars will accompany him to take part in the festivities.

CURRENT REVIEWS

"SUDS"

"Suds," Mary Pickford's latest "Big Four" production, is enjoying an indefinite run at Grauman's Rialto. The screen story, which is an adaptation of the stage production, "'Op o' My Thumb," in reality only forms a setting for the star's characterization of Amanda Afflick. The role is such another as that of Miss Pickford's unity in "Stella Maris," and it is an artistic triumph. It is doubtful, however, whether the production's drawing power will be as great as her more pleasant and romantic offerings.

Harold Goodwin plays the small role of Benjamin Pillsbury Jones with considerable appeal.

Albert Austin does Horace Greensmith and Rose Dione is Mme. Didier.

Lavendar is excellently portrayed by an unnamed ex-polo pony. He should stick to this type of work.

Jack Dillon directed the picture.

"THE YELLOW TYPHOON"

"The Yellow Typhoon," Anita Stewart's latest Louis B. Mayer First National starring vehicle, showed last week at the Kine-ma. The story which is a clever Monte Katterjohn adaptation of Harold MacGrath's Saturday Evening Post serial, has much of entertainment value, due to its rapid action, in spite of its many poorly arranged and directed scenes. A great deal of unnecessary faking is employed by the actors as an obvious result of their instructions.

In the picture the star portrays both the lead and the heavy, or title role. The two women are twin sisters, a brunette and blonde respectively. The parts form a good contrast, and Miss Stewart is unusually interesting as Berta Nordstrum, the adventuress. Her interpretation of Hilda, the secret service agent, is more or less incidental.

Donald MacDonald plays Bob Hallowell cleverly. His work is somewhat injured by the use of considerable "hokum," however.

Ward Crane does the male lead satisfactorily.

Joseph Kilgour is convincing as the male heavy.

The little girl who plays Colette, the Typhoon's French maid in one sequence, deserves mention for her lack of the usual maid amateurishness.

Edward Jose directed.

"OLD LADY 31"

Screen Classics, Inc., presented Emma Dunn in "Old Lady 31" at the Victory last week. Many of yesterday's admirers of the star welcome the opportunity to witness the work of an old favorite again.

The story is a distinct novelty in that all the principal characters are presumably sixty years or over. Also there are some thirty ladies of this age carried entirely through the picture. Otherwise the story is a little dull and tiring.

PRIVATE PREVIEW IN BEBAN PICTURE

All of the initiated of the Los Angeles Film Company know that George Beban has for five months been cutting his latest release "One Man in a Million." A few of his personal friends were invited to witness the production's preview last week. Among those present were Sol Lesser, Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, William Desmond, and Marco Hellman. There still remain some two thousand feet to be cut.

Walter Richardson

Angie Rose is appealingly played by Miss Dunn, and Henry Harmon is Captain Abe Rose.

Winifred Westover does Mary and Antrim Short is John.

Others in the cast are Clara Knott, Carrie Clark Ward, Sadie Gordon, Lawrence Underwood, Graham Pettie, Martha Mattox, Mai Wells, Ruby Lafayette.

John Ince directed.

"THE BEST OF LUCK"

Screen Classics presented "The Best of Luck" at the California Theatre last week. The story is the most pronounced demonstration of an imagination gone wrong we have witnessed in weeks. It abounds in unconvincing motor chases, submarine helmets, and century old caskets of treasure at the bottom of the sea.

Kathryn Adams does the feminine lead. Why she should have been cast for the role of Leslie MacLeod is a mystery. Her appearance is scarcely that of a bounding young athlete despite the fact that she is introduced sitting composedly in the rear of an aeroplane stroking her pet kitten. She also rides a motor cycle and a horse most devilishly; but just the same her personality fails to get over.

Jack Holt has nothing to do as Lord Glenayr outside of being presumably responsible for the rather gruesome death of the terrible villain on the floor of the ocean.

Fred Malatesta, who does Lanzana, has possibly more intelligent action than the remainder of the cast.

Frances Raymond is good as the Countess of Strathcaird.

Others in the cast are Lilie Leslie, Emmett King, Robert Dunbar, Effie Conley, and Jack Underhill.

Ray C. Smallwood directed.

"WHAT'S YOUR HURRY?"

Wallace Reid played last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre in the Jesse L. Lasky production, "What's Your Hurry?" The screen play is another adapted Saturday Evening Post automobile story. It has considerable entertainment value, and a good cast.

Lois Wilson plays the feminine lead prettily. She reminds us somewhat of the time when Ann Little and Wally were team-mates and the memory is pleasant.

Charles Ogle, as always, has a real characterization to offer as the girl's father, manufacturer of motor trucks.

Clarence Burton makes a good heavy, and Ernest Butterworth, Jr., is clever as the office kid.

Ernest Joy does the president of the Cabrillo Irrigation Company convincingly.

A great deal is made of some bits by C. H. Geldart, Lillian Leighton, and little Pat Moore.

NEW COMPANY INCORPORATES

Under the title of the Premier Production, Incorporated, a company was recently incorporated by Claire Woolwine, formerly an assistant district attorney of Los Angeles County; A. L. Hart of Detroit, Max Richmond of Chicago and John R. Martin, who was formerly identified with the J. Stuart Blackton productions.

The new company will make one and two reel comedies, which will be released through Special Pictures Corporation. Until their own studio can be built, shooting will be done at the Special Pictures Studio at Long Beach.

FILM COMPANIES RECENTLY INCORPORATED

House Peters, Inc.; capital stock, $1,000,000. Directors: House Peters, H. R. Haskin, W. E. DeCourey, F. J. Raven and H. V. Dennis.

Kewpie Dorety Film Corporation; capital stock, $150,000. Directors: W. P. Dorety, Ethel L. Dorety and E. A. Barker.

Sunkist Film Company; capital stock, $10,000. Directors: E. C. Hurth, Anna Hurth, William Terrill and Ola Terrill.

Monty Banks Comedies; capital stock $20,000. Directors: S. L. Warner, J. L. Warner and H. Schwartz.

Cinema Craft, Inc.; capital stock $200,000. Directors: Charles Hickman, Seymour Zeliff, S. M. Salisbury, P. C. Sterry and M. Hilton.

GRIFFITH PICTURES TO BE RELEASED

D. W. Griffith announces that "The Love Flower" is ready for release at the present time, and that "Way Down East," which is now being filmed, will be issued to the public about August 15th.

Miss Clarissa Selwyn has had to sever her connections with Egan's Little Theater to fulfill an important film engagement.

George Hernandez is playing Mr. Richley in "The Village Sleuth."

Florence Turner has signed with Metro to appear in support of Doraldina in "The Passion Fruit."

Bertram Bracken has returned to Selig lot to make a special of James Oliver Curwood's story, "Kazan."

Lew Morrison is playing Carl Wells in "The Village Sleuth" this week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE

CLIFFORD S. ELFELT

Clifford S. Elfelt was born in Chicago, Ill. His education was commenced at St. Viators College, Kankekee, Ill., and completed at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana.

As a youth Mr. Elfelt was always actively engaged in the Thespian activities of the colleges and universities attended by him. At the age of fourteen he directed and staged the play, "St. Patrick," which was presented at the Illinois Theater.

His parents, who had outlined for him a civil engineer's course, were very much opposed to his inclinations toward the stage. However, he was determined in his ambition, and during vacation periods he became connected with various productions, with such footlight favorites as Stella Mahue, Frank Doane, Nina Blake, Anna Held, Johnny Slaven, William Gillett, Mabel Barrison and Maude Adams.

So keen was he to get an insight into the actual details of a production that he accepted the first position that was offered him, which happened to be that of a "clearer," better defined as moving the grass mat or flower pot from one position to another at the word "strike."

During one vacation period, at the age of seventeen, he assumed charge of stage direction of the Baker Theater, Rochester, N. Y., and was later associated with the Lyceum Theater, Rochester, Star Theater, Buffalo, Chicago Opera House, and the Hotel Hippodrome, New York.

During the presentation of "A Fool There Was" at the Baker Theater, Mr. Frank MacIntyre, who played the part of the misguided youth, met with an automobile accident, and Mr. Elfelt was pressed into service in his white flannels, with ad lib. lines, a Colt filled with blanks, in the famous deck scene of that play, with instructions to shoot himself at the psychological moment. He proved very successful in this role.

From that time on he had a desire to become a great actor.

Through the publicity of the films at that time he made his way westward. Upon arriving in Southern California, he began his career before the flickering film, becoming associated with Tanhauser, Old Biograph, Universal, Fox Film Company, Williams Productions, Carlisle Blackwell Productions, etc.

After playing several juvenile roles, Mr. Elfelt decided that the actor's end of the motion picture game was much too tame. Consequently, he donned a pair of overalls and accepted a position behind the scenes as a "prop" boy with Frank Lloyd.

He later became associated with "Governor" Turner, and was then promoted to assistant director for the first production that Cleo Madison made for the Universal. Through his ability, demonstrated by that association, he was selected to assist Richard Stanton in the production of the Graft Serial, which, through Mr. Elfelt's efforts, was the first serial ever turned out at Universal on schedule time.

Appreciating his endeavors, the heads of the Universal gave him an opportunity to head a company of his own, and he thereby became the youngest director at Universal.

After making and completing twelve successful pictures, he was urged by the Fox Film Company to return and assist Richard Stanton as co-director in big feature productions, with such stars as Gladys Brockwell, Virginia Pearson, Madeline Travers, (Continued on Page 17)

HARRY MANN TO BE FEATURED

K. W. Litwin, a producer from New York, of K. W. Litwin & Co., announces that his company will feature Harry Mann in "Simple Simon" comedies, which will start production shortly.

Mr. Litwin promises the exhibitor something altogether new and different in the way of a comedy series.

Edmund Lowe has been engaged by Sam Rork to appear opposite Katherine MacDonald in her next First National release, "The Second Latchkey."

HAMILTON REVELLE TO APPEAR IN "KISMET"

Hamilton Revelle, who appeared in Los Angeles a few weeks ago, playing opposite Mrs. Fiske in "Miss Nellie of New Orleans," has returned to the city to appear in the Robertson-Cole production of "Kismet," in which Otis Skinner will make his debut as a photoplay star. Mr. Revelle was a member of Mr. Skinner's supporting company of "Kismet" on the stage. He played the role Mansur, which he will also interpret in the screen version of the story.

Parker J. McConnell has signed with Vitagraph to play the juvenile with Earle Williams in "Romance Prompters."

Niles Welch has been cast for the lead in the all star photoplay version of Harry Leon Wilson's novel, "The Spenders."

Stuart Paton has signed a contract with Universal, and is already at work on her first script.

Allen Watt is directing a one reel special, starring Earle Rodney, for Christie.

Tenny Wright is now associated in the direction of Bessie Barriscale, whose company is on location at Pleasanton.

Sid Franklin has engaged David Abel, formerly with the Selznick organization, to film his first production with Albert Kaufman.

Harry Lorraine has signed with Sessue Hayakawa to play in "The First Born," and is playing at the same time with Otis Skinner in "Kismet."

Claire Adams is cast as Avie Milbrey in "The Spenders," the production of which was started by Benjamin B. Hampton last week.

Joseph J. Dowling, who played the title role in "The Miracle Man," has been engaged by Benjamin B. Hampton to play an important part in "The Spenders."

Harry Edwards has been added to the Universal staff of fun producers and is already at work on "Fix It for Me," a comedy featuring Ernie Shields and Bartine Burkett.

Eva Novak has been signed by Universal to be featured in a series of comedy dramas.

Otto Mattiesen is playing the patriarch in the Pilgrimage Play now being presented in Hollywood.

William V. Mong has started work at the Louis M. Mayer studio upon an important role in support of Anita Stewart in "Sowing the Wind."

Hoot Gibson has just signed a new five-year contract with Universal providing for his appearance in feature productions, as well as in shorter subjects.

William Pigott has been elected an officer of the Screen Writers' Guild.

Gladys Walton will be featured in the Universal production, "Out of the Sky."

Helen Ferguson has been obtained by Vitagraph to play the leading feminine role in "The Romance Promoters."

Vola Vale will enact one of the leading feminine roles in the Metro production, "Someone in the House."

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

CINEMATOGRAPHERS INAUGURATE "THE GRIDDLE CLUB"

With the inauguration of "The Griddle Club" by the Board of Governors of the American Society of Cinematographers, the organization of "Ace" cameramen established a club within a club.

The function of "The Griddle Club" will be to review, criticize and study every picture photographed by a member, and to advise that member just how the club regards his picture.

The names of the men comprising "The Griddle Club" have not been divulged, but it is understood that the personnel will be frequently changed to insure the absolutely unbiased criticism of each photoplay.

Marguerite De La Motte, has just returned from a week's vacation at Mt. Baldy.

H. A. Kremp, who has long been associated with the Cinema Plays and Players, has formed the Atlas Film Company.

Matthew Horgan, Commissioner of Charities of New York City, was a guest of Benjamin B. Hampton last Tuesday at the latter's studio in Hollywood, where he spent the afternoon inspecting the plant and meeting the members of Mr. Hampton's staff.

Harry Williams, director of the "Hall Room Boys" comedies, has returned to the Coast after several weeks in New York spent in conference with the Cohns regarding picture plans.

Jack Ford was joined in wedlock a few days ago to Miss Mary Smith, daughter of Charles W. Smith of the New York stock exchange. The wedding was solemnized at San Juan Capistrano. Isadore Bernstein, producing manager of Universal, was best man.

R. H. McCray, technical superintendent and buyer for Vitagraph, has resigned to undertake an enterprise of his own, for which he will announce his plans later.

Fanny Hurst's first original screen story to be written within two months will be filmed by Universal.

Harvey Thew has just completed the script of "The Romance Prompters" for Director Chester Bennett and Earle Williams.

Harry McCrae, who filmed the Marie Walcamp serial, "The Dragon's Net," in China and the South Seas, plans to return to the Orient to produce motion pictures independently.

Charles Ray has purchased two stories from Rob Wagner, "movie" writer for the Saturday Evening Post.

Beatrice La Plante recently married Clyde Bollinger, a non-professional.

It is rumored that Bessie Love will not return to California before going to England to film "The Old Curiosity Shop."

California Truman, who is playing in "Old Lady 31" at the Victory, has returned to the screen after a prolonged illness.

Maym Kelso has left for the East on a trip that will include Washington, Atlantic City, and New York.

Tom Santchi is contemplating writing a book on his travels and adventures with motion picture companies.

GILBERT TO DIRECT HOPE HAMPTON

Jack Gilbert has signed with Hope Hampton to direct her in her forthcoming pictures.

The entire Hampton organization is to trek Eastward in about ten days.

Ernest Pasque has been cast with Earl Williams to play a Spanish character in the star's forthcoming production.

William Moran

SUBSTITUTE FOR "GAS" DISCOVERED BY LOCAL FILM STAR

While convalescing from injuries recently received on location with his company, Hank Mann, film comedy star, is declared to have discovered a positive substitute for gasoline, which can be put on the market, it is said for as low as ten cents a gallon retail. The substitute has been given a test and proves perfectly satisfactory. All cars at the Francis Ford studios, including the cars of the Hank Mann Company, are using the new fuel to good advantage; declares Pete Gerald, studio manager. Mann before entering motion pictures took an extensive course in chemistry and credits his new discovery to the knowledge he gained therefrom. The formula of the new substitute is not disclosed, but it is said, however, to contain kerosene as a base.

Belle Stoddard, aunt of Frank Mayo, will appear as his mother in his next production, "Black Friday." Miss Stoddard retired from the stage some years ago and has been making her home in Los Angeles.

Pell Trenton is getting ready for a long hiking trip through the mountains.

Anita Stewart expects to leave California for a vacation in the East upon the completion of her present starring vehicle, "Sowing the Wind."

Jay Brien Chapman, publicity chief of the Benjamin B. Hampton pictures, who resigned last week, is to remain at the Studio a few weeks longer, pending other arrangements by Mr. Hampton.

THEATRES ARE SUPPORTING ASSISTANT DIRECTOR'S AFFAIR

Every motion picture playhouse on Broadway, together with 36 other theatres in Los Angeles, Hollywood and the Wilshire district, have offered their support to the Assistant Directors' Association's second annual barn dance, which is to be held July 31 at the Brunton studios, and will for the next two weeks announce the affair on their respective screens at each performance. Many theatres are also giving publicity to the affair with a "reader" in their programs, all of which is greatly assisting the association in its effort to make this occasion the greatest social event in the motion picture industry.

Sarah Bernhardt, according to a report from Paris, is coming to America to star in two productions. Mme. Bernhardt is now 75 years old.

It is stated that Jack Pickford has secured his release from Goldwyn to form his own company.

Sinking a concrete ship for a motion picture is the latest maritime stunt in film making, enjoyed recently by Maurice Tourneur.

Alice Terry has returned from a ten days' vacation at Big Bear.

Raymond McKee, who is playing an important part in "Love's Harvest" at the Alhambra this week, is recovering from a severe attack of sleeping sickness.

Edward Sloman has gone to the mountains for a short vacation before starting work on his next Metro production.

Anita Stewart recently entertained Mrs. Maude Murray Miller, National Committee Woman for Ohio and member of the Ohio Board of Motion Picture Censors.

Jesse L. Lasky is scheduled to arrive in New York this week from the London studios, and it is expected that he will return to Hollywood within three or four weeks.

Annette Kellerman is giving the citizens of Santa Monica daily swimming and diving exhibitions at that beach resort.

Ray Thompson, old time assistant director, is now outside man for the Classic Film Actors' Agency.

More than 75,000 feet of film have already been shot by Allen Holubar for his Dorothy Phillips feature for First National, and yet the photodrama is less than one-quarter of the way toward the final fade-out.

Roy Marshall, director of Hobart Bosworth's newest release, "Mr. McNier," which picture will have its premiers in Los Angeles soon, has just received delivery of a new specially designed Chandler automobile.

Margaret Cullington has completed her contract with the Christie Comedy Company and is sojourning for a week at Catalina.

House Peters, who by special arrangement is playing opposite Louise Glaum in "The Leopard Woman," will leave this week on a location trip.

Kathleen Kirkham has returned from her vacation trip to Big Bear.

Sam Rork has returned from a short vacation at Catalina.

Continuity Writing

COMEDY

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay
Plots"

INSTALLMENT TWO

The Synopsis

I suggest that all of my readers who intend to follow this series, preserve this issue of Camera! for future reference. It will be found helpful to refer to the synopsis from time to time as the development of the continuity is studied. As stated last week, I have selected one of my own comedies, which is a combination of straight comedy, "Hokum," and a touch of slapstick. I have submitted this story to but one company, and they did not take it for the reason that it is not the class of stuff that they are producing. Hence it is "For Sale." I am not especially proud of it. I could have used others which have been produced, but I believe that for our particular purpose here this one is the best. I might explain that producers of "Hokum" and "slapstick" comedy usually select some particular atmosphere or locale and then write a story around it. For example: A blacksmith shop, grocery store, restaurant, hotel, dentist's office, doctor's office, plumbing shop, bakery, sanitarium, beach, prize ring, etc. Recall the comedies of Larry Semon, Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Gale Henry and others, and you will observe that this is a fact. In this story we are going to write a comedy around a doctor's office.

As before stated, there is not much plot to the average comedy of this type, hence the synopsis will be comparatively short. We will work in a number of "gags," however. The student may think of more. The director, if he is a good one, will surely invent some additional ones, as he goes along. Here is the story:

"Old Doc Slicem is the only medico in the town of Skunkville. He might be said to be the only friend of the undertaker there also. As the story opens up he is intently studying a book on germology. The Doc is a nut on the germ theory. He has just discovered a terrible new germ by the name of coocoo-buggocooty, which is described as having a head like an elephant, a body like an armadillo, and a tail like a kite. An additional feature of the germ is that it has a propeller like an aeroplane.

"Slicem has a pretty niece who has just returned from medical college. A patient comes in and is examined by the doctor. His case is immediately pronounced as appendicitis. It is necessary for him to be taken to the city by the Doc, for an operation. Mazie, the pretty niece is commissioned to take care of the Doc's practice while he is away. The local paper, in chronicling the departure of the doctor and his patient for the hospital, observes that "Mr. Potts will leave a wife and five children."

A few days after the Doc leaves, and Mazie is busily engaged in following his instructions, a young doctor arrives in the town and puts out his shingle. He sports a very professional Van Dyke beard. There is one chronic case that has been a meal ticket for Slicem for a long time. He has left definite instructions for Mazie to call every Friday to administer a bread pill and "aqua pura," and to take his temperature and the weekly payment. But the new doctor beats her to it, and gives the patient, whose name is Youce, a new bottle of medicine to take.

Mazie calls on Youce and finds him hopping and skipping about the room like a crazy man. She tries to stop him, but he simply hands her the bottle and skips on. She reads the directions. It says, "Take one teaspoonful two nights running and then skip one." Youce finally collapses on the bed and Mazie goes over. She sits down beside him, and, placing a thermometer in his mouth, takes his wrist in her hand. His temperature immediately reaches the boiling point. His homely wife comes on and scowls at Mazie.

Youce rapidly grows worse under Mazie's care—that was the only way to keep her coming. The young doctor, whose name is Hall, decides to prosecute his rival for malpractice. He has never seen her and decides to go to her office incog for the purpose of getting some more evidence. So, he goes to Mazie's office and poses as a patient. Mazie is wise and gives him a dose of stuff that is as bitter as gall. "Take this every five minutes running, and then skip five," she tells him. Hall presently crumples up and falls on the floor. Mazie sees this and is frightened almost to death. She thinks she has poisoned him. She wrings her hands in terror as he watches her out of the corner of his eye. A messenger brings a telegram. Slicem ill, be home at two-thirty a. m.

ANALYSIS OF CHARACTER FROM HANDWRITING

By Fritz Remont

Margaret Shiley
Swagg MacKathorn
Helma Leray
Beatrice Dominguez
Charles Ogle

Handwriting of Bertrand Grassby.

How what shall I write.

Beatrice Dominguez

The senorita is a backhandwriter, which means that she is careful in forming intimacies, a little dignified and reserved, always possessed of mental reservations, although outwardly cordial.

She is an unselfish, yet self-protective nature. The writing betrays good powers of observation and criticism, quick inspirations and emotions and imaginations controlled by strong reasoning powers. Many musical curves appear in this handwriting, which is firm yet good natured. Capital letters are proudly formed showing that Beatrice Dominguez inherits the spunk and pride of her ancestors—in Sevilla.

Charles Ogle

A direct opposite to the first analysis is that of the veteran character man of the Famous Players-Lasky Studio. Mr. Ogle writes a very sloping forward hand betraying his warm love of nature, sympathy, emotionality and impulsiveness. He is an easy mixer, is fond of action, would be a good hiker or dancer, and writes the very large "small e" of one who is courageous and blest with initiative. The looped upper strokes of tall letters also convey Mr. Ogle's sensitiveness. Widely separated words and lines indicate his self-sacrificing, generous disposition.

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE

Dustin Farnum, George Walsh and William Farnum.

He later became associated as co-director with Joe de Grasse, Ida May Park, Mary MacLaren and Priscilla Dean, after which he joined the Williams Productions and Mitchell Lewis Company, and still later the Carlisle Blackwell Company. About this time he assumed the directorial reigns and completed a production already commenced.

Due to his success in the Blackwell production, he became associated with Syd Chaplin, upon his return from France, and assisted in the direction and production of that star's "One Hundred Million."

Mr. Elfelt, though very young, has shouldered the burdens of all the various phases of the motion picture industry through a period of the last ten years. He is still in his twenties and there should be, without any doubt, a bright future ahead of him.

HARRY S. NORTHRUP

Harry S. Northrup was born in Paris, France, July 31, 1880.

His first appearance on the stage was with the Frawley Stock Company in San Francisco, with Blanche Bates and Frank Worthington. One year later Mr. Northrup was leading heavy man with E. H. Sothern in New York creating the Heavies in "The King's Musketeer," "The Song of the Sword," "The Sunken Bell," and playing "Laertes" in "Hamlet."

He was then with Henry Miller for three seasons playing the heavy parts in "The Only Way," "Hearts-ease," "Lord and Lady Algy," "Richard Savage," "Brother Officers," and "Sowing the Wind."

Afterwards he was in the same position with Mary Mannering, Chauncey Olcott, Wilton Lackaye, and Florence Roberts.

Mr. Northrup also created the leading heavy roles in the original New York productions of "The Round Up," "The Heir to the Hooray," "The Deep Purple," and "The Stronger Sex." His last stage appearance was as leading man in Clyde Fitch's "Girls."

His screen career began with the Vitagraph company in New York with whom he remained five years playing leads and heavies in Clara Kimball Young, Anita Stewart, Earle Williams, Edith Storey, Leah Baird, and Francis X. Bushman productions.

Mr. Northrup has since been with Famous Players-Lasky, Metro (two years), Douglas Fairbanks, Louis B. Mayer, Universal, Goldwyn, American, Allan Dwan, and Maurice Tourneur. His last two pictures are "The Blue Moon," directed by George Cox, and "The White Circle," a Maurice Tourneur production.

(Continuity Writing Continued)

He removes his Van Dyke. It is an old college lover of hers. It is agreed that they get married.

The ceremony is in full progress when old Slicem peeps in at the window of the lighted office. He rushes in with the antiseptic spray when he sees the nuptial kiss, but is pushed away. By way of explanation, Mazie tells him that "Competition entered the field while you were away and I thought it was best to absorb it." "Well, I'll be damned!" Old Slicem sighs as he kerflops in the nearest chair.

This is a one-reel picture—alleged to be comedy. We will begin the continuity in the next issue of Camera! Producers who are rampant to buy it are advised to wait until they see all the side-splitting, button bursting, funny things that we will put in the scenario.

Bertram Grassby

This firm, unusual handwriting, with its odd letter formations, plainly shows the creative, inventive talent of the writer. The t-bars are strong, often placed a-top of the letter, betraying a little suspicion, a desire to substantiate everything by unassailable facts.

Mr. Grassby is also very fond of music; is intensely psychic, as his detached letters within words indicate, and has ardor and enthusiasm, although his emotionality is controlled by common sense. His backcurling terminal strokes and handwriting in general place him among those who are discriminating, cautious, shrewd and resourceful.

Margaret Shelby

Another very unusual handwriting, full of odd twists and curls, with separated letters and d and t strokes descending below the line, indicating that the writer receives vivid impressions and is not easily argued out of her convictions. She is inclined to extravagant expenditures, is very kind-hearted, sympathetic and unselfish, has intensely high ideals, is fastidious as to clothes and friendships, home atmosphere, service, etc. Her hand indicates love of humor, an inclination to occasional depressions through her sensitive nature, which feels slights and indifference more than those who are less blest with psychic power and emotionality. Miss Shelby has every asset for the successful actress, the wavy, dipping lower form of letters, touching at various heights an imaginary base line, the great loops of vivid imagination, the capitals of the ambitious worker, the invention as viewed in strange letter formation, and the abnormally high d and t of the ultra-conscientious striver for success, justice and self-improvement.

George Hakathorn

A mighty odd bit of writing, ambitious, impulsive and emotional, as befits the actor. Mr. Hakathorn writes a heavy, down-bearing t-bar indicating resistance, even obstinacy on occasion, the courage of his convictions, stick-to-it-iveness.

He has a fine sense of form and proportion, would have made a skillful surgeon if he had chosen to forsake the screen and stage. This young man writes letters sharply pointed at top and bottom, which indicate that he focuses well, is keenly observant and critical, and consequently diagnoses shrewdly. Moreover, he is intuitive as well as a logical reasoner, hence his character dissections or portrayals will be accurate. He is unselfish and generous, rather extravagant, and while not apt to acquire property through slow saving, will easily make money, will attract good social and financial conditions through psychic forces and personal magnetism.

Thelma Percy

Miss Percy writes very tall, looped, easy-flowing letters, so that at first glance one appreciates the fact that she is fond of movement. She should be an easy dancer, graceful, facile. All her actions are deft. She is blessed with histrionic and music ability, has lots of wit and comedy in her make-up, as the peculiarly formed y shows. When one upper stroke of y is higher than the other, you may rely on the writer's powers of mimicry, comedy and love of humor. The hooked nose on her small letters indicates a "nose for news"—so that Miss Percy is very observant and progressive and seldom misses an opportunity to learn something. She is not concentrative—large handwriting always shows a dislike for slow plodding and study—but she acquires much through experience and observation. She hates to be ruled, but is good natured and generous, very ardent in affections, given to great changes of mood.

A NEWSPAPERMAN WANTS A JOB

GOT ONE?

A motion picture company has asked a working newspaperman to take over the direction of its publicity. He is considering the offer.

Perhaps there are several smaller companies that, by clubbing together, can better the offer—each taking part of his time. Or perhaps a Star needs an ingenious, plugging personal representative with friends on big dailies from Boston to Shanghai.

This advertisement will open the way until August 1.

Thoroughly experienced in both the writing and editing of news, the advertiser is competent to prepare copy for metropolitan and country dailies, weeklies, press associations and syndicates, through work on their staffs.

And publicity is no new game to him.

A Broad Conception of Our Public Utilities

"The primary consideration, the fundamental consideration in the operation of the public utility companies is that they be operated in the public interest. Properly considered, this means that adequate compensation would and must go to those who have invested in them and to those who are managing them, because it is of tremendous public interest that these great institutions be financially sound."

Edwin O. Edgerton, California Railroad Commission.

This broad conception of our public utilities is fundamental to the policies of the Railroad Commission in regulating our hydro-electric companies. To the investor, this means that he is assured an investment that is sound and an income that is certain. It means that capital can serve to its profit-advantage in forwarding the hydro-electric development of California.

We recommend the investment of your funds in Southern California Edison Company, General and Refunding Mortgage 6% Bonds, yielding 7%. Of this company the Commission said in an opinion: "It is becoming increasingly evident that the business life of a community such as Southern California is in a very large measure dependent for its growth and expansion upon electric energy."

We believe that the policies of the California State Railroad Commission are a primary investment feature. Edison Company and a reprint of Commissioner Edgerton's address before the California Bankers' Association. —C-74

MERRIMEE ARRIVES IN CALIFORNIA — By Dwinelle Benthall

"Oh hurry, please!"
The pretty girl rattled the receiver hook up and down impatiently.
"Yes, 579359."

A maddening delay, while she anxiously watched the second hand on her watch, then a courteous voice poured welcome balm into her ear.

"Hollywood Taxi Service, what can we do for you?"

"Oh Mr. Soutter, is that you—this is Jacqueline Grey, will you please send a taxi around to the Studio immediately. I would lots rather have an air ship, for I am afraid I am going to miss a train, that I simply must meet. My sister is coming from New York. She hates taxis, but your's are always so comfortable, and clean and prompt. I don't know what we would do in Hollywood without you, for it would be ruinous if we had to pay mileage from town, every time we wanted a car. Can you let me have one immediately?"

"Of course, said the voice quietly. "Don't worry a bit, you'll meet that train. We are always ready for emergencies."

And a few minutes later, Jacqueline Grey was speeding along Hollywood boulevard, recklessly disregarding the wild looks of startled pedestrians, who clung to the curb as the car whizzed by, for nothing mattered to Jacqueline, except that Merrimee, her adored sister was coming.

It was an ecstatic meeting. A beaming porter piled the luggage in the car. Jacqueline gave an order. There were a few swift turns, during which Merrimee had a confused sense of busy down town streets.

"I am so sorry to whirl you around like this," said Jacqueline, "but time and tide and pictures wait for no man or woman either. Yesterday morning our director decided to introduce some new scenes, which meant that I must have a new gown almost instantly, a distinctive creation that it would be impossible to hire. I was in despair, for you know how important the right clothes are. "Josephine" always makes my gowns, my own personal things and stage things too. Of course the critics have said that I am a coming actress and all that, but dear foolish men, they don't know, that in a way Josephine is responsible for my success, but I didn't dream that she would consider such a rush order as this would have to be, however when I told her about it over the phone, she laughed and said she often did things like that, and that if I would leave it all to her, she would have a stunning costume for me by noon today.

"And so ———, well here we are, 601 South Figueroa! Yes it is an odd name isn't it, a remnant of the old Spanish days."

A little later Jacqueline tripped out of the shop with a huge box in her arms, and a radiant smile on her face. "It is a dream," she murmured, as she sank back in the corner of the taxi, "a perfect dream!"

And now that that is off my mind, we will relax as all Los Angeles relaxes. No don't interrupt—it will rest you more than a nap, besides I have a special reason for wanting you to come today.

And such was Merrimee's introduction to Grauman's Theatre, at the corner of Third and Broadway.

"It feels like a cathedral," she whispered, "and it looks like a Moorish palace." Then as the marvelously shaded lights stole over her, and the poignant notes of the orchestra caressed her ear, the strain and fatigue of the long transcontinental journey fell from her, and she gave herself up entirely to the Land-of-Make-Believe, as children do.

"It is always like that," whispered Jacqueline, "no matter how weary I am, there is always a sense of peace and relaxation here," and then she stopped suddenly, as a girl flickered on the screen, a girl with the same fluttering grace that was Jacqueline's.

"It is you!" gasped Merrimee. And her eyes were riveted on the screen, for this was Merrimee's first glimpse of her little sister's screen self, and Jacqueline waited tensely for her approval.

And Merrimee approved, enthusiastically. She wanted to know everything at once. All the things that letters couldn't tell. The ride back to Hollywood was crowded with questions and answers.

"And don't let me forget to stop at the Kress-Wise Drug Store for my Make-up," said Jacqueline, "at the corner of Hollywood boulevard and Cahuenga. They carry a particular brand that I like."

"What a lovely, cool looking place, sighed Merrimee, a few minutes later, as they entered the store, "so deliciously blue and white, and I am so thirsty. Do you realize that we quite forgot to lunch?"

"So we did!" said Jacqueline aghast. "Well, we can repair that oversight immediately. We couldn't have come to a better place."

"Sandwiches, and some of that fluffy cake, and two long, long chocolate malted milks," she said to the clerk.

Between mouthfuls, Merrimee's eyes wondered over the walls, which were decorated with fascinating quotations from Omar.

"I don't believe even he ever enjoyed his wine, as much as I enjoyed that malted milk," she remarked sagely, draining the last drop.—Advertisement.

FILM TRUTH?

We have at hand a copy of the biggest disgrace ever tolerated by the public in general and the moving picture industry in particular. This filthy little publication inappropriately self-termed "Film Truth," is edited in New York by Leroy A. Fales, whom we fear has "dis-remembered" the correct spelling of his last name.

By means of these pages described upon their cover as "that little red devil" he is obviously attempting to sit in sarcastic judgment upon the alleged indiscretions of picture folk. That such contemptible stunts are usually accompanied by financial complications, is not so important at this juncture as the fact that a perverted imagination, and a loathsome ability to exaggerate is accomplishing not only disgusting lies about the profession, but is sending uncommonly risqué literature through the mails.

If some of our stars are not blessed or cursed, as the case may be, with an overdose of anemic virtue that is yet a private matter, and in dealing thus rottonly with such affairs this "False" man is committing an outrage which should not be overlooked.

Undoubtedly were any other class of people attacked in this slanderous manner, the authorities, with an eye to the welfare of the country's youth, would consider interference and suppression necessary. We call official attention to this unwarranted mess here.

Now comes the amusing part. Of course, there have always been in existence papers and magazines specializing in shady stories, ugly insinuations, etc., but never to our knowledge has the editor of such a one considered himself seriously enough to attempt the combination of so-called entertaining dirt and straight material.

Mr. "False" has become so unquestionably mixed as to his sense of values that he egotistically expects such an incongruity to "get by" in his case. He has actually given over a department to the serious, if amusing, business of criticizing current productions. Which idea was intended to paralyze the other is as yet undiscovered, but the effect is a merciless slaughter of an over amount of nothing on both hands.

Last, but not least, this production possesses a film fashion department written by the greatest nameless star today decorating the screen, according to its own admission. Surely with all branches of life treated thus efficiently and helpfully, Leroy must smile in dignified complacency as he views this noble child of his under-developed mentality printed, and as yet upon the news stands.

Only—all we desire is to be there when the industry discovers what you have been handing it, Mr. Creator and Developer of Little Red Devils. The crash promises to involve considerably more entertainment than what occasioned it.

INAPPROPRIATE PROLOGUES

In the past few months dozens of good productions have been injured at the local theatres by the accompanying presentation of prologues. In no case have we seen a picture benefited thereby.

At best these program assistants have proved inappropriate draggy affairs occupying fifteen minutes of valuable time, and at the worst they have neared the atrocity class. Rarely, if ever, are they enacted by clever performers, and amateur theatricals have little appeal for the modern audience.

For instance, it is unfair to tax any production with the burden that the screen adaptation of "Yes or No" was forced to carry in this line at the local showing last week.

Public opinion has voted the prologue out. It should make an immediate departure.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

AT VITAGRAPH

"Black Beauty," the childhood classic, has been quietly under way for the last month as a motion picture production here under the direction of David Smith. Wm. Dagwell is assistant, and Reggie Lyons is at the camera. The company has found its horses, and is at work upon the animal continuity. No cast has yet been selected.

The rights to the novel, "Lady Fingers," were purchased this week through Willis & Inglis for Earle Williams. The star recently started "The Romance Promoters" under the direction of Chester Bennett. "Lady Fingers" also will be directed by Mr. Bennett.

William Duncan will start his next serial this week on location in Nevada. The title of the new production is "The Wizard Spy-Glass." Edith Johnson plays the feminine lead. The remainder of the cast has not yet been selected.

Director Jess Robbins and Jimmy Aubrey will start another comedy this week. Hereafter these pictures are to be known as Jimmy Aubrey comedies.

AT THE LASKY STUDIO

Wallace Reid will start Monday on "Always Audacious" ("Toujours de l'Audace"). Ben Ames Williams' Saturday Evening Post story, under the direction of James Cruze. A large part of the company will leave for San Francisco Saturday night where many of the important scenes will be filmed, while Mr. Reid and others of the company will go by motor. They will probably be in the Golden Gate City for several days. Margaret Loomis has been cast as leading woman for Mr. Reid.

After a brief rest of a week or so, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle starts work under the direction of Joseph Henabery on "Brewster's Millions," by Walter Woods from George Barr McCutcheon's play.

Word comes from New York that Ethel Clayton has started for Europe, where, it is understood, she will not only enjoy a vacation but make a couple of Paramount Pictures at the new London studios of Famous Players-Lasky.

William E. Wing has completed another feature for the Franklin Farnum company at Selig Studios. It is called "The Whiskey Runners."

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Erich Von Stroheim and his company have returned from five days' location work at San Diego, where the opening scenes for "Foolish Wives" were shot.

Elmo Lincoln is engaged on the twelfth episode of his serial directed by Robert Hill. "The King of the Circus" has been decided upon as a permanent of Eddie Polo's current serial production.

Frank Mayo is at work upon "Black Friday" under the direction of Frederick Thompson.

AT THE GOLDWYN STUDIOS

Gertrude Atherton, one of the Eminent Authors, arrived on the West Coast last week, and will spend several weeks at the studio studying screen technique and preparing an original story for production with an all star cast.

Will Rogers, under the direction of Clarence Badger, will commence next week upon "The Guile of Women," a Peter Clarke McFarlane story, which has been placed in continuity by Edfrid A. Bingham.

Edward Connelly will enact a prominent part in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

LA CARMEN PRODUCTIONS TO START

An original story by Dolores Lopez, "Can a Woman Forget?", has been selected as the initial feature for the La Carmen Productions. Continuity for the story has been practically completed and Director Claude Barbour plans to commence shooting the first scenes early in August.

Ralph B. Staub is in Fairbanks, Alaska, filming scenics.

Arthur Allard—Heavies Exclusively

GALE HENRY TO PRODUCE FOR SPECIAL PICTURES CORPORATION

Gale Henry, eccentric comedienne, has signed a contract with the Special Pictures Corporation, by the terms of which she will make twelve two-reel comedies a year for that organization.

Miss Henry will maintain her own producing company, and will deliver the negative and one sample print of each of her dozen comedies to Special Pictures.

This will make eight releases a week which will be distributed from Los Angeles, by the comparatively new organization, including Comedy Art, Comicclassic, Sunset Burrud Scenics, Clay Play Comedies in animated mud, and three comedies weekly from Premier Productions, Inc.

SIDNEY FRANKLIN ON LOCATION

The initial scenes were shot Tuesday for Sidney Franklin's "Parrott and Company," Mr. Franklin on that day took his company on board ship and sail for San Francisco. The ocean liner scenes for this Harold MacGrath story will be filmed en route.

Among the principal players who accompanied Mr. Franklin were Sylvia Breamer and Robert Dix. Upon their arrival in San Francisco, the company will journey to Sacramento, to take scenes along the Sacramento River.

Parrott and Company will be the first of three Sidney Franklin productions to be distributed through First National.

BETTY COMPSON COMPANY ON LOCATION

Betty Compsen, Director Arthur Rosson, and the company which is supporting Miss Compsen in her second starring production as yet unnamed, have gone to the desert at Oxnard, where they expect to remain about two weeks.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

THE VILLAGE SLEUTH

"The Village Sleuth," starring Charles Ray, showed last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theater. The story is entertaining in spite of its rather flimsy plot and many inconsistencies. The star provides many laughs with his clever characterization of the young would-be detective. Winifred Westover plays the feminine lead, or Pinky, the chorus girl. The role makes a rather incongruous opposite for the star.

Donald McDonald is good as Dr. Roberts.

George Hernandez and Betty Schade provide entertainment as Mr. and Mrs. Richley.

Lew Morrison plays Carl Wells and Dick Rush is David Keele.

Jerome Storm directed.

"THE SHADOW OF ROSALIE BYRNES"

"The Shadow of Rosalie Byrnes" was the Selznick production featuring Elaine Hammerstein at Clune's Broadway. The story is a more or less hackneyed affair with a cantonment and trench background. It is another wearying and involved case of mixed identities.

The star plays both the heavy and the heroine. Possibly the former is a rather better attempt.

Edward Langford fails to create much of an impression as Gerald Cromwell, the male lead.

The remainder of the cast is mediocre. It includes Alfred Hickman, Anita Booth, Fanny Cogan, George Cowle, Lillian Wiggs, and Juliet Benson.

George Archinbaud directed.

"THE TRUTH"

Madge Kennedy played last week at the California Theater in "The Truth," an adaptation of Clyde Fitch's stage play. It contains elements of both the farce and the moral lecture.

The star does Becky Warder, the untruthful heroine.

Tom Kerrigan is her young husband.

Frank Doane cleverly characterizes Becky's wayward father, Roland.

Zelda Seares adds a comedy touch as Mrs. Crespiigny.

Kenneth Hill is good as Fred Lindon and Helen Greene does his jealous wife.

The picture was directed by Lawrence Windom.

"YES OR NO?"

Joseph Schenk presented Norma Talmadge at the Kinema last week in a screen adaptation of the stage play, "Yes or No?" The production combines artistically tragedy, comedy, pathos and general humanness. The situations are very good and the subtitles exceptional.

The star enacts two roles, but for once the plot developed by them does not depend upon mixed identities, nor are there any twins in this production.

Minnie Berry, the poor man's wife is undoubtedly one of Miss Talmadge's best characterizations. She also cleverly plays Margaret Vane, the wealthy wife.

Rockcliffe Fellows is an ideal type for Jack Berry, the honest industrious husband.

Frederick Burton plays a small part of Donald Vane, the financier.

Lowell Sherman does not take full advantage of the great opportunity provided in his role of Paul Berrick.

Gladden James employs technique as well as subtlety in his interpretation of the taxi driver who boards with the Berrys.

Natalie Talmadge provides a light touch to the whole as Minnie Berry's little sister, Emma.

LASKY EXECUTIVE RESIGNS

Max Goldstein, for several years executive for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, has severed connection with that company.

Mr. Goldstein, who was one of the organizers of the Arcraft Pictures Corporation, and for some time handled the distribution of Arcraft productions in the Middle West, announces that he will disclose his picture plans in the near future.

Robert Gordon, who has been cast as Page in Emmett Flynn's (Fox) production of Mark Twain's "A Yankee at the Court of King Arthur."

Edward Brophy does their brother Tom.

William Neil displayed a thorough knowledge of picture technique in the play's direction.

LESSER AND GORE INTERESTS SECURE NEW INTERESTS

Sol Lesser and the Gore Brothers have added two new theaters to their chain by concluding negotiations for "The Rosebud" and "The New Central." Both of these houses are located on Central avenue in Los Angeles.

Ralph Grunauer, who recently conducted the Lyric Theater in Stockton, California, will act as general manager of both houses. Mr. Grunauer announces that he will immediately consider bids for the renovation and repair of the Rosebud and the installation of some new lighting effects for the lobby.

He has already secured a franchise from Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which will assure him all the First National products.

ROLIN COMEDY TO BE RELEASED THIS WEEK

"Call a Taxi," the latest Snub Pollard comedy for Rolin distributed by Pathe, will be released July 25th.

Alf Goulding directed the picture.

KINEMA BOOKS BLACKTON PICTURE

The Kinema has booked from Pathe, J. Stuart Blackton's production, "Passers By." The picture will have an early showing.

UNION FILM WORKERS STRIKE IN NEW YORK

According to a report from New York more than two thousand studio workers struck July 20th, crippling practically all the studios in that vicinity. The reason given for the walk-out is the refusal of the National Association of the Moving Picture Industry to meet the demands of the workers for increased wages, shorter hours, and recognition of the Union.

New York laboratories were particularly affected by the strike.

GEORGIA EXHIBITORS ORGANIZE

The Independent Exhibitors of Georgia met in Atlanta, Sunday, June 11th, and organized the Georgia Exhibitors' League to be affiliated with the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America. The officers elected are: Sig Samuels, President; Arthur Lucas, Vice-President; Willard C. Patterson, Secretary and Treasurer.

EVERYTHING SET FOR A. D. A. BALL

Everything is set for the second annual barn dance to be given by the Assistant Directors' Association Saturday night, July 31, at the Brunton studios, where the largest motion picture stage in the world has been placed at the disposal of the association for its affair. According to Allen Watt, chairman of the committee in charge, nearly 2,000 tickets have already been sold and everybody it seems is anxiously awaiting the zero hour, the time for the doors on the mammoth stage to swing open.

A letter received this week from Santa Barbara informs the association that a large representation from the American studios in that city has planned to attend the affair in a body, while a similar letter has been received from studios in Riverside and Long Beach. From all indications the occasion is certain to be one of the greatest and most successful social events ever given by any motion picture organization. Two 20-piece jazz orchestras, one lead by Max Fisher and the other by "Blondy" Clark, both well known entertainers, will furnish music for dancing. One orchestra will commence playing as soon as the other finishes a selection, thus keeping the dances going in rapid succession.

Silver cups will be awarded for the best robe costume, fox-trot, one-step, waltz and awkward dance.

There will be little chance for revelry since 18 policemen have been detailed to patrol the grounds during the evening's festivities. Four officers will guard the automobiles of attending guests.

A reception committee, comprising more than 100 women, will make an effort to see that everybody enjoys themselves. The grand march will be lead by a well known motion picture celebrity, whose name is being kept secret. According to the program the old as well as young will find plenty of amusement prevailing throughout the evening and one need not be an exponent of atmosphere to find enjoyment at the occasion.

Adjoining the stage is a room which has been set aside as a nursery so that mothers who desire to bring their infants along may feel assured that the nurse in charge will see that no harm befalls them.

Guests are invited to come dressed in overalls, linen dusters or anything in keeping with a barn dance.

Tickets are on sale at the Kress-Wise Drug Store, corner Hollywood boulevard and Cahuenga avenue; casting office at the Brunton studios and at the cigar stand in the Alexandria Hotel. The admission is one dollar, including war tax. Everybody is invited to attend.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

ALFRED ALLEN INJURED

Alfred Allen's build, weight and histrionic talents are frequently responsible for his being cast for parts in which he has to take considerable physical punishment to uphold the realism of the screen. He has just returned from a two weeks' location work with the Bessie Barriscale company and bears evidence of the exactions of life before the camera in the form of a broken wrist bone and a much bruised body.

The injuries were sustained during many rehearsals which Allen himself insisted upon to secure the utmost realism in the fall he was to make when knocked down by another player at a particularly dramatic point in Emerson Hough's story, "The Broken Gate."

VEILLER WRITES FIRST ORIGINAL STORY FOR METRO

Bayard Veiller has completed his first original story for Metro. It is a melodrama and will be called "He Tried To Be a King." Albert Shelby Levino is at present adapting it for the screen and it will be filmed with an all-star cast.

In addition to acting as director of the Metro Scenarior Département, Mr. Veiller is to write five original stories a year. The title of his second story will be "To Catch a Thief."

Henry Barrows is playing "Jim Blaisdell" in "The House of Toys" at Tally's Broadway.

B. F. Blinn is playing Reggie's father in "Common Sense" at the Alhambra this week.

When Jack Pickford finishes "Just out of College," now being made by Al Green at Goldwyn's, he will emulate Mary's example and go to Europe for a two months' pleasure trip. His wife, Olive Thomas, will accompany him. He will sail sometime in August.

W. S. Smith, Manager of Vitagraph, has announced a list of promotions following the resignation of R. H. McCray, technical superintendent. Frank Brown becomes technical superintendent, with C. A. Parker, assistant; Al Herman continues art director and stage manager; A. N. Campbell has been made general foreman; Frank Smith continues as assistant to the manager.

Cash Darrell is negotiating with an Eastern organization to direct a special series of five-reel pictures.

William Buckley is at Tally's Broadway playing Sam Hardy in "The House of Toys."

Warren Stokes, scenario writer, who recently arrived here from New York, is preparing an important production which is to be staged soon in Los Angeles.

United States Senator Walsh of Massachusetts was a Universal City visitor the other day.

Immediately upon the completion of "The Vitagraph serial, "Hidden Dangers," Jean Paige will go East for a visit with her parents and to shop in New York.

Josef Swickard having finished with Anita Stewart in "Sowing the Wind" has started work in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Hank Mann has resumed work before the camera having sufficiently recovered from injuries received recently while working with his company on location.

ANNIVERSARY PARTY AT DONOVAN HOME

Miss Ettinger of the Mabel Condon Exchange was recently hostess to a party held upon the first anniversary of the Jack Donovan home, in which the festivity took place. Among the one hundred and fifty guests were Douglas Girard, Courtney Foote, Casson Ferguson, Ralph Bushman, Marjorie Daw, Margaret Shelby, Mr. and Mrs. E. Magnus Ingleton, and the Baron and Baroness Paspory.

Gertrude Astor

FILM STARS JOURNEY TO OAKLAND

Mayor Davies of Oakland has declared a holiday July 26th for the film interests of that city. E. L. Perry of the Oakland T. and D. Theatre assisted with the arrangements to secure the attendance of film celebrities.

Among those who are to take the special train arranged for the trip are Agnes Ayres, Wesley Barry, George Beban, Allan Dwan, Carter De Haven, Phyllis Haver, Annette Kellerman, Charles Murray, Marshall Neilan, Charles Ray, Anita Stewart, Fay Tincher, Mary Thurman, Ben Turpin, Bobby Vernon, King and Florence Vidor. All will take part in the big celebration.

Violet Heming, who has gone to England to visit relatives, will return next fall.

Sessue Hayakawa has secured the screen rights to the play, "East is West," which ran for over a year in New York, starring Fay Bainter.

Mrs. Neill Wright, sister of May Allison, has returned from San Francisco, where she was a delegate to the Democratic convention.

It is rumored that Joe Martin insists upon being photographed by a member of the American Society of Cinematographers.

Monroe Salisbury is vacationing while waiting the preparation of the story for his next independent feature.

HOLUBAR ADVISES THE "EXTRA"

Allen Holubar is thinking of writing a book on ball-room maneuvers and presenting a copy to every extraman who will honestly admit that he doesn't know with which foot it is proper to step on a lady's train.

While trying to get several hundred extra people to act as though they had been on a varnished floor before, the director and his assistant, Harry Bucquet, recently outlined the following rules for the guidance of the society players:

Do not lift your dancing partner by her ears.

Do not drag back the right leg in making a bow.

Do not nudge your hostess in the ribs to attract her attention.

Under no circumstances must men playing "diplomats" engage in fist fights while the camera is clicking.

Dowagers must not shoot craps with the property men; it interferes with their work.

Dinner guests must not eat all the food until it is certain that a retake will not be necessary.

While dining the guests will keep the elbows close to the ribs and avoid bayonetting their neighbors with their funny-bones.

In the scene where the music recital is depicted the guests will neither stamp their feet, whistle or be seen accompanying the musicians with mouth organs, comb and tissue or other instruments.

Through arrangements with Frank Lloyd, Jack Cohn has secured for his Screen Snapshots, actual scenes of the filming of "Way Down East" with Griffith directing in the foreground.

Tom Bates is ill in the Clara Barton Hospital.

Newton Hall left Tuesday for San Francisco with Marshall Neilan, who is taking scenes for "Dinty."

Mike Donlin, ex-Giant ballplayer and actor, was a recent visitor at the Mayer Studio, where his former vaudeville teammate, Ben Dooly, is playing an important part with Anita Stewart in "Sewing the Wind."

Tula Belle, the child star of Maurice Tourneur's "The Blue Bird," has been offered a vaudeville engagement to appear with her brother, Otto, a young composer and performer on the piano, and her sister, Ebba, a classical dancer. The offer was refused as the child prefers to continue her picture work. She will soon be seen with Mildred Harris Chaplin in "Old Dad."

Priscilla Dean and Wheeler Oakman recently tendered a surprise birthday party to their director, Tod Browning.

Margaret Cullington is having an aviary built at her Hollywood Bungalow.

Kathleen Kirkham is at Balboa Beach, where she will spend the week reading a number of stories which have been submitted with a view to being used in her coming pictures to be produced by her own company now in the process of organization.

After a year's continuous work, William Farnum is to go to Sag Harbor, N. Y., to spend three months in his summer home.

Helen Jerome Eddy is to be starred by the R. C. P. Smith Syndicate.

GEORGE L. COX

Among the gifted men whose lives have become identified with the production of the best possible in pictures, is George L. Cox, at present directing for the American Film Company, Santa Barbara, and who is responsible for nearly a score of big successes.

Mr. Cox has had an eventful life, the comparatively short years being crowded with travel and the experience which befall a man who finished his education abroad, and who has been successively and successfully actor, author, producer, student, scholar, and who has directed films in the sunlight hours and written them from dusk until far beyond midnight.

George Cox was formerly with the Selig Polyscope Co. of Chicago, and was among the first directors to take educational pictures. He was general manager of the Advance Motion Picture Co. of Chicago, and was detailed by the Rockefeller Foundation to take a series of photographs abroad, but illness interfered. He took some of the first under-water pictures ever filmed.

He is the author of many short stories, a book or two, and has been a newspaper and trade magazine correspondent.

His present success in pictures is due to years of experience in stock and touring companies, in which he worked himself up from small parts to star, and eventually author and producer.

He has thousands of friends, especially in Chicago, New York and Los Angeles.

GRACE DARMOND

I found Grace Darmond at the Christie studio on the "So Long Letty" set. She was seated between a box of chocolates, a can of sardines and a bottle of milk. She explained that the milk and sardines were part of her stock in trade, being inseparable from her "Letty" role, and everybody knows the important place a box of chocolates holds in the life of a girl scarcely out of her teens.

Miss Darmond is engaged in playing the leading role of "Letty" in "So Long Letty" for the Christie Film Company, and she declares that although it is a long jump from playing the very vampire of "Below the Surface" to the effervescent, merry "Letty," the latter is her most enjoyable role, and her favorite of the many parts she has played.

This versatile little blonde leading lady comes to us by way of an Indianapolis legitimate stock company, after being born and raised in Toronto, Canada. In her three short years in pictures, she has achieved stardom.

Unlike most stars, however, Miss Darmond, has no hobbies, unless it is her many friends.

Calvert Carter is with the Nazimova Company in "Mme. Peacock."

Bill Crinley, until recently assistant director for the Mary Pickford company, will leave Los Angeles this week for New York to join Director Henry MacRea. From New York they will go to Canada to join new motion picture forces, with which they have signed contracts.

Harry Schenck, for the past two years stage manager at the Ince studios, has joined the directorial staff at the Rolin studios in Culver City.

Ray Ripley has been engaged to support Frank Mayo in "Black Friday."

WEEK'S APPLICANTS FOR A. D. A. MEMBERSHIP

The following men applied this week for membership in the Assistant Directors' Association: Jack Stafford, David Butler company; Claude Camp, with T. Hayes Hunter; Johnnie Waters, National studios and R. C. Hageman of the Mayer studios. Gordon Hollingshead of the Haworth studios was admitted as a member at the last regular meeting of the organization.

FOREIGN CONCERT MANAGER IN NEW YORK

New York, July 15.—Among the arrivals on the Lapland Thursday of this week, were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Shipman, who are returning to America for the first time in four years after the successful exploitation of musical stars and feature pictures throughout Australia, New Zealand, and the Eastern Orient.

While here Mr. Shipman will negotiate for a number of feature pictures. He and his wife will be the guests of his brother, Ernest Shipman, on Long Island.

Lenore Lynard has signed with Katherine MacDonald to play an important part in "The Second Latchkey."

Harry Lamont has finished playing the Bolshevik in May Allison's current production.

Sid Smith and Jimmie Adams are playing in Otis Skinner's production of "Kismet".

Noble Hearne is the new assistant manager of the Superba Theatre.

Sam Kaufman is playing Amru, the merchant in "Kismet".

C. S. Widom, formerly of Goldwyn's, has joined Metro as special costumer for "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

William McGann, Douglas Fairbank's cameraman, is collaborating with H. Lyman Broening on the photography of the Allen Holubar-Dorothy Phillips First National special.

Frederic Peters, six feet eight inches tall, has been selected by E. Mason Hopper to play Goliath in the fifth episode of Booth Tarkington's Edgar series, featuring Johnny Jones.

H. C. Anderson, formerly of the Cinema Plays and players, is now casting director for the Atlas Film Company.

Shannon Day has been engaged by Holubar for an important role in his current production.

Little Paul Aubrey is playing in the Jimmy Aubrey comedy at Vitagraph.

Edward Earle has been selected to play the leading male role in Metro's first production, starring Donaldina.

Lillian Tucker, former leading lady for the Morosco stock company in this city, has been engaged to play opposite Frank Mayo in "Black Friday."

John Steppling has been engaged to support Mme. Nazimova in her new production, "Mme. Peacock." This is the third picture Mr. Steppling has played with the Russian actress.

George D. Crocker has been engaged as cameraman by Jack White to turn the crank for the remainder of the series of Hamilton White comedies to be released by the Educational Films Corporation.

Ray Smallwood is directing Mme. Nazimova in her new Metro production, "Mme. Peacock."

Leonard C. Shumway will play the principal male role in "Kate Plus 10," in which Universal is to star Eva Novak.

Continuity Writing

COMEDY

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay
Plots"

Well, we start with our continuity in this installment. It is one of the rules of comedy writing to "make 'em laugh with the first fifty feet. In other words, if we get our audience in a good humor with the first fifty feet of our story, they will be inclined to more fully appreciate the rest of the picture. It is the same psychology that is used by vaudeville entertainers who are comedians. The battle is half won if they can make an entrance that sets the audience to laughing heartily. Of course they must leave them the same way. Well, let's go:

SUBTITLE:

THE ONLY FRIEND OF THE UNDERTAKER IN SKUNKVILLE — OLD
DOC SLICEM.

1. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. IRIS IN IN CLOSEUP.

Of Slicem reading a book diligently. Suddenly he sees a paragraph that interests him very much and also excites him.

2. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE- UP.

Of open book in his hands. The title of the book can be seen to be "The Germ Theory." Iris down to paragraph which reads as follows:

"This germ belongs to the family of coocoobuggocooty. Under the microscope it is seen to have a head like an elephant, a body like an armadillo, and a tail like a kite. It also has a propeller like an aeroplane, and with the least disturbance of the atmosphere it darts back and forth in search of it's prey."

3. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE- UP.

Of Slicem as he puts the book down—a very serious look on his face. He is in meditation.

4. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. SEMI- CLOSEUP AT DOOR.

A shaggy looking pup comes in at the door and takes its seat—begins to look for a flea.

5. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE- UP.

Of Slicem as he looks around in a startled manner at—

6. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-

UP.

Of the pup scratching after a flea—making a cloud of dust fly.

7. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. FULL SCENE.

Slicem gets up from the chair—puts book down—grabs an antiseptic spray and goes after the dog. He then sprays the wall, corners, etc., finally taking long deep breaths and spraying his mouth and nose and ears. The dog is huddled in the corner.

We start this story right off with some hokum. It is comical, however. We all know that there are some doctors and many people who are nutty about germs of every kind. With this opening, we establish the fact right away that Slicem is one of these kinds. We have even given him a hokum name, which indicates that he is also one of the "operating" kind. The name and description of the germ is also hokum. It is so ridiculous, however, that it will make people laugh—and that is what comedy is for. We will now introduce another of our characters. We will give her a closeup, as we did the doctor. As explained in my previous series, it is necessary to introduce all of our principals with closeups.

TITLE:

SLICEM'S NIECE, MA-
ZIE, HAD JUST RE-TURNED FROM A MED-ICAL SCHOOL—

8. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE- UP AT DOOR.

Mazie comes into scene and watches the antics of the old doctor with amusement.

9. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. FULL SCENE.

Slicem on with sprayer, turns and sees Mazie, who now enters the scene. She points to the sprayer in his hand and asks what in the world he is doing. He replies in a somewhat agitated tone—

TITLE:

"I HAVE JUST DISCOV-ERED A NEW AND TERRIBLE GERM—AND I BELIEVE THAT DOG
OF YOURS IS WORKING ALIVE WITH THEM."

OTHER FEATURES OF MERIT

(Continuity Writing Continued)

Back: Mazie laughs and looks in the direction of the pup in the corner.

10. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of the pup in the corner looking in the direction of the camera. The pup starts to scratch again.

11. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. SEMI-CLOSEUP.

Mazie and the old Doc. He grows alarmed again, while she shakes her head and holds up her finger, telling the pup, "No, you mustn't do that!"

12. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP IN CORNER.

Of the pup—looking in direction of camera—puts his paw down—apparently understands that he is the subject of discussion.

13. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. SEMI-CLOSEUP.

Of Mazie and the Doc. He tells her to get the dog out.

14. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. FULL SCENE.

Mazie goes over, picks up puppy and takes him out, while the Doc looks on with disapproval. The Doc then turns to his study of the germ again.

NOTE—This stuff with the dog will be a little difficult to get, but with patience the director can make the pup do the things that are described. Sometimes it is necessary for the cameraman to grind off hundreds of feet of film of an animal in action, and then the desirable parts are cut from the whole. With our next installment we will introduce another character—in the shape of a patient who now enters the office.

5. Carl Close

1. Mildred Reardon

The little blonde lady could make a good living in business if she had not chosen to dazzle us with her screen performances. She writes a strong, practical, genial sort of hand, with heavy downstrokes on y and g, betraying her forcefulness, common sense and independence. Her high flying i-dots betray the ideality and love of the mystic, but the combination of good horse-sense and spirituality give her great balance. Miss Reardon is sensitive, but too proud to betray herself. She is usually good tempered although her innate dignity and self-respect forbid any undue familiarity or intrusion on those things which she considers sacred to herself. The unconsciously shaded handwriting gives one the clue to Mildred's personal magnetism and charm.

2. George Periolat

One of the most eccentric writers in Filmdom is the character man who has so often appeared opposite Mary Miles Minter. His high, ambitious capitals betray invention and creative genius, the shaded, colorful writing denotes a love for bright colors, and the general artistic contour of letters betrays that colors must be harmoniously, beautifully blended. Mr. Periolat writes the separated letters of a true medium and relies on his first impressions. The strong, upsoaring stroke which invariably accompanies George's name indicates love of approbation, as well as the courage of his convictions, its upsoaring tendency showing optimism and enthusiasm. The other odd flying stroke shows a habit of jumping at conclusions and a quick temper, but the rounded handwriting adds the trait of extreme good nature, so that George's impatience extends only to trifling annoyances and is soon forgotten.

3. Douglas MacLean

The angular, very sloping handwriting of this young star indicates his pep and love of travel, excitement, general mental and physical alertness and desire to take advantage of every opportunity.

Douglas MacLean writes the splashing, shaped i-dot of an inventive genius, of one who receives lots of quick inspirations and who acts instantly upon them. He has wit, ambition, love of applause, fighting blood as seen in his heavy, courageous small e, and would have made an excellent surgeon or dentist, had he chosen according to nature's first promptings. The sharp-printed letters betray great love of analysis and criticism, of ferreting out answers to perplexing problems, and of being guided by personal observation.

Charlotte Whitney

The vivacious and capable secretary of Mary Miles Minter shows her independence, farsight and quick decisions in the bold t-bar which flashes across her signature and ends in a hook at its side, betraying a habit of sticking to her conclusions unless some one comes along with mighty strong facts to disprove her theories. Mrs. Whitney shows protecting, sympathetic motherliness in the way her capital C curls about the following letters, like a staying arm to protect them from harm and cuddle them to sleep. Letters of varying sizes give her versatility and dramatic instinct, and her long y is intensely imaginative. She is sensitive, ambitious, observant, critical and magnetic, and has a big bump of humor as well as fine vitality and endurance.

Earle Close

This young reader of Camera shows an immense amount of energy, mental and physical vitality and love of motion. He should make a very clever dancer and actor, being versatile, highly imaginative, fond of humor, and possessing the artistic perceptions to back up his other traits.

Earle Close will make money, he's a hustler and a hard worker, has courage, high ideals and ambitions soaring up, and is of the eager, inquiring turn of mind, as the hooked noses on some of his small letters show me. He is an optimist, easy to live with, good natured and outspoken, ready to do favors, generous, unselfish and ardent in love nature.

THINGS THE MOVIES HAVE DONE
(According to Hannibal N. Clermont of Clermont Photoplays Corporation.)

Developed new dramatic talent and rejuvenated the old.

Preached the gospel to the poor by presenting the great truths in a language they understand.

Rescued the world from jazz music and developed a taste for good music among the common people.

Brought a golden age to musicians by encouraging and employing musical talent.

Gave the common people their first good entertainment at prices they could afford.

Created many new and lucrative professions—as director, cameraman, art director, scenario writer, film editor, production manager, etc., etc.

Stimulated all lines of trade and manufacture. The motion pictures use everything from carpet tacks to trucks; from thread to railroad trains; from papier mache food to the finest art works.

Gladdened and lengthened the lives of the old by giving them a new interest in life.

Made education easier, cheaper, better and more available to all.

Gave the churches a new medium for the saving of souls and for spreading propaganda in an attractive manner.

Stimulated and improved arts and crafts.

Encouraged writers and made the masses familiar with standard literary works.

Promoted the peace of the world by making the nations acquainted with each other, explaining their needs, their hopes and fears, their joys, sorrows and aspirations.

Promoted health, sanitation and better ways of living in the cities and on the farms.

Helped a million movements for uplift, welfare and relief; have done much to win the war, to finance the Liberty Loans and to make the average citizen acquainted with the government.

Many more good works have the pictures done, but greatest of these is the making of higher education cheap and available to all (only just started) and bringing the world to lasting peace by making the far flung peoples understand each other.

Having completed the interiors of "The Riddle Woman," which production Geraldine Farrar is filming for Associated Exhibitors at the Tannhauser Studios at New Rochelle, N. Y., the company has gone to Marblehead, Mass., to finish the exteriors under the direction of Edward Jose.

ART DIRECTORS TO HAVE RESEARCH LIBRARY

A research library of rare volumes on architecture will be established with the proceeds of their recent successful ball, the Motion Picture Art Directors' Association decided at its regular meeting last Thursday. At this meeting the re-elected officers—Alfred W. Alley, president; R. B. Sibley, vice-president; E. C. Hartley, secretary; and Sydney Ullman, treasurer—were installed for their second term.

METRO PURCHASES WILLIAMS' STORY

"Barber John's Boy," a story written by Ben Ames Williams, has been purchased by Metro, and is now being adapted for the screen by Waldemar Young.

Fundamentally and Permanently Sound

The soil has long been regarded as the foundation upon which life and business and commerce, in fact, all human activity is based. This is more than theory. Barring purely local and temporary conditions, men are placing a higher and higher valuation upon land.

An investment bond secured by a real estate mortgage is sound if the value of the property largely exceeds the amount of indebtedness and if the property is well diversified as to location and crops.

The $12,000,000 Miller & Lux, Incorporated, First Mortgage 7% Ten-Year Bonds are fundamentally sound because they are secured by about 1,000,000 acres of land whose value is appraised at more than $50,000,000. In addition to the real estate, there is over $15,000,000 personal property.

The soundness of this security is enhanced by the fact that the Miller & Lux, Incorporated, properties lie in widely separated sections. They embrace large ranches of thousands of acres each lying in the San Joaquin and Santa Clara Valleys.

To large and small investors, new and old ones, this security is an attractive investment. Full information may be had by writing, phoning or calling in person for descriptive Circular C-75—today.

MERRIMEE ARRIVES IN CALIFORNIA—By Dwinelle Benthall

MERRIMEE SOLVES SOME PROBLEMS
By Dwinelle Benthall

Jacqueline tossed a dainty note into Merrimee's lap. "It is a most interesting dinner invitation," she explained, "although rather an erratic one. Beth always does things like that—a hurried summons, with hardly a moment's warning; but you will meet some charming people, celebrities and so on."

"But it is for tonight," said Merrimee in dismay, glancing up from the note. "Have you forgotten that I am a woman without a gown, and I assure you it is quite as tragic as being a man without a country." She laughed ruefully. "That wreck didn't leave me a decent shred—my trunks smashed to smithereens, and every garment I possessed ruined beyond redemption, and your things don't even begin to fit me, so you see there is nothing for me to do but sit home and sniff the orange blossoms, while you dine with the celebrities."

A perplexed frown crept between Jacqueline's brows, then vanished before a radiant smile. "You will do nothing of the kind," she announced with decision; "you will go to the dinner and outshine the celebrities." She closed her eyes and made a few passes in the air. "Your gown materializes before me—a graceful black lace affair, with roses cleverly tucked away and peeping out from between the folds, and a cascade of side drapery that defies description."

"It sounds enchanting, but I think you are having a hasheesh dream, and I am too disappointed to play the game."

"No, I am quite serious, Merrimee. 'Josephine' has dozens of gowns that she rents for pictures, and for society affairs, too. She was showing me some beautiful ones the other day that have never been worn. Wait until you see them, hanging like rows of festive spirits behind sliding glass doors, each one daintier than the last! You needn't worry at all about your demolished wardrobe while Josephine exists. We can accept all our invitations, and you can wear a different frock on each occasion, while your new ones are being made."

"And as for your trunks—well, they can be made as good as new, too. Betty Compson was showing me the dearest little trunk the other day that she had had made for her car. It is perfect in every detail, and she told me that George H. Rogers made it for her, an ex-service man who is a perfect wizard with leather. He has made some of the most interesting things for the special needs of motion picture people, and has done some of the most wonderful repairing I have ever seen, so we will call him up and send your trunks to him, or what is left of them, and when you are ready to go back to New York you won't know that they have ever been in a wreck. I have his card right here in my desk. Yes, here it is, 'George H. Rogers' Repair Shop, 329 South Spring St. Phone 64432.'"

A few minutes later she came back from the phone smiling. "There, that is attended to; he will send for them, and everything is all right."

But Merrimee was not quite so optimistic. She was gazing at the rather stubby toes of her two little tan boots. "With 'Josephine's' lace gown I must have slippers," she remarked, plaintively, "and I always have such a time being fitted. I never wear anything but 'Miller Footwear,' and I am too many miles from New York to get that."

Jacqueline laughed merrily. "Well, if that is all that is worrying you, dismiss the thought. How do you think actresses would live without Miller shoes? The Hollywood Boot Shop right here on the boulevard handles them. We all trip to fame in Miller shoes. Just get your hat and come with me, and you will see exactly the kind of shoes you are used to in New York. I buy all my personal and professional shoes at the Hollywood Boot Shop. We all do. It is at 6687 Hollywood boulevard, at Las Palmas."

"And on the way out we will stop in the Hollywood Branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, at Cahuenga avenue, and I will introduce you to Mr. Greenwood, and you can open your account. The motion picture world wouldn't be complete without that bank. It is really our financial heart. In fact, it is so much a part of us that it has been used for 'location' any number of times, and it has grown so fast that it has quite outgrown its present quarters, and is going to erect a wonderful new building across the street."

"But aside from all that, it is the courtesy and attention we get there that pleases us. There is always some one to straighten out the financial kinks that are so irritating and puzzling to 'us ladies.' I confess a bank book is a Chinese puzzle to me, but I manage to keep things pretty straight these days, and the officers at OUR BANK never laugh at my mistakes, and they are never disagreeable, so you see I am FOR them."

"Well, it does seem as though there were no more troubles left in the world," sighed Merrimee, happily. "Can Hollywood solve all the problems of humanity?"

PRODUCTION TO INCREASE

With the approach of September come announcements from the various producing organizations concerning their plans for the year. The information imparted by them is of importance, not only to the exhibitor but to every man engaged in the making of pictures.

Recent advertising assures us that the Goldwyn Company will release sixty pictures next year; Robertson-Cole's minimum will be thirty-six features; Paramount has eight releases for September, and ten for October, which infers a good average to come; Pathe will have working six special feature companies, five serial units, and some six short subject organizations continually; Associated Producers, composed of seven of our foremost directors, will be under way shortly, and at least four short subjects will be forthcoming weekly from Special Pictures Corporation.

These few examples promise unprecedented things for the industry. Production will have to boom to fulfill such schedules, more of which will be undoubtedly published within the week.

Moreover, there are at present some twenty-five pictures either finishing or cutting in Los Angeles. This clearly indicates, in the light of the foregoing, that many new pictures must be commenced soon. In addition to this, several Eastern companies have their eyes turned Westward, resultant of the recent strikes and a growing dissatisfaction of producers with conditions in that section.

Certainly the California free lancer may well indulge in a bit of optimism.

SUMMER PICTURES

In the name of the so terribly abused term, psychology, Los Angeles exhibitors should look well to their performances these midsummer days.

It is an obvious fact that never is showmanship so taxed as during the heat, when outdoor activities compete with such comparative success for the public's favor.

In view of last week's features of the various cinema theatres the above is a good point to be remembered. These recent showings have contained many splendid and artistic characterizations, but the stories, on the whole, have been muddled affairs, requiring more will power in the following than is desirable at this season.

Summer pictures should be of a light and highly entertaining nature. Blood and thunder is not at this time desirable, but good farces should go well.

The theatre manager will find it advisable to pay attention to these points, as no one depends more upon human nature for his success than the entertainer. The Los Angeles showman has an added obstacle to surmount in the present earthquake caution, which has had a tendency to injure his business.

A comfortable playhouse and a cool program, however, will do much to entice, and the public is always easily influenced in favor of its most loved diversion.

ACTOR'S EQUITY

It is reported that the Actor's Equity Association, with headquarters in New York, is preparing to make a membership drive among the West Coast studios. Rumor has it, further, that a representative has already been appointed for this task and will soon be "among us"; also that local members of the organization will be utilized as assistants.

A point that has not been mentioned is that which most vitally concerns the booking offices. Will this action precipitate another one?

We have it in our hearts to wish the Equity only luck in its undertaking, but loyalty causes us to remember that Los Angeles projects come first, and more competition in the engaging line, we feel, is not necessary, even for stimulation.

PUBLICITY THAT DOES NOT PLEASE

Several weeks ago there arose between, or rather among, the Chamber of Commerce and the heads of the industry a discussion of the local attitude toward the profession, that satisfaction might be had upon both hands.

One of the notes struck rather heavily had to do with the position taken by some of our dailies in reference to stories of alleged misdemeanors of persons claiming to be picture actors. It was conceded to be unfair that every near-criminal who had ever worked in a mob scene should be given head-line publicity as a film star upon discovery.

It seems peculiar that intelligent reporters who would never mistake a bank messenger for a banker, should be so, may we say, dense upon this point.

If we remember correctly, this condition was to be investigated. Maybe it was. In view of the continuation of the policy by some of our prominent newspapers, we hope that it hasn't been—yet.

In common with all humanity, we find ourselves avoiding disillusionment.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

FRANCO-AMERICAN CINEMATOGRAPH COMPANY TO PRODUCE

NEW YORK, July 22.—(Special to Camera!)—The Franco-American Cinematograph Company, recently formed in New York with a capital of $100,000,000, has purchased the French rights to "The Empire of Diamonds," the production Leonce Perret went abroad to film. Mr. Perret has already disposed of the Great Britain rights of his feature to the O. Stoll Corporation, with whom he had negotiations while he was in London. The scenes of the picture were made in England, France and Italy, and are naturally of special interest to these countries, as well as to Americans, who have parts in the picture.

Mr. Perret now has in his possession the motion picture rights to Rudyard Kipling's "The Light That Failed," Jules Verne's "Around the World in Eighty Days," Alexander Dumas' "L'Eprangere," and Pierre Benoit's "The Spring Secret." In addition to these classics, he has purchased for filming "Life Begins Tomorrow," by Guido Verona and "The Lace Fairy and the Divine Rolande," by Louis Letange.

Negotiations are now pending between Mr. Perret and the Franco-American Cinematograph Company for the former's services as director general. If the deal is made, in all likelihood all of these books will be filmed by the new French concern. They have extensive plans for production, the purchase of "The Empire of Diamonds" being their first act as a film corporation.

AT THE LASKY STUDIO

It has been decided that when Thomas Meighan arrives from New York next week to make "Easy Street," he will have as his director Tom Forman. Mr. Meighan has just finished "The Frontier of the Stars," in the East.

Having rested up for a week or so, Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle starts work this week with Joseph Henaberry as director, on "Brewster's Millions." Betty Ross Clark will again be leading woman for the comedy star.

William de Mille is progressing satisfactorily with "His Friend and His Wife," Cosmo Hamilton's novel.

Cecil B. de Mille is in the midst of his new picture, which is not yet titled, but which is an original story and scenario by Jeanie MacPherson.

Bert Dorris, former assistant director to Charles Maigne, and Paxon Dean, cameraman for the same director, have returned from New York after completing their work with Mr. Maigne in a picture there, and will probably be assigned to some production at the Lasky Studio in the near future.

Monte Blue is preparing to leave for New York, where he will play the lead in "The Kentuckians."

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Norman Dawn and his cameraman have returned from New Orleans, where they spent three weeks filming atmospheric shots for the production of "White Youth."

Hoot Gibson has completed "The Hunky," under the direction of Leo Maloney, and is preparing to make "In Wrong Wright," in which Dorothy Woods will again be his leading woman.

Stuart Paton has begun production of "Kate Plus Ten," starring Eva Novak.

Rollin Sturgeon is completing preparations for the filming of "The Gilded Dream," with Carmel Myers.

"Black Friday," in which Frank Mayo is starring, is in the second week of production.

HOPE HAMPTON TO PRODUCE IN THE EAST

Hope Hampton has left for New York after a nine weeks' stay here, during which time she screened in "The Tiger Lady" under the direction of Maurice Tourneur.

Immediately upon her arrival in New York she will start preparations for her next production, which will be an original story by H. H. Van Loan. Jack Gilbert, until recently assistant to Tourneur, will direct.

After completing this feature and one other, she will return to Los Angeles.

Charles Gordon

AT VITAGRAPH

"The Hidden Dangers," a serial, starring Joe Ryan and Jean Paige, was completed this week.

Director Chester Bennett will take the Earle Williams Company, filming "The Romance Promoters," to Santa Barbara this week on location.

William Duncan is selecting his cast for "The Wizard's Spyglass." He is at present taking preliminary scenes in the San Gabriel Canyon.

Director Jess Robbins, with the Jimmy Aubrey Company, has gone to Catalina to film the first of his new series of two-reelers.

AT GOLDWYN'S

E. Mason Hopper has commenced the filming of the sixth Booth Tarkington Edgar story. Harry Beaumont this week commenced taking the Tom Moore production, "Canavan." The star will be supported by Naomi Childers and Sylvia Ashton.

BRANDT TO PRODUCE FOR ARROW FILM CORPORATION

Joe Brandt, formerly director general for the Nation Film Corporation, has signed his first independent contract since it was announced that he would start a new film distribution organization and also enter the serial production field.

In co-operation with Ben Wilson, he is to produce a fifteen-episode serial for the Arrow Film Corporation. It will be made at the Berwillia Studios in Hollywood and will star Jack Hoxie.

KATHERINE MacDONALD STARTS

The first scenes in Katherine MacDonald's seventh production for Associated First National Pictures, Inc., were filmed at the studio this week.

The story is "The Second Latchkey," by the Williamsons. Edwin Carewe is directing.

ROBERT GORDON BEING FEATURED BY NEW COMPANY

Robert Gordon will complete work shortly in the leading role of the first production to be made by the Cayuga Pictures, Inc., recently organized by former officials of Paramount.

E. H. Griffith is directing the picture which is being made at Ithaca, N. Y. The working title of the story, which was written by C. Gardner Hunting, is "Three Women Loved Him."

"A SPLENDID HAZARD"

Allan Dwan's adaptation of Harold MacGrath's "A Splendid Hazard," showed last week at the Victory. The production, while cut unsatisfactorily, features an exceptional all-star cast headed by Henry B. Walthall. Its heavy business is put over splendidly, and the failure of its comedy touches is due to the cutting and inconsistent incidents alone.

Walthall gives a characteristic performance of Karl Brettman, the mad descendant of Napoleon. He employs in it all of the old Walthall technique and subtlety.

Undoubtedly Rosemary Theby makes the best prima donna ever cast for a screen play. She is excellent as the heartbroken lover of the madman.

Thomas Jefferson makes the most of every minute of his interpretation of Dr. Ferraud, commencing with his novel introduction.

Ann Forrest plays Laura Killigrew, daughter of Admiral Killigrew, enacted by Hardee Kirkland. It is obviously intended that she and John Fitzgerald, played by Norman Kerry, form a comparatively light element in the picture, but as cut the roles are not played up in the fashion to accomplish much.

Philo McCullough is miscast as Arthur Kthewe, the faithful suitor of Hilda Gobert, the prima donna. For several reels it is impossible to judge from the action whether his role is sympathetic or heavy.

Pierre Picard is well done by the real Frenchman of the bunch, Jiquel Lanoe.

Joseph Dowling cleverly does the very small part of the French emigre.

"PASSERS BY"

The Kinema last week featured the J. Stuart Blackton production, "Passers By." The story may honestly boast some unusually clever characterizations, and Br. Blackton's subtle combination of comedy and pathos is worth special mention. The picture's continuity, however, is a mess. As a result, the plot is at no time clear to the audience.

The cast is headed by Herbert Rawlinson, who makes a handsome and romantic hero.

Leila Valentine is good as Margaret Summers, the feminine lead. Unfortunately the audience is left far too long in doubt as to her identity.

Pauline Coffyn plays Lady Hurley, a mysterious villainess, whose step-sister relationship to the hero is imparted as an afterthought near the middle of the play. The uncertainty surrounding her perfectly commonplace characterization, succeeds in merely mixing up the already befuddled plot.

William Ferguson is excellent as Pine, the old butler (brought up in service).

Tom Lewis as Nighty and Dick Lee as Burns work in some splendid comedy in conjunction with Pine.

Charles Blackton displays unusual screen presence as little Peter, about whose existence the story revolves.

"IF I WERE KING"

William Farnum in the William Fox production, "If I Were King," played last week at the California Theatre. This always entertaining old tale makes a splendid screen adaptation. The continuity and subtitles are especially good. The entire cast employs considerable "old time hokum" in the interpretations, but the type of the story entirely excuses a little exaggeration.

The star is at his best as Francois Villon, the poet thief of Paris. Costume roles are particularly suited to him.

Marguerite Ross Clark does Katherine, the King's ward. Miss Clark has a fascinating screen personality. Her performance is charming.

"THE SACRED FLAME"

Emily Stevens played last week at Clune's Broadway in "The Sacred Flame." The picture is a jumbled affair with poor acting, no point, and impossible sub-titles. It has no entertainment value, and the cast, save the star, is very amateurish. The picture was obviously taken many months ago.

Florance Vidor

Fritz Leiber is excellent as King Louis XI. He makes his role the most interesting one of the piece.

Herbert Law does the Grand Constable of France—the heavy.

J. Gordon Edwards made a highly entertaining picture of the play.

"If I Were King"

"Presents William Farnum in a finely staged version of the Justin Huntley McCarthy play. In no single characterization of the past has Mr. Farnum given a better account of himself.—Motion Picture World.

"Magnificent production has been given, the story is unfolded in fine continuity, and the cast gives splendid support."—Exhibitor's Herald.

"THE BREATH OF THE GODS"

"The Breath of the Gods," a Universal production, starring Tsuru Aoki, played last week at the Superba. The story is on the whole too morbid to be highly entertaining, but it is superior to the average Universal drama. The little Japanese star gives a good performance as Yuki Onda, the patriotic maid of Nippon, who loves a European.

Stanhope Wheatcroft is well cast as Pierre Le Beau, the impulsive, unfortunate lover.

Arthur Edmund Carewe, forms a striking contrast as Prince Haganai. His performance is clever.

Mr. and Mrs. Onda, Yuki's parents, are well played, respectively, by Frank Seki and Mai Wells.

J. Barney Sherry does the American ambassador to Japan.

Rollin Sturgeon directed the picture.

"Harry L. Kerr, formerly studio manager for Mack Sennett and manager for Mabel Normand during her production of "Mickey," has transferred to Willis & Inglis.

"LADY ROSE'S DAUGHTER"

Elsie Ferguson played at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre last week in "Lady Rose's Daughter." The story is very ordinary. The climax is lost in a maze of inconsistencies sadly lacking in entertainment value.

The star's performance of the rather insipid victim of heredity that is the title role is typical.

The male lead is played by H. E. Herbert, but his performance is injured by the cutting.

David Powell has a few good scenes as Captain Warkworth, the fortune hunter.

The Eastern actress, who plays Lady Henry, does so cleverly, but the story, as adapted, ruins the character by breaking it with insufficient reason.

CRITICISMS OF LATE RELEASES

"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"—Metro

"It has been well adapted to the screen and the humor of situations and speeches has been retained. It will please farce loving audiences, but may not go so well in the family theatre, since it is somewhat risqué."—Exhibitor's Herald.

"The direction, personalities and acting of the cast and general good taste of the entire production have turned "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" into a lively picture that will please the general run of amusement seekers."—Moving Picture World.

"Cynthia of the Minute"—Hodkinson

"Relates in brisk continuity a characteristic Louis Joseph Vance melodramatic novel. Leah Baird, personable and self-possessed throughout the highly active footage, is the featured player and the cast well known to the film world gives able assistance."—Exhibitor's Herald.

"If you want to show your patrons a great melodrama, one with lots of action, mystery, fist fights, water stuff, wireless thrills, and love, here it is."—Moving Picture World.

"The Twins of Suffering Creek"—Fox

"A Western subject of unusual strength."—Moving Picture World.

"Will entertain but not thrill."—Motion Picture News.

"Western story, and good of its kind."—Exhibitor's Herald.

"The Red Lane"—Universal

"The Red Lane' is undoubtedly one of the strongest vehicles Frank Mayo has had in some time."—Exhibitor's Herald.

"Frank Mayo is engaging in the leading role of this unique Universal picture."—Moving Picture World.

NEW DIRECTORS FOR GOLDWYN ELECTED

Word comes from the Goldwyn headquarters in New York that several important names were added to the list of directors that were elected to the board of the corporation, at a meeting held at the executive offices, 469 Fifth avenue, New York, last Friday, July 23.

Among the new directors are T. Coleman Dupont; Mesmore Kendall, president Mordal Realty Corporation, controlling the Capital Theatre, New York City; Edward Bowes, managing director Capital Theatre; Robert W. Chambers, the novelist; William Braden, capitalist, and Frank H. Hitchcock, former postmaster general during the Taft administration.

At the recent First National celebration in Oakland, George Beban was given Mayor Davies' seat for the day. Mr. Beban utilized this opportunity to speak to Oakland's public upon better pictures.

Mr. John Munro, attorney, vice-president and legal adviser of the U. L. Film Company, has returned to Los Angeles after a four weeks' business trip in Nevada, where he investigated a number of locations to be used in a forthcoming production.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

MARSHALL NEILAN FLIES FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO LOS ANGELES IN RECORD TIME

Marshall Neilan flew from San Francisco to Los Angeles in a little less than four hours the other day, which is considered record time. Earl Cooper, racer and air man, acted as pilot for the first half of the trip, and Dan Davison handled the ship, a Curtiss plane, the second half. The trip was made via the air route in order to get Mr. Neilan to Los Angeles so as to attend a meeting of the Associated Producers. For the past week the Neilan troupe has been working in San Francisco on "Dinty," the new First National picture, starring Wesley Barry. This production, it is expected, will be completed in a few days, and follows "Go and Get It" on the release schedule.

Edward J. Brady has just finished his engagement with Universal.

Douglas Gerrard, who is to direct Mme. Doralina in "Passion Fruit," has returned from Monterey, California, where he went to secure locations for exteriors for this production.

Lillian West will have a part in "Kindred of the Dust," under Director Frank Borzage.

Peaches Jackson will hereafter work under the name of Charlotte Jackson.

Allan Dwan completes his contract with the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation August 1st. His last production is "The Sin of Martha Queed."

The Metro staff of scenario writers is preparing to move into its newly constructed quarters. The building is practically completed, and according to present plans will be ready for occupancy in about a week.

Mary MacLaren left this week for New York on a combined business and pleasure trip.

"Convict 31" is the title of Buster Keaton's second Metro comedy, which was completed last week.

Immediately upon the completion of "So Long Letty" Colleen Moore, one of the four principals, left Los Angeles upon an extended vacation at a Southern California mountain resort.

Director George L. Cox, who has been with the American Film Company for a long period, has completed his contract with that organization, and has moved to Los Angeles, where he will direct pictures for a large producing concern.

Ernest B. Pickney has been appointed as studio accountant for the Hamilton-White Comedies.

A. W. Alley has resigned as supervising art director at Metro, and is handling the art work for Von Stroheim's "Foolish Wives."

Charles Edward Russell, sociologist and journalist, visited Los Angeles recently to confer with Benjamin B. Hampton on picture production.

Finis Fox has resigned from the Metro Scenario Department to make other affiliation which will be announced later.

Roy Stewart has left Los Angeles for Northern California vacationing. Upon his return to Hollywood he will begin a series of independent productions to be made under the Robert Brunton banner.

NEW YORK PUBLICIST RETURNS TO THE EAST

Howard Dietz, director of Goldwyn publicity in New York, left Thursday for that city after several weeks' conference with J. S. Woodhouse, director of publicity at the Culver City Studio.

J. A. Jackson, formerly connected with the New York World, arrived this week at the West Coast Studios to become associated with the publicity department.

William Badger

ART DIRECTORS RE-ELECT PRESIDENT

A. W. Alley was re-elected President of the Motion Picture Art Directors Association at the regular semi-annual election last week.

R. E. Sibley was elected Vice-President; E. C. Hartley, Secretary, and Sidney Ullman, Treasurer.

The national drive of the American and French Children's League, the organization formed to obtain funds in this country for destitute French children, was inaugurated last Sunday in San Francisco, when Wesley Barry purchased the first poppy, the insignia of the league, and was made special deputy in the movement.

Tex Parker, formerly with Barnum and Bailey, Ringling Bros., Buffalo Bill and other frontier day memories, has been loaned by Goldwyn to Rolin for one production.

Eugenie Besserer has just finished with Charles Ray in "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," and is taking a short vacation.

J. C. Hawks, managing editor in the scenario department at the Goldwyn Studios, has returned from a four day's trip to Big Bear.

Fred Lancaster of the Pantages Circuit, is playing the part of Zayd in "Kismet."

Mr. J. D. Talbot, of Jennings-Talbot Chemical Co., has accepted the position of business manager of the Union Label Film Company.

ANALYSIS OF HANDWRITING

By Fritz Remont

In submitting handwriting for tests, please write in ink, on unruled paper, and send me more than the signature, although the latter alone will be reproduced. There's not enough in a NAME to give a good analysis.

① Emma Lindsay Squier
② Gertrude Barsha
③ Carmen Ballen
④ Robert Isaacs
⑤ Reynold Grow

1. Emma Lindsay-Squier

Genial Writer for Many Photoplay Magazines

Miss Squier writes the impulsive, peculiarly formed i-dot which is the outcome of an inspirational make-up. She would dislike doing dull routine work, must be left to her own devices, is very creative and original, hence cannot stand being watched or interfered with. She is highly conscientious, loves justice, gives too freely for her own good, is sensitive to surroundings and to persons, is highly self-respecting and often reserved, but not one bit vain. She, too, would make a good actress. Emotionality and impulsiveness have been trained down by the caution instilled by intuition. Miss Squier likes to vary her duties, to start things suddenly and then jump to something else. That's because she makes a t-bar heavier at left end than right. Her enthusiasm and interest in some things dwindles down even as do her t-crossings from a heavy beginning to a light ending.

2. Gertrude Barsha

This is a hasty hand, jumps at conclusions, is sensitive to impressions, very critical, hates to be told faluts, and is deeply appreciative of any praise. She must be led by love and sympathy. She is proud, self-respecting, can keep a secret. She works too swiftly and should study concentration. Being versatile, Miss Barsha has a habit of trying out new schemes and ideas continually, which interferes with her financial success. She is highly emotional, laughs and cries readily, is too sympathetic for her own peace of mind. She is always unselfish, willing to do favors, and a very industrious, faithful worker. She would succeed in any line of work requiring swift action, is deft-fingered, lithe, a rapid thinker and one who takes up a new vocation without difficulty. She is impatient and wearies of things she has begun, but concentrative thinking would overcome this and place her in the success-class into which her industry and conscientiousness endeavor to push her.

3. Carmen Ballen, writer at Goldwyn Studio

Miss Ballen writes a bold, dashing, forward hand, indicating her enjoyment of freedom and independence, her initiative, courage and self-sufficiency. While enthusiasm and high spirit are shown in the strong, upsoaring t-bars covering more than an inch of writing space, Miss Ballen is also reserved and self-protective because her writing slopes heavily toward the left-hand margin. She is another intuitive, very imaginative, quite diplomatic and cautious, emotional, intense, but restrained by impressions which safeguard her interests.

4. Robert Isaacs

This is but a signature, too short for analysis. The writer is talkative, good-natured, blessed with initiative, very generous.

COMEDY

RISING TEMPERATURE

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay
Plots"

Installment 4

We will open this sequence with a title. What takes place now may be the next day or the next week. The title covers the lapse of time. It also introduces another comedy character.

TITLE:

A CASE FOR DIAGNOSIS.

15. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. OPERATING TABLE.

Slicem talking with comedy character who registers that he is in great pain. Slicem puts him on the table and takes his stethoscope, starts to examine him. As he picks up the stethoscope he also moves a diminutive skeleton which has wire spring legs and arms, from one place to another. He then turns to his patient and begins to make his examination.

16. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. SEMI-CLOSEUP.

Of Slicem as he begins to examine his patient. He first pounds and taps the victim by putting the palm of his left hand on the patient's anatomy and pounding the back of it with his right. He starts this at the patient's neck and works to a point near his short ribs. Here he pauses.

17. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Slicem's hand on the bulge in the patient's coat made by a fat pocket-book. The hand lingers as the other one taps lightly as if to sound the depth of the pocketbook.

18. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of the diminutive skeleton, with arms and legs wiggling, apparently laughing with glee.

19. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. SEMI-CLOSEUP.

Of Slicem standing by patient. He takes his hand away and announces

TITLE:

"I THINK I HAVE LOCATED THE TROUBLE"

Back: Slicem turns to take up the stethoscope again, or to get some instruments from a case. The patient hurriedly takes a big fat purse out of the pocket of the coat and places it in his hip pocket. Slicem comes back and starts feeling for the purse. He turns to the camera with a puzzled look as he misses the bulk of the purse.

20. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of Slicem's face with puzzled expression.

21. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP. FLASH.

Of the patient's face as he watches old Slicem.

22. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. MEDIUM CLOSE SHOT.

Slicem turns back to the patient and flops him over on his stomach—starts sounding again—from the shoulder down. Presently he locates the bulge of the purse again. Then he places the stethoscope on it.

23. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of the stethoscope on the bulge in the hip pocket. The bulge swells up and down slowly and then rapidly (rubber sack with tube). Cut in

TITLE:

PULSE VERY RAPID.

Back. The bulge pulsating very rapidly.

24. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. MEDIUM CLOSE SHOT.

Slicem straightens up with a chuckle. Nodding his head, grabs a gauze muzzle and starts giving ether to the patient.

25. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of the diminutive skeleton—wiggling and shaking—doing a shimmy shake. IRIS OUT.

This whole sequence is pure hokum, but it is good because it is poking fun at the doctors, whom we all believe are prone to have a weakness for "operations." The proposition of the wiggling skeleton is a gag that I thought of at the very minute that I began to write the scene. I remember having seen one of the things in a doctor's office and that it would do the shimmy every time it was touched. Here was a chance to use it as a gag—so I put it in. With the same amount of story that we have here, it would be an easy matter to make this a two-reel picture by building up with more good gags.

is just as applicable today as it was 100 years ago. There are unthrifty people now, as there will always be, who find it difficult to make ends meet—a hard task to "keep the wolf from the door."

If you are not saving money, you are not paying a dividend on your existence—as a business proposition you are a failure.

ANALYSES OF HANDWRITING

ous and kindhearted, a quick thinker. He would make a good traveling salesman, but can readily change vocations owing to adaptability and willingness to learn new duties. He has magnetism and personality, meets the public with ease, and shows a money-making tendency which is commendable. He has musical ability—or love for dancing and music, at least.

5. Reynold Graw

This specimen submitted in leadpencil is poor for analysis. However, the writer is very ambitious, imaginative, musical, artistic in his ideas. He is a quick thinker, but often acts more slowly because he has acquired reticence and self-protective methods, is cautious, and very observant. He does not make indiscriminate intimacies, is easily touched by thought transference, can have deeply wounded feelings and yet betray nothing outwardly—which would fit him for histrionic honors, you see. He is proud and self-reliant, shrewd, can make a success of business because he does not invest in that which is valueless, and with a little training would make a success in the publicity business, as the literary germ is trying 'ts best to burn a hole in his perfectly good gray matter.

Henry J. Arentz, general manager of the Hamilton-White Comedies, has returned from a vacation spent touring Southern California points between pictures. During his absence the comedy offices of the studio have been remodeled and additional office workers employed to handle the rapidly increasing business reported by the Educational Film and First National exchanges handling the Hamilton-White productions.

Tom Gibson, producer of "The Problems of the Potts Family," Wycliffe A. Hill's series of two-reelers in which Dan Crimmins is being featured, has departed for New York for the purpose of placing the series on the market.

ACTOR FINDS QUEEN'S TREASURE

Fred Bond, who has for some time been making pictures in Hawaii, recently purchased an old desk from a second-hand man. Upon opening one of its locked compartments, he discovered heirlooms, jewelry and trinkets belonging to the late Queen Lilioukalani of Hawaii. In spite of many offers for the collection, Mr. Bond will retain it for a private museum.

Tully Marshall has been cast in Doralina's initial Metro starring production, "Passion Fruit."

William Lawrence has been engaged by Metro to play opposite Alice Lake in "Body and Soul," which is now being filmed at Metro.

Joe Jacobs is playing a part in the sixth of the Booth Tarkington comedies, "Edgar Camps Out," at Goldwyn's.

Margaret Cullington is finishing "Search Me" under the Christie banner, the film in which she is being co-starred with Harry Gibbon.

Colin Campbell is directing Hayakawa in "The First Born" for Robertson-Cole.

Bruce Randall is acting as assistant director for the Richards Photoplay Company in Edendale.

William Miller, who has recently completed a horseback trip from San Francisco to New York and return, is being featured in two-reel Western comedies by the Richards Photoplay Company.

Alberta Lee has just signed up with Sidney A. Franklin to play "Martha" in his new production.

Macauley Master Photoplay Company has engaged Mr. Harvey Thew to prepare the continuity for their forthcoming production.

Miriam Meredith, assistant scenario editor at the Ince studio, is back at her desk after a month's vacation, part of which was spent at Catalina.

Calvert Carter has just finished with Nazimova, and will start immediately with the Viola Dana Company in "Cinderella's Twin."

Tom Bates has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to leave the hospital August 1st.

Marion Aye, recently of the Orpheum Circuit, has been engaged by Fox.

NOW IS THE TIME AND LOS ANGELES IS THE PLACE

In the "good old days" when stars traveled from city to city presenting their list of plays with the local Stock Co., actors received a training much superior to that received by the modern actor, who appears week after week with the same leading people. He was schooled, as our old friend Polonius would say: "in tragedy, comedy, history, pastoral, pastoral-comical, historical-pastoral, tragical-historical, tragical-historical-pastoral;" he not only had to study the characterization of his part, but the costuming. Moreover, he had to be a make-up artist of ability, which is quite a contrast to the modern actor, whose line of parts is the same modern characters in the same modern plays. His make-up box consists of one stick of grease paint, a powder puff and a can of cold cream; if he has a dress suit, an English walking suit, one palm beach and two business suits, his wardrobe is complete. So, if the Spoken Drama is NOT, "doomed to oblivion," as was predicted by a prominent M. P. director, a short time ago, where are the future actors to come from. Surely not from pictures, for while they will always fill their place in the amusement world, they do not nor never will satisfy the dramatic appetite. The two different methods of, "holding the mirror up to nature," will continue in their respective places.

I believe the time is not far distant when they will combine; the spoken drama will use the cut-back instead of descriptive speeches. There is more kick in hearing Bill Rogers get off his, "illiterate digest," than reading them. A good Monologist gets more laughs than "Topics of the Day," consequently we need Stock Cos., of the old school to supply the actors of the future, and owing to the numerous Stage Stars here in pictures, and the thousands of tourists who spend their winters here, this city could support one to better advantage than any other place. These Stars could, and no doubt would, be glad to present some of their old stage successes during their time between pictures. The tourists would not only go see their old favorites, but would like to see, "in the flesh" the picture stars who have never appeared on the speaking stage, and who, no doubt, are anxious to prove their ability before the "toe lamps." What a variety of bills could be produced: Shakespeare, the old English comedies, musical comedies, farce comedies, and all with the cream of the "perfesh" in their special line. Also the Stage Stars, who have never appeared in pictures would certainly be glad to play short engagements with such a company. Put the regular members of the company on a permanent salary, and donate a certain per cent of the gross receipts to the Actors' Fund, for the Stars services, as their income from pictures is sufficient.

A few months ago I played in a picture which was directed by an old stage actor, and I mentioned this idea to him. He replied:

"I have such a plan all mapped out on paper, but you are the first one who has ever suggested the idea to me."

While Planning always precedes Doing, yet I believe, Now is the time, and Los Angeles is the place to put the Plan into operation, and sincerely trust my suggestion will start the Bee to Buzzing in some Managerial Bonnet.

FRANK STAPLES.

TESTS TAKEN TO AID IN SELECTION OF CAST

The ten beautiful young women who were recently picked as winners in the recent contest conducted by the Hermann Film company for roles in its next picture, "Something More," were given screen tests at the Hermann studios on Wilshire boulevard this week. After the tests were taken, Mr. Hermann said it would be necessary to conduct other tests before it will be possible to make final selection of those who are to be given parts in his next picture.

Those who were photographed were Ruby Rush, Frances Records, Pauline Courtney, Wanda Connery, Paula Allyn Long, Ruth Harris Graydon, Dadie Harvey, Mary Bonheur, Evelyn Carewe, Violet Lewis and Hazel Jamieson.

"Beauty alone will not win before the camera," said Mr. Hermann, after the tests had been made. "I am in need of special types, and personality must enter into the final selection. A woman endowed with good looks plus wholesome and winning personality, will be given preference over those who may be beautiful but who are unable to register personality on the screen.

"For that reason it will be necessary for me to see each contestant on the screen and then compare notes on personality, beauty and general screen values. Sometimes a girl may be exceedingly beautiful, but she does not walk gracefully. Or she may be vivacious and very wonderful off the screen, but this trait may not register with the camera. However, I expect within a short time to announce the final winners in the contest."

"Something More," soon to be produced by Mr. Hermann, will be a sequel to "That Something," recently released by this company, and which is making a wonderful hit with audiences wherever shown. It enjoyed a five weeks' run at a Broadway theater in Los Angeles.

Shipping is a Growing and Profitable Industry

The impetus given the shipping industry by the war has awakened the Pacific Coast to a realization of the benefits to be derived from the healthy and stable growth of this ancient industry. Today we are speaking in familiar terms of what the shipping industry can do for us, whereas but a few years ago we were quite content to rely entirely upon foreign bottoms for the transport of our merchandise.

The growth and expansion of any industry, so long as it is sound, offers a field for the profitable employment of capital. Marine shipping offers Investors an attractive field for their funds.

The best type of steamship security is known as the Marine Equipment Bond, such as the China Mail Steamship Corporation of California First Mortgage 8% Serial Gold Bonds.

These bonds are secured by a first mortgage on steamships operating on established and profitable trade routes between San Francisco and the Orient.

The net earnings of the corporation have always been greatly in excess of the interest on this issue and last year amounted to more than 8½% such charges. These bonds possess every feature of safety found in this type of security, which has always been considered the prime of good investments.

The price of these bonds is 100 and Interest; the yield is 8%. Full information may be had by calling, writing or phoning for Circular C81.

MERRIMEE ARRIVES IN CALIFORNIA—By Dwinelle Benthall

Merrimee sniffed the air inquiringly. "What is it? It smells like all sorts of wild aromatic things."

Jacqueline lifted her dripping tresses. "Have you ever seen a bald-headed Indian?" she demanded, abruptly.

Merrimee blinked in startled amazement. "No-o, I knew Indians were keen on scalps, but to the best of my limited knowledge it was always the other fellow's. But why this sudden intrusion of Indians? I was drifting off into dreams of the desert on the waves of something that I smell." She sniffed again, daintily. "Why, it is your shampoo!"

"Of course it is," said Jacqueline, "and the desert and the Indians and the shampoo all belong together. I'll tell you about it."

"Once upon a time," she began, "there was a chemist working in a desert town in Arizona. He noticed that the Indians gathered herbs and brewed them over a fire, and then rubbed the liquid into their scalps. It was the juice of the yucca plant, mainly, and he found that for generations Indians had used yucca for their hair, and if you did know anything about Indians, you would know that their hair is their crowning glory. And so, to make a long story short, the chemist experimented, and found a way to preserve the Indian's tonic without the use of alcohol, which, as you may not know, burns the hair as disastrously as would fire. That is the real danger of most hair tonics."

"And so we have Yuccatone! A shampoo and a tonic! And it is one of the most wonderful things I have ever discovered. My hair would never be able to stand its strenuous picture existence without it. Feel, it is just like velvet!" Merrimee ran her hand over the glossy waves. "It is; but, alas, I simply can't wash my own hair. I know it is silly, but I can't."

"Which doesn't matter in the least," interrupted Jacqueline. The next time we are in town, I will take you to the Yuccatone Parlors, at 827 West Seventh street, and right here in Hollywood there is the dearest little Beauty Parlor, where you can have a Yuccatone shampoo."

"It is Ruby Ray's, on Hollywood boulevard, near Western avenue. "Oh, I have noticed it," exclaimed Merrimee, eagerly. "The name attracted me. It sounds so bright and gay, somehow—Ruby Ray."

And later, when Merrimee paused just inside the door of the shop, she decided that Ruby lived up to her name; that is, if the dimpled, blue-eyed girl with the soft waves of hair was Miss Ray—and it was.

Merrimee gave herself up absolutely to her ministrations. It was so utterly restful to lie back in a chair and feel skilled fingers rub strength and relaxation into one's head and face and neck, for the shampoo proved to be merely the beginning. There followed a facial, and a manicure, and a definite appointment for a weekly treatment.

"Ruby Ray, you are the Fountain of Youth," declared Merrimee. "I love the way you have made me over."

And then a dozen steps from the door of the Beauty Shop she stopped transfixed before a window. It was a scarf of peacock blue and old gold that lured her—a scarf of soft, velvety plush, lined with silk, and a hat with a crown of the same alluring material and a flaring upturned brim of peacock blue. With a little breathless dart she was inside the shop.

"The hat in the window," she said, "the peacock one; I know it is mine."

It slipped over her fluffy curls as though it belonged there, and she smiled contentedly at her reflection.

Glancing around the shop she noticed that all the hats had distinction and individuality. "They suggest different personalities," she said to the man, whose hands were those of an artist

"I mean that they shall," he answered. "I believe that a hat is a frame for a woman's face. It can make or mar the picture, and so I study the women who come to me—mostly actresses of the screen—and design hats to suit their own features, and I have made a very careful study of picture requirement—the matter of line and color and so on. I find it as fascinating and as much an art in itself as interior decorating or portrait painting."

"I have always known that hats were artistic creations," said Merrimee, "but I never met anyone before who expressed it so definitely. "Will you please send my old one? I must wear this."

"Ira S. Slack, 5539 Hollywood boulevard," she said the words to herself as she tripped down the boulevard.

It was with a sense of general well-being that Merrimee crossed the wide veranda of "Mountain View Inn." Somehow she always felt as though it were stretching out its arms to welcome her, and the hospitality and hominess of the place and the unvarying excellence of the meals had done much to make her feel as though she were actually living in California, and was not merely a stranger in a strange land.

"We are just like a family," Jacqueline had explained to her in the beginning. "A lot of picture people who are the real sort live here, and season after season people come from the East who care more for solid, cozy comfort than for the sensational flash of things."

"The Fountain of Youth! A discovery in hats! And a home in Mountain View Inn! I am rather a lucky person," mused Merrimee. "Oh, very lucky," she added, as she drew a bulky letter from her box and sat down in one of the deep chairs to read it.—Adv. (To be continued)

ENGLAND TAKES A STEP

Jesse Lasky returns from England with the announcement that he has signed some half dozen British playwrights and novelists to write directly for the screen. These are authors who have until now overlooked the fact that the photoplay has superseded both the novel and the legitimate drama with the public.

Characteristically, having taken months longer than our American writers to recognize this obvious truth, these Englishmen are now going to the other extreme in serious consideration of it.

In marked contrast with the rush and tear of our modern scenarists here, comes the news that Mr. Lasky's new acquisitions expect to spend six months and more in the preparation of each screen story. Moreover, several of them will be with us in the near future to personally study continuity and other fine points employed in the making of pictures on this coast.

What will this mean to production? Will a new standard of careful scenario construction be established as a result, or is it possible that the stories of these great novelists will prove more successful than scenario department adaptations of our present screen contributors? Is there a chance that, after all, American fictionists, who have been upon the ground since the pioneer days of the entertainment film, have a practical working knowledge of this department of picture construction that the most minute attention to detail and the greatest expenditure of time will never accomplish for the outsider? The future alone will answer the above questions for the profession.

What is of more importance, after all, at this time, is the internationalization of the industry. All such steps should be welcomed as an evidence of the universal appeal of the one entertainment which originated in this country. Our only care need be a continued control of it.

ART PHOTOGRAPHY

Does the average audience desire more than technical correctness in motion picture photography? How much of a story's success depends upon the artistic composition of its long-shots and close-ups? Granted that critics and professionals judge a production in part from this standpoint, does that prove that such an observance of art in the filming of a play is required by the average fan?

Although we have not yet discovered that the public is demanding this element in its cinema entertainment, it is true that an exhibition of the same is invariably recognized and appreciated by the majority, which last has undoubtedly occasioned the unusual progress already made by the industry.

Several of our foremost cameramen have created, after a concentrated study of portrait photography, lighting effects, etc., scenes that compare favorably with the works of great brush artists.

Mr. Griffith has even gone so far in his development of this department of picture making as to dim backgrounds, focusing only the scene's action, in an attempt at the impressionistic.

Of course, such exaggerated experiments as this cannot be employed beneficially in the filming of all types of the photoplay, but well-balanced scenes and appropriate backgrounds should always be given due consideration.

Everything that tends to increase the harmony and fitness of a production enhances its entertainment value, which is the one element insisted upon by that great tyrant, public favor.

GAMUT CLUB DRAMATIC MOVEMENT

By Otto Lederer

Music and the drama will be allies this season at the Gamut Club. This announcement was welcomed by some of the club's most prominent members, at a dinner given Wednesday, August 4th, presided over by Mr. Judite.

The combination was suggested by Mr. Wyndham Standing, who has put heart and soul into the project which will give our ambitious picture actors and stars a chance to indulge in their first love, the stage.

Philosophers, musicians and artists of fame have long made this organization one of our most delightful Bohemian clubs. It now opens its portals to the interested photoplayer, that he may partake of its genial atmosphere and assist in the establishment of this artistic alliance.

RORK-ROTH PRODUCTIONS ORGANIZE

Sam E. Rork, president of the Katherine MacDonald Picture Corporation, and Eugene Roth, owner of the California, Imperial and Portola theatres in San Francisco, and one of the leading exhibitors on the Pacific coast, have organized the Rork-Roth Productions and will start producing feature pictures with all-star casts on August 15th. The new organization plans to put on the market four specials a year.

The first step taken by the new company was to sign George Marion as advisory director and producer of Rork-Roth Pictures. Mr. Marion has arrived in Los Angeles and he will begin his new duties immediately.

"Isobel," produced by Louis B. Mayer, featuring House Peters and Jane Novak, a James Oliver Curwood story, has been purchased by the new organization and will in all probability be the first release of that company. It was directed by Edwin Carewe.

For the present, at least, the Rork-Roth Productions will be made at the Katherine MacDonald studios in Los Angeles.

LASKY RETURNS WITH PRODUCTION ANNOUNCEMENTS

Jesse Lasky returned last week from England with a complete announcement regarding production plans, both with regard to the company's London activities and the acquisition of the past and future works of eminent English writers.

Sir James Barrie, Arnold Bennett and H. G. Wells are among these last. Some of these authors will visit the Hollywood studio in the near future as Mr. Lasky's guests, to study the technique of picture making, that they may write directly for the screen. Peter Pan has been secured for an early production here from Sir James Barrie.

There are at present two companies at work at the Famous Players Lasky organization in London.

Construction has also commenced upon a studio for this company in Bombay.

MacDONALD OFFICIALS JOURNEY EAST

Sam E. Rork, president of the Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corporation, and B. P. Fineman, vice-president, left for New York this week where they will hold conferences with officials of Associated First National pictures relative to future Katherine MacDonald releases through that circuit. Mr. Rork will stop en route at the home of James Oliver Curwood at Owosso, Mich., where he will discuss production plans with the author, who may provide the new Rork-Roth Productions with some original screen material.

Mr. Fineman will stop in Chicago for a conference with B. F. Schulberg, president of the Attractions Distributing Corporation, of which Mr. Fineman is also vice-president.

CLERMONT ACQUIRES SATURDAY EVENING POST STORY

The competition for George Weston's Saturday Evening Post story, "Hard Boiled Mabel," has ended with victory for Clermont Photoplays Corporation. The story will be picturized under the published title by Lloyd Carleton Productions, producing for Clermont Photoplays Corporation, and with the biggest all-star cast of the year. The story is a comedy-drama.

Lloyd B. Carleton will direct.

FILMING OF DORALDINA PICTURE IS STARTED BY METRO

The task of filming "The Passion Fruit," starring Mme. Doraldina, commenced last week at the Metro Studios. Director Douglas Gerrard has taken the company to Santa Barbara on location for a week.

NEW COMPANY TO START

The initial production of the Rockett brothers will be "Truant Husbands," by Albert Payson Terhune.

Betty Blythe and Mahlon Hamilton have been engaged for the leading roles.

Thomas Heffron will direct the picture.

Space has been leased at Universal City by the company, and production will commence at once.

MAXFIELD STANLEY

Playing Herbert Poole (the heavy) in "Just Out of College," opposite Jack Pickford. Goldwyn Release.

SALISBURY PURCHASES STORY

"Ethan of the Mountain" will be Monroe Salisbury's second independent starring vehicle. The story was purchased by the star producer from Sarah Waters, magazine writer, and will show him in an entirely new type of out-door role.

In collaboration with Donald Crisp, his director, Monroe Salisbury is supervising the editing of "The Barbarian," his first production, which will soon be taken to New York for a distributor's preview.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Erich Von Stroheim is now well started on his new feature, "Foolish Wives."

Under the direction of Stuart Paton, Eva Novak is making progress with her initial feature, "Kate Plus Ten," from the pen of Edgar Wallace.

Frank Mayo's current production is "Black Friday."

Eddie Polo is busy filming scenes for the first four episodes of his new serial, "The King of the Circus," under the direction of J. P. McGowan.

Edward Kull is evolving a complete new set of thrills for the Universal serial, "The Queen of Diamonds," in which Eileen Sedgwick is being starred.

Elmo Lincoln has reached the fourteenth episode of his latest serial, "The Lightning's Eye," directed by Robert Hill.

Hoot Gibson's latest action western is entitled "The Shootin' Fool," by Jeanne Spencer and Frank Ware.

Jacques Jaccard has returned to the studio after three weeks at his mountain retreat, bringing with him the scenario of an original story, "The Throwback," which he will shortly produce.

Norman Dawn, who recently produced "The Adorable Savage," took a special trip to New Orleans, where he remained two weeks securing atmospheric scenes for "White Youth," the story by Clara Beranger and Forrest Hallsey, work on which will soon be started under his direction.

AT VITAGRAPH

Director Chester Bennett and the Earle Williams Company are spending two weeks at Santa Barbara on exteriors for "The Romance Promoters." Helen Ferguson plays opposite the star. A week at the studio on their return will complete the picture.

William Duncan has returned from San Gabriel Canyon where he spent a week on preliminary scenes for "The Wizard Spy-glass," his next serial. Edith Johnson takes the leading feminine role.

Antonio Moreno signed his new contract with Vitagraph this week, which gives him services to that company for the next three years. The star is now directing himself in "The Veiled Mystery" serial and will finish the tenth episode this week.

Director Jesse Robbins has returned from Catalina with the Jimmy Aubrey comedy company and is finishing his picture at San Pedro.

The new studio is progressing rapidly and will be completed by September 15th.

AT THE GOLDWYN STUDIO

Director Clarence Badger is in San Francisco looking up suitable locations for Will Rogers' next Goldwyn picture, "The Guile of Women."

Jack Pickford is scheduled to finish "Just Out of College," this week, under direction of Al Green.

E. Mason Hopper is busy on one of the Edgar series and Reginald Barker is making preparations for taking "The Concert" at Goldwyn's Culver City studios.

INCE TO DIRECT METRO PRODUCTION OF BEN AMES WILLIAMS' STORY

John E. Ince will direct the Metro all-star production of "All Men Are Valiant," a newly purchased story written by Ben Ames Williams, the script for which was written by Edward Lowe, Jr. The filming of this picture will start at the Metro Studio in Hollywood just as soon as Mr. Ince can select his cast.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

"THE WONDER MAN"

Georges Carpentier played last week at Tally's Broadway in his initial Robertson-Cole release. On the whole the production merits the praise given it so generally. It undoubtedly will prove a good box office attraction. Its athletic trend and the international plot will appeal particularly to the masculine public.

The star's performance as D'Alour, the secret service agent, is a happy improvement over those of other ring artists who have attempted the cinema. His pleasing personality will get over with his audience, while his boxing and swimming exhibitions are a delight.

Faire Binney displays in her interpretation of Dorothy Stone, the ingenue, an absolute lack of intelligent thought. She makes the at best inane heroine positively loathsome with her forced kittenishness.

Florence Billings is good as Mrs. Stoner. It is obvious that Robert Barrat was chosen for the heavy role of Alan Gardner for his boxing ability and muscular figure alone.

Downing Clark plays Samuel Stoner, and John Burkell is the secret service butler.

Others in the cast are Cecil Owen, William Halligan, P. C. Hartegan and Charles Craig.

John G. Adolphi directed the picture.

"CUPID, THE COWPUNCHER"

Goldwyn presented Will Rogers in "Cupid, the Cowpuncher," at the California Theatre last week. The story including both action and subtitles is very amusing, and its continuity is an improvement over several of this star's features.

Rogers plays the title role to the audible delight of the audience. The situations in which he is placed are immense.

Helene Chadwick does more than could have been expected with the rather foolish ingenue, Macie Sewell.

Andrew Robson is good as Zack Sewell, the "boss."

Floyd Whitlock plays Dr. Leroy Simpson, the heavy, and Roy Laidlaw does Dr. Billy Trowbridge.

Catherine Wallace is Rose Sewell.

Guinn Williams and Tex Parker provide much amusement as Hairoil Johnson and Monkey Mike, respectively.

Nelson McDowell does Sheriff Bergin of Briggs City. Cordelia Callahan is his wife.

Clarence Badger directed the production.

"HELD BY THE ENEMY"

The Lasky adaptation of William Gillette's "Held by the Enemy" played last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre. The production will rank with the best of the Civil War plays, due to its excellent handling, continuity, and the performance of the exceptional cast.

Agnes Ayres is altogether delightful as Rachel Hayne, the typical heroine of that period.

Jack Holt is also excellently cast as Colonel Charles Prescott of the Union Army.

Lewis Stone is good as Captain Gordon Hayne.

Wanda Hawley and Walter Hiers provide well timed relaxation from the strenuous trend of the story by their performances of Emmy McCreery and Thomas Beene.

Lillian Leighton plays Clarissa, the old negro servant, delightfully and at times touchingly, assisted by John Brower, who is Uncle Rufus.

Josephine Crowell consistently interprets Sarah Hayne.

C. H. Geldart is well cast as Major General Stanton.

Brigade Surgeon Fielding is done by Robert Cain in a more than satisfactory manner.

Donald Crisp directed.

PRICE SELLS NEW YORK TERRITORY ON RHODES FEATURE TO FIRST NATIONAL

The New York territory of the C. B. Price Co., Inc., feature, Billie Rhodes in "His Pajama Girl," has been purchased by the First National Exchange of that territory; also the First National Exchange of New Jersey has secured the rights of this production for the northern section of that state.

PAUL WEIGEL

"THE GIRL IN THE WEB"

Jesse D. Hampton presented "The Girl in the Web" last week at the Victory. The story stars Blanche Sweet and was directed by Robert Thornby. Everything considered, the production is well constructed and the support good.

Miss Sweet's is a role requiring chiefly dignity, which she satisfactorily provides.

Nigel Barrie is refreshing as Dick Ferguson, the male lead.

Thomas Jefferson humorously characterizes Sam Johnnie, and Adele Farrington plays Mrs. Johnnie.

Peaches Jackson is clever in the role of Bebette Price.

Others in the cast are: Christine Mayo, Hayward Mack, J. D. Lackney, Eleanor Hancock, Thomas Guise, H. A. Barrows and Evelyn Shelby.

"THE NOTORIOUS MRS. SANDS"

The Victory further presented Bessie Barriscale in "The Notorious Mrs. Sands," upon last week's bill. The story fails to command interest, and is more or less inconsistent; nor does the cast's mediocre performance improve it.

The star does Mary Ware, the "often done" woman, who jilts her lover for a wealthy man of mama's choice, only to regret it later.

Forrest Stanley plays Donald Cliff, the conventional lover of the old school.

Grey Sands, the husband, is enacted by Harry Meyers.

William Christy Cabanne directed.

"THE WORLD AND HIS WIFE"

"The World and His Wife" was the Cosmopolitan production which showed last week at Clune's Broadway. The piece is rather daring, possibly a bit overdone, based upon the injustice of public opinion in its gossip. It is, however, an interesting picture with a Spanish locale and contains some splendid acting.

Alma Rubens is featured in the publicity, but the story is Montague Love's. He controls the dramatic interest and climax with his characterization of Don Julian.

Alma Rubens makes an interesting woman of Teodora, his young, misjudged wife.

Gaston Glass does Ernesto, the man at whom gossip hurls the Donna Teodora, satirically.

The remainder of the cast is mediocre.

Bob Vignola directed.

"LA LA LUCILLE"

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran played last week at the Superba in their second five-reel Universal feature, "La La Lucille." The story is an exceptionally swift moving and entertaining farce. The situations are immense and the acting good. Incidentally "La La Lucille" is an excellent summer attraction.

Eddie Lyons does John Smith, a young married man who hires a co-respondent. His little wife, Lucille Smith, is played by Anne Cornwall.

Lee Moran as Britton Hughes, elopes with Peggy, who is enacted by Gladys Walton. Peggy is under age.

Dorothea Wolbert is a scream as Fanny, the janitor's wife, who "co-responds" with John Smith for ten dollars.

Col. Marion, the irate father, is Fred Gamble.

Burton Halbert does Jaynes, Lucille Smith's juggling father.

Sam Appel is the inevitable hotel detective.

Charles McHugh amuses as Brady.

Others in the cast are Henry Meyers, Frank Earl, Rosa Gore, and Arthur Thalosso.

FOREIGN NOTABLES ATTEND GOLDWYN PRE-VIEW

A unique audience assembled in the Goldwyn Studio Theatre at Culver City Friday night, when the consuls of every foreign country having diplomatic representation in Los Angeles were the invited guests of Abraham Lehr, vice-president in charge of production, to witness a private showing of the Goldwyn feature, "Earthbound," which will be released to the public in August. The diplomatic representatives who accepted invitations to the pre-view were:

Charles Winsel (Belgium); Wm. Dunorkly (Bolivia); J. J. Serraro (Colombia); C. E. R. Roberts (Costa Rica); J. S. Saenz (Cuba); W. I. Spendrup (Denmark); A. L. Best (England); M. S. Rodriguez (Honduras); E. I. Qually (Norway); F. L. Alvares (Spain); G. Eckdahl (Sweden); E. Oyama (Japan); F. J. Zechandelaar (Holland); T. E. Lecayo (Nicaragua); E. I. Rui (Mexico).

Owing to the fact that the French Consul is at present in Paris, his consulate was represented by L. Brunswig, chairman of the commission for French relief during the war. As there is no Chinese Consul in Los Angeles, I. Tyotaku, a foremost Chinese minister, represented that country, and because of the inability of the Italian Consul to attend, Victor Rosetta, a prominent Los Angeles citizen, was present in his stead. Manuel del Barrio, a judge of the supreme court in Cuba, accompanied the Cuban Consul.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION AND ITS MEMBERS

At a luncheon given by the R. C. P. Smith Syndicate, upon the opening of their studio, under the general direction of Gilbert P. Hamilton, Mr. John Lancaster represented the Actors' Association.

The general good feeling between the actors and producers evidenced at the luncheon, is a long cherished idea of the Association and we trust we may see more and more of it.

The following members of the Association are cast in the production, which will feature Zasu Pitts: Ed Hearn, Fred C. Jones, Wm. Lion West, Louis Fitzroy, Hardee Kirkland, Margaret Campbell and Jean Calhoun.

Stanton Hack, Howard Davies and Elsa Lorimer are working at Universal.

Mahlon Hamilton and Betty Blythe are engaged with the Rockett Bros.

Edward Peil has been working with the Marshall Neilan Company at Catalina Island.

Carol Holloway, Ruth King, Harry Van Meter and Spottiswoode Aitken are still in Denver, with the Yellowstone Productions, under the direction of Charles E. Bartlett. Wm. Lion West has returned from there to work with Gilbert P. Hamilton.

Josef Swickard, John Sainpolis, Alan Hale, Robert Bolder, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Nigel de Brullier, William Courtright, W. E. Lawrence, Zeffie Tilbury, and Gilbert Clayton, are all busy at Metro.

Martha Mattox and Hooper Toler are at Fox's.

Herschel Mayall, Emmet King and Fred L. Lancaster are with "Kismet" and Harry Lorraine has finished his part there.

NEW PUBLICITY ORGANIZATION LAUNCHED

March and Walton have opened offices in the Egan Little Theatre Building, handling engagements, publicity and plays by well known authors. Ursula March was formerly casting directress and head of the publicity department at the Katherine MacDonald Studio, and Kelly Walton has long been identified with big theatres as advertising manager. Guy Coburn, associated with Lasky and Goldwyn studios as assistant casting director, and later with the Lichtig agency, has joined the firm as outside man. March and Walton are exclusive agents for Maude Fulton's plays.

William Conklin has been selected for one of the leading male roles in the Metro all-star production of "White Ashes," an original story written by Luther Reed.

Edward Connelly has been selected to enact one of the important parts in "Cinderella's Twin," at Metro.

Edward Lowe, Jr., has become a member of the Metro scenario department. Mr. Lowe did as his first script, "The Passion Fruit," in which Mme. Doraldina will star for Metro. He is now working on "Barber John's Boy," a story by Ben Ames Williams.

Metro's list of featured players has been augmented by the addition of Wyndham Standing, who is at present playing the leading male role in Viola Dana's new picture, "Blackmail."

Lillian Leighton is at present with C. B. de Mille. She also has a part in the current Wm. C. de Mille production at Lasky's.

BRUNTON TO STAR ROY STEWART

The filming of Roy Stewart Productions, to be made by Robert Brunton, will be commenced in a new type of western drama.

Lenore Lynard is playing the part of Lady Annesley-Seton in Katherine MacDonald's current starring vehicle, "The Second Latchkey."

Marian Skinner is playing Mrs. Brewster in "Brewster's Millions" at Laskey's.

LILLIAN RICH

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE

LILLIAN RICH

In one year Lillian has succeeded in the picture business in this city.

Of course she had to start with the backing of a legitimate career in Europe, during part of which she was appearing with Harry Lauder. She also enacted the ingenues in "Three Cheers," "Airs and Graces," and other musical comedy companies. Nevertheless, the record accomplished so speedily by this little lady is enviable at a time when much talent is available.

Having greatly pleased with her interpretation of an ingenue with H. B. Warner, Miss Rich was given, a few months back, three successive leads with that star, two of which were "Behind Red Curtains," and "Going Straight."

Later she was cast opposite Frank Mayo in "The Red Lane," which Universal production showed a few weeks ago at a local theatre.

At present she is considering an offer to journey to Winnipeg for an appearance in a Ralph O'Connor picture. Whether Miss Rich accepts this engagement or not is immaterial. Her way to big things is assured by the merit of her work.

Edward Sutherland has been engaged for the juvenile lead in Augustus Thomas' "The Witching Hour," which William Desmond Taylor is filming for Realart.

James Neill and Edythe Chapman were recently signed by Abraham Lehr in charge of production at the Goldwyn Studios to appear exclusively in Goldwyn pictures for another year. Both Mr. Neill and Miss Chapman have been members of Goldwyn's repertory players for the past year.

Raymond Hatton is now playing the press agent in the Goldwyn picture, "Head Over Heels."

George Hernandez is playing "Septimus Pickering" in the Goldwyn picture, "Just Out of College," starring Jack Pickford.

Mary Huntress has been engaged by Vitagraph to play Miss Marks to play with Earle Williams in "The Romance Promoters."

Parker J. McConnell has signed with Lasky to play the part of Hopper Harrison in "Brewster's Millions."

Charles Meakin is now with Charles Hutchinson at Brunton's.

Harry Burns has been named studio manager for the Chester Studios.

Harry Cooper has been engaged by Director Jack White to turn the second crank in the next production of the Hamilton-White Comedies. Cooper was recently connected with the Lew Cody Productions.

Frederick Bennett, having finished his novel, "Mary of the Movies," is now writing comedies for the Jay Hunt productions, which will be called Superba Comedies, which are being shot at the Francis Ward studio.

Browditch Turner has been selected to enact the part of Argensola in the Metro production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Guy Coombes of New York has just signed with Mr. Ivan Abramson of the same city to play the lead in his new production, "The Wrong Woman," with an all-star cast.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

EDDIE LAEMMLE HOME FROM ORIENT

Eddie Laemmle, nephew of Carl Laemmle of the Universal Studios, returned to the local film camp this week after an extended expedition through Japan, China, Siam, the Federated Malay States, Sarawak, Central Borneo, Java, Philippine Islands, New Guinea and Australia, where he filmed many unusually interesting scenic pictures. Eddie has been a member of the Assistant Directors' Association since its inception. He will direct a series of Western pictures at Universal City.

Eileen Sedgwick's arm is in a sling as the result of an accident during the filming of a fight scene in the Universal serial, "The Queen of Diamonds."

Harry Carey has just installed a swimming pool on his ranch in San Francisquito canyon, and while resting after the completion of "Sundown Slim," has invited a number of stars and leading players from Universal City to help him christen the new plunge. The ceremony will occur Saturday night, so that bathing may be indulged in as per calendar.

Eddie Polo has returned from a week's trip to Denver, where he secured some special shots of himself as a member of the Robinson shows.

Rose A. Weiller, connected with the Universal scenario department, has just celebrated the sixth anniversary of his association with this company.

Having interpolated the final chuckle in their third five-reel comedy feature, "Once a Plumber—," at Universal City, Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, accompanied by their better halves, left for a two weeks' stay at Delmont-by-the-Sea.

C. B. (Pop) Hoadley is busying himself with the scenario of Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran's next comedy, "Fixed by George," also from the pen of Edgar Franklin, who wrote "Once a Plumber—."

Roy Green and Walter Hass, two Universal cinematographers, spent an entire Sunday in the air, obtaining close-up shots of the aviation events recently held at Venice, California.

Mary Savage, a Denver girl, is to be starred by Arthur J. Levy.

At the conclusion of his current contract with Vitagraph Larry Semon will probably form his own producing organization and release his pictures through First National or United Artists.

Lew Cody's third special production for Robertson-Cole has been titled "Occasionally Yours."

George Webster, assistant director for the Tom Mix company, went hunting at Lancaster last Sunday and brought back fifteen rabbits, which were used in scenes to Mix's latest picture, "The Texan."

Gordon Hollingshead has joined the Louis Gasnier company, which is filming "Kismet" with Otis Skinner in the stellar role. The company is working at the new Robertson-Cole Studios.

Max Linder this week enrolled in a Los Angeles night school, where he and a French baker are running neck and neck in the race to learn English.

NEW COMPANY GIVES DINNER

New York, July 29th.—The Franco-American Cinematograph Corporation, the new million dollar picture corporation, held a big dinner at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel tonight, at which his excellency, Mr. Maurice Casenave, minister plenipotentiary, director general of the French Services in the United States, presided.

The gathering was for the purpose of discussing future company plans.

Cunning Little Mary Ann Judd, Fourteen Months Old, Who Promises to Be One of Our Foremost "Actresses" Speedily.

TONY MORENO ENTERTAINS GUARDIAN

Antonio Moreno is entertaining Senor Enrique Zanetti at the Athletic Club in Los Angeles. Senor Zanetti, a Spanish capitalist and diplomat, was guardian for the star in his youth and brought him to this country to be educated. The two have not met for five years, as Senor Zanetti has spent most of his time abroad.

E. P. Hermann, president of the Hermann Film Corporation, has gone to Big Pine in the high Sierras for a week's rest and conference with Francis J. Heney, vice-president of the company, before starting on the production of "Something More," the next picture of the Hermann company, a sequel to "That Something," recently released.

J. G. Hawks, Goldwyn scenario chief, has returned from a week's vacation at Big Bear.

Preparatory to her trip East, and to get away from the confusion of packing and moving, Anita Stewart has vacated her home in Laughlin Park and taken a suite at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Marie Mills has been ill for the past couple of weeks.

Director General Lloyd B. Carleton, of Clermont Photoplays Corporation, has finished "Beyond the Cross Roads," the second of six special features for release through Republic, and has personally conducted the new production to New York, where it will be given a Broadway premiere.

ANALYSIS OF HANDWRITING

By Fritzi Remont

In submitting handwriting for tests, please write in ink, on unruled paper, and send me more than the signature, although the latter alone will be reproduced. There's not enough in a NAME to give a good analysis.

① Gerard Alexander Grassby
② Lester J. B. Ketner.
③ Billie Laymon
④ John C. Seese
⑤ Father Belle Lott

The first sample submitted is that of a member of Clara Kimball Young's company, namely,

1. Gerard Alexander Grassby

Mrs. Grassby is a fine example of flamboyant imagination, of interest in things mysterious, unusual and occult, since her G-loop is abnormally long and ends in a fine point, betraying her mental focus and eager eyes—eyes which never weary of studying new problems. The G moreover is very beautiful in its originality, and if readers take the trouble to trace it with a toothpick they will find how quickly and deftly it has been formed. That means that Gerard Grassby has deft muscular action and can do things very well, very swiftly. She is ambitious, as the church-steeples capitals show me, and she is sensitive, for the d is well looped. With the separated letters and looped d go intuition, psychic insight, ability to read character. Her flowing, rapid script is indicative of her emotionality, impulsiveness, generosity and warm heart.

2. Lester J. B. Ketner

Hello! here's a sample all the way from Texas. This writer is hard to convince; he wants to be shown—and he should live "in Mizzoura." See the way he connects initials and surname? You can't put anything over on a person like that. He is always connecting cause and effect, is argumentative, but writes such a rounded hand that one knows he is good-humored and doesn't let temper fly. He has a mind as clear and practical as his writing. His tightly closed "s" brings money to Mr. Ketner, and while he is generous, as the terminal strokes show sympathy, he won't throw money away on foolish things. He has fine mental and physical vitality, good lines of ambition, and is very conscientious, for you see how high his "t" stroke soars up toward heaven, the realm of the ideal and just.

3. Billie Laymon

Here's the creative handwriting of a publicity expert, who betrays her originality and independence in the very unusual capital B she traces. Miss Laymon is not readily moved, she thinks deliberately and uses an unusual amount of common sense. She is controlled, careful and idealistic, for you note how her "l" dots soar? She saves time and energy, because the capital L starts on the right side of the letter and without an upstroke. It is a proud capital, reserved, dignified and of beautiful form, so that Millie would have dramatic balance and never sway to extremes in criticism. Her well closed "a" and "o" show ability to keep a secret and

RIISING TEMPERATURE

By Wycliffe A. Hill

Author of "Ten Million Photoplay
Plots"

Installment 5

We started out to have some fun out of the doctors, so we might just as well keep it up. Old Slicem has located his victims' "trouble" and registered in the close of the last sequence that he would promptly remove it. We iris out on the last scene and will iris in on the next one—which indicates a lapse of time, which is in this case, a short one.

26. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP. IRIS IN.

Newspaper in hands of Mazie. Camera picks up the item: "Our esteemed fellow citizen, Samuel Potts, has been stricken with appendicitis. He leaves for the City tonight in care of Doctor Slicem, who will remove the cause of his trouble. His niece, Miss Mazie, who has just graduated in medicine, will look after his practice.

Mr. Potts will leave a widow and five orphans.

27. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE.

Mazie with newspaper. She turns as Slicem comes in with pill bags. She rises and greets him. They talk a moment and then Mazie asks him—

TITLE:

"SHALL I ATTEND THE FUNERALS OF ALL MY PATIENTS WHO DIE WHILE YOU ARE AWAY?"

Back: Mazie looks inquiringly at Slicem for his reply. He looks surprised and replies—

TITLE:

"MY GOODNESS NO! DO YOU THINK YOU WILL HAVE NOTHING TO DO BUT ATTEND FUNERALS?"

Back: Mazie and Slicem talk a moment more—He bids her good-bye after giving her some instructions and he exits up the street. IRIS OUT ON MAZIE.

Here we have just a little short sequence of a couple of scenes. There are two gags we wanted to get over and at the same time advance the story by establishing the fact that the old Doc has gone to the city. The last line in the news item, where the editor simply takes it for granted that Slicem will butcher his patient, is where the comedy is. I explain this for the benefit of Mack Sennett, Pathe Lehrman, Harold Lloyd, Larry Semon, Chas. Chaplin, Lyons and Moran, Gale Henry, Hampton del Ruth, and several other of my students who might miss the point. We show a lapse of time, and advance the story with a title now.

TITLE:

A FEW DAYS LATER—COMPETITION ENTERS THE FIELD.

28. EXT. HALL'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of two hands of young doctor nailing up his sign. The sign reads:

MORGAN HALL, M.D.

Physician & Surgeon

The hand drives the nail in and the sign is stationary.

29. EXT. HALL'S OFFICE.

The young doctor is contemplating the newly made sign, as he stands in the doorway.

30. EXT. STREET.

Negro comes ambling along—sees the new sign—stops and reads it.

31. EXT. HALL'S OFFICE. AT DOORWAY.

The young doctor still contemplating the sign. The coon comes on and addresses him—points to the sign—asks for a job. Hall replies to him—

TITLE:

"A JOB? OF WHAT EARTHLY USE COULD YOU BE TO ME?"

Back: Hall looks inquiringly at the coon as he finishes speaking title.

32. EXT. STREET. CLOSE-UP.

Of the negro. He grins widely and replies—

TITLE:

"AH SHO CAN DIG GRAVES, BOSS."

Back: Coon grinning.

33. EXT. HALL'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of Hall as he looks at the negro. He don't know whether to laugh or get angry.

34. EXT. HALL'S OFFICE.

Hall thanks the coon for his offer of service and then exits into the office. The coon ambles on out of the scene.

The gag about digging graves is not a new one but it works in just right here. As long as we are going to introduce the young doctor, we might as well pull a little comedy while we are at it. In the meantime we are establishing interest and comedy suspense because it is very apparent that the entrance of the young doctor, in Mazie's field promises to introduce complications. Our next title takes us back to Mazie.

TITLE:

THERE WAS ONE CHRONIC CASE WHICH HAD BEEN A MEAL TICKET FOR SLICEM FOR A LONG TIME.

35. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE.

Mazie on with book containing list of calls. As she runs her finger down the list and studies the page, cut to—

36. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Page in call book. Mazie's finger at name, "Bill Yuce"—thinks he has complication of diseases—Call every Friday and administer bread pill and aqua pura. Take his temperature and the weekly payment."

37. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. SEMI-CLOSE-UP.

Of Mazie as she looks up from the book to the calendar on the wall—INSERT. CLOSE-UP.

Of calendar on the wall—shows Tuesday.

Back: Mazie looking at calendar. Here is a good illustration of the difference between a scene and an insert. The page in the call book is numbered as a scene here you will notice, while the calendar on the wall is not. The difference is that there is action in one and there is none in the other. Mazie's finger tracing the name in the call book constitutes action. Therefore it is a scene.

Next week we will have a run in between the two competing young doctors—the he one and the she one.

NEW EXPLOITATION COMPANY IN LOS ANGELES

Irving M. Lesser announces he has assumed general managership of the Western Pictures Exploitation Company. This is a new organization formed in Los Angeles by Lesser in an endeavor to assist in many ways the local producer. Mr. Lesser and his associates in this new company will plan to financially aid picture productions of merit and eliminate the time and money used in long trips to New York City with completed film.

Heretofore, New York has been the only center for disposing of films, and Los Angeles the productive point. Lesser's plans will enable most of picture activities to be started and consummated in this city. Many photoplays are already in the hands of this organization. Among those being exploited at present are "That Something," "The Stranger," "The Sentimental Bloke," "Hearts of the World," "Sky-eye," and others.

Martha Mattox, who is playing this week at the California in "A Cumberland Romance," has signed to play an important role with Shirley Mason in "Joan of Rainbow Springs," and has left for Little Bear Lake on location where the company will be for three weeks, under the direction of Jack Le Saint.

Lloyd Whitlock has contracted to play the heavy in the Sydney Franklin all-star production of the Harold MacGrath story, "Parrot and Company," being produced at the Hollywood Studios.

Fanny Cassar is playing the mother with Hayakawa in "The First Born."

Jeanne Spencer, on the staff of Frank Lawrence, chief film editor at Universal City, has been selected by Von Stroheim to hold the manuscript throughout the filming of his present story, "Foolish Wives."

Colonel Fred Levy, franchise holder for Associated First National Pictures, Inc., in Kentucky and Tennessee, is visiting the various producers in Los Angeles who are distributing their product through First National. Colonel Levy is accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Moses Levy; his wife, his daughter, Lucille Levy, and his son, Frederick.

Upon completion of "Twin Beds," Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven will journey to New York to appear in person at the Broadway opening of the play. Upon their return to California, work will begin on "The Girl in the Taxi."

ANALYSES OF HANDWRITING

mind her own business. She has imagination and love of fun lurking in her small "y." Like many of the deadly of the species, Miss Allison's shrewd representative is very intuitive.

4. John E. Scese

Johnny is going to seize his opportunities, for the rest of his writing shows me a very lively, active, impulsive mentality, critical and observant, independent and inclined to original modes of thinking and working, not anxious to be bossed.

He will make money, for he's ambitious and, while generous, can also hold on to a dollar when necessary. That closed "s" means that the purse is closed on occasion and that money will drop into the top, but not out at the bottom, since Mr. Scese is level-headed and practical, as writers of large hands usually are. They are not given to deep concentration or study, but want everything done in a common sense fashion. He could sell almost anything, for he loves to travel, be on the jump, talk to people, and promote something new.

5. Hattie Belle Love

She's aptly named, for this handwriting shows a most good-humored disposition, filled with love toward all men. It is the rounded "phist" of one who hates a quarrel, who gets along nicely with everybody, and who is so sympathetic and tender-hearted that she'd make an admirable nurse, wife and mother, a helpful friend.

She should really prove quite a BELLE because she instinctively listens sympathetically to the things which interest men, and you know the mere male does love to find a listener who understands—HIM! Miss Love has magnetism, she loves music, should be a good dancer, and able to do almost anything requiring muscular action. She should take up swimming and calisthenics, study dramatic art, become a public entertainer. She can draw people readily, through her magnetism. Music shows up in the many curves of this easy-going handwriting. Being impulsive and easily swayed, generous and unselfish, Hattie Belle must watch her step in choosing a life-mate, for she has a tender heart and would suffer keenly if neglected or if tied to a cold, harsh husband.

A. D. A. DANCE A BIG SUCCESS

What is considered to be the largest one-night dance ever sponsored by any motion picture organization in the country took place last Saturday night at the Brunton Studios when the Assistant Directors' Association, representing virtually every motion picture studio, large and small, in California, celebrated its second annual barn dance. Approximately 4,200 persons attended the affair, it is said. The members of the association are proud of the fact that they had the pleasure of holding the affair on the largest motion picture stage in the world, which opportunity arose through the kindness of Robert Brunton, who last year also offered his studios to the association for its initial occasion.

That the event was a social as well as a financial success was plainly evinced by those who attended, and following the final dance selection many inquiries were made as to when the association would provide another such pleasing and interesting affair. The first silver loving cup was awarded to Mrs. Edward Baker and Frank Barnes for the best waltz exhibition. The judges comprised local newspaper men and city officials.

Roy S. Clements, director of the Dial Film Company's latest all-star feature, "The Tiger's Coat," has returned to Los Angeles after an extended fishing and hunting trip in the White Mountains of Arizona.

GEORGE D. WHITE

George D. White, president of the White Aircraft Corporation, is one of the real pioneers of aviation, his activity extending back to 1911 and 1912, when the majority of present-day pilots and so-called "pioneer" concerns were as yet unheard of.

Rather inconspicuous, but always around, during the first few years, it was not until 1913 and 1914 that he commenced to gather fame. He was with Glenn L. Martin when he and Mary Pickford made the first air movie, "A Girl of Yesterday." Later as pilot of the famous Martin type TT he won renown in 1914, and was instrumental in bringing the movies to aviation, or aviation to the movies, depending upon how you look at it.

Late in 1914, becoming more ambitious in trying to do the impossible, which seems to be his hobby, he designed and built the smallest and lightest aeroplane in the world, which, by the way, has never been equalled.

This machine was powered with an Indian motorcycle engine and in it he made several spectacular flights in and around Los Angeles, at Ascot Park, Inglewood and Dominguez fields. This machine was illustrated and described by the scientific journals throughout the world, including Japan, China, Norway and Java.

As president of the George D. White Company for three or four years, he is credited with doing more for the development of aeronautics than any other one man in Western America. From his experience in developing the famous Martin type S seaplane, he developed the trans-Pacific seaplane which was to have crossed the ocean. During these years he designed the first triple motored monoplane in America, the lowest powered aeroplane in the world, the White sport monoplane, the Army Scout monoplane, and other well-known and record-breaking planes. During the early stages of the war he was general manager and chief instructor of the National Airplane School, turning out men for the United States air service and for service in the factories.

When the six-reel Alkire comedy, "An Ace in the Hole," was filmed, there was no one who could build the necessary aeroplane quite so well as George D. White, and the machine was designed, built and used in three days.

The new White Aircraft Corporation, of which he is president, was formed only a few months ago and has taken over all the assets and business of Mr. White, and is rapidly expanding into what Mr. White states will be the largest aircraft organization in Western America.

"The movies have a fascination for me," he said today, "but outside of my aeronautical exploits I have never entered the industry. I am acquainted with a good many of the stars, though, and have a confidential agreement with Constance Talmadge whereby we will release a real air thriller, combining my aeronautical ability with her incomparable charm."

AT THE LASKY STUDIO

Wallace Reid will next star in "Free Air," recently published in book form after its serial appearance in the Saturday Evening Post. The story is by Sinclair Lewis, and Byron Morgan will do the scenario. James Cruze will direct the picture.

Thomas Meighan will begin work approximately on the 16th of August on his picture, "Easy Street," in which he will star under the direction of Thomas Forman.

DIAL FILM OFFICIAL GOES EAST

E. P. Hunziker, general manager of the Dial Film Company, left this week for New York on business relating to national exploitation and distribution of the latest Dial feature, "The Tiger's Coat," directed by Roy S. Clements and featuring Myrtle Stedman, Lawson Butt and Tina Modotti. While in the East Hunziker will probably complete plans for the establishing of a second Dial production unit.

MOTION PICTURE MASQUE BALL

The opening of the social season in Los Angeles will be marked, August 14, with a motion picture carnival and masque ball, at Brunton Studios, Hollywood, Saturday, August 14.

The guests will include Admiral Rodman, Major General Liggett, Governor Stephens, Mayor Snyder, Senator Flint and many other members of the California Division of the Anglo-American Unity League.

Inasmuch as the affair constitutes a benefit performance for the Los Angeles Chapter, Mr. Robert Brunton, a prominent member, has generously donated the use of his immense studio stage, largest in the world, and many famous motion picture stars have volunteered their services to appear in specialties.

Mr. Brunton will decorate the studio to resemble a Parisian carnival, and a number of orchestras will be secluded behind palms. Stages have been erected for the use of entertainers.

Otto Harras, west coast manager for Variety, theatrical weekly, has assembled a vaudeville program of Orpheum headliners.

Allan Dwan, another member, will direct the filming of scenes for "Friendship," a motion picture being produced to further international good-will, and the entire assemblage will be introduced into the picture.

A wonderful pageant will be staged and prizes presented for the most unusual costumes.

Charlie Chaplin has personally communicated with the chairman of the national executive committee, Mr. Arthur Levey, and agreed to appear in a former vaudeville specialty, "A Night in an English Music Hall."

Practically every screen star of note will attend and the affair will be covered by representatives of the foremost American and British newspapers.

FRANCIS ARLINGTON RETURNS

Francis Arlington, who may be remembered as straight and character man with the late True Boardman and Marin Sais Companies at Glendale, has returned to Hollywood, having just completed a road show engagement.

INCE SCENARIST PLAYS AT MAJESTIC

Miss Miriam Meredith, assistant scenario editor at the Ince Studio, appeared last week in an interesting role in the prologue of the Wilke's stock company's presentation of "The Challenge."

Capt. S. J. Bingham is cast in the military episode of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," now being produced at Metro.

Paul Cazeneuve is making "Sunset Sprague" with Buck Jones.

Edwin B. Tilton is cast for Calico Barnes in "Sunset Sprague."

Gene Guadio, cameraman for the Bessie Barriscale Company, passed away Saturday, Aug. 1st, following an operation.

Tina Modotti has fully recovered from injuries received when her automobile tumbled down an embankment on the coast route near San Francisco.

Rene R. Rivierre has taken over exploitation work for the Dial Film Company in addition to his duties as publicity director of the Brunton studios.

A Possible Chance to Lose A Probable Chance to Win

"No lead pipe cinch," but better than an even break.

For a few days only, we will sell a part of our 1000 acre lease in Limestone County, Texas, at $20.00 per acre.

Said leases lie between two producing fields, one of them being the largest gas field in Texas, and approximately nine miles from our property line.

A number of deep test wells are now being drilled, near our lease, and as development proceeds the prospects appear more favorable, therefore more valuable.

You won't have long to wait, as a nearby well is down approximately 1000 feet already.

We will sell up to one-half of our holdings, but reserve the right to recall this offer without notice.

One Investment with the Safety of Two

The $6,000,000 Sutter Basin Company Land Mortgage 8% Serial Gold Bonds are secured, on one hand, by a closed first mortgage, preceded only by a reclamation assessment of $3,850,000 on 55,122 acres of land whose appraised value is $17,000,000.

On the other hand, the prompt payment of interest and payment of principal at maturity is unconditionally guaranteed by J. Ogden Armour, whose wealth is estimated at twenty-five times the total amount of this issue.

The land mortgage alone is an attractive investment. The personal note of J. Ogden Armour alone would be an attractive investment. But we have in this one issue both the land mortgage as security and the personal and unconditional guarantee of Mr. Armour, making this a bond than which it is difficult to conceive of a sounder, safer, more attractive investment.

These bonds pay 8% and are exempt from the personal property tax in California. They mature serially in from three to nine years; may be obtained in $1,000, $500 and $100 denominations.

If you have money available now or soon to become available for investment, call, write or phone us today for full information about these bonds.

MERRIMEE ARRIVES IN CALIFORNIA—By Dwinelle Benthall

"If you have any treasured possessions, I wouldn't personally recommend a railroad wreck to improve them," said Merrimee ruefully, glancing up from the pile of ribbons and laces, fans and slippers, and other odds and ends of feminine finery, all looking sadly like the remnants of a misspent life. "Of course, these things are finished absolutely, I can't do more than shed a few tears over them, but I do bemoan my furs. Do you suppose anything can ever be done with them?" she wailed despairingly.

Jacqueline lifted the limp and draggled skins, trailing yards of torn chiffon and soft satin. The "stuffing" was coming out in numerous places, and the things which Merrimee had once cuddled into with a sense of satisfied luxury, looked more or less like a pampered Persian kitten overtaken by a storm, and several aggressive alley cats.

"Of course the coat was a bit old style, but I loved it," she continued, "it was so comfy and all enveloping, and now I suppose I shall have to shiver through all the winters of my mortal existence, for the new wraps are more picturesque than practical."

Jacqueline dropped the coat and picked up a fox scarf, obviously a 1920 model from the cut of it, but judging from appearances, Mrs. Noah might have worn it into the ark.

She poked and patted and pulled at it. "I think, Merrimee Mio, that we are both inviting grey hairs needlessly. These things look like tragedies to us, because we really don't know anything about furs. The sane and sensible thing for us to do, is to take them to a furrier, and I know the very man. He is an expert manufacturing furrier and does miracles of remodeling and repairing. After seeing some of the things he has done for the picture queens, I am quite willing to bet—well, a box of chocolates anyway, that he can make your furs over, so that you will never know that they have been in a wreck. I bought my fur coat from him last winter, and I know lots of people who have had dealings with him, and he is absolutely reliable—so cheer up, and let Mr. S. Roberts at 808 West 7th Street worry about your damaged treasures. I know of something much more thrilling that needs your undivided attention."

Merrimee rose from her heap of bedraggled furbelows, a gleam of anticipation in her shining eyes. "You don't mean that you have found our bungalow?" she asked breathlessly.

"Well, I won't say that I have found it," said Jacqueline, "because of course it is to be yours too, but I was talking to Mr. Taft of the Taft Realty Co., you remember their attractive little office at 5751 Hollywood Boulevard—the little white and green bungalow, at the edge of the orange grove?"

"Oh, yes, of course," assented Merrimee eagerly, "I remember. Well, what happened?"

"I was telling him about what we wanted, and he seemed to have an awfully good sense of 'understanding.' He said he thought we would like a little Colonial bungalow on Canyon Drive—1948, I think was the number, and so I thought if you could tear yourself away from those limp rags, we might—"

"We certainly can," interrupted Merrimee, "I'll be ready in a jiffy. The idea of living in a California bungalow lured me across the continent. I remember a picture of one I saw in The Ladies' Home Journal. It was white, with a perfect Colonial doorway, and I could imagine a field of yellow poppies in the not too distant distance—"

"Well, don't stop to dream about that one now, we have a real one to see," reminded Jacqueline.

But the picture stayed with Merrimee as they strolled through Hollywood. It seemed quite as real to her, as the bits of velvety lawn, the climbing roses, and the hedges of geraniums, and graceful pepper trees. Perhaps that is why she was not altogether surprised to see the picture suddenly materialize before her in the bungalow on Canyon Drive.

"This is 1948," said Jacqueline, consulting her note book. "And this is the bungalow I have dreamed about," said Merrimee, quite as decidedly.

"Isn't it a perfect door for our old brass knocker? I love the suggestion of formality about a Colonial entrance, and the utter informality which one finds inside a typical Californian home."

The living room with its perfect proportions, and tiled fire-place, and more than anything else, the court which opened from it, with the gardens beyond, filled Merrimee's heart with joy. "It is all so comfortably large, and yet cosy," she said, "and it is just exactly like the picture in the magazine. Mr. Taft, who had met them with the keys, turned at her words, "Oh, then you saw the picture in The Ladies' Home Journal?" "Then it was this house, really?" asked Merrimee. "Yes, it really was," he answered smilingly.

"Then it is mine, by the law of attraction," she said, "when can we move in?"

ANOTHER JOB FOR THE INDUSTRY

There is located at Arrowhead Springs an institution known as the United States Public Health Service Hospital. It contains at present eighty-five ex-service men between the ages of eighteen and thirty. They are fellows who have not yet recovered from wounds and gassing received during battles which, it was generally conceded, were contended for us. They are at this hospital because science can do little more for them. Many will never recover.

In so far as it is possible these boys are made physically comfortable by the big hearts that oversee the place. The one element for their happiness which has been conspicuous for its absence, however, is entertainment. Every human requires an amount of engaging recreation. For these incapacitated men, who have no other interests with which to fill the empty hours, it will be a mind saver.

Several members of the film colony have recently had this condition called to their attention, and they are seeking to provide the boys with the amusement which they have so indisputably earned.

Chief among the celebrities behind this project is Lois Weber, who is working concentratedly to arouse the interest of the entire profession.

With the assistance of Robert Kelly, Mr. F. G. Fanning, an official of the hospital, has further received offers of aid from Charlie Murray, Douglas McLean, Reginald Barker, Hunt Stromberg, Charlie Christie, Harry Lichtig, Madame Aldrich, J. G. Hawks, Charlie Mack, H. M. Walker, Spencer Valentine, and the Actors' Association.

The above mentioned people and organizations are planning to provide pictures for these wounded men who form but a tragic part of the inevitable result of war. Others will journey to Arrowhead to put on shows in person. Annette Kellerman has already initiated the project with a tank performance which brought a much needed glimmer of light into the institution.

Long ago the industry established an enviable reputation by its accomplishment for good along just such lines, and now, in the midst of peace again, it is unthinkable that we should forget or neglect those who paid as a forfeit to earn us that peace, the things that give joy to life.

There is no profession today more blessed than our own. There are no people who have it in their power to bring the amount of comfort to these hurt hearts that the members of the profession have. It is plainly our job, and we'll make a good one of it.

(Note.—Those desiring to contribute time or ideas to this worthy cause may become of practical use as soon as they can get in communication with Mr. Fanning, whose address is Arrowhead Springs.)

WILSON FOR THE ASSEMBLY

The Sixty-third Assembly district this year contains nine thousand REGISTERED voters who are members of the picture industry. These people are going to elect the man of their choice to guard their interests in the State Assembly.

Bitter experience has proven to them that only by taking such a step can satisfaction be accomplished by the industry.

Harold (Hal) Wilson a well remembered actor, is the man for this position. At the last primaries Mr. Wilson polled the highest vote of any Assembly candidate in this district. This year the fact that he is in a position to do more for the profession politically than any one other man, will result in his election.

Meanwhile workers are wanted in each studio. Call CAMERA! for campaign particulars.

COMPETITION?

We do not blame any city or locality for desiring to attract those wealthy and most romantic of all people, the screen play makers. Los Angeles, particularly the Hollywood district, will testify as to the debt it owes the industry for its growth; in fact, its very existence.

Evidently, from the following article, read in Billboard, other sections of the United States are still hopeful for themselves. Some of the "forgetful ones" may note to advantage all around.

"The Chamber of Commerce of Augusta, Ga., is out to establish a film colony in that community and has sent a man to the coast to endeavor to persuade a number of prominent producers to establish themselves in the southern city.

"Something like $1,000,000 of local capital has been subscribed for the purchase of a 4,000-acre tract of land, on which will be erected a 500-room hotel, with 150 acres to be given over to a concrete built studio, with a scattering of bungalows on the style of those in California.

"The idea is to rent space to producers as is done by the Brunton people on the coast. It is claimed Augusta can guarantee as many sunny days as Los Angeles. Negotiations are said to be on to bring the producers of the 'Big Six' to the South for their picture-making."

AT THE GOLDWYN STUDIO

Col. Frank d'Olier, national commander of the American legion, and his staff visited the Goldwyn Motion Picture studio at Culver City, Wednesday, as guest of Abraham Lehr, vice president in charge of production.

Will Rogers with his director, Clarence Badger, and a company of twenty-five Goldwyn players, left Friday for San Francisco to make scenes for "The Guile of Women". The company will be in 'Frisco about three weeks.

Reginald Barker, Goldwyn director, who recently completed filming "Black Pawl," will next take charge of visualizing "Bunt Pulls the Strings". The only character so far cast is Bunt's father, which will be played by Russell Simpson, who had the title part in Barker's previous production.

Mabel Normand, under the direction of Victor Schertzinger, completed "Head Over Heels," for Goldwyn this week and she will leave for New York within a few days for several weeks' vacation.

E. Mason Hopper has completed the sixth of the Booth Tarkington stories, "Edgar Camps Out," featuring Johnny Jones, and he has been assigned to direct Tom Moore in his next Goldwyn picture, "Canavan," in which the comedian will be supported by Sylvia Ashton, Naomi Childers and others.

Mason Litson has been assigned to direct the remaining Edgar stories, the next of which will be known as "An African Interlude".

AT UNIVERSAL

Lyons and Moran are supervising the editing of their recent comedy production, "Once a Plumber—" and are making preparations for the filming of their next fun-feature, "Fixed by George".

Elmo Lincoln is now engaged on the fourteenth episode of "The Lightning's Eye," directed by Robert F. Hill.

Jacques Jaccard is preparing to produce his own story, "The Throwback". Frank Mayo will be starred.

Edward Kull is engaged on the first four episodes of "The Queen of Diamonds," in which Eileen Sedgwick is starred.

Universal's newest director is to be Edward Laemmle, who returned last week to Universal City from the East where he appeared at the first showings of "Shipwrecked Among Cannibals," the film he and William D. Alder made in Borneo.

The Universal scenario department reports the purchase of the screen rights to "Out of the Sunset," a story by George Rix which appeared recently in magazine form. Eva Novak will probably be cast for the leading role with Stuart Paton directing.

SHIPMAN TO PRODUCE

Nell Shipman will start September 1st on the production of a new feature of the north woods, "The Girl from God's Country," which will be produced by her own company, "Nell Shipman Productions". The story was written by Miss Shipman.

Associated with Miss Shipman in the new picture will be Bert Van Tuyle, who was production manager of "Back to God's Country". Jos. Walker, who photographed the same production, will have charge of the photography.

FIFTH HAMILTON-WHITE COMEDY STARTED

Lloyd Hamilton and Jack White have started work on the fifth of the Hamilton-White comedies, which are being released by the Education and First National Exchanges. The first of the comedies, "A Fresh Start," featuring Marvel Rae, is being shown at the Kinema Theater by Jack Cullicut this week.

CHESTER CONKLIN TO PRODUCE FOR SPECIAL PICTURES

Chester Conklin has signed a new contract with the Special Pictures Corporation of Los Angeles, according to which the comedian agrees to deliver to the Special Pictures Corporation, twelve two-reel comedy specials a year.

Lloyd Carleton, Directing the Clermont Production, "Hard Boiled Mabel."

LINDER WILL MAKE PICTURES IN THE UNITED STATES

Max Linder, the French comedian, has definitely announced that he will continue his screen career entirely in America, and if he ever returns to France it will be for pleasure of a touring engagement on the European stage.

Linder has just finished his first independently produced, American made, five-reeler at the Maurice Tourneur studios at Universal City. The temporary title of the Linder production is "Seven Years' Bad Luck," and was written and produced by the French comedian himself.

GALE HENRY STARTS ON NEW CONTRACT

Gale Henry has started work on her new contract to furnish twelve two-reel comedies a year to the Special Pictures Corporation. Her executive staff includes Bruno J. Becker, general manager, Robbin Williamsen, director, and Henry East, assistant director. The company has deserted the old Lehrman studio in Culver City and will probably take over a well known Hollywood production plant.

E. P. Hermann, president of the Hermann Film company, has this week purchased three books for screen production.

Colin Campbell has finished "shooting" "The First Born," starring Hayakawa, and is now cutting the picture.

CANADIAN COMPANY NEGOTIATES FOR SHIPMAN STORIES

Montreal, Quebec, Aug. 10, 1920.—Special to Camera!—A meeting occurred here today between D. G. Campbell, President of the Northern Pictures Corporation, Ltd., of Calgary, and Ernest Shipman, President of The Dominion Film Company, Inc., of New York, controlling the screen rights to the Ralph Connor stories.

As a result of this meeting the Northern Pictures Company will produce "Cameron of the Royal Mounted" and "The Patrol of the Sundance Trail."

Mr. Campbell accompanied Mr. Shipman to New York where plans for immediate production will be put into effect.

TARZAN COMPANY ON LOCATION

Harry Revier and a company, headed by Karla Schramm and Manilla Martan, left for the mountains Monday to film exterior scenes for "The Son of Tarzan," the Edgar Rice Burroughs story which Mr. Revier is making as a special serial for the National Film Corporation.

The company has arranged to establish headquarters at Arrowhead and to take a number of jungle scenes in the wooded canyons in that vicinity.

According to present plans, they will be gone about a week. Roy Somerville, who prepared the photo-drama, expects to join the company on location.

GEORGE B. SEITZ REPORTS PROGRESS ON FEATURE BEING PRODUCED IN SPAIN

A cablegram received at the Seitz Studio in New York from George B. Seitz now in Spain producing a feature in which he will co-star with June Caprice, announced the safe arrival of the company at Gibraltar on July 19th. The message stated that some scenes were filmed on the island of Ponta Delgada, one of the Azores group. In the company with Mr. Seitz are June Caprice, Marguerite Courtot, Harry Semels, Frank Redman, William Sullivan, assistant director, and Harry Wood, cameraman.

MAYER STUDIO TEMPORARILY CEASES ACTIVITIES

With both of its stars, Anita Stewart and Mildred Chaplin, en route east, and with its contracts with First National fulfilled to date, the Louis B. Mayer studio has temporarily ceased production activities, and is preparing for a busy fall and winter season.

According to present plans, both of the stars will return to California and the Mayer studio to resume production in the early fall. In the meantime, it is probable that Mr. Mayer will start work on a special all-star picture. Neither the title of the story nor the members of the cast have been yet announced, but it is said that it will be a James Oliver Curwood book.

ALLISON COMPANY BACK AT STUDIO

May Allison and twelve members of the company working on "The Marriage of William Ashe," her new Metro starring picture, have returned to the Hollywood studio after a location trip to Brent's Mountain Crags, where exterior scenes for the picture were taken. Edward Sloman is directing the story.

Mrs. Humphrey ward is the author and Ruth Ann Baldwin adapted it for the screen.

LAKE COMPANY ON LOCATION

Alice Lake and members of her company, filming "Body and Soul," have been at Pasadena, Calif., for the past few days, where exterior scenes have been taken. The picture is rapidly nearing completion under the direction of Charles Swickard.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSES UPON GORE AND LESSER THEATRES

Gore Brothers and Sol Lesser announce the rapid construction development upon their New Apollo Theatre at Hollywood and Western boulevards, which is to be under the management of John M. Young, present owner of the Apollo. The opening of the new house is set for November 1st. The old Apollo is to be rebuilt into a storeroom as soon as the new house next door is opened.

Two other theatres just acquired by the First National franchise holders are the Rosebud and the New Central, both on Central avenue, managed by Ralph Grunauer. Construction on the New Hollywood theatre is to begin shortly. Excavation is now in progress. This theatre is co-operatively owned by Gore Brothers and Sol Lesser and John M. Young, F. A. Grant and Leslie M. Swope.

CRITICISMS OF LATE RELEASES

"THE PERFECT WOMAN"—First National

"This picture should satisfy the considerable demands of Constance Talmadge's host of admirers. Without too strongly emphasizing its similarity to "The Love Expert" and "The Virtuous Vamp," John Emerson and Anita Loos have made a picture that should approximate closely the popularity of both."—Exhibitors' Herald.

"The plot is wholly farcical, but it is developed with the consistency that is expected of a serious story."—Moving Picture World.

"CROOKED STREETS"—Paramount

"Jack Holt and a thoroughly competent cast appear in Miss Clayton's support, but the story is weak and unconvincing."—Exhibitors' Herald.

"The sum of values in "Crooked Streets" is so high that it must be accorded the top notch place in productions of its kind, a genuine motion picture story suited in all respects for screen presentation."—Moving Picture World.

"THE MISFIT WIFE"—Metro

"It is a highly satisfying performance and a desirable number for any program."—Moving Picture World.

"Often told story is fairly well done."—Motion Picture News.

"THE MUTINY OF THE ELSINORE"—Metro

"Stirring sea story realistically produced. It is melodrama of the most entertaining sort."—Moving Picture World.

"Jack London's powerful story of the sea has been made into a strong and exciting photoplay."—The Trade Review.

KINEMA TO STAGE WORLD PREMIERE

The Kinema will stage the world premiere of the big Wm. Fox special, "While New York Sleeps," this week.

C. O'D. Blanchfield of "The Coast" Film Brokers, has just sold the rights to "Nephtune's Bride" for the Ormsby Film Company to First National, and is going to New York soon on a business trip.

Dustin Farnum, Fritzie Brunette, Ruth Roland and Charles Hutchinson will appear in productions for Robert Brunton during the ensuing year.

Frank Lanning was married the other day to Merva Eaton, a non-professional.

Director Claude Barber of the La Carmen Productions is making a tour of Southern California this week in search of locations.

FIRST EPISODE OF PATHE SERIAL AUGUST 15

"Pirate Gold," the latest Pathe serial in which George B. Seitz is starred with Marguerite Courtot, commences its career before the public on August 15th, when the first episode will be released.

Chester Bennett, Directing Earle Williams

CURRENT REVIEWS

"THE SINS OF ST. ANTHONY"

Jesse Lasky presented Bryant Washburn in "The Sins of St. Anthony" at Clune's Broadway last week. The piece is a highly entertaining farce in which the star does work far superior to his recent releases in the title role.

Margaret Loomis is interesting as Jeanette Adair, the dancer, who rejuvenates "St. Anthony."

Lorenza Lazarrini is badly cast as Persis Meade.

Guy Oliver plays Horatio Meade, and Lucian Littlefield does Lieut. Humphrey Smith.

The cast further includes Viora Daniel, Frank Jonasson, May Baxter and L. J. McCarthy.

James Cruze directed the picture.

"A CUMBERLAND ROMANCE"

Mary Miles Minter appeared in "A Cumberland Romance" last week at the California Theatre, Los Angeles, and at the Rosemary Theatre at Ocean Park. The well known story by John Fox, Jr., makes a very interesting adaptation, although more might have been made of the big scenes.

Miss Minter is probably as satisfactory as Esther Hicks as she ever is, but she gives place to the real acting of Monte Blue, who takes the picture. He plays "Sherd" Raines, a typical Cumberland youth, very subtly.

John Bowers is satisfactory as Clayton.

Martha Mattox is well cast as "Ma" Hicks, and Guy Oliver is good as "Pap" Hicks.

The "Mountain Bishop" is played by Robert Brower.

Charles Maigne directed.

"HUMORESQUE"

Cosmopolitan presents Fannie Hurst's "Humoresque" at Grauman's Rialto for an indefinite run. The story's appeal lies in its heart throbs and human characterizations. These last, which are all Jewish, are greatly assisted by unusually touching subtitles.

Vera Gordon takes the picture with her masterful interpretation of Mamma Kantor.

Dore Davidson does Papa Kantor cleverly and amusingly.

Bobby Connelly is clever as little Leon Kantor, and Gaston Glass does unusual work as the grown Leon.

Gina Ginsberg as a child is beautifully interpreted by Mariam Battista. Alma Rubens plays the grown Gina.

Others in the cast are Helen Connelly, Ann Wallick, Sidney Carlyle, Joseph Cooper, Maurice Levigne, Alfred Goldberg, Edward Stanton, Louis Sterns, Maurice Peckre, Ruth Sabin and Frank Mitchell.

Frank Borzage made a masterpiece with his direction of the story.

"THE PERFECT WOMAN"

Constance Talmadge entertained last week at the Kinema in "The Perfect Woman." The production compares favorably with the star's recent offering and her characterization of the "perfect woman" is, to say the least, mirth provoking.

Charles Meredith is better suited to the male lead than to any role in which we have seen him.

The other characterizations are handled by Elizabeth Garrison and Joseph Burke.

"THE CRADLE OF COURAGE"

Wm. S. Hart played last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre in "The Cradle of Courage." The story's theme is somewhat different from that of the customary Hart production, as it deals with New York crook and police life. The action is fast and consistent.

The star's characterization of "Square" Kelly is more than satisfying.

Ann Little does Rose, the feminine lead.

Tom Santschi is clever as the heavy.

Gertrude Claire is excellent as "Ma" Kelly, the mother of crooks.

This picture will go well with Hart fans.

FEATURE RELEASES

Pathe will release three feature productions in the month of September. The schedule for the month in the feature field calls for the release of a new J. Stuart Blackton Productions. He will be away about a play from the novel by Edith Sessions Tupper in which May McAvoy and Bruce Gordon are featured; Blanche Sweet in "Help Wanted—Male," and H. B. Warner in "Felix O'Day," from the famous story by F. Hopkinson Smith.

Louis FitzRoy has an important role in "Thundering Dawn," now being produced by the R. C. P. Smith Corporation, featuring Zazu Pitts.

Edna Pennington, who was severely injured recently in an auto accident, has fully recovered and will soon be at work again.

"That Something," recently produced by the Hermann Film company, is being released via First National, as a result of a contract just made by E. P. Hermann, president of the company.

Misses Ruby Rush and Wanda Connery have been selected as the winners in the recent screen contest for leading roles in "Something More," to be produced by the Hermann Film company.

George Hackathorn is now playing under the direction of Maurice Tourneur.

Ruth Handforth is playing the secretary with Pauline Frederick at the Lois Weber Studio.

Philip du Bois, just having finished photographing "Beau Revel" at Ince's, has been engaged as cameraman for the Maurice Tourneur company.

Harry Weston, formerly technical director for Louise Glaum, has gone to Universal to design art settings for Carmel Myers in Rollin Sturgeon's production of "The Gilded Dream."

Ford West has been engaged by William Duncan for a part in his new Vitagraph serial, "The Wizard Spyglass."

ANN FORREST SHIFTED TO MELFORD CAST

A shift in casting at the Lasky Studio, it has just been announced, results in Ann Forrest, who was scheduled to play a leading part in Cecil B. de Mille's current production, being assigned to the principal feminine role in George Melford's forthcoming production for Paramount, "The Faith Healer," while for Mr. de Mille's Paramount special another actress will be chosen to supply the vacancy.

Harry Northrup, Who Is Appearing in "The White Circle."

CALDWELL GOES EAST

Director Fred Caldwell, who has just completed another of his series of two-reel comedies entitled "That's Out," leaves on the 12th inst. for New York, accompanied by Mr. George Rhoads, who represents eastern capital. They will take the southern route and will stop in the Blue Ridge Mountains to look over the possibilities of staging a seven-reel comedy drama with the real mountain atmosphere.

Larry Richardson is playing a heavy with Larry Semon at Vitagraph.

Rosa Gore is playing in a Vitagraph Jimmy Aubrey comedy.

After making twenty-five productions in the past four and one-half years, Director Harry Beaumont is enjoying his first vacation in that time. With Mrs. Beaumont he will take a brief rest at Catalina.

Otto Lederer has signed with Brunton to play in a special serial, featuring Ruth Roland, under the direction of Wm. Bowman.

Junior Carpenter is playing a part in Wm. S. Hart's production at Grauman's this week in "The Cradle of Courage."

Charlotte Woods is playing second lead in Bebe Daniels' forthcoming Realart production.

Jean Carpenter, who is playing the child in "The Courage of Marge O'Doone," is now with William Duncan.

William Courtwright has been cast to appear in support of May Allison in her new picture, "The Marriage of William Ashe."

Robert Kurlle, former Metro cameraman, has returned to that studio and will do the camera work on "White Ashes."

Lydia Knott has been engaged by Metro to enact one of the important parts in "White Ashes."

Philip Kirby, war correspondent and newspaper man, has joined Metro's staff of scenarists.

Frank Elliott has been engaged by Metro to play with May Allison in her new starring picture, "The Marriage of William Ashe," which is to be filmed at the Metro Studios in Hollywood.

Arthur S. Wenzel, Los Angeles exhibitor, has resigned from the Victory Theatre to indulge in personal publicity for stage and screen stars. Under Wenzel's regime the Victory has become a first-class playhouse.

Miss Diana Hope underwent a serious operation last Thursday, but is now on the road to recovery. She would be pleased to see any friends at the California Hospital, 1414 South Hope street.

Lindsay McKenna has gone to New York on a business mission for Betty Compson Productions. He will be away about a month.

Adelaid Hallace is playing Mrs. Gallagher in "Sundown Slim," with the Harry Carey company, now on location at Jerome, Ariz.

Antonio Stanich has been engaged by Director Claude Barber to play the lead in "Can a Woman Forget?"

Hallam Cooley is playing the male lead with Eileen Percy in "Beware of the Bride."

AUSTRALIA COMES ALONG

The following is an extract from a very interesting letter from Bert Glennon, former Los Angeles cinematographer, who is at present directing for the Feature Film Attractions in Sydney, Australia. Mr. Glennon turned the crank for the production of the "Lightning Bryce" serial, which was made by National under the direction of Paul Hurst:

"Editor, Camera!

"Just to make you acquainted with the fact that we are producing over on this side of the world and that you will, I hope, be interested in just what we are doing.

"I am over here with Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lucas, producing Australian dramas, seven-reelers featuring Mr. Reg (Snowy) Baker.

"Mrs. Lucas, otherwise known as Bess Merydith, is writing the stories.

"Mr Lucas is directing Snowy Baker in his features.

"I am directing Mr. Lucas in five-reel stuff along a character line.

"The object of the Carroll-Baker firm is to make eight features a year for the Australian market, and are now obtaining an American market for their pictures through their American representative.

"The industry here is just breaking thru the shell, so to speak; and the Australian people are very keen to have it continued."

Leo White has just finished a part with Bebe Daniels in "You Never Can Tell," and is working with H. B. Warner in "When We Were Twenty-one."

The following actors have shaved heads for Indian parts in "The Last of the Mohicans," which Maurice Tourneur is producing: Albert Roscoe, Theodore Lorch Wallace Beery, Joseph Singleton and Sam Robbin.

Benny Goldstein, formerly of Brunton Studios, is casting for the Classic Film Actors Agency, and handled over three thousand people for the principal studios last week.

Fred Caldwell of the Union Label Film Company announces that he has secured the services of Bob Horner, former Universal scenario writer, to prepare the continuity of his next subject, "The Blue Ridge Trail," which will be in seven reels.

Anita Stewart departed for the East last week accompanied by her husband and business manager, Rudolph W. Cameron.

Harry Carey has had as his guest at the Carey ranch in San Francisquito Canyon Eugene Manlove Rhodes, author of stories of the open air.

Jack McDonald, who plays in "The Last of the Mohicans," Maurice Tourneur's new picture, bought a car, but has it not. The salesman smashed it while delivering it to the studio.

"All Souls' Eve," adapted from the Anne Crawford Flexner stage play, will be an early vehicle for Mary Miles Minter.

Arthur Edmund Carew, having recovered from a severe operation, has resumed his place among the screen players after an absence of some months.

Milla Davenport has just finished playing the part of the mother with Bebe Daniels in "We Never Know," under the direction of Chester Franklin.

COMPANY TO "SHOOT" AT NIGHT

Production activities will be conducted between 7 p. m. and 2 a. m. at the Katherine McDonald Studios until further notice. The shift from day time to night time was decided upon yesterday, after a conference between Miss MacDonald and officials of the company. The intense heat during the day through the combination of humidity and artificial light is responsible for the change in working hours.

A. D. ASSN NOTES.....

The Assistant Directors' Association last week received applications for membership from the following men: Harry Weil, Goldwyn; Robert Lee, Lasky; Dick Johnston, Lasky; Jack Stafford, David Butler and George Pankey, Selig. At the last meeting of the association the following men were accepted as members: Andrew Bennison, Pauline Fredericks; John Waters, National; Henry East, Gale Henry; Cullen Taite, Lasky; Don Clarke, Vitagraph, and Vincent McDermott, Vitagraph.

Pete Gerald has severed connections as studio manager for Francis Ford and will take a short vacation before announcing new affiliations.

Mortimer S. Peebles, formerly with Vitagraph, has been made an assistant director at the Fox studios.

Dick Oliphant, until recently assistant director at the Life-O-Graph Studios in Portland, Ore., has been engaged as manager of a new producing organization in Los Angeles.

NEILAN STUDIO ENTERTAINS NAVAL MEN

On Monday afternoon, August 9th, at 4 p. m., four hundred midshipmen, officers and families of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet were entertained by motion picture people at the Marshal Neilan Studio. An interesting program was arranged for the occasion.

ANALYSIS OF HANDWRITING

By Fritzi Remont

In submitting handwriting for tests, please write in ink, on unruled paper, and send me more than the signature, although the latter alone will be reproduced. There's not enough in a NAME to give a good analysis.

(1) F. L. Armand Blocki
(2) H. Lasky - "Info"

1. F. L. ARMAND BLOCKI:

A far away specimen, from Illinois!

This is a highly sensitive and emotional hand, lacking self-control, going on inspiration and psychic impulses solely. For that reason, the writer should engage in emotional-aesthetic-artistic work and not attempt any vocation in which he must be subservient to dull routine, or "bossing". He likes to be independent, free to follow the dictates of a loving heart. He is versatile, clever, easily led by affection, kindness and sympathy, all of which he gives out freely also.

This writer is better fitted to make money than to invest or save it. He should not listen to any "get-rich-quick" schemes, for he's enthusiastic, optimistic and acts on the spur of the moment, so may be taken advantage of in a financial deal. He is ambitious, idealistic, musical, should be a splendid dancer, since the writing is highly movemented, betraying love of action. There is a tendency toward nervous reactions which must be guarded against. Acting would be a good vocation for this writer, but a musical career is quite possible. Outside of that, salesmanship or advertising might be tried if necessary to enter the business world.

2. INFO:

Writer desires name withheld.

This is a very swift worker, and it's a pity the bold, lively signature may not be used in full, for Info is talkative, beginning many words with the small initial hook which betrays ability to learn foreign tongues and to "sling the lingo" of his own country.

The writer is practical, has good wit, connects cause and effect as easily as he ties two words together, is a money-maker, can handle accounts, do cashiery, selling, advertising, writing for publication, and even excel in mechanical lines. Altogether this is a very bright, capable, energetic handwriting, one which shows ability to conserve time, energy and thought, which has brilliant flights of fancy, love of culture, lots of fighting blood—probably derived from an Irish ancestry, for there are a few big and beautiful C's which stand for courage, convictions—and cash! Info should have no difficulty in forging ahead, for he's blest with mental and physical vitality, quick insight, industry, originality and creativeness, makes rapid decisions, is independent, intuitive, artistic and commonsensible. Altogether, a very well-balanced individual.

3. JEAN RANDOLPH

Here's another talkative one, but she can be secretive enough when people try to pry into her private business. Jean hates people to interfere with her. She is the soul of kindness, sympathy and love, but she wants

INSTALLMENT 6

We begin another sequence here with a title which shows a lapse of time. You will notice that in our first scene, however, we introduce a novelty by showing a closeup of one hand putting money into the hand of another. This, following the title, serves to emphasize the fact that the other doctor has really beat Mazie to it. In other words, he is getting the money that she ought to, and expects to get.

BUT THE NEW DOCTOR
BEAT HER TO IT.

38. INT. YUCE'S HOUSE. CLOSEUP. IRIS TRIM.

Of Yuce's hand putting money in Hall's hand.

39. INT. YUCE'S HOUSE.

Yuce with long face, propped up on pillows—Hall sitting at bedside. Homely wife with Irish mug standing nearby. Hall puts the money in his pocket and begins giving instructions to the old woman.

NOTE—Get Joe Murphy to play the part of Yuce.

Now we must have a short lapse of time here, which we will use by going to Mazie and introducing another gag-

Veterinary Doctor

NOTE—This is numbered as a scene for the reason that it must be made on the set that is used in other scenes where some of our action is played. Ordinary inserts, such as telegrams, letters, newspaper items, etc., can be made anywhere, and are usually made in the studio at the time that the titles are made.

43. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE.

The Irishman with the horse. He walks to the porch and raps on the post. Mazie comes on. The Mick explains about the sick horse. She exits into the office.

44. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE.

Mazie comes on from the outside to a case in which there are a lot of bottles and a sign which says "Horse Department." She looks over the bottles and takes down a paper tube and a packet of powders, and then exits.

NOTE—If we didn't already have the set built which shows the interior of Slicem's office, we would have left out scene 44 and simply had Mazie exit inside and come right back again with the tube and powders. But, having the set, we used the added scene and the hokum of the "Horse Department" sign. We can also get over some comedy in the scene by having Mazie indicate by her actions that she does not know what to give the Mick, but simply hazards a guess on the tube and powders. We are going to make this a two-reeler, anyway, so let's pad a bit.

45. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE.

The Irishman is on with the horse. Mazie comes on with the tube and powders. She hands them to the Mick and says:

TITLE:

"INSERT THE TUBE IN THE HORSE'S MOUTH AND GIVE A QUICK, SHARP BLOW."

Back: The Mick indicates that he will follow her instructions, thanks her, pays her some money, and exits with the horse. Mazie looks after him.

46. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of Mazie as she looks after the Irishman. Laughs as she looks at the fee in her hand, and then jingles the money in her two hands.

Now we will go back to Yuce's house.

47. INT. YUCE'S HOUSE.

Hall is extolling the merits of a bottle of medicine which he has in his hands and is telling Mrs. Yuce to give to Yuce. He hands the bottle to Yuce and assures him that it will cure him. Yuce takes it and says to the doctor:

TITLE:

"I'M WILLIN' TO TRY ANYTHING ONCE, DOC."

Back: Hall puts on his best professional air, bids the couple good day, and exits.

48. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE.

The Irishman comes on with his face covered with the white powder. He is mad, and knocks on the post. Mazie comes to the door—starts as she looks at his face.

49. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSE-UP.

Of the Irishman's face—covered with the white powder and streaked with water. (We would have used a negro for this gag except for the reason that we used one of the

BRAINS DON'T MEAN

A THING NOWADAYS

By Herbert S. Marshutz

A flock of bathing beauties from a Hollywood studio had come to frolic on the Santa Monica beach.

In ten seconds breathing space vanished.

In the foreground were young men, old and middle-aged men from north, south and east. In the rear of the crowd, the more feeble congregated.

"Better take my dark glasses," said the Native Son to the Man from Missouri; "you're not used to beach exposures."

"That's all right, I'll risk an eye. You know the Missouri slogan!"

While the crank turned, women on the beach discussed the playful beauties.

"They are certainly beautiful girls; can't deny that," said the Lady from Louisiana; "but they haven't any brains. YOU can't deny THAT!"

And the Native Daughter said nothing.

But here's the proof of the pudding—a conversation between two girls, overheard on the sand:

"Want you to meet a friend of mine some night, dearie. Awfully nice fellow. You and he ought to get along swell."

"Has he got lots of money?"

"You bet he has!"

"Does he spend it?"

"You tell 'em!"

"All right, fix it up!"

Brains, did you say?

Why worry about brains?

Common sense does the work.

Geo. Frederic Wheeler and his assistant, Junior Hibben, who went East early last spring to direct pictures, have returned to the Coast. Mr. Wheeler will leave for Honolulu shortly, where he will make a series of films of an educational nature.

Frank S. Brown, technical superintendent of Vitagraph, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for assemblyman in the Seventy-third district.

Vitagraph's new studio will be completed by September 15th.

Laddie Earle and Burwell Hamrick are taking child parts with William Duncan in his Vitagraph serial, "The Wizard Spyglass."

HOW ABOUT A CLOSE UP?

Does your face show lines that make-up cannot hide? Does the director pick you for stills? Why not? Compare your pictures with those he does. Get the idea?

ANALYSES OF HANDWRITING

people to respect her views, to keep out of her bureau drawers, and to handle her with justice always. She's strong for the latter, anyway, and hates to see animals and the kiddies hurt or teased.

The hand betrays unselfishness, industry, great powers of observation, and a tendency to follow a hobby. She is quietly emotional, feels deeply, but is outwardly often controlled. Her writing is magnetic, so if she appeared on stage or platform, Jean would win many friends. She's good-humored, optimistic, neat, systematic and a stickler for good deportment. She does not save much because too kind-hearted, but she can draw money values by her personal magnetism. She is quietly ambitious but not vain. Her hand spells SERVICE toward others, discrimination in making intimacies, good style in dress without ostentation.

4. MARTIN J. JACKSON:

A designer of costumes for motion pictures.

Mr. Jackson's handwriting shows great secretiveness through pride and fear of being misunderstood. It is tactful, magnetic and in the body of the letter betrays strong color. Color may be employed, you know, in emphasis of speech, drawing, modelling, writing, singing, playing an instrument, painting, etc. When one sees writing with unostentatious shading, but highly colored—by which I mean that many ink-shades enter into the make-up of each word—it is safe to assume that the writer would employ color in one of the ways above set forth.

Words are often connected by Mr. Jackson, showing his love of argument and fact, his logical ideas, his connection of cause and effect, constant diagnosis, and so on. Surgeons, artists and other professional men need that sort of diagnosis quite as much as lawyers. Words dwindle down into almost unreadable letters, betraying diplomacy and ability to mask sentiment under an impenetrable exterior. The capital letters in this handwriting show form, originality, creativeness, reticence, self-sufficiency. The writer is quick-witted and farsighted, as he makes t-bars extending far across the words, often embracing several words, in fact. The very small form of the writing shows concentration, thoughtfulness, love of study.

5. CHARLES EDOUARD DU MONT

Aha, here we have a hand betraying simple elegance, great love of the aesthetic, beautiful and refined. It's the sort of writing which brings thoughts of rococo settings, which makes one think of the airy grace and beautiful manners of the courtiers who surrounded a Marie Antoinette.

The writer has a touch of coquetry—seen in the grape-tendrill finish of the small "d". There is a bit of obstinacy in the downward grade of the t-bar, especially since it is heavily emphasized, betraying force of convictions. The hand is tremendously ambitious, poetic, ardent in affection, but discriminating as to the object of its love. It shows brilliant imagination, fine lines of humor, perhaps even delicate sarcasm at times. There is whimsicality, good temper, optimism, reserve, unselfishness, generosity and warm sympathy expressed in the writing.

Everything in the line of art interests Mr. du Mont. He has deftness of muscular action, is far more mental and spiritual than material in his tastes. He dislikes uncleanness, bad odors, stupid folk. He appreciates the intelligence found in his friends rather than the amount of money in their purses. He is intuitive, himself an excellent character reader. Very beautiful are his expressive, unusual, graceful capitals. This is a highly talented hand and should make good in any unusual occupation. Talent for stage, screen, writing for publication, dancing, character dissection, designing, directing—and many other vocations is quite evident.

AT LASKY'S

George Melford has completed "The Jucklins" and on the 23rd of this month begins work on "The Faith Healer" by William Vaughn Moody, scenario by Zella Covington, with Ann Forrest as Rhoda and Milton Sills as Michaelis. The widow of the dramatist is at the Lasky Studio co-operating in the preparation of the picture.

In a few days Wallace Reid will depart for San Francisco with James Cruze, director, and others of the company making "Always Audacious."

Thomas Meighan arrives from New York this week and will at once start on "Easy Street" with Tom Forman directing and Agnes Ayres as his leading woman.

William de Mille is busily engaged on "His Friend and His Wife," Cosmo Hamilton's story.

HANK MANN NEARS COMPLETION OF SERIES

Special permission was granted the Hank Mann comedy company this week to use the roof of the Elks' Club for the purpose of filming scenes to the latest comedy starring Mann. This picture is the twenty-second of his series of twenty-six two-reelers. Following the completion of his series, Mann contemplates a motor trip through Northern California with his wife. Plans for a new series of pictures will be announced by the comedian upon his return from the trip.

Len Powers has been appointed chief cameraman for the Hank Mann comedies, succeeding Rowland Price, who turned the crank for more than ten of Mann's pictures.

Vernon Dent, who has played the part of the "villain" in all of the Hank Mann comedies, will be featured in a series of two-reel comedies produced by Morris R. Schlank, according to a statement made this week at the Francis Ford studios, where the company is at present working.

AT VITAGRAPH

William Duncan is starting the second episode of "The Wizard Spyglass," his new serial, at the studio after returning from San Gabriel Canyon.

Chester Bennett will return this week from a two weeks' stay at Santa Barbara with Earle Williams and supporting players in "The Romance Promoters." A week at the studio will complete this feature.

Jess Robbins is on his second trip to Catalina Island to complete Jimmy Aubrey's next comedy.

Larry Semon will finish his current comedy this week. No title has yet been selected.

Antonio Moreno is preparing to start the eleventh and twelfth episodes of his serial, "The Veiled Mystery," in which he is now directing himself.

Mlle. Nadina, a Polish singer, has entered motion pictures in New York. She has been acting ever since she was a child in Poland, and was recently offered a contract by a European producer to make pictures in Poland. However, Mlle. Nadina preferred to stay in this country, where under an assumed name she has been playing for Famous Players, Metro and others.

Paul Hurst, who is directing "Byrd of the Dawn" for the Laguna del Rey Art Film company, yesterday completed arrangements for filming some of the scenes at the mission at Capistrano.

Neely Edwards has just finished the character juvenile lead in a Bebe Daniels production at the Lasky Studios.

Mr. Hyman Silverman has resigned his position as manager of the Public Projection Rooms, New York, to join the sales force of C. B. Price Co., Inc., dealing in independent productions on the state right plan.

CLAIRE ADAMS SAVES PARTY FROM ACCIDENT

Miss Claire Adams, Benjamin B. Hampton, film star, saved her own life and that of four other persons Saturday, July 31, when she gained control of a runaway auto driven by Miss Pearl Haskell of Glendale, preventing the car from plunging into a canyon on Hollywood Mountain, Griffith Park. Miss Adams, Miss Haskell, Edward Beers of Pasadena, Mrs. Clark Purviance and Margery Manning were the occupants of the car, which was returning by way of Griffith Park and Hollywood Mountain from "location," about six o'clock in the evening.

The emergency brake of Miss Haskell's car had been burned out, and in coming down the grade from the mountain the transmission brake failed to hold, having no apparent effect as the car gained headway. Miss Haskell became frightened and the car got completely out of her control. They were on a steep grade which terminated in an abrupt curve, with an almost sheer drop into the bed of the canyon.

Miss Adams was in the rear seat. She tried to shout instructions to Miss Haskell, but seeing that the girl was too frightened to understand, leaned over to take the wheel and throw the car into high gear. It stripped the gear, but partially checked the machine's mad rush, and Miss Adams threw it into second gear, which also stripped, but further checked the car's speed. Just before striking the curve she managed to make it catch on low gear.

The rear wheels skidded to the edge of the road at the curve, but their speed was so reduced that the turn was made in safety. The rest of the descent from the mountain was made on low gear. The other members of the party did not understand driving.

A Fundamentally Sound Investment

The $6,000,000 Sutter Basin Company Land Mortgage 8% Serial Gold Bonds are fundamentally sound because they are secured by good agricultural and horticultural land whose value is large and stable.

The 55,122 acres of land, whose value is $17,000,000, lies in Sutter County, California. The soil is rich sedimentary silt. Most of the property is in District No. 1500 and under an extensive gravity irrigation system, protected alike from overflow and drought.

Practically this entire acreage is now under cultivation, the crops consisting of wheat, barley, rice, beans, grain, vegetables, fruit, cotton, hemp, etc.

The bonds are secured by a closed mortgage on these properties and are preceded only by a reclamation assessment in District 1500, amounting to $3,850,000. The entire stock of the Sutter Basin Company and the Sutter Basin Improvement Company is also deposited as further security.

The safety of this investment is further strengthened by the fact that the prompt payment of interest and repayment of principal on these bonds are guaranteed personally and unconditionally by J. Ogden Armour, this guarantee being incorporated in the bonds.

The price of these bonds is 100 and interest, bonds maturing serially from 1923 to 1929, inclusive. The yield is 8%.

For full information concerning this exceptionally attractive investment, call at our office today. If inconvenient to call, simply write or phone for Circular C821.

Now What Do I Do?

Recent disappointing screen adaptations of stage successes have once more left us to meditate upon the subject. Why is it that so many of our well loved stage characterizations appear lukewarm when cinematized?

We have been able to discover but one reason. It has to do with the much discussed question of rehearsal. Naturally, six weeks of preparation and many more of performances result in an absolute knowledge of a role by the legitimate actor.

On the other hand, the screen artist rarely has any more than a slight familiarity with his part prior to the actual filming of the scene in hand. Having received an explanation of his action from the director, he proceeds to "walk through" it. Possibly he halts many times for prompting, which indicates that he has thought little even of his instruction. This is inevitable, since rehearsal is for him a hand to mouth affair. Each scene is a separate job.

How is it possible for him to construct a characterization that will compete with the one of his brother on the boards, so long as the man behind the megaphone is there to designate each motion, many times even after the camera is registering? How can a choppy procedure of this kind make for consistency? The photoplayer who even "gets it over" when subjected to this method is to be congratulated.

It is the system that is wrong. It is unfair to the artist, unsatisfactory to the public, and in the end injurious to the producer.

The adaptation will never succeed until the "Now, what do I do?" attitude of the actor has been eliminated.

A Warning

It is indeed unfortunate that Camera! has found it necessary to call attention to the fact that at present as in the past it is fully protected by copyright.

Any infringement upon the territory thus taken care of will be punished to the full extent of the law.

Thieves are appreciated possibly less in this profession than in any other.

Additions to Camera! Staff

Camera! has secured the services of Al Risley, former well known studio publicist and member of the A. D. A., as studio representative.

To Risley belongs much credit for the successful handling of the Assistant Directors' Barn Dance, which was recently staged at the Brunton Studio. He is one of the industry's "live wires".

We also announce here the acquisition of Melbourne Spurr, as staff photographer.

In 1919, Mr. Spurr won the grand prize for photography in the London Fine Arts Exhibition. Lillian Gish was his subject. He is at present accomplishing Camera!'s front page cuts.

American Producers in Europe

By George Edwardes Hall

(Editor's Note.—The author of the following article, who has made several super productions in England, Paris, and Monte Carlo, during the past eighteen months, has just returned to Hollywood. Mr. Hall has provided Camera! with much interesting information in regard to the present European picture situation, and in this condensed article he states some facts not generally known to or considered by the profession.)

ENGLAND

Within the near future English pictures will meet the present high standards. At the present moment they have many drawbacks to cope with. For instance, it is not possible to produce in England between the months of November and April. This is due to the fog, which, for weeks at a time, renders it impossible to make exteriors, and as a general thing, also precludes the possibility of studio work, for up to the present, no appliance is able to keep the studio clear of fog. The Famous Players announce that they have a device to overcome this drawback, and if it is true, we must score another ten-stroke for American ingenuity.

Another drawback to British production is the fact that the English actor and actress are almost invariably employed in the Theatre, and so it is impossible to take them to the south of France to escape the fog.

The hire of furniture for sets is almost prohibitive, for it is at least five times as high as in the States. This is due to the war, for during the four years, no furniture was made in England and very little has been imported. Lumber is ridiculously high, and a big set, which is mildly expensive here, is impossible there.

The next point is dress. No English picture can be released until one year after the trade showing. This is due to the various American brands having what is termed block-bookings. So the English picture has to wait until the English dresses are out of date, and the women appear dowdy.

Children with picture or stage experience are very rare, due to the fact that no child under fourteen years of age is permitted to appear on the London stage, and as there is very little regular picture work, the Director finds another handicap marked against him.

The wigs and costumes are not up to the American standard. The dark-room work leaves much to be desired.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

HAL ROACH STUDIO NOTES

Harold Lloyd has just completed his latest comedy entitled "Get Out and Get Under".

Producer Hal Roach is starting work on the next Lloyd picture which is to be called "Wrong Number".

The first of the new productions featuring "The Vanity Fair Girls" with Eddie Boland, has been finished. "June Madness" is the title.

WILLAT PRODUCTION ON WAY EAST

C. A. (Doc) Willat, president and general manager of the Willat Productions, Inc., is on his way to New York with the negative and one print of "Down Home," a rural drama, from the pen of F. N. Westcott, a brother of the author of "David Harum".

"Down Home" was made from the book, "Dabney Todd," by Irvin V. Willat, who not only directed it, but wrote the adaptation from the book. This is the first independent production to be directed by Irvin V. Willat. He previously produced "Behind the Door" and "Below the Surface" for Thomas Ince.

TARZAN COMPANY BACK FROM THE "JUNGLE"

Harry Reviere, producer, Roy Somerville, photo-dramatist, and a large company of players including Karla Schramm, Manilla Martin and K. C. Searle, have returned from the mountainous district about Arrowhead where they spent a week filming jungle scenes for "The Son of Tarzan." This Edgar Rice Burroughs story is being made as a special serial for the National Film Corporation.

The company will work in interior sets at the studio for the next five or six days, leaving again at the end of that time to film water scenes off the coast near San Diego.

FARNUM TO FILM CULLUM STORY.

Dustin Farnum, who has returned to Los Angeles after a vacation spent at Catalina, will start work in the near future upon the Robertson-Cole production, "The Trail of the Ax."

Mr. Farnum will leave immediately with his director, Ernest Ward, for a trip to the big timber country of California where locations will be selected for the exteriors of his new production, which was written by Richard Cullum. The supporting cast will probably not be announced until Mr. Farnum's return to the studios; however, it is known that Winifred Kingston will appear in the leading role, and that Joseph Dowling has been selected to play the chief character role.

RENCO TO PRODUCE REED NOVEL AT MAYER STUDIO

President H. J. Reynolds of the Renco Film Company, has engaged Lloyd Ingraham to direct his first west coast venture, which will be an all-star production of Myrtle Reed's novel, "Lavender and Old Lace," the screen version of which is being prepared by Lee Royal, scenario editor for the new organization.

Directors Ingraham and Royal spent last week at Hotel Coronado in collaboration with Miss Madge Tyrone, scenarist, who was loaned by Louis B. Mayer to the Renco company for special work on this production. Director Ingraham will be assisted by George Crone and Bobby McGowan. Ross Fischer has been engaged as cameraman.

HUDSON PROMOTED

Earl J. Hudson, formerly assistant to director of publicity, C. L. Yearsley of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., has been made assistant to General Manager J. D. Williams, of that organization.

Lillian Leighton

BEAUMONT TO PRODUCE

Harry Beaumont, who in the past two years has directed several Goldwyn features, has left that organization for the purpose, it is said, of establishing his own producing company. He is known to hold the rights on several novels.

UNION LABEL TO PRODUCE IN THE EAST

Bob Horner, former continuity writer for Hoot Gibson at Universal, is putting the finishing touches to the screen version of "The Blue Ridge Trail," a seven reel subject to be staged in New York by the Union Label Film Company, under the direction of Fred Caldwell.

MARSH PRODUCTION STARTS

With the arrival of George Benoit at Hollywood, the work of "shooting" the new Robertson-Cole special in which Mae Marsh is starred, was begun. John G. Adelfi, the director, who is behind the megaphone for the new picture, arrived on the scene last week.

It is expected the film will be ready for distribution in the fall.

NEW SAN FRANCISCO COMPANY ERECTS STUDIO

With the shooting of "The Kingdom of Human Hearts," Wilbert LeRoy Cosper's screenplay completed, and preparations for the filming of "Can You Imagine It!" by the same author well under way, the Cosper Productions, Inc., are well launched in San Francisco.

The company is erecting a studio near Golden Gate Park.

B. B. HAMPTON ANNOUNCES NEXT ADAPTATION

"The Killer," Stewart Edward White's novel which first ran in magazine serial form, has been selected as the next novel to be produced by Benjamin B. Hampton. An all-star cast co-directed by E. Richard Schayer and Howard Hickman, will interpret the principal characters. Jack Conway, who has directed a number of Benjamin B. Hampton photoplays, will enact the leading role.

AT THE VIDOR STUDIO

Following several weeks' stay in New York and other eastern cities, Charles Vidor, manager for King Vidor Productions, has returned to the west coast, reporting the acquisition of film rights to several books and stage productions.

The latest Vidor picture, "The Jack-Knife Man," will be given its first showing before a Los Angeles audience some time within the next month.

The name of the forthcoming King Vidor production will be announced within the next few days.

HANK MANN MOVES TO BURSTON STUDIO

The Hank Mann comedy company this week moved into new quarters in the Burstons studios, deserting the Ford studios, where they occupied space for the past year. H. Ellis Dean, formerly manager for Francis Ford, has been made general manager of the Hank Mann comedies.

IRVING LESSER SECURES RIGHTS ON "NEPTUNE'S BRIDE"

"Neptune's Bride," which had its world premiere at the Philharmonic Auditorium several weeks since, is now in the hands of the Western Picture Exploitation Company. Irving M. Lesser, general manager for this concern, states he has consummated a deal with the Ormsby Film Company, which gives him the rights to this film for the United States and Canada. Another Ormsby special may soon be forthcoming with Lesser's firm in charge of its distribution.

KINEMA TO BE RECONSTRUCTED

The entire second floor of the Knickerbocker building on Olive street has been acquired by Gore Bros. and Sol Lesser for the contemplated stage improvements of their Kinema Theatre. The space is to be built in dressing rooms, rest rooms, projection rooms, and general executive offices.

Jack Callicott, managing director, will close the doors of the theater within a few weeks and employ three shifts of working men until the grand re-opening. It is believed that Charles Ray in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," his initial "First National" picture, will be chosen by Callicott as the opening feature.

"GO AND GET IT" TO BE SHOWN SAN PEDRO NAVAL OFFICIALS

A special presentation of Marshall Neilan's newest production, "Go and Get It," will be given before officers and men of the Submarine Base at San Pedro under command of Captain Chancey Sherkford, at which affair various prominent airmen of the navy will be present.

The Neilan film offers a newspaper story in which Pat O'Malley plays the part of a cub reporter, who gets his big "scoop" with the aid of a navy seaplane. Other marine views of particular interest to San Pedro navy officials are included in this picture.

At this presentation, Mr. O'Malley, Wesley Barry, who plays the part of "copy boy," George Dromgold and Noah Beery will entertain personally.

GORE BROS. AND SOL LESSER ADD SEVEN NEW HOUSES IN ONE WEEK

Close on the heels of the announcement that the Gore Bros. and Sol Lesser had taken over the Neptune, California, Auditorium and La Petite Theatres at the beach resorts, comes the announcement that two additional houses have since been added to their chain. These are the American and the Belvedere. The American theatre will continue its vaudeville policy while the Belvedere, which has been awarded the First National franchise, will confine its presentation to pictures only.

Gore Bros. and Mr. Lesser further announce they have taken an option on a large piece of business property in Pomona on which they intend erecting a new 1,800-seat theatre. The business men of that city have given their cooperation.

With the beach theatres and the pomona house, this makes a total of seven additions to the Gore-Lesser chain of theatres in Los Angeles. This chain now controls over thirty houses.

Mr. Reynolds has closed negotiations for the use of the Mayer Studio and will start shooting his production there on August 23d.

Willis and Inglis are doing the casting.

PATHE TO DISTRIBUTE FARRAR PRODUCTION

The Associated Exhibitors, Inc., will release on October 3d "The Riddle: Woman," with Geraldine Farrar and an all-star cast, directed by Edward Jose. Pathe is to distribute this screen attraction.

Karla Schram

Current Reviews

PREVIEW OF "DOWN HOME"

A preview of the seven reel rural drama, "Down Home," Irvin V. Willats' first independent production to be distributed through W. W. Hodgkinson Corporation, was held at the Alvarado Theatre, Seventh and Alvarado, for the benefit of the cast and professional friends of the Willats last Thursday.

"THE GREAT REDEEMER"

Maurice Tourneur presented "The Great Redeemer" at the California Theatre last week. The picture which was personally directed by Clarence Brown under Tourneur's supervision, has a great spiritual appeal and lays claim to some extraordinarily appropriate subtitles.

The cast is headed by House Peters, who makes a real human being out of Dan Malloy, the "good bad man". His portrayal is convincing and his character demands continuous sympathy from the audience.

Marjorie Daw plays the hopeless little desert dweller with much appeal. She succeeds unusually well in "getting over" the youngster's simple hearted grief.

The sheriff is enacted by Jack McDonald. The characterization is more than satisfactory in spots, but the actor's tendency to overdo the melodramatic is noticeable throughout his action.

Joseph Singleton is afforded a splendid opportunity, of which he makes excellent use, to do a heavy bit of acting as The Murderer. His work is unusually subtle.

We were glad to see Ralph McComas again in the role of "Slim". Drama evidently suits him well, as he very effectively "puts over" several important rapid fire subtitles here.

A glimpse was caught of Arthur (Sheriff)

Mackley, in a "bit" as the girl's father Mackley, who won the name "Sheriff" by his association with Broncho Bill and others in that screen capacity, might advantageously have assumed the same role in this piece.

Many beautiful "shots" assist in lending real atmosphere to the production.

"ROMANCE"

United Artists presented Doris Keane in "Romance" at Tally's Broadway last week. Chester Withey, director of the screen play has done far better work than this rather tiring adaptation. As presented, there is more of sordidness than romance about it.

The star's performance of the whimsical Cavallini is good in places, but it is dreadfully injured by involved, clumsy sequences that accomplish little.

The male lead is played by Basil Sydney.

Norman Trevor does the semi-heavy and Betty Ross Clarke, for whom we have predicted real things, has an unimportant part

"CROOKED STREETS"

Clune's Broadway showed the Paramount production "Crooked Streets," last week as its feature attraction. Ethel Clayton is the star. The play is a bedlamatic Shanghai mystery affair with a much "led up to" surprise finish.

The star's performance is characteristic. It is not particularly interesting.

Jack Holt, despite a more or less mixed introduction, instills into the "mysterious" role of Rupert O'Dare, which part he interprets, his usual dignified charm. His work is the most entertaining of the piece.

Clyde Fillmore fills considerable screen space uselessly. Under no circumstances could anything have been made of his role, Lawrence Griswold.

Professor Silas Griswold is characterized by Clarence Geldart. The part, which is presumably a humorous heavy, is a different type of work for this actor.

Josephine Crowell is good as Mrs. Griswold.

The blustering sailor is well handled by Frederick Starr.

"CIVILIAN CLOTHES"

The long anticipated Paramount adaptation of "Civilian Clothes" played last week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre. As is well remembered from the stage play, the production is alive with unique twists and situations. However, the screen version suffers greatly by contrast with the original, largely due to its unfortunate introduction and the apparent lack of thought in the performance of the cast and in the direction.

Thomas Meighan, on the whole, makes an interesting characterization of Sam McGinnis. The situations, which he controls, are irresistible, and his admirers will be pleased with the role.

Martha Mansfield is utterly miscast as Florence Lanham McGinnis. She gives the appearance of being completely bewildered in the part. There is a place for the beautiful Miss Mansfield in the profession, but she is far from versatile.

Frank Losee has one of the principal character roles of the story.

Alfred Hickman does some clever work as Billy Arkwright, the inconsequential little heavy whom the audience fears not, but rather indulges.

A good piece of acting was accomplished by the man who characterized Dodson, the first Lanham butler. He was not given screen credit.

Hugh Ford directed the production.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

WHAT THEY ARE DOING IN NEW YORK

By John J. Livingston

Corinné Griffith has finished her picture, "The Whisper Market," which is to be released in September.

Julian Eltinge has returned from a trip to Japan and is planning to make one film production before returning to the stage.

Dorothy Dalton is back in New York from York Beach, Me., where location shooting was done for the picture, "In Men's Eyes."

Mary Leona Hutton and Patrick Kenedy will direct "Can you imagine it!" for Cosper Productions, Inc., in San Francisco.

Hugo Riesenfeld is playing host to hundreds of poor children each Wednesday afternoon at the Rivoli and Rialto Theatres. They are from the Hudson Guild's summer play school.

Maude Adams may be seen on the screen this year despite her previous objections. "Peter Pan" is to be filmed and it is said that Sir James M. Barrie wants her to play the title role.

Gina Relly, who appeared in the Fox picture, "The Face at Your Window," before she left on a trip to Europe, is to return to New York in time next month to star with an independent producer.

Madelaine Traverse, who is to head her own producing company this year and is now selecting stories for the four pictures she intends to star in. She has returned to New York from her vacation at Greensboro, Vermont.

Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, has purchased the play, "Cousin Kate," by Hubert Henry Davies, and it will be filmed with Albee Joyce as the star. Ethel Barrymore created the title part in this play at the Empire Theatre.

HEFFRON TO DIRECT COSMOPOLITAN PRODUCTION

Thomas N. Heffron will direct the Cosmopolitan production, "The Truant Husband," by Alfred Payson Terhune, in which Mahlon Hamilton will be featured.

Ethel Shannon is playing in an all-star production at the Fox studio.

Edward MacWade is on location at Antioch, California, with Sessue Hayakawa.

Harry Weil is assisting Frank Lloyd with the screen production of "Out of the Dark."

Finis Fox, who recently completed "The Second Latchkey" for Katherine MacDonald, is now writing a script for Charles Ray.

Maurice Tournear has signed Robert B. McIntyre, who for the past year has been production manager at Goldwyn's Eastern plant, to manage his coast studio. McIntyre arrived in the west this week to take charge.

Lillian Hall, who came west to work at Goldwyn's last fall, has been signed by Maurice Tournear to play a prominent role in his production of "The Last of the Mohicans," which he is now making for Associated Producers.

FRANCES MARION TO DIRECT MARY PICKFORD

Production will commence in about one week upon Mary Pickford's United Artists' picture, the title of which is as yet unannounced.

Possibly the most interesting detail in connection with the above, is the fact that Frances Marion, former scenario writer for Miss Pickford and others, has been chosen to direct the picture.

Chester Robertson

Now playing Chet Wilson (Juvenile Heavy) in "Can a Woman Forget," with an all-star cast, now being produced by La Carmen Productions.

A. D. ASSOCIATION NOTES

James O'Shea has been appointed manager of the Bessie Barriscale Company at the Brunton studios.

Mac Wright, formerly with Universal, is acting as assistant director to Webster Cullison at the Berwillia studios.

Andrew Bennison, recently with the Harworth studios, is now acting as manager for Pauline Frederick's company at the Weber studios.

Allen Watt, formerly director of Christie comedies, has been made director-general of a newly formed motion picture organization at the Balboa studios, Long Beach.

Harry Lamont has been cast with John Ince at Metro.

Albert Menjou, recently from New York, is now at the Goldwyn Studios.

Patsy De Forest is finishing with "Buck" Jones at the William Fox Studios.

Joe Ryan will soon start in another serial under the direction of William Bertram.

Jack Richardson has been cast as the heavy with William Duncan at Vitagraph.

Roy Somerville is photographing "The Son of Tarzan" for the National Film Corporation.

Gerald Pring is supporting Betty Compson in her second starring picture, which is as yet unnamed.

Howard Gaye has been engaged by Manager S. E. Rork for the role in support of Katherine MacDonald.

Victory Bateman will have an important part in "Cinderella's Twin," Viola Dana's new Metro starring picture.

Kathleen Myers, formerly leading woman for Jimmy Aubrey, takes an important part in the next Larry Semon comedy.

Betty Francisco is now at the Lasky Studios in William deMille's special production, "His Friend and His Wife."

Lloyd T. Whitlock is playing the heavy in the all-star cast of "Parrot and Company," under the direction of Mr. Sidney Franklin.

Frank Terry, who has been Harold Lloyd's chief "gag" man for the last two years, has resigned to follow his old love—the vaudeville trail.

Chester Robertson has been engaged by La Carmen Productions to play the juvenile heavy in their initial production, "Can a Woman Forget?"

Violet Schram has been selected by Director Claude Barber as leading lady for Antonio Stanich in the LaCarmen production, "Can a Woman Forget?"

(Theo-Alice) Jean Carpenter, the child who played in "The Courage of Marge O'Doone," has again broken her arm, the second time in two months. The little girl has been cast in William Duncan's Vitagraph serial.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS TO ERECT CLUB HOUSE

The Assistant Directors' Association is seriously contemplating a step which is considered of greater importance and involves larger finances than any heretofore attempted by any motion picture organization on the west coast. This is the construction of its own home, to be used exclusively by the members and their guests. During the past year there has been considerable discussion as to the possibility of that organization erecting a building of its own, but no action was taken in the matter, however, until following the second annual barn dance recently held at the Brunton studios.

Allen Watt, treasurer, declares that the proceeds from the dance increased the receipts of the association to such a figure that it is now in a position to consider the construction of a home. Three members of the organization have been chosen as a committee to investigate and submit an early report of sites which are favored as the location for the building. The cost of the proposed structure, it is estimated, will be approximately $10,000.

BRANDT SEEKING PICTURES

In addition to his producing activities while he is at Hollywood, Joe Brandt has been commissioned to review feature productions and short reel subjects for several buyers in the East.

Brandt states that he represents several important organizations and several New York firms, who market their subjects through the various independent exchanges.

Dolores Lopez has completed a desert story for the La Carmen productions.

Don Hix, publicist for the Irvin V. Willat Productions, is the proud father of a twelve-pounder, born last week. Her name is Vivian Lenore.

Minnehaha, a full-blooded Cheyenne Indian, will wear a modern dress and pair of shoes for the first time in her life when she appears in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

According to a wire just received by Sol Lesser, western executive head for First National Pictures, Mr. Hudson will shortly make a trip to the coast to confer with the independent producers now releasing through the Exhibitors' Circuit.

Masao Inoyue, said to be one of Japan's foremost actors, Professor Kiyoshio Masumoto, studio master, and A. Susuki, New York representative of the International Motion Picture Company of Tokio, called upon Pauline Frederick at her studio last week.

"The Marriage of William Ashe," May Allison's new Metro starring picture, is a story of English political life with practically all the scenes laid in the British Isles. By an unusual coincidence, Edward Sloman, who is directing the productions, and every member of the company save the star, were born on English soil.

D. Anthony Tauszky of the Metro studio art title department, has discovered a new type of color process for motion picture settings. Mr. Tauszky has provided a series of backgrounds in accordance with a "camera color chart," which will be used in the Metro all-star production of "White Ashes," an original story by Luther Reed, which Philip E. Rosen is directing.

KLAFFKI CHOSEN TO SUCCEED GUADIO

At the meeting of the Board of Governors of the American Society of Cinematographers held August 16th, Mr. Roy H. Klaffki was chosen to finish the unexpired term of the office made vacant by the death of Mr. Eugene Guadio. During the temporary absence of two other members of the Board, their places will be filled by Mr. R. J. Bergquist, cameraman with Nazimova, and Mr. Chester A. Lyons, who "shoots" Charles Ray.

TUCKER FOR PRESIDENT OF "DEAD MEN'S CLUB"

Friends of Richard Tucker, Goldwyn motion picture actor, have started a boom for him as first president of the new "Dead Men's Club," to be formed among the 2,000 former service men who, although living, are officially listed as killed in action.

Tucker's name appeared in the "killed in action" column three times, although he was fighting all the time with the Third Division, unaware of his demise.

ART DIRECTORS SEARCH FOR QUARTERS.

The Motion Picture Art Directors are sleuthing about Hollywood in their spare moments looking for a suitable location for their reference library and permanent club-rooms. At present their headquarters are the Be Hennessy studio on Western Avenue.

Mildred Davis is going to take up the study of French, music and dancing again.

Agnes Ayres' brother brought home a charming French war bride this year, and Agnes is a proud aunty.

A granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher, Margaret, age 19, will appear in the first Hemmer production, soon to be released.

"Lavender and Old Lace" will be the first of several of Myrtle Reed's novels to be filmed by the Renco Company, just formed for the purpose.

Another playwright of the stage, Cleves Kinkad, author of the Harvard play, "Common Clay," has yielded to the seductions of the picture field.

Declaring that the star system is passing, J. L. Frothingham, producer of the Bessie Barriscale pictures, will hereafter make only productions with picked casts.

The third trial of the case of Cora C. Wilkenning against Mary Pickford, claiming $100,000 commissions, will come up Sept. 20th. Each of the litigants has won a verdict.

Alf Goulding, director of the Harry Polard comedies, is enjoying his first vacation in many months. He has made over two hundred one-reel comedies in the past three years.

Louis B. Mayer has received a wire from Anita Stewart, announcing her safe arrival in New York, where she will spend her two months' vacation at her Long Island residence.

Bryant Washburn has arrived in England and already begun work on his first independent production, "The Road to London," which will be made on the actual scenes of the story.

For early filming Realart has secured these stage plays: "In the Bishop's Carriage," by Miriam Michelson; "Ducks and Drakes," by Elmer Harris, and "The Snob," by W. J. Neidig.

Ora Carew is planning to make a flying visit to Salt Lake City, her former home. She will go by air in a government operated plane, if the necessary permission can be obtained from the postoffice department.

Getting Acquainted With Interesting People

GLADYS GEORGE

Inches do not have anything to do with either beauty or intelligence. For example, Gladys George, who is now playing the leading feminine role with Thomas Meighan in "Easy Street," in which the latter will star for Paramount, is petite, but she has more than the average share of beauty, and intelligence of the highest order to boot.

Just a few years ago, though Miss George speaks of that time as if it were in the distant ages, when she was a very small child, she entered the glare of the footlights. Ever since she has remained in the environment of the stage. Her parts were followed by leading roles as she grew up. Then she wrote her own sketch and for several seasons played the big time vaudeville.

When "The Better 'Ole'" was produced she had a principal role, and later played in the same piece with DeWolf Hopper on the road. It was when Miss George was appearing at a local theatre in this production that she was seen by Thomas H. Ince from whom she received an offer to try pictures. Having done everything else in the way of dramatic work—even musical comedy, she accepted.

There followed leads opposite Charles Ray, Douglas MacLean, and Lloyd Hughes. Many will doubtless recall her charming work in "Red Hot Dollars," a Paramount picture produced by Mr. Ince, starring Charles Ray.

Now she is at the Lasky studio with the always popular Thomas Meighan, under the direction of Tom Forman.

Miss George is a "down-easter". She hails from the good old state of Maine. She loves the stage and the screen quite impartially. It is not too much to say that she is an ideal type for both mediums of dramatic expression. In her private life one of her chief diversions is writing, for she has a decidedly literary turn of mind. Indeed, she is a young person of many and diverse accomplishments.

JOHN P. MCCARTHY, DIRECTOR

"Out of the Dust," the American Classic, which has transferred the magic brush of Frederick Remington's ideals of the West to the screen, written and directed by John P. McCarthy, who was formerly associated with D. W. Griffith, will have its New York premier in September. This film, which has attempted the highest in the ideals of honest toil and effort, presents the life of the West in 1875.

The characterizations of the soldiers of that period as portrayed by Remington were so accurate that P. P. Collier Sons, publishers of "Done in the Open," have loaned the original color plates for reproductions for lobby display. The picture when previewed in New York, elicited the most enthusiastic comments from the critics:

"A high type of dramatic entertainment in which atmospheric characterizations are exceptionally fine."—The Billboard.

"This production is without doubt one of the best Western dramas that has been produced in recent years. It is splendidly directed and well cast, and scenically it has western settings, which leave nothing to be desired."—Exhibitor's Herald.

"John P. McCarthy has caught the spirit of the Remington paintings and artistically woven beautiful campfire scenes, silhouettes and the livelier glimpses of the spirited Redmen into his photoplay. The story vibrates with a human appeal and it is all convincing and real."—Exhibitor's Trade Review.

"There is a distinct individuality about the John P. McCarthy production, 'Out of the Dust.' It has stirring and entertaining quality."—The Moving Picture World.

"This picture is admirably directed, has splendid photography and bears all the earmarks of success."—Morning Telegraph.

"Out of the Dust" is being state-righted by P. P. Craft of New York. Mr. McCarthy will soon begin the filming of a story of present day life, and will bring to the production all the finesse which characterized his last production. Believing, as he does, that the public wants pictures of life as it is lived by the average individual, and not the cramped vision of an exotic, he plans the production of a series of pictures of American life that will live as classics—because of their faithfulness to nature and their artistic ensemble, and by reason of applying those lessons that have been handed down to us by the masters of stagecraft, supported by surpassing photographic effects.

Clayton Hamilton, for many years lecturer on the drama at Columbia University, will remain with the Goldwyn scenario department indefinitely.

Dagmar Godowsky has been engaged for an important role in "The Throwback," the Jacques Jaccard romance of the rubber country starring Frank Mayo.

INSTALLMENT 7

The instructions in old Slicems book were that Mazie should call on Bill Yuce every Friday. We now reach the point in the story where she makes this call. We have established some comedy suspense by promising our audience that Mazie would call on Yuce, so when they see the next subtitle which tells them that it is the appointed day, they are going to look for something good.

TITLE: FRIDAY.

53. INT. YUCE'S HOUSE.
Yuce is hopping and skipping around the room like a crazy man. He has a bottle in his hand.
54. EXT. YUCE'S HOUSE.
Mazie comes on with medicine case and knocks at door.
55. EXT. YUCE'S HOUSE. SEMI CLOSEUP.
Of Mazie as she knocks several times and receives no response. She listens with puzzled expression.
56. INT. YUCE'S HOUSE.
Yuce skipping.
57. EXT. YUCE'S HOUSE.
Mazie knocking and listening--no response. She knocks louder--no response.
58. INT. YUCE'E HOUSE.
Yuce skipping.
59. EXT. YUCE'E HOUSE.
Mazie tries the door--it opens she exits inside.
Note: We use several cutbacks here from Mazie on the outside to Yuce on the inside, to hold comedy suspense. The next scene will be cut by the editor so that it matches up with the last scene.
60. INT. YUCE'S HOUSE. CLOSEUP.
Of Mazie as she enters the door and looks in amazement at the ridiculous antics of Yuce.
61. INT. YUCE'S HOUSE.
Yuce still skipping in a circle. Mazie in background. She comes to foreground and stops him. He hesitates just long enough to hand her the bottle and then skips on around the room.

The English men and women with their light hair and lighter eyes are not picture types as a general rule, and the greatest care has to be exercised in order to avoid failure in casting.

The picture magnates, however, are ambitious and able, while some possess wonderful vision and business ability. The big man of English pictures is Edward Godal, who for general knowledge and picture sense, is not surpassed. His associate, Nigel D'a Black Hawkins, is also out of the ordinary. With such men, England is bound to overcome all obstacles, and take her place among the leading producers.

Examples of exceptional histrionic talent are to be found on all sides, and many of the leading theatrical lights, such as Josie Collins and Denis Neilson Terry, have only to be seen to become great favorites.

FRANCE

Production in France is at a low ebb. Very little is being done on account of the rate of exchange. Should this improve, American directors will be able to obtain good engagements there. I can speak only highly of the French actor and actress.

GERMANY

Pictures are on the boom in Germany. Jane May has just finished a picture, which cost over two hundred thousand. Many productions are under way. New companies are starting up on all sides and the Teutons mean to leave no stone unturned in order to get a place in the American market.

"Buffalo und Bull" (Buffalo Bill), the life of the great American scout, is being made upon the very largest scale in Germany, and the project will not be considered as ridiculous as on first sight, when one learns that they have secured many American riders and Indians from our overseas forces.

The story of German picture production seems exaggerated, but when these grandiose super-productions are seen, their sets and crowds will make all open their eyes.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

Many companies have started here since last spring and there is some promise of big features.

ITALY

Italy, although making big productions, is years behind the other countries, for the Italians are producing India-rubber stamp pictures of the style done before the war. They are all rehashes of old subjects, overacted, and not at all good, although the stagings are most elaborate.

The only hope for Italy getting on the American picture map, lies in Herbert Brenon, who has made four pictures there, with Marie Doro as the star. These pictures are produced with magnificent settings and are expected to show this producer at his best.

SALARIES

All American producers must bear in mind the fact of the depreciation of European currency. The Italian Lira has fallen about four times in value, the French franc at least twice, and the English pound suffers a depreciation of almost thirty per cent. The income tax must also be considered, for in England it is very high, and increases in proportion to the salary. An income of three thousand pounds has to pay over four hundred and fifty pounds, and so on.

The living is about twice as high as before the war, but this is counterbalanced by the rate of exchange.

confronts Mr. White with mere surmises. The closely intertwined letters and words show this trait plainly. Besides, the terminal "e" curls backwards, like a cat's tail. You know that when Friend Cat is most watchful, he curls his tail about him, pretends to close his eyes, and then watches the mousehole without arousing suspicion.

That's the sort of watchful waiting you may expect of Mr. White. He's always suspicious of some one trying to put something over. He watches every competitor, every individual with whom he engages in a deal. He has tremendous ambitions, is a "high-flyer" when it comes to aspirations and ideals. He has the force and decision given in the strong, quickly formed t-bar. He is farsighted, for that same bar plunges ahead in lively fashion. He's emotional, too, for each letter touches an imaginary base-line at a different angle. That is histrionic ability, the desire to hide or betray feeling at will, the government of the reason and intellect . . . plus strong feeling underlying it all. He will not squander money, won't stand for nagging or bossing, and is self-sufficient, creative, original, magnetic.

2. THOS. L. McNALLY: SAN BERNARDINO CINEMATOGRAPHER

Quite a different type of writing is that of Mr. McNally, who has that Irish impulsiveness, warm hearted way of greeting one, and enthusiasm for his work, as well as played-hours, which one often finds in the rounded forward handwriting.

Mr. McNally heralds himself as a Cinematographer, and should succeed very well in his profession, for he is deft, quick to see a point, very observant (note his sharp-pointed capital N, with its forward pointing nose indicating inquisitiveness, eagerness, and yet set ideas, in the way a "tap-root" descends from it, betraying a love of sticking to that idea which has seemed best) and critical. He has a sense of humor, is practical, should be very fond of music, color, art. He is fond of travel, a good thing for a man who must hie to many locations. He would do quite as well as salesman or accountant, can put over new schemes easily, is magnetic, talkative, sociable. He does not repel people, but draws them to him through his magnetism, kindness, generosity and love of showing everybody a good time. He is a provider, a money-maker, need never fear to stay down and out. If he has temporary reverses, he will climb the ladder swiftly again, for he has virility, buoyancy, fine imagination, courage. He writes a fighting C. Note that strange, small "h" and the peculiar capital "T"—both show invention, originality, love of indulging in flights of fancy, positive ideas—for they are rather heavily drawn. As a side-line, Mr. McNally should take up dancing, music and every sort of sport. Deft-muscled persons like this writer make fine card-shufflers and billiard players.

3. SEDLEY BROWN: AUTHOR AND DIRECTOR

Camera! is having a treat this week in the way of unusually artistic and intelligent applicants for analyses. Mr. Brown is another of the extremely creative-inventive souls, and he gets most of his inspirations from the psychic world. You'll note that he likes approbation and has the courage of his convictions, for he underlines the name in a terse, yet positive fashion.

Mr. Brown has a good sense of form and dramatic balance. There is not a stroke which might be termed superfluous. The more closely letters approach the printed form, the greater is a writer's love of elegance, proportion, form, value, quality. The Capital S is formed like a serpent, shows wisdom, spiritual insight—and ability to attract social, financial and intellectual advancement.

This writer is very positive—because intuitive. Very few letters are connected, showing his love of jumping at conclusions, his ability to arrive at the solution of a problem without resorting to argument or logic. He is the antithesis of the first writer in this article, but could arrive at the same conclusions without half the trouble. In short, he is inspired by unseen forces. He is a natural medium, should take very little advice, and rely on his first-formed impressions. He likes and dislikes on sight. The body of his letter shows initiative, unselfishness, strong will, courage, material longings which will eventually yield to spirituality and so give him greater financial awards. You know, if one seeks the KINGDOM WITHIN first, all the other things are added. That's not preaching, but a fact which may be easily proven. Plant tomato seeds—you'll get tomatoes, not squash. Seek the mental plane and forsake the testimony and appeals of sensuality, and you rise intellectually and so draw power and money.

4. FRANK E. BARTHOLOMEW: PUBLICITY REPRESENTATIVE

Another clever specimen, and he's well balanced because both argumentative and intuitive—led by both reason and psychic powers. It's hard to fool that sort of being. Mr. Bartholomew thinks very fast, and makes one of the longest t-bars I've ever seen, about two inches straight running. It takes a deft hand to do that, and as the bar rises at the right, Mr. Bartholomew puts a lot of enthusiasm into all he undertakes, is optimistic, and fights to a finish—as do most back-handwriters, in their quiet way. You know, an artist wants that sort of publicity writer—and I consider this hand specially well suited to its chosen vocation.

The writer has that fine sense of form which the plain capital gives, as aforementioned in a reading. He separates some letters, but connects the entire name—which means that he relies on reason, but nevertheless gets strong hunches. Being a back-hander, he reasons BACK to first principles, even when he gets that hunch. The forward hander would simply RUSH off and do the things bidden by a hunch. This hand shows quick temper but controlled by reason. He may seethe within, but outwardly be cool, unperturbed, gracious, tactful. He is diplomatic and shrewd, artistic, loves to chase a hobby—as the small "o" shows. He seldom tells his plans ahead of time, hates interference, is ambitious, independent, versatile (letters of varying shapes and heights) and makes few intense intimacies. In fact, he would draw back into his shell—even as his letters slope to left and show contraction—at any attempt of another to spy on him or probe into his private business. That's a good trait for business success.

5. W. ALBERT SANGER

This writer is one of Camera's! oldest readers—but they do say the first shall be last, so we've placed him at the end of the list and perhaps he who laughs last—laughs best. Anyway, Mr. Sanger enjoys laughing. He's impulsive and eager, too sympathetic and generous for his pocketbook's safety, and so affectionate that he will suffer more through the emotions than in any physical way.

The writing shows histrionic ability—it has real "heat waves of emotion" and impulsiveness. Note the way words dip up and down. He is very imaginative, is fond of praise, must be careful not to be misled by flattery and sympathy. He is fond of those who sympathize with him, and the body of this letter shows a tendency toward extremes of mood, sentences sloping down at right, indicating depression, sudden reaction from great joy to blues and loneliness. He is not a self-sufficient nature. He's sociable, wants to have friends about him, is a free spender, not wise in his extravagances. He should make money readily, but find it very difficult to invest or save for the future. He does everything on the spur of the moment—and repents at leisure. He is conscientious enough, for the high "t" shows justice and a desire to do just right in all ways, but the intense love nature and friendliness of this writer make him forget everything but a desire to rush in where angels fear to annex bunions. In short, he must learn to control himself by cool reason and argument, even if it may sound unsympathetic toward his associates sometimes. The writing shows me an observant nature with an excess of the virtues, which is the chief danger zone. There is a desire to start things, then a reaction which brings discontent and doubt, and a wish that the new project never had been undertaken. For this reason, Mr. Sanger may change from on-business to another frequently, or get tired of his "jobs" without reasoning out why he is restless and UN-satisfied.

Margaret McWade is enjoying a brief rest after finishing a supporting role in the cast of Wanda Hawley's third Realart production.

Professional Notes

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Four important features are now in the editorial stage in the Universal City cutting rooms, preparatory to being added to the list of forty-eight special productions pledged the exhibitors and the public during the current fiscal year. They are: "Black Friday," "Kate Plus Ten," "Once a Plumber—," and "Pink Tights."

Harry Carey, after a two weeks' rest following the completion of "Sundown Slim," is again at work, this time filming a screen adaptation of Eugene Manlove Rhodes' story, "West is West," under the direction of Val Paul.

Rollin Sturgeon reports satisfactory progress on Carmel Myers' second Universal feature, "The Gilded Dream," which is now in its third week of production.

Erich Von Stroheim has left for Santa Barbara and Monterey for important scenes in his current Universal-Jewel special, "Foolish Wives." He was accompanied by nearly one hundred people, including his principal players.

Elmo Lincoln is now engaged on the fifteenth episode of his serial, "The Flaming Disk."

"Cinders" is the title of Hoot Gibson's latest western drama. Edward Laemmle is handling the megaphone and Dorothy Woods is playing the feminine lead.

Three comedy directors are producing Century and Rainbow comedies for the Universal program.

Fred Fishback is working with a company which includes Merta Sterling, Harry Swett and Inez McDonald; Thomas Buckingham's players comprise Charles Dorety, Bud Jamison, Peggy Prevost and Brownie; and William Watson is producing lion comedies, with Robert Anderson, Zip Monberg and Lillian Biron assisting the animal actors.

As soon as Eva Novak finishes the last scenes in "Kate Plus Ten," her present production directed by Stuart Paton, she will begin work on "Out of the Sunset," an island romance by George Rix, now being put in scenario form by Philip Hurn.

Tod Browning and his company, starring Priscilla Dean in "Outside the Law," will leave for San Francisco in a few days to film several sequences in Chinatown, on Knob Hill and on the water front. They will be gone about two weeks.

Reeves Eason, Universal director, who has just finished "Pink Tights" with Gladys Walton and Jack Perrin, has been loaned to Joe Brandt to produce two five-reel western features starring Art Acord.

AT VITAGRAPH

Chester Bennett, directing "The Romance Promoters," with Earle Williams, returned this week from a long stay on location at Santa Barbara.

William Duncan spent a large part of the week at Catalina with "The Wizard Spyglass" serial company, taking scenes for the second episode.

After completing the animal sequence for "Black Beauty," Director David Smith will start this week on the picture proper. The cast is being selected.

Director Jess Robbins and the Jimmy Aubrey comedy troupe are back from Catalina, where a picture was completed. They will start this week on another.

Jack Singleton is playing the juvenile heavy with Douglas McLean, in the Ince production, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

J. Ogden Armour Guarantees this Bond:

One of the attractive features of the $6,000,000 Sutter Basin Company Land Mortgage 8% Serial Gold Bonds is the unconditional guarantee by J. Ogden Armour of the prompt payment of interest and principal.

But aside from this feature, the bond is a good investment. It is secured by a first mortgage on 55,122 acres of land in Sutter County, California, whose value is placed at $17,000,000. This mortgage is preceded only by a reclamation assessment of $3,850,000, which has been funded into an issue of bonds none of whose maturities is earlier than the latest maturity of these bonds.

The land referred to above as securing these bonds is excellent agricultural and horticultural land. The soil is a rich silt, deposited by years of overflow of the Sacramento and Feather Rivers.

A system of levees and irrigation laterals protect this land alike from overflow and drought.

The stock of the Sutter Basin Company and the Sutter Basin Improvement Company is also deposited as further security to these bonds.

We recommend this security for your thorough consideration because it contains the elements of soundness, high yield and exemption from personal property taxes in California. Full information will be gladly given on request—simply ask for Circular C828.

Actors' Association To Furnish Entertainment For Wounded Ex-Service Men

The incapacitated ex-soldiers who are located at the United States Public Health Service Hospital at Arrowhead Springs will be entertained Sunday evening by a company of professionals to be supplied by the Actors' Association.

This organization is one of those which has been most active in the recent drive to arouse interest in these wounded men whose lives are necessarily dull.

John Lancaster has accomplished the arrangement of the program which will be managed by Tom Wilson.

The entertainment will include a Diving and Swimming act headed by Billy Williams, in which five diving girls will take part; a one man wrestling match with Pete Ormando; Richardson and Mack in Musical Comedy; Charles Parrott in Songs and Stories; Crimmons and Gore in "By the Sad Sea Waves"; Vernon Dent in Original Songs; Fox and Ingram in Song Showers, and Miss Delgren, who will present classical dances, accompanied by Madlyn Hardy at the piano.

It is gratifying to observe our industry again "playing up" in the name of a cause that is worthy of its best effort.

Screenland Arrives

The Day Of The Daring

Something has happened to the once very general program picture. It has departed from the thought of man; consequently the ability to manufacture it quickly and inexpensively is no longer looked upon as a financial feat by the industry. The old regime has fallen!

Today the profession and the public question "What next?" Eagerness awaits the novel or daring in each individual type of screen play. Everything from the drama to slapstick is experiencing the unrest which has even now occasioned undreamed of strides artistically.

It is not an exaggeration to state that this progress will, possibly has already, saved popularity for the cinema. Indeed, with many months of long-suffering silence the American public has purchased the right to really interesting entertainment.

Nor is the unusual in the photoplay a thing to be contemplated among our plans for next year or next month. It is upon us."

Every week is counting in accomplishment for our alert producers. The idea that only the big is to mean anything screenically has gathered sufficient momentum to interest us all.

Two recent contrasting examples of the unprecedented which are breaking records the country over are Frank Borzage's "Humoresque" and Marshall Neilan's "Go and Get It." Where is the old producer who knew not the successful play without its villain and involved plot? We call his attention to the picturized Fannie Hurst characterizations. The supposedly infallible belief that the successful combination of tragedy, romance, and slapstick, is an utter impossibility has been exploded in the Neilan production.

Both offerings are milestones—the most definite of the year. With the joy that they bring the industry in a realization of future possibilities comes also a warning. The day of the old "hokum" has passed. The producer who neglects to bury his dead now may need assistance in the accomplishment of such next season.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

SANTCHI ON LOCATION

The Cyrus J. Williams Co. featuring Tom Santchi are on location at Chatsworth Park filming the exteriors of their current production, "The Imposter."

The Rockett Company is producing "The Truant Husband" at Universal City.

DANA'S NEXT METRO PRODUCTION

"Rings and Things," from the John A. Morosco story of the same name, has been chosen as the next starring vehicle for Viola Dana.

Waldemar Young of Metro's scenario department is preparing the script for "Rings and Things."

The cast is not yet completed.

FAIRBANKS TO DO "THE CURSE OF CAPISTRANO"

Douglas Fairbanks' fourth United Artists offering will be "The Curse of Capistrano," Johnston McCulley's story which appeared in the All Story Weekly, the screen version of which has been prepared by Eugene Mullin.

Fred Niblo will direct the production, the actual filming of which will be started within the next few days. The photographing of the picture will be in the hands of William McGann and Harry Thorpe, the cinematographers who filmed Fairbanks' last two "Big Four" productions.

DENVER DIXON PRODUCTIONS AT LONG BEACH

The Denver Dixon Production Company has recently completed the third of a series of one reel comedies at the Balboa Studio in Long Beach. The story is entitled "Spuds" and features Denver Dixon supported by Wanda Bennett.

Fred Jefferson is directing the series which the company expects to release through Special Pictures Corporation.

SCHLANK LAUNCHES THIRD COMEDY UNIT

Morris R. Schlank this week contracted Billy Bletcher, formerly with Christie, for two years to be featured in a series of one-reel comedies. Frank F. Moore has been engaged as director and he will commence work on the first picture this week.

The signing of Bletcher makes the third unit working under the banner of the Morris R. Schlank productions, the other two companies being the Hank Mann comedies and George Peduseh, Orpheum star, who signed with the producer last week.

TO PREPARE NEXT NEILAN OFFERING

With "Dinty" in the last stages of completion, Marshall Neilan is assembling his staff of scenario writers, under the supervision of Marion Fairfax, to prepare the story for his next First National production. It is likely that it will be an adaptation of "Not a Drum Was Heard."

DWAN COMPANY RETURNS FROM OXNARD

The Allan Dwan company, now filming "The Forbidden Thing," Mr. Dwan's first picture for Association Producers, returned last week from location near Oxnard. The company had planned to remain on location a full week, but by shooting some of the scenes at night the trip was completed two days earlier than anticipated.

EDWARDS TO COMMENCE FOX PICTURE

The sets for the Fox super production, "The Queen of Sheba," are nearing completion, and J. Gordon Edwards will begin to shoot on the first of September starting with over 2000 extra people.

FILMING LONGFELLOW POEM

The Howell Production Company is shooting Longfellow's "The Village Blacksmith" at the Hermann Film Company's Studios this week.

KING TEMPORARILY MANAGES HAMP-TON STUDIO

During the absence of J. D. Hampton in the East the responsibility of studio management has fallen upon the shoulders of Henry King, who has complete charge of the technical, scenario, casting, and administrative departments. He is also directing H. B. Warner in a screen version of "When We Were Twenty-One."

MAYER GOES TO NEW YORK

Louis B. Mayer, producer of First National attractions starring Anita Stewart and Mildred Harris Chaplin, leaves for New York Sunday. As it is over a year since he has been East and this will be a combination business and pleasure trip.

While in New York Mr. Mayer will have a number of important conferences with First National executives. His present contract with that organization is drawing to a close and he wishes to perfect his plans for the 1920-1921 production year.

HALLROOM BOYS SCHEDULE ALMOST COMPLETED

Jack and Harry Cohn, producers of the Hallroom Boys Comedies, report that the first year's schedule is rapidly being completed. The release contracts call for twenty-six two-reel comedies, one to be issued every other week.

To date, according to the Cohns, twenty-three of the Percy and Ferdie pictures have been published, the last of these being "Stung Again!"

Plans for the 1921 productions are now under way. A series of teaser ads. is now being prepared on the Hallroom Boys Comedies for distribution among exchanges and for use in regional trade papers.

AT VITAGRAPH

William Duncan was the first to use Vitagraph's new studio this week, taking scenes on the floor while the carpenters were still constructing a roof. He has reached the third episode of his new serial, "The Wizard Spyglass".

Director Chester Bennett has just finished "The Romance Promoters," Earle Williams' next feature. The story to follow is being selected from several scripts. The star will take a brief vacation before starting his next production.

Joe Ryan is made a single star in Vitagraph serials this week. He last appeared as co-star with Jean Paige. Now he will be featured in his own production, "The Purple Riders". William Bertram is directing. The company has gone into the Imperial Valley to start the picture. Elinor Field appears opposite Ryan.

Larry Semon has just completed another special comedy. No title has been selected.

Director David Smith has returned from Santa Barbara where he selected locations for "Black Beauty". He has finished the animal scenes and will start the human characters' sequence this week.

Jess Robbins, who finished his last Jimmy Aubrey comedy entirely at Catalina Island, is starting another with this comedian.

RAY PICTURE TO BE RELEASED AUGUST 30TH

Charles Ray's initial First National production, "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway," will be released on August 30th, according to a wire just received by Sol Lesser from the executive committee of that organization. The picture will have its western premiere at the Kinema Theatre in Los Angeles beginning September 18th.

WHAT THEY WILL SHOW AT THE KINEMA

Kinema bookings for the coming week include Katherine McDonald in her first James Young directed picture, "The Notorious Miss Lysle"; "Marshal Neilan's "Go and Get It"; Annette Kellerman in "What Women Love" and Charles Ray in "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway."

P. P. CRAFT NOW STATERIGHTING JOHN P. MCCARTHY'S "OUT OF THE DUST"

Plinney P. Craft of 110 West 48th St., New York, who has been associated with most of the big successes since the very inception of the motion picture industry, is staterighting John P. McCarthy's production "Out of the Dust". This picture which visualizes the life in the frontier forts of 1875 closely follows the conceptions of the West as idealized in the paintings of Frederick Remington.

Elaborate lobby displays using fifty plates of the most popular of Remington paintings, half of them in color, are being prepared from the originals in the hands of P. F. Colliers' Sons. These reproductions will form a most unusual as well as artistic and educational display. This feature will hold an exceptional interest to schools and art institutes as this is the first time since their original publication that the publishers have consented to reproductions from these plates. The Remington appeal in "Out of the Dust" was so strong that Messrs. Colliers' Sons were glad to loan the plates in behalf of art and education.

NEW COMPANY FORMED TO RECON- STRUCT BAD PICTURES

The Independent "Film-Merit" System, with offices at 202-3 Taft Building at the corner of Western Avenue and Santa Monica Boulevard, has recently organized for the purpose of assisting the independent producer of unsuccessful pictures.

William A. Howells is the directing head of the new company and has associated with him people from every department of the motion picture industry, to assist in an advisory capacity.

The purpose of the organization is to rehabilitate poor pictures. According to the new company many people make pictures who know little about the work and the experience necessary for a successful production. They are possibly enticed into the proposition by the lure of big profits. While it is true that real money can be made, and is made in this business, nowadays, it is necessary to make a 100 per cent. picture. For some accountable or unaccountable reason many "near pictures" are lying in "cold storage" waiting for a release.

Through the services of the Independent "Film-Merit" System the independent producer can improve his production. The new organization will either guarantee that his picture can and will be released after having been rehabilitated or will advise him that his case is hopeless.

LINDER ENTERTAINS PRESS

Max Linder entertained the Los Angeles press Friday, August 20th, at a banquet which was followed by a pre-view of his first American produced five-reel comedy, entitled "Seven Years Bad Luck." The story which presents considerable novelty in slapstick will be released in the near future.

Gertrude Astor

Current Reviews

"SEVEN YEARS BAD LUCK"

Max Linder offers something new in the line of slapstick with his American made five-reeler, "Seven Years Bad Luck," which will be released in the near future.

The story was written and directed by the French star and has an unusual number of clever twists. In no place does it drag, and the five reels are all equally entertaining. The subtitles assist the production greatly.

The star's clear cut work promises much for his popularity in this country.

Harry Mann, as the chef, has an opportunity to do some unusually clever team work with Mr. Linder.

Thelma Percy plays "the girl." Unfortunately, her equally interesting little poodle fails to receive screen mention.

We noticed Hugh Saxen "at it" in one of his rural characterizations, and Betty Peterson fits about in the garb of a maid. On the whole the support is good.

The comedy should go big all over the country.

"THE WHITE CIRCLE"

Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre last week presented Maurice Tourneur's adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's "The Pavilion on the Links," which has been retitled "The White Circle." The story is typically Stevenson. It is mostly a series of weird situations possessing fantastic backgrounds. However, it has a fascinating quality that holds the audience.

Harry Northrup enacts Lord Northmour, possibly the most interesting character of the cast. His role has an unusual number of surprise turns. Northrup's interpretation is clever.

Spottiswood Aiken gives an unusual performance as Huddleston.

Jack Gilbert makes a romantic "different" juvenile in the part of Cassilie.

Clara Huddleston is played by Janice Wilson. The role calls for very little action, and that it amounts to anything is due entirely to this lady's quaint charm, intelligent beauty and naturalness.

When an ingenue has nothing to do, it is imperative that she be good to look at. We point out Miss Wilson as a happy contrast to the messy young things who so often are cast for such roles.

Wesley Barry cleverly portrays "Ferd," the philosopher who points the only moral of the piece.

Jack MacDonald does the small part of Gregario.

"THE MUTINY"

"The Mutiny," an Albert Shelby LeVino screen adaptation of Jack London's "The Mutiny of the Elsinore" was released last week at the Kinema by Metro. The subject is a bit heavy for this season, but the screen play retains the London punch situations and the cast for the most part is well chosen.

One of the best fights we have recently witnessed is staged amid gallons of swirling water, supposedly a storm at sea.

Mitchell Lewis plays John Pike, the real hero of the piece in his big, happy, outdoor manner.

The feminine lead, Peggy West, is handled very badly by Helen Ferguson, who is miserably cast.

Noah Beery does Mellaire, the chief heavy, in a characteristic manner.

William V. Mong leaves the remainder of the cast far in the shade with his excellent portrayal of the "Rat."

Casson Ferguson does Dick Somers the juvenile satisfactorily although his part as screened means little. Others in the cast are: Sidney D'Albrook, Norval MacGregor, J. P. Lockney and Patch.

Ted Sloman directed the production for C. E. Shurtleff, Inc.

"STOP THIEF"

The California Theatre presented Tom Moore in the Goldwyn adaption of Carlyle Moore's "Stop Thief" last week. The screen story is well treated and greatly carried by the extraordinarily clever subtitles which have been taken largely from the original play's conversation.

The star's work as Jim Dougan is very refreshing and his support is good.

Hazel Daly in the role of "Snatcher Nell" makes the best lead that Moore has had in months. Her work is clear cut and her screen personality is pleasing.

Raymond Hatton plays James Cluney delightfully. His comedy characterizations have become famous.

Madge Carr is enacted by Irene Rich. The role merely adds to the general confusion, but Cluney's young bride is very easy to look at.

Molly Malone is Joan Carr with the same unusual result.

Mrs. Carr is well done by Kate Lester and Edward McWade provides much entertainment as her absent-minded husband.

Harris Gordon, Henry Ralston, John Lince, and M. B. Flynn, all provide suspense and confusion as the Doctor, the Minister, the Detective, and the Police Sergeant.

This production is an improvement over most Goldwyn farce adaptations.

A. D. ASSOCIATION NOTES

Applications for membership in the Assistant Directors' Association were received last week from H. R. Hathaway, National Studios, and James Kilgannon, Metro. The following men were elected to membership at the last meeting of the association: Vincent McDermott and Don Clarke, Vitagraph; Harry Weil, Goldwyn, and George Pankey, Selig.

Lou Howland has been made production manager for the Mary Pickford company.

Answering the plea of the disabled veterans of the World War encamped at Arrowhead the Assistant Directors' Association this week forwarded a cartoon of smokes to them. Dick Sherer went to Arrowhead in his automobile and personally delivered the present in behalf of the association. Plans are being made by the association to send entertainers to the camp for the soldiers' benefit.

Harry Schenck is acting as assistant director at the Ince studios.

An announcement of locations selected for the construction of the Assistant Directors Association's new home is expected to be made at the next meeting of the organization, Friday evening.

Morris R. Schlank, who for the past year has been producing the Hank Mann comedies, this week signed George Peduseh, Orpheum star, on a long-term contract, whereby the vaudevillean will soon commence work on a series of five-reel stories for the screen.

Maurice Meyers has arrived from New York to handle special exploitation for the Kinema Theatre and Sol Lesser enterprises.

Howard Gaye is cast in the role of Lord Annersley-Seton, Member of Parliament, in the present Katherine MacDonald production "The Second Latchkey."

Eddie Baker has been engaged to play heavies with the Special Pictures Corporation.

Lydia Yeamans Titus is playing Lilly Doody in "Go and Get It" at the Kinema this week.

Geo. Dromgold is playing Thos. Hickson in "Go and Get It" at the Kinema this week.

Miss Ethel Ritchie has been cast by the Classic Film Actors Agency to co-star with Franklin Farnum in his forthcoming production.

The newest addition to the directorial staff at Universal City is Marcel de Sano, who has just arrived from New York.

Cesare Gravina has an important character role in Von Stroheim's next contribution to the silent drama, "Foolish Wives," now being produced at Universal City.

Jack Conway is to become a motion picture star under term contract with Benjamin B. Hampton, for whom he formerly directed feature production novels. His first production will be Stewart Edward White's "The Killer."

Raymond Hatton is playing "Weelum" in "Bunt Pulls the Strings."

TALMADGES ENROUTE TO EUROPE

Norma and Constance Talmadge have sailed for Europe with Joseph M. Schenck on a combined business and pleasure trip.

England, France, Italy, Switzerland and Belgium will be visited by them before October.

HOGAN COMMENCES PRODUCTION

James Patrick Hogan has started the filming of "The Little Gray Mouse" for Fox. The Production has an all star cast including Louise Lovely and Rosemary Theby.

Edward Connelly again will be seen in a special Metro production. He has been cast for a role in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

Tote Du Crow has been cast to play the mute Indian Servant in Douglas Fairbank's next production.

Eddie Baker, formerly in stock at the Christie studios, has been engaged by Special Pictures Corporation to play character heavies.

Harry Mann will start work on the second of his series of twelve two-reel comedies a year, the latter part of this week. Avalon Dale will appear opposite him.

Leatrice Joy is playing in the Goldwyn Picture, "Bunt Pulls the Strings."

Maree Beaudet is playing the lead opposite Bill Franey at the Reelcraft Studio.

Edwin Stevens has been engaged by Lois Weber to play a principal part in her new production.

Nelson McDonald is playing "David Gamut," the psalm singer in "The Last of the Mohicans," and is now on location at Big Bear.

Wallace McDonald is nearing the completion of the story, "Cinderella's Twin," in which he plays Prince Charming opposite Viola Dana at the Metro Studio.

Sidney Upton has been made the principal comedian for the Superba Comedies under the direction of Jay Hunt.

Helen Starr has been engaged to write continuity and also to play in the pictures of the King Vidor Company. Miss Starr has been affiliated with the Goldwyn Company for the past year.

Edwin Stevens is playing Frank Freeman in "The Figurehead" this week at the Symphony.

Russell Simpson, who recently finished work on the title role of Reginald Barker's adaptation of Ben Ames Williams' "Black Pawl," is again at work with that director, this time playing the character lead in "Bunt Pulls the Strings."

Frank E. Hughes has just been engaged by King Vidor as assistant director in his next production.

Bob Horner, who recently completed the screen version of the Union Label Film Company's seven reel drama, "The Blue Ridge Trail," is now collaborating on an original feature entitled "God's Great Temple."

Walter Perry has been engaged by Metro to enact the comedy detective role in "Cinderella's Twin," Viola Dana's new Metro starring picture.

Henry Woodward is playing Major Heyward in Maurice Tourneur's first Associated Producers subject "The Last of the Mohicans" by J. Fenimore Cooper.

PICKUPS BY THE STAFF

NEW PUBLICITY COMPANY FORMED

The consummation of a publicity merger was completed this week when Jules Brischner, A. J. Ripple and M. S. Vidaver formed the B. R. V. The company will have headquarters in the Grosse Building.

It is rumored that Rosemary Theby may sign a contract whereby she will star in a series of stories, the first of which is to be by Bernard Shaw.

Former Governor Esteban Cantu of Lower California was the guest of Antonio Moreno at the Vitagraph studios a few days ago. He saw the star finishing some later episodes in his serial, "The Veiled Mystery."

Sybil and Walter Bacon, who recently finished with Mabel Normand in "Head Over Heels," are doing the skating specialty in William Duncan's special, "The Wizard Spyglass."

Marguerite Sylvia, comic opera star, who recently appeared in an American production, has recently received another offer from Martin Beck to tour the Orpheum time.

Arthur Wenzel is handling the following people: Richard Dix, Edmund Lowe, James Liddy, Edward Everett Horton, Paul Harvey, George McDaniel, Marguerita Sylva, and Maybelle Burch.

Harry S. Northrup, who appeared last week at Grauman's in Maurice Tourneur's production, "The White Circle," denies the recently published report that he is returning to the speaking stage.

Fred Tyler, assistant to Director Chester Bennett at Vitagraph, is spending his vacation at Big Bear lake.

Frank Farnum, the eccentric dancer, has just finished an engagement with Larry Semon.

Joe McLain, master of properties at Vitagraph, has just celebrated his twelfth year of consecutive service with the company.

Jack Mackenzie, camera man for Director Chester Bennett at Vitagraph, now has two of them to boast about. Jack Junior's little brother, Gordon, arrived a few days ago.

Mrs. Harry Beaumont, wife of the director, is recovering at the Good Samaritan hospital from an operation following which blood transfusion was necessary to save her life. Of those who volunteered the surgeons selected her mother as the most suitable. Mrs. Beaumont is known on the screen as Hazel Daly.

Hank Mann, film comedy star, with make-up box about to go on "location" in his new Kissel Kar. The comedian plans to tour the Northern part of California in this car following the completion of his present film contract.

Harry Webb will assist Stuart Paton in the direction of "Out of the Sunset," production on which will commence Monday.

Bert Van Tuyle is back from a location "hunt" for the next Nell Shipman production which will take them as far north as Canada.

Claire Adams is spending her vacation at Catalina Island.

Theo Alice Carpenter has changed her name to Jean.

METRO EXECUTIVE ON TOUR OF HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS

Analysis of Handwriting

By Fritzi Remont

In submitting handwriting for tests, please write in ink, on unruled paper, and send me more than the signature, although the latter alone will be reproduced. There's not enough in a NAME to give a good analysis.

Recently I viewed Eric von Stroheim's "The Devil's Passkey." It was delightful from the standpoint of graphological analyses, for it gave one handwriting which was actually TRUE to the character portrayed and which was foreign in its peculiar little squirls and curves.

Unfortunately, many directors do not observe these fine points, and too frequently I see a letter purporting to be written by a selfish villain which bears all the earmarks of having been tossed off by a generous, sympathetic but uneducated feminine member of the studio staff. High-class writing is inborn. It's uncommon—as is the person who has been educated and who has gained experience. I saw a photoplay two weeks ago, which flashed two different letters on the screen, but while purporting to come from a man and woman of the cultured class, the handwriting in each was identical, just a rounded, girlish hand of the middle-class in life.

Too frequently, the letter supposed to come from a man is written by a woman in the

"WHAT MANNER OF INDIANS ARE THESE?"

Maurice Tourneur, making "The Last of the Mohicans," his initial Associated Producers film, is using a bunch of stalwart "redskins" to play Indian roles in J. Fenimore Cooper's story.

Mrs. Alma Davie, mother of Mildred and Bunny Davie, is now in the Angelus Hospital recovering from a serious operation.

George L. Cox has completed his engagement with the American Film Company in Santa Barbara, and has recently purchased a home on Wilshire Boulevard in this city.

E. P. Hermann, President of the Hermann Film Company, has purchased a home-site on 12th St. and Wilshire Boulevard, Santa Monica, and will immediately erect a colonial bungalow.

Sidney Algier has just completed his engagement with the American Film Company as assistant director, and has returned to Los Angeles.

Simultaneously with the release of Charles Ray's "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway," Maurice Richmond, the music publisher of New York is going to put out through the music stores of America a new edition of the music that accompanied the original production.

Sol Lesser is journeying to Santa Barbara for a few days' vacation.

Juanita Stone, formerly with the Famous Players and Selznick forces at Fort Lee is in Los Angeles awaiting the arrival of Harry Rapf, who is due here shortly to commence production.

Artie Glass, General Manager of the Classic Film Actors Agency, announces the enlargement of his service and headquarters to care for the business being handled by his staff.

Rupert Hughes, one of the Eminent Authors, has returned to the Goldwyn Studios in Culver City, where he will spend several weeks collaborating on the production of one of his stories which is now being produced.

Edwin W. Willett, cameraman for the Hermann Film Co., has just returned from a tour of the East, during which time he visited Florida, the Carolinas, Virginia and Kentucky, "shooting" stock scenes for the forthcoming Hermann productions. Some special scenes were taken in Wall Street and in Greenwich Village, N. Y.

Mr. Willett, who also visited Cuba and claims it was to shoot pictures, will crank the camera for the new Hermann productions.

Otis Skinner will never again be seen in the leading role of "Kismet" after his appearance as Hajj, the beggar of Bagdad, in the screen version of the play, now being filmed at the Robertson-Cole studios under the personal direction of Louis J. Gasnier. Mr. Skinner himself has made declaration to this effect.

Edward Sloman, who is directing "The Marriage of William Ashe" for Metro "close-ups" that is expected to bring the spectator as near the players as when listening to actors on the speaking stage. Not a scene will be enacted at a distance greater than ten feet from the camera.

INSTALLMENT 8

Well folks, the first thing I've to do in this installment is to bawl out the new proofreader that Camera! has just engaged. He (or she) left out the best gag in the whole chapter, and left the action of Yuce in hopping and skipping around the room, unexplained. You will notice, by referring back to scene 63, we have a closeup, but there is no explanation of what is shown in the scene. It should have read, "Closeup of bottle in Mazie's hand. On the bottle is the inscription, 'Take teaspoonful two nights running and then skip one.'" Camera!'s fair young editress promised to bawl out the said guilty proofreader, so we will take her word for it.

Our next sequence begins with the title:

SUB-TITLE: AND DOCTOR HALL DECLARED HE WOULD PROSECUTE THE "OTHER DOCTOR" FOR MALPRACTISE.

78. EXT. SLICEM'S OFFICE.

Hall comes on—goes to door and knocks.

79. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. FLASH.

Mazie on—hears knock—says, "Come in".

80. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. DOOR IN PICTURE.

Mazie on. Hall comes on, looking very stern—asks for the doctor.

81. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSEUP.

Of Mazie and Hall. She says—

TITLE: "I'M THE DOCTOR".

BACK. Mazie speaking title. Hall surprised—looks her up and down—his expression changes—he stammers as he fumbles his hat—

TITLE: "WHY-ER I DOCTOR, I'M SICK—CAN'T YOU DO SOMETHING FOR ME?"

BACK. Mazie looks at him and gets it over that she is wise—then tells him to be seated. She exits.

82. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. OPERATING ROOM.
BOTTLE ON SHELVES.

Mazie comes on—peaks, gets it over that she has a bright idea—takes down a bottle and spoon and exits.

83. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. RECEPTION ROOM.

Hall on; seated. Mazie comes on with bottle and spoon—pours out medicine and hands it to him, saying—

TITLE: "TAKE THIS EVERY FIVE MINUTES RUNNING AND THEN SKIP FIVE".

BACK. Hall hesitates—she forces the spoon on him. He smells it and then takes it.

84. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSEUP.

Of Hall's face as he takes the medicine and makes a wry face.

85. INT. SLICEM'S RECEPTION ROOM.

Mazie turns her back to put the bottle on table. She is trying awful hard to smother a laugh. She turns to put the bottle on a table and to hide her face. He watches her and as she turns back he crumples up and falls out of the chair. She runs over with terror written on her face.

86. INT. SLICEM'S. CLOSEUP.

Of Hall on floor. Mazie bending over him. She shakes him. He is apparently unconscious. She wrings her hands. As she straightens up, pam up to closeup of her face—wild with fear. She looks around office.

87. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. CLOSEUP.

Hall on floor—looking up—eyes open with a grin—sees her about to look back—shuts his eyes again quickly.

88. INT. SLICEM'S OFFICE. DOOR IN PICTURE.

Hall on floor. Mazie on—distracted, thinks she has poisoned him. She hears knock at door—goes over—opens it—messenger boy on—hands her telegram—she closes door—comes back over to foreground and opens telegram and reads—

INSERT. TELEGRAM:

"WILL RETURN TWO THIRTY A.M."
SLICEM.

BACK. Mazie crumples the telegram—looks at Hall on floor—then at clock on wall—

INSERT. FLASH CLOCK ON WALL.

Six-thirty.

88. BACK. Mazie then goes over to where Hall lies and stoops.

89. INT. SLICEM'S. CLOSEUP.

Hall with eyes open—closes them quickly as Mazie enters and bends over him. She shakes him, but he is as limp as a rag.

IRIS OUT.

Professional Notes

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Production was started at Universal City this week on Jacques Jaccard's latest story, "The Throwback," in which Frank Mayo is being starred. Word has been received at Universal City from Jerome, Arizona, where Harry Carey has been for the past two weeks, that satisfactory progress is being made on the western star's latest feature, "West is West."

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are now selecting their cast for "Fixed by George," which will be the fourth of their comedy features.

Stuart Paton has completed his first Universal production, "Kate Plus Ten," starring Eva Novak. After this film has been cut and edited he will begin on "Out of the Sunset," a story by George Rix.

Hoot Gibson has finished "Cinders," in which he was directed by Edward Laemmle, and has started on "A Pair of Twins" under the supervision of Albert Russell.

Rollin Sturgeon reports excellent progress on "The Gilded Dream," the story by Katherine Leiser Robbins, starring Carmel Myers.

Erich Von Stroheim and a company of 125 people returned from Santa Barbara, where scenes were taken in the Ambassador Hotel for "Foolish Wives."

Negotiations are now under way with Edna Ferber for the adaptation of "Fanny, Herself," for the screen use of Carmel Myers.

Six Universal feature companies will be off on location all next week. Tod Browning will be taking scenes in San Francisco for "Outside the Law," starring Priscilla Dean; Erich Von Stroheim will be at Balboa Beach with Frank Mayo and "The Throwback" company; Rollin Sturgeon will take Carmel Myers and members of the company appearing in "The Gilded Dream" to Santa Barbara; Edward Kull will have Eileen Sedgewick and company at Catalina Island for scenes in the serial, "The Queen of Diamonds," and Harry Carey, directed by Val Paul, will be at the United Verde Mines at Jerome, Arizona, getting atmosphere for "West is West."

AT THE GOLDWYN STUDIO

Six companies are in production at the Culver City, Goldwyn Studio.

Victor Schertzinger has been assigned to direct an all star production of "The Concert" during the vacation of Mabel Normand whose recent pictures he has been directing.

Director Frank Lloyd has commenced work on an all star production of "Out of the Dark."

E. Mason Hopper reports satisfactory progress with Tom Moore in "Canavan."

Will Rogers, under the direction of Clarence Badger, is on location in San Francisco.

Mason N. Litson is shooting jungle scenes for the "African Interlude," No. 7 of the Booth Tarkington kid stories featuring Johnny Jones.

Reginald Barker is putting the Scotch in "Bunty Pulls the Strings."

From the offices of the C. B. Price Co., Inc., comes the announcement that the first of the Mack Swain comedies entitled "Full O' Spirits," being made by Jean Perry, has been finished.

studio. Even the audience unaccustomed to intensive analysis can't fail to see this. I often hear comments along this line. So I repeat, that the "Devil's Passkey" was a real treat in the way of detail work and more especially in the letters it screened. The director must be quite a student of handwriting as well as of facial types.

Matty E. Kann
Belle Green

The first signature to be analysed today is that of BELLE GREEN OF NEW YORK CITY. This young lady is anything but verdant mentally, she is quite positive, bright, concentrative and well-informed.

She shows strong magnetism, a big musical curve in the capital G, and well closed a's and o's, giving her ability to mind her own business and to keep a secret. She is very positive and practical, for the downstroke of y and g are heavy and blunt. She can wound to the heart by a remark but doesn't often indulge in that favorite indoor pastime because she has good sense and tact.

She is versatile, making letters of many heights and shapes, quite unselfish, strong-willed, argumentative, observant, critical. Her hand is thoroughly up-to-date and shows executive ability, initiative and independence. She could sell almost anything, having talkativeness and good personality, courage and tact. She does get depressed at times, as such strong natures will.

2. MATTYE E. KANN:

This handwriting shows great possibilities, for it has so much ambition, creativeness, critical analysis and enthusiasm. The capitals are an inch high—although reduced in the cut shown. Nothing should be impossible for Miss Kann to attempt—and she might well spell her name CAN. She is a swift worker and thinker, the letters tumble forward eagerly, fairly pushing each other along. She is musical, witty, intelligent, has a fine imagination. She should make a graceful dancer, and in fact any form of sport, game or movement is readily within her reach, for muscular adaptability and liveness of action peep from every one of those lightly, delicately formed strokes. In short, this is a fine example of writing which springs forth without visible effort. The occasional shadings show her love of color and beauty, her magnetism, good health and emphasis when talking.

Clyde Hotel, 10th and Stark Sts.,
Portland, Oregon, Aug. 11th.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed please find one dollar for six months' subscription to the Camera! I bought one every week while I was in Los Angeles and I received more information and help out of it than from all the rest, put together. I hope the day is not far distant when it will be everywhere; it deserves and should have a wide circulation. My best wishes for its success.

EDITH LANUET.

The fifth of the Superba comedies has been finished at the Francis Ford studio under the direction of Jay Hunt. Frederick Bennett writes the stories.

HOW ABOUT A CLOSE UP?

Does your face show lines that make-up cannot hide? Does the director pick you for stills? Why not? Compare your pictures with those he does. Get the idea?

"SHIPWRECKED AMONG CANNIBALS"

"Shipwrecked Among Cannibals" was the feature attraction last week at the Superba. The educational value of the picture is unquestionably great, as the real thing in savagery is depicted.

The public may also be entertained by the cannibal feast thrills, with which the Universal scenario department has attempted to go Martin Johnson "one better," but the profession will be more amused than horrified at the apparent "hokum."

However, the production has considerable of interest and will undoubtedly make money.

"GO AND GET IT"—PREVIEW

Marshall Neilan has broken all thrill records with his unusual production, "Go and Get It," playing this week at the Kinema. He marks an important milestone for the industry with his clever combination of comedy, tragedy and romance. He goes further and sprinkles the whole with a bit of well-timed slapstick. Each element is real. The action is swift and keeps the attention riveted. The subtitles are excellent. The all-star cast is exceptional.

Pat O'Malley is refreshing as the typical young newspaper hero. He makes a splendid opposite for Agnes Ayres, who does the feminine lead gracefully.

Wesley Barry keeps the audience in an uproar with his very clever comedy in the quaint role of "Dinty". His is a universally appealing personality.

Noah Beery does the strange role of Dr. Ord interestingly.

Bull Montana's horrible fascination as the ape-man is largely due to the art of Cecil Holland, who created the make-up.

J. Barney Sherry plays the heavy who is a double-crossing publisher. Charles Mailles and George Dromgold complete the opposition.

Walter Long creates sympathy for the doomed murderer.

Marshall Neilan and Harry Symond have accomplished something "new"—"Go and Get It."

Riders with Joe Ryan in his new western serial at Vitagraph, "The Purple Riders," include Henry McGehee, Clyde Bolden, W. W. Badgett, C. L. Davidson, Geo. Rogerro and J. C. Spencer.

"TWIN BEDS" PREVIEWED

"Twin Beds," Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven's initial independent release to be distributed by First National, was given its preview at the Neptune Theatre in Venice last Saturday.

Mr. De Haven left Los Angeles immediately after the pre-view to carry the negatives to First National officials in New York and be present at the Gotham showing. He will return to coast within thirty days.

PRE-VIEW OF B. B. HAMPTON PRODUCTION

A pre-view of Benjamin B. Hampton's all-star photoplay, "The Money Changers," was given at the Windsor Theatre in Hollywood this week. Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," who wrote "The Money Changers" direct for the screen, was present with his family. Among other guests was Director Jack Conway and members of the cast, consisting of Claire Adams, Robert McKin, Roy Stewart, Audrey Chapman, George Webb, Betty Brice, Stanton Heck, Edward Peil, Harvey Clark, Zack Williams, Harry Tennebrook and Laddie Earle. The picture is to be shipped East for release this week.

FRENCH COMMUNIKES TO BE USED IN METRO REPRODUCTION OF BATTLE OF MARNE

Reproduction of the Battle of the Marne for Metro's "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" will be historically correct down to the placing of the last regiment with its regimental insignia.

Former army officers, all of whom saw service abroad, have been selected by Director Rex Ingram to handle the troops (also service men) in the battle scenes. In order to assure the authenticity of each troop movement, Jacques d'Auray, for four years an officer in the French army, has been placed in charge of one phase of this task.

A copy of the official French communiques on the battle have been obtained for constant reference by Director Ingram, Miss June Mathis, who wrote the screen adaptation of the Ibanez story, and the military experts. As a further check on troop movements, an official French war map, showing the placing of every fighting unit, also has been placed at the disposal of the director and his advisors.

Jack Johnson, a fat raccoon engaged to lend his he-whiskered presence to a few scenes for the animal serial, "The Son of of Tarzan," has disappeared. Harry Revier, director, and Roy Somerville, photo-dramatist, self-appointed sleuths on the case, have riveted suspicion upon a band of negroes who worked at the studio as extras in a jungle scene the night before the raccoon disappeared.

Arthur Stuart Hull, who did Henry Smith in Maude Fulton's production of "The Humming Bird," has returned from San Francisco where he closed his engagement with the Morosco production, to enter pictures. He is now at work playing a leading part under the direction of Lois Weber at her own studio.

Betty Ross Clark will play Roscoe Arbuckle's lead in "Dollar a Year Man".

Kathleen Myers is playing the cigarette girl with Wm. Duncan at Vitagraph.

"SCREEN SNAPSHOTS" TO COMMENCE ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

"Screen Snapshots" is soon to be exploited by a national advertising campaign according to a statement issued by Jack Cohn, its producer.

Through an effective tie-up with the Brewster Publications, this news reel of filmdom is to be advertised in every issue of every publication of this company. The fan magazines included in the campaign are The Motion Picture Classic, Shadowland, and the Motion Picture Magazine.

Seena Owen began work this week in one of the principal roles in the all-star cast selected for "Lavender and Old Lace."

Hallam Cooley, who has just finished in "Beware of the Bride," with Eileen Percy, is on his honeymoon at Catalina Island, after more than two years of interrupted work. The honeymoon is something more than a year or two late, because, when he and his bride should have taken that delightful journey an engagement made it impossible. And in order that it might be a real one, Hallam's young and husky son, now about nine months old, was left in Hollywood.

Pell Trenton has deserted both footlights and screen temporarily to devote his entire time to writing a scenario.

Maurice Tourneur has engaged Senor Juan de la Caballo, who hails from Granada, Spain, to handle a portion of his foreign correspondence.

AT LASKY'S

There has been no cessation of activity at the Famous Players-Lasky Studio in Hollywood through the heated season and every state at the big plant is taxed to its capacity to accommodate the many sets that are erected or in course of preparation for forthcoming pictures. This productional activity will continue, it is stated by Charles Eyton, general manager, throughout the fall and winter, and according to a recent statement of Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president, there will be from ten to a dozen directors engaged on pictures during that time.

William de Mille is completing "Midsummer Madness," adapted by Olga Printzlau from Cosmo Hamilton's story, "His Friend and His Wife," and is preparing for his next production. The name and nature of this story are as yet unannounced.

Wallace Reid, under the direction of James Cruze, making "Always Audacious," has accomplished another of his flying trips to San Francisco and will be back this week to make the final scenes for the picture in the studio. As soon as he is through with this story he will begin work on "Free Air" by Sinclair Lewis. He will again be directed by James Cruze. Margaret Loomis is his leading woman in the current production.

Thomas Meighan is making some important scenes for his new picture, "Easy Street," under the direction of Tom Forman. The story is by Blair Hall and the scenario by Beulah Marie Dix.

Mrs. William Vaughn Moody, wife of the late dramatist, is co-operating with George Melford, the producer, in the preparation of the scenario, etc., for "The Faith Healer".

Following the completion of "Brewster's Millions," upon which he is now engaged under the direction of Joseph Henabery, Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle will do an original story by Walter Woods of the scenario staff, entitled "Dollar a Year Man".

SUPREME TO EMPLOY DIRIGIBLE FOR TRAVELING

Joseph A. Eliason and his company of Supreme photoplayers have just returned from a five-weeks' sojourn at Big Bear Valley, where they filmed many scenes of the lake and the "Rim of the World" country.

Mr. Eliason is in the city for a few days preparing continuity for his next story, "The Perfect Man," which will begin with locations at the Mexican border and continue through Lake Tahoe, Yosemite, Feather River, and San Francisco. The members of the Supreme company will travel by dirigible balloon over the greater part of the state.

Sylvia Jocelyn has just completed two plays for the screen which will be produced shortly by well known organizations. Negotiations are under way for Miss Jocelyn to be featured in one of her stories in which she will impersonate several well known stars of the silent drama.

Virginia Ainsworth is cast for the role, "Louise Troganza," the heavy in the new Ruth Roland serial, "The Avenging Arrow," now under way at the Robert Brunton studio.

Back of Every Bond.

Inscribed on the back of every Sutter Basin Land Mortgage 8% Serial Gold Bond is the following legend:

The payment of the principal and interest on this bond has been unconditionally guaranteed by J. Ogden Armour of Chicago, Illinois, in accordance with a written undertaking and guarantee delivered to the Continental & Commercial Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, as trustee, for the holder of this bond.

Why say more about the soundness of this security with such a guarantee as that? Although this alone is sufficiently attractive, this bond becomes doubly attractive when it is realized that it is secured by a first mortgage on 55,122 acres of the richest and most productive land in California.

The Company had 1500 acres in melons this year from which it will receive sufficient net revenue to pay the year's interest on these bonds. The grain yield this year averaged nearly double the average yield on other grain lands of Central and Northern California.

The soil is that rich silt characteristic of river bottom land, having been deposited by years of overflowing of the Sacramento and Feather Rivers. A massive levee and extensive irrigating laterals now protect these lands alike against overflow and drought.

The value of this land is very conservatively placed at $17,000,000. A reclamation assessment, the Company's share of which is $3,850,000, precedes the mortgage securing these bonds. The entire assessment has been funded into a bond issue whose first maturity is after the last maturity of these bonds.

Don't hesitate to investigate these bonds and decide to invest your surplus funds in them. The price is 100 and interest, yielding 8%. Call, write or phone for full information today. Ask for Circular C-92.

A Federated Club House

From all that we can learn, about half of the various organizations of the industry are either searching diligently for new quarters, or contemplating the construction of individual club houses.

This is naturally an encouraging sign, for it indicates the unusual prosperity of these associations, which, although comparatively young in years, have come to represent every phase of the profession. Indeed, they are directly responsible for the fact that our people are today more united in thought and purpose than any other theatrical folk in history, a condition which has resulted in much of the fourth industry's phenomenal progress.

Since so many of these bodies are dissatisfied with their present locations, why wouldn't a Federated Building Home for Motion Picture Organizations be feasible? By pooling their money and interests, a combination clubhouse could be built here by the leading associations, that would stand a monument to the people who have put Los Angeles pictorially on the map.

The claim that this city is the film capital has long been undisputed. It is altogether fitting that the Capitol now put in its appearance.

For years the financial recklessness of the picture man has been a wonder of the country. "Easy come—easy go," has been the significant explanation by the Hollywood "old-timer" of the ups and downs of well-known artists. Much of the social prejudice against the profession has been caused by this very characteristic.

All right, here is a chance to utilize some of those floating thousands that have accomplished so little heretofore, in a project that will prove for all time the stability of the 1920 picture man.

The advantage to the associations is obvious. Under one roof far bigger and better accommodations could be theirs than would ever be possible individually. A library, gymnasium, pool and countless interests peculiar to the profession might easily be established as added attractions.

It is impossible to estimate on paper the influence of such an undertaking. But it would without doubt become one of the most constructive forces in the film colony.

All this is an idea—one of the ideas which we believe will mean much of definite good when developed.

To Our Publicists

The following is an extract from an article in one of our typical American publications, and it deals with a business which our native land has developed into an art—the art of lying. Furthermore, it has to do with that representative of imagination—the press agent—quite thoroughly United States. Los Angeles, in particular, with its inevitable studios, has made of him an institution. This he has deserved, for his accomplishments have been unbelievable. However, here's to the audacity, the persistency and the speed of him:

"Several months ago, on a day burdened with world-shaking news, every important newspaper in the city of New York made room upon its front page for the story of a Turk, registered at a hotel in Central Park West, who, according to the account, had rushed to America from Constantinople to find a young girl who had mysteriously disappeared from the sultan's harem. Clemenceau, Lloyd George, the condition of President Wilson, the red terror, the uprising in Germany, the debacle in the senate—all were peremptorily shunted to one side to make room for this. For, as the editors appreciated, it was the type of story that appeals to Americans much more richly than the more sober news of the day all compact. Three days after the newspapers printed the story, the editors learned that they had been bamboozled by a theatrical press-agent. The story was a "plant" for a moving picture bearing the classic name, 'The Virgin of Stamboul.'

"Twenty years before this, almost to a day, every important newspaper in the city of New York made room upon its front page for the story of three beautiful girls, and one in particular, whose lives were hanging in the balance from having eaten poisoned chocolates sent to them by some mysterious unknown. Eugene V. Debs, the new outline of policy by President McKinley, the South African troubles, serious race riots in Georgia, the renewed agitation for a merchant marine—all were peremptorily shunted to one side to make room for this. For, as the editors appreciated, it was the type of story that appeals to Americans much more richly than the more sober news of the day all compact. Three days after the newspapers printed the story, the editors learned that they had been bamboozled by a theatrical press-agent. The story was a 'plant' for a musical show bearing the classic name, 'The Casino Girl.'

"The business of theatrical press-agency is an eternal struggle between the reluctance and scepticism of the newspaper editor and the inventiveness and ingenuity of the press-agent; and it is to the credit of the latter that the record of the last two decades have uniformly returned him victor by a large margin."

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

THE PICKFORD ORGANIZATION

Louis Howland, formerly studio manager for Lois Weber, has been engaged as production manager for the Pickford organization.

The assistant director, working directly with Miss Marion (director), is Al Wuerker, who has been with the Pickford company for some time—first as property man and later as assistant.

Stephen Goosson, former technical man with Selznick, has been secured as technical director and will be responsible for the reproduction of Italian villages and homes, photographs of which were secured by Miss Pickford and Miss Marion in Italy.

Henry Cronjager, recently first cameraman for Marshall Neilan, will be in charge of the photographic end, with two assistants.

Stewart Heisler, who acted as film cutter for Miss Pickford in "Suds," will be in charge of that department.

William Johnson, electrician, during Miss Pickford's absence recently in Europe, designed and constructed a number of new lights and illuminating devices which will be used to good advantage in this production.

John H. Wallace, who was assistant property man in "Suds," will be chief property man.

Miss Pickford will shortly leave for location, taking the major part of her organization with her.

Matty Roubert will make three more of his "Romances of Youth" series at the Flushing, Long Island, studio, for Realart before he moves to California to complete the other seven pictures of the series. Frank S. Mattison is writing the stories and William L. Roubert is directing.

ALLEN WATT MADE HEAD OF NEW COMPANY AT BERWILLA

Allen Watt, formerly of Christie, has been made director-general of the Kewpie Dorety Comedy Company, which company was recently organized with a capital stock of $500,000. Work commenced last week on the company's first story, a two-reel situation comedy, with Kewpie Dorety in the featured role.

Twelve two-reel comedies and fifty-two single reels will be produced the first year, according to the company's contract with its distributing concern.

The officers are William Dorety, president; Edwin Barker, general manager, and Thomas Johns, sales manager. The production staff includes Allen Watt, director; Bert Wright, cameraman; Theodore Johns, assistant director, and W. A. Rogers, scenarist. The company has leased space at the Berwilla studios, Santa Monica Blvd., pending the construction of its own studios.

BARRISCALE PRODUCTION COMPLETED

Work has been completed at the Brunton studios on Bessie Barriscale's latest Robertson-Cole production, "The Broken Gate," adapted from the novel by Emerson Hough. Director Paul Scardon is now engaged in cutting and titling the picture.

DORALDINA COMPANY PROCEEDS WITH PRODUCTION

Production of Madame Doralina's first Metro starring picture again has been resumed at the company's West Coast studios after a delay of two weeks. This time the direction is in the hands of John Ince.

"The Passion Fruit," Carey Wilson's story of Hawaii, has been retitled, "But Yet a Woman" for the picture production.

FOOTE TO DO VANCE NOVEL

"The Bronze Bell," Louis Joseph Vance's novel, has been selected as a starring vehicle for Courtenay Foote and as the first of a series of Ince-Vance specials for the Paramount-Arcraft release.

KELLERMAN COMPLETES SLOW MOTION FILM FOR LESSER

The first Cinal process slow motion film, for which the Western Picture Exploitation Company have the world's rights, is titled "The Art of Diving" and features Annette Kellerman. In this film the diver demonstrates via the slow motion process a series of her most difficult dives and swimming strokes.

Irving M. Lesser, general manager for the Western organization, announces that this is the first slow motion picture in which a real star has appeared, and that with the advent of the perfection of same, slow motion is at last perfectly registered for screen use.

KEMBLE SIGNS JEROME STORM

William H. Kemble returned recently from New York where plans were consummated between him and Jerome Storm for the organization of Jerome Storm Productions, with a capitalization of one million dollars.

According to news recently received from New York, Mr. Storm has accepted an offer to direct Lillian Gish in her first starring picture for the Frohman company pending the completion of plans for his own company. Directly upon the completion, Mr. Storm plans to return to Los Angeles where his first independent production will be made.

EMINENT AUTHORS BUSY AT CULVER CITY

Three eminent authors are now busily engaged at the Culver City, California, Goldwyn studio preparing original screen stories for the camera. Gouverneur Morris is at San Francisco getting Chinatown atmosphere for a story he has nearly completed; Rupert Hughes is making an exhaustive study of the camera's possibilities in connection with a psychological story he plans to do shortly for the screen, and Gertrude Atherton is completing an original that will shortly be put into production.

AT SELIG'S

"Hunger of the Blood" will be Franklyn Farnum's next vehicle to be produced at the Selig studios. William E. Wing prepared the tale for the screen from a story written by Will C. Beale. Nate Watt will direct.

Jane Novak is at work upon interior scenes for the Curwood story, "Kazan." Director Bert Bracken has concluded one episode of the wolf-dog action during the past week.

William E. Wing's latest fiction story, "Danger!" is to be screened, the production to appear simultaneously with the magazine publication.

ATLAS TO PRODUCE

H. A. Kremp, of the Atlas Film Company of America, has bought four of Willard Newell's foremost stories, entitled "The Breaking of the Dawn," "The Brotherhood of Man," "Vice and Virtue," and "Fifty Fifty" or "Last Night."

The first production will be "The Breaking of the Dawn," and he will start preparation on same at once. It is rumored that Mrs. Peggy Weightmann and Hal Ferner will be featured with a supporting cast which will include Clinton Hodder, formerly with Ward Lascalle of Special Pictures Corporation.

Mr. Newell and Mr. Kemp will co-direct these features and V. Larson will grind the camera.

NAZIMOVA GIVES BENEFIT PREVIEW

A benefit preview of Nazimova's "Madame Peacock" was given at the Iris Theatre in Hollywood, Saturday, the 28th, after the regular performance.

Two dollars were charged for each ticket, and the proceeds were turned over to the widow and children of the late Gene Gaudio.

Madame preluded the showing with a short talk to the audience, which was composed mostly of the profession and the press.

Peggy Hagar was in charge of the successful affair.

BRANDT AND THE COHNS ESTABLISH NEW FIRM

Joe Brandt, Jack and Harry Cohn announce that they have joined forces in the establishment of the C. B. C. Film Sales Corporation.

This combine will deal exclusively in the marketing of independent productions.

C. B. C. will undertake to market feature productions, comedies, westerns and other short subjects and novelties on a percentage plan.

PREVIEW OF SINCLAIR NOVEL GIVEN AUTHOR

A special preview of "The Money Changers" was given at the Brunton studios this week by Benjamin B. Hampton for Upton Sinclair, author of the novel from which the picture was adapted. Among others who attended were: Director Jack Conway, Claire Adams, Roy Stewart, Betty Brice and Audrey Chapman.

The negative of the film will probably be shipped east this week.

BEBAN PICTURE SHOWN AUDIENCE FOR FIRST TIME

George Beban took his completed film, "One Man in a Million," last Saturday night for a local preview at Pomona. This is the first time the picture has been shown an audience. Mr. Beban and Mr. Lesser, who has the distribution in charge, desired to eliminate several hundred feet in order to bring the picture down to commercial footage value. It was a question as to whether the atmospheric or dramatic scenes be worked upon. After the preview it was decided that the tug at the heart strings was wanted.

Sol Lesser will shortly journey east in behalf of "One Man in a Million."

WELL KNOWN FEATURES TAKEN OVER BY EQUITABLE, KANSAS CITY

Irving M. Lesser, general manager for the Western Pictures Exploitation concern in Los Angeles, announces he has disposed of "Hearts of the World," "Sky-Eye," and "The Stranger" to the Equitable Film Corporation of Kansas City. The films will be distributed in Kansas and Missouri.

Alice Lake has returned to Hollywood after a three weeks' vacation at the Southern California seashore, following the completion of "Body and Soul," her newest Metro picture.

A fire in Philadelphia's film row wiped out the exchanges of United Pictures, Masterpiece Pictures, and a few others. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000, and was caused by careless cigarette smoking.

It is said that Bowes will take Sam Goldwyn's place in the company bearing his name.

NEW FEATURE SECURED BY LESSER FOR HIS COMPANY

"Souls of Men," the five-reel photoproduction made under the direction of the G. and J. Photoplay Company, Inc., has been turned over to the Western Exploitation Company for national distribution. The picture will be handled on the state rights basis with Irving M. Lesser in personal charge.

Current Reviews

"MADAME PEACOCK"—Preview

"Madame Peacock," a forthcoming Metro release starring Nazimova, has much to offer of interest to that star's fans. Although the story deals possibly a bit too much with the heavy woman for a good balance, it points its moral with unusual situations. The photography is excellent. Undoubtedly the art pictures made by the star in the production's extraordinary settings are the most striking yet accomplished for a motion picture.

Madame's performance displays her art and technique in its entirety. She plays Jane Goring, the star of "Madame Peacock," and also the part of Gloria, her unrecognized daughter.

John Stepping is clever in the role of the star's manager. His work is becoming more and more interesting.

Rex Cherryman is cast as the young playwright, the largest part in which we have yet seen him. It is not effectively "played up," however.

George Probert, who plays the star's husband, does some unusually subtle work.

Ray C. Smallwood directed the production.

"THE FIGUREHEAD"

"The Figurehead," starring Eugene O'Brien for Selznick is the Symphony attraction. The story is an unmercifully dragged out stereotyped political affair, which is saved by its good cast.

The star gives a characteristic performance which will please his followers.

Anna Q. Nilsson is quite charming as

Mary Forbes, the feminine lead.

Edwin Stevens, with his composed subtlety, makes an interesting contrast to Joseph Girard. The two men form the opposition.

Frances Parks has a few clever scenes as Kitty. The little girl has the makings of a real actress.

The youngster who plays her sweetheart, although given no press book notice, is particularly appealing.

Kate Price provides much amusement as Mrs. Devlin.

Ora Carewe does the very small part of Sylvia Freeman, the would-be female heavy. Miss Carewe's roles are not improving.

William Lion West pulls a good fight in one sequence.

Robert Ellis directed the picture.

"THE MISFIT WIFE"

Alice Lake plays at the Victory in the Metro-Screen Classic "The Misfit Wife." The story's plot is as old as Methuselah, but it is assisted somewhat by one new turn in the climax. The production is poorly cut.

The star attempts the old Viola Dana line, which is not altogether suitable, but the play will provide fair entertainment with a not too particular audience.

Forrest Stanley is good as Peter Crandall, the male lead. There is a bright future for Stanley.

Jack Livingston is well cast as Bert McBride, the typical male vampire. His work is more than satisfactory.

Edward Martindale plays Henry Gilsey with dignity and Frederick Vroom is the Doctor.

Mrs. Crandall is done in a rather amateurish manner by Helen Pillsbury.

We haven't at hand the name of the actress(?) who plays Mrs. Henry Gilsey. In any event she does not impress.

This picture may get by, but a few more of its like will prove fatal. American audiences are discriminating.

Edwin Mortimer directed.

"THE JAILBIRD"

Douglas MacLean appears in a somewhat different farce, "The Jailbird," at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre. It deals humorously with crook life in the country. The subtitles are interesting and the eccentric rural characterizations "take the cake."

MacLean employs his usual clever comedy in the interpretation of Shakespeare Clancy, alias Kid Dugan, the lovable "Jailbird."

Doris May is not so good as Alice Whitley, the feminine lead.

Peter Burns, the "Kid's" human crook pal, is well done by Lew Morrison.

Otto Hoffman is the inevitable village capitalist and Monte Collins is a scream as the officious station agent.

Other "immense" characterizations are accomplished by William Courtwright, Wilbur Higby, Bert Woodruff and Joe Hazelton.

Lloyd Ingraham directed the production for Ince.

"YOUTHFUL FOLLY"

The Selznick comedy-drama, "Youthful Folly," starring Olive Thomas, is the "horrible example" of an ancient plot unrelieved by a single new turn. Its cast is almost entirely unsatisfactory and it has the worst subtitles possible.

Whoever told Olive Thomas that she made a fascinating picture cavorting about in the garb of twelve years committed a crime or provided the week's best laugh according to one's viewpoint or disposition.

Billy B. Van is the star in five more of the Royal Comedy series being marketed by Reelcraft.

Jack Holt has been signed to play the lead in the new Mary Miles Minter picture, scheduled to start early in September under the direction of Chester Franklin. Clarence Geldart will play an important character role, while little Jackie Young has the "kiddie" part.

Charles West has been secured to play the historic role of "Tom Denning" in "The Witching Hour," being produced as a William D. Taylor Realart Special.

Faxon Dean and Bert Dorris will assist Chester Franklin in the filming of the new Mary Miles Minter picture.

Fontaine La Rue has signed with Lasky to play the heavy lead in "The Faith Healer" under the direction of George Melford.

Genevieve Berte is with Selig.

Irving Cummings has been engaged for one of the principal roles in "The Orchid," the Marguerite Storrs romance in which Carmel Myers is to be starred by Universal under the direction of Marcel de Sano.

Frank Thorwald and Carl Ullman have been cast in Fox's production, "The Queen of Sheba," under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards.

STARTS WHITE NOVEL

Work was started this week at the Brunton studios on Benjamin B. Hampton's latest all-star feature, "The Killer," an adaptation of Stewart Edward White's latest novel. Jack Conway, former Hampton director, is cast in the title role. Direction is under E. Richard Shayer and Howard Hickman. Tod Sloan, ex-jockey, has an important part in the picture.

Tom Douglas, who is playing opposite Dorothy Gish in "A Cynic Effect," has gone to his old home in Louisville, Ky., on a short vacation.

Charles Lane has returned to New York after a long stay on location near Ithaca, N. Y., where he appeared in the featured role in "Three Women Loved Him," the first production by Cayuga Pictures, Inc.

Alice Joyce is to appear in "Her Lord and Master," said to be a film play of American and British society life. Mrs. Sidney Drew is to direct it.

Ina Claire is enjoying studio life in the picture, "Polly with a Past."

Claire Whitney is getting acquainted with the topography of Staten Island these days through the taking of some of the scenes there for "Fine Feathers," a Metro picture.

Albert Barrett is playing the lead in "Blondy," which is being made at the old Biograph studio in the Bronx, and will mean the return to the independent film circles of the American Biograph trademark.

Catherine Calvert is the co-star with Percy Marmot in the Vitagraph special, "Dead Men Tell No Tales," by E. W. Hornung, which is being directed by Tom Terriss.

June Elvidge is leading a double life in New York. She plays at the Knickerbocker at nights and works in the pictures at the Metro studio mornings and some afternoons in "Fine Feathers."

Edfried A. Bingham, who wrote the continuity for "Earthbound," is the author of "Art Thou the Man" and other plays.

Edith Stockton has started on the fourth production of the Plymouth-Epic company, having just finished her work in "Through the Storm."

Ward Crahe, who played with Billie Burke in "The Frisky Mrs. Johnson," has been signed by Realart to play opposite Constance Binney in "Calderon's Prisoner."

Harris Gordon, who plays in Tom Moore's latest Goldwyn picture, "Stop Thief," recently motored from New York to Los Angeles, taking twenty days for the trip, as a vacation stunt.

J. Searle Dawley has signed a contract with the Wm. Fox organization, and will, in all probability, direct Pearl White in her future pictures.

News broke forth yesterday that Louis J. Selznick has borrowed another half million dollars and that the Selznick studios, which have been lying idle, will be in full working operation immediately.

D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East" will open next Friday night. The cost of seats for the opening performance, it is said, will be $10 each, after which the prices will range from 50 cents to $5.

Conway Tearle will star in a new production with the Selznick Corporation, entitled "The Road of Ambition," which is a National Theatre production written by Elaine Stearns.

Captain F. F. Stoll, president of the U. S. Photoplay Corporation, is in New York, making arrangements for a theatre to show "Determination" some time in the Fall.

Clara Kimball Young has just returned from Atlantic City after attending the convention.

THINGS YOU WON'T READ ANYWHERE ELSE

By Frank P. Donovan

Tom Bret, title writer, and Paul Maschke, cutter, who formerly cut the Larry Semon and other Vitagraph Comedies, are now in partnership. They cut all the Reelcraft Pictures.

Joe Farnham is out in Hollywood with Jack Adolphi as the production manager of Mae Marsh pictures. Joe was president of the old Screen Club.

Marguerite Clark, with her husband's money, may make a series of features in New Orleans, where she is making her residence.

Dorothy Bernard, after a long absence from the silver sheet, has returned and is playing the leading role in Jack Harvey's feature now in the course of production here in New York. She was last with Fox.

Fred Chaston has photographed the last three Dorothy Gish Paramount-Griffith specials.

Diana Allen is working under Chester De Vondes' direction.

Harold Lloyd is as big an attraction as the feature plays at the Strand, Rialto or Capitol Theatres on Broadway.

Jack White's Mermaid Comedies are a riot here. He has put them over with a bang. Larry Semon ranks with Lloyd. Chaplin's re-issues are making more money than his originals. A new one every week on Broadway. Sennett has fallen down some, but holds his own.

There is a wild demand for comedies here. Who can make 'em? The people wasting money trying should wake up. It's a shame to bunco capital the way they do. I reviewed several from the Hollywood section and all I can say that if they made the same pictures in 1913 they would be "famous"—as dramas. They are everything but funny.

Reelcraft has signed a big stage comedian to make special comedies. They will be produced on a lavish scale, 'tis said.

Billy Franey Comedies book in over 276 Greater New York theatres. Further, they like him immensely all over the country.

Frank Mathison, the publicity and scenario man, is to join his folks in Hollywood the first of October, he tells me. He will hold down a position for Reelcraft out there.

Perry Veckroff is about in Hollywood by this time. Perry is a director of experience, and no doubt he won't find it hard to connect.

Conditions in New York just now are very bad. There are more people out of work than ever before. Very few productions are being made and money is hard to get. The banks won't let it out—so, West Coasters, don't hike New Yorkward.

Anders Randolph has sailed for Denmark on a pleasure trip.

Vitagraph announces that Larry Semon is still with them. Larry was bent upon organizing his own company when here in New York a few weeks ago. Who are you with, Larry?

MERRIMEE ARRIVES IN CALIFORNIA—By Dwinelle Benthall

"Your collection of photographs, Jacqueline, is one of the most interesting I have ever seen. I feel quite dazzled by the light from all these shining stars. Of course, to you they are just dear personal friends—you can't realize what a picture gallery of celebrities you own. Fifty years from now, when you are quite an old lady, with lace caps and fichus, and a gold headed cane, and all that, and when these names, which are scrawled with such lovely inky flourishes on these photographs have been writ large in the history of the Photo-drama, you will wish you hadn't been so foolishly careless."

"Foolishly careless! Why, how?" demanded Jacqueline, looking up from her leisurely embroidering. "I adore every one of those pictures. They are my dearest treasures, and no doubt when I get to the gold-headed cane stage I'll adore them more."

"They won't be left to adore," commented Merrimee, "for you are doing nothing to preserve them, and dust, and time, and light, you know, will work ravages on mere paper, and the delicate process of photography. My dear, these pictures need frames—every picture needs a frame—not only for protection, but for a certain artistic finish. Some photographs need a dull gold frame to bring out their values of warmth and 'humanness'—others require the delicacy of silver. It is not just a frame—it is just the Right frame—"

"With an eye to the future value of your collection, I insist upon frames!"

"Well, Merrimee, dear, don't be tragic. I see your point, and I admit that we are not only foolishly careless, but quite criminally so, and you shall have the joy and satisfaction of personally selecting the proper frame for each one of my celebrities; only I am half afraid to take you into the 'Hollywood Art Shop,' for once inside, I doubt if I will ever get you out. It is the most fascinating place, at 6802 Hollywood boulevard, directly opposite the Hollywood Hotel, and you will never be able to resist the lure of its brasses, and pottery, and odd bits of art from the four quarters of the globe, and there you will find the personal frame which will bring out the individual value of the portrait—you see I am familiar with your artistic creed, but personally and at the present moment, I'd rather have some tea than anything else in the world. Please, Merrimee, put the kettle on, and when it has boiled and bubbled and brewed, I have something to go with it which is quite as soul satisfying as—as frames!"

Art in another form! Concocted of real eggs, and butter, and raisins, and spice, and all things nice. Truly cake from "Ye Cake Shoppe" is a miracle in these days of cookless kitchens, for it tastes exactly like home made cake, and it is all made from a collection of home made recipes.

"Just what is it?" asked Merrimee, after a few moments of silent bliss.

"That particular confection is a walnut bar; isn't it luscious? These cookies are my favorites—they are so wonderfully thin, and wafery, and yet so substantial. Usually boughten cake tastes as though it had been compounded of sawdust and soda, and I would just as soon eat chips, but since I discovered just ETAOINuluETAOINSHRDLU boulevard, I am quite resigned to the death of our old black Adeline. Do you remember the wonderful birthday cakes she used to bake for us, when we were kiddies? Well, nothing has ever tasted half so much like cake since then, until I found these things."

"But really, Merrimee—they are rich, you know, and you have had—"

"It isn't polite to count," interrupted Merrimee, severely; "besides 'Josephine' says I could easily weigh ten pounds more. She is quite worried about my thin arms, but 'necessity is the mother of invention,' and surely 'Josephine' is ever equal to the occasion. She has arranged the most wonderful tulle drapery for my new orchid evening gown. It falls over my arms more like wings than sleeves—and conceals, yet reveals, in the most adroit fashion. All my good points shine out like stars, and I quite forget I have any bad ones.

"She was telling me the other day that she has been designing and making gowns in Los Angeles for over twenty years. She had an established business long before you screen actresses discovered her genius and demanded her time, and she loves her screen work, because it gives her so much scope for her creative faculty. She can literally create Creations, and truly I have never seen any one who understood the technique of a gown better than she does. She gives you long lines where you need them, and fluffiness for the hollows.

"And since I am mostly 'hollows,' I'll—have another walnut bar, and just half a cup of tea!"

"And tomorrow morning when I appear in Josephine's fitting room at 601 South Figueroa street, I am quite sure she will say that I have gained at least a fraction of a pound, for I know I have consumed a quantity of eggs and butter and sugar at your tea-party."

"At any rate you have consumed all the cake," acquiesced Jacqueline, with sisterly frankness, "and I had hoped I would have enough for tea tomorrow."

"Well, never mind, I'll buy you some more on my way to the Hollywood Art Shop. I refuse to be scolded, for I am really feeling blissfully satisfied with life in general—specially since the celebrities are to have frames!"

This is the final and closing installment of our story. We have not shown very much of old Doc Slicem because the story is written for a female lead. We irised out on the last installment, although it was not the end of a sequence, for the reason that we wanted to show a lapse of time of several hours.

In order to keep the break from being too abrupt, however, we will have to put in a title of the right kind which will be about as follows:

Directing Your Investment

An investment means a great deal. It is the purpose to direct it in such a way that you will receive the greatest ultimate returns. The investor who buys Blue Jacket stock is looking for a return of at least 100% a month. It is reasonable, too. The Company is only capitalized for $75,000. The property is well developed by numerous shafts and cross-cuts, and big ore bins have been built to take care of the large output. Ore is being shipped.

Blue Jacket is popular among the stars, directors and other members of the profession. Ask Mitchell Lewis, Phil Cohen, Edgar Lewis and Jessie Crawford what they think of their Blue Jacket stock. Then give Sammy Weil a chance to explain and give you all the details. Just phone, write or call

AT UNIVERSAL

Rollin Sturgeon and his entire company, headed by Carmel Myers, have just returned from Santa Barbara, where the final scenes were filmed for "The Gilded Dream."

Harry Carey is expected to return soon to Universal City after three weeks spent in Jerome, Arizona, where, under the direction of Val Paul, mining scenes were taken at the United Verde for the star's latest feature, "West Is West."

Jacques Jaccard has spent the last two weeks at Balboa Beach, securing marine and tropical scenes for his romance of the rubber country, "The Throwback," starring Frank Mayo.

As soon as Stuart Paton has finished supervising the cutting and titling of "Wanted at Headquarters," starring Eva Novak, he will begin work on "Out of the Sunset," with the same star.

Lyons and Moran, having shipped the negative of their recent production, "Once a Plumber—," to New York, are now engaging a cast for their next comedy feature, "Fixed by George," work on which will begin next week.

Tod Browning is in San Francisco, with Priscilla Dean, Wheeler Oakman, Lon Chaney and other members of the cast appearing in his current feature, "Outside the Law." They expect to remain on location about ten days.

Elmo Lincoln, supported by Louise Loraine and special company, is nearing the final episodes of his serial, "The Flaming Disc," under the direction of Robert F. Hill. The company has been on location near San Diego the past week.

Eddie Polo is now at work on the sixth episode of his serial, "The King of the Circus," under the direction of J. P. McGowan.

Norman Dawn has everything in readiness to start production of "White Youth," in a few days. This is a story by Clara Beranger and Forrest Halsey. A cast will be selected next week.

TO COMPLETE PRODUCTION SOON

The final scenes for "Man, Woman, Marriage," Allen Holubar's First National super special, will have been shot within a fortnight, according to an announcement made by Albert Kaufman yesterday.

Several weeks will be spent in cutting, editing and titling by Mrs. Frank Lawrence, Holubar's film editor in chief. Mr. Holubar will collaborate in this work.

Dorothy Phillips, the Holubar star, will enjoy a vacation and Olga Linck Scholl, Holubar's staff writer, will start work on the scenario for the second independent Holubar feature.

DEL RUTH MAY PRODUCE INDEPENDENTLY

Hampton Del Ruth, until recently supervising director of the William Fox Sunshine Comedies, is contemplating independent production. It is stated that Wall Street will be back of the project.

The studio site for this company will be located in Los Angeles.

Two six-reel farces and twenty-six two-reel comedies will be produced per year.

Further details will be announced soon.

NEW HALLROOM BOYS COMEDY READY

"Wild, Wild Women!" is the title of the new Hallroom Boys two-reel comedy soon to be released by Jack and Harry Cohn, producers of this series.

This is the twenty-third of the Hallroom Boys series and was written and directed by Harry Williams.

BRUNTON WANTS STORY

Robert Brunton is looking for a suitable story to be used as Roy Stewart's first independently produced feature.

According to M. C. Levee, general manager of the Brunton studios, and Capt. Robert Kidd, scenario editor, no story so far has been selected.

It is planned to star Stewart in modern western stories.

FARNUM BACK FROM FORT BRAGG

Dustin Farnum returned to the Brunton studios this week after an extended location jaunt to the big timber country near Fort Bragg, California, where several thousand feet of lake and forest exteriors were filmed for the star's latest independent production, "The Trail of the Axe," an adaptation of the best seller of that title by Ridgewell Cullum. Ernest C. Warde is directing this picture and Winifred Kingston is playing opposite the star.

EMINENT AUTHOR SPEAKS TO SCREEN WRITERS

Rupert Hughes was guest of honor the evening of August the twenty-eighth of the Screen Writers' Guild at the Authors' League of America barbecue dinner, held at the Brunton Studios. He gave an address on the proposed workings of the guild, which has just been organized by several hundred screen writers, with the Authors' League of America.

NEW SALISBURY FEATURE CHOSEN

"Practice What You Preach" is the name of the second starring vehicle of the Monroe Salisbury Players. It is being adapted from the story, "Ethan of the Mountain," by Sarah Waters, with Reed Heustis and James Colwell, two Los Angeles newspaper men and screen authors, preparing the continuity. They expect to have it ready for shooting by the time Salisbury returns from New York City.

The star, accompanied by his business manager, Eugene Butler, left this week for the metropolis where a trade showing will be given of his first completed independent photoplay, "The Barbarian."

SPECIAL PICTURES TAKES OVER HAMPTON STUDIO

The Jesse D. Hampton studios were taken over this week by the Special Pictures Corporation. Increase in the production activities of this company made it necessary for the organization to make the change.

Hampton, it is said, will do his producing at the new Robertson-Cole studios, as the majority of his features have been released by that organization, and the new policy of that company calls for the combining of their various producing units under the roof of one studio.

MOROSCO TO COMMENCE PRODUCTION

Oliver Morosco, following a period in New York arranging for his fall and winter theatrical season, will arrive in Los Angeles this week to commence the activities of Oliver Morosco Productions, Inc. With his arrival here it is expected that the studio arrangements will be announced, as negotiations for a plant have already been carried on by General Manager George R. Bentel.

The present plans indicate that there will be no time lost in the filming of at least three pictures which will be adaptations of Morosco stage plays. In addition to the material already on hand, Morosco is bringing several more stories including "Sweethearts for Three."

That she should have herself created the story is unthinkable.

Craufurd Kent is the most satisfactory actor in the cast, but the asinine situations which surround him are enough to kill anyone's sense of the appropriate. Thus, his lonesome wandering through the weary reels.

Never, never has there been another Helen Gill who for some unaccountable reason plays the role of Lola Ainsley. There is no possible way of criticizing her work from a professional standpoint. Miss Gill is an obvious amateur.

Hugh Huntley plays Jimsey Blake. His performance is more promising.

The remainder of the mediocre cast includes Charles Craig, Harry Truesdale, Florida Kingsley, and Eugenia Woodward.

Allan Crossland directed.

AT THE LASKY STUDIO

Roscoe Arbuckle is on the high seas at the present writing making yachting scenes for "Brewster's Millions" under the direction of Joseph Henabery.

It will be late in September before William de Mille again starts work on a production for Paramount. The nature of the story has not yet been announced.

Cecil B. de Mille is progressing upon his current picture, "Forbidden Fruit."

James Cruze starts September 13th on Wallace Reid's new picture, "Free Air," by Sinclair Lewis, adapted to the screen by Byron Morgan.

FAIRBANKS USES HUNDREDS IN CURRENT PICTURE

Douglas Fairbanks resumed his activities before the camera, this week, filming the first scenes of his next and fourth United Artists production, "The Curse of Capistrano," Johnston McCulley's All Story Weekly Magazine novel.

More than one hundred people are already engaged at the studios for the filming of the early scenes of the picture, and within the next two weeks when the company strikes out for "location" work there will be five times this number actively engaged before the camera.

AT GOLDWYN'S

All the boys and girls who take part in Booth Tarkington's Edgar comedies have started back to school. This doesn't mean, however, that the production of the pictures will cease, for their school is on the grounds of the studios. Miss Sally M. Spencer, a regular member of the Los Angeles public school teaching staff, has been designated to instruct the youngsters. The California law requires that they must spend four hours a day in school. Director Mason N. Litson is now at work on the eighth of the Tarkington series, entitled "Fans."

Victor Schertzinger commenced the actual filming of "The Concert" last week.

Goldwyn's production of Tom Moore's picture, "Canavan," by Rupert Hughes, has been delayed several days by the sudden illness of Director E. Mason Hopper.

Director Frank Lloyd and company are in San Francisco taking scenes for the all star production of "Out of the Dark."

Director Reginald Barker is this week guiding twelve hundred people in Scotch dress through scenes in a specially built Scotch street two blocks long for "Bunt Pulls the Strings."

FAMOUS PLAYERS TO RELEASE SHORT SUBJECTS AGAIN

Famous Players-Lasky want real two-reel comedies. By the time you read this Mack Swain's Ambrose comedies will be waving a Paramount banner.

Billy B. Van, stage star, will grace the Reelcraft offices for a while, for they just bought six more of his comedies.

Matty Roubert, and papa Roubert, and Frank Mathison are shooting three pictures at a time. The weather is so bad in New York that this is necessary. Edgar Lewis had to take a company back to Hollywood on the weather's account, and Allan Dwan sent his Mr. Wagner to Maine with director Jack DeLacy to shoot his required scenes.

Hal Benedict, manager of the studios of that name, is seriously ill with blood poisoning at this writing. Blanche Scott is running the plant while he is away.

The Famous Players have three companies working: Jack Dillon, directing Justine Johnson; Eddie Dillon, directing Billie Burke; and John Robertson, doing a special.

Metro is working night and day with Director Sidenham about finished on a London stage success. Maxwell Karger is also handling a company.

Thurston, the magician, just completed a feature. Pauline, the hypnotist, also is finishing. There are more idle people than ever there were. They say next season will be a banner year, "but how'll they live till then?" say we.

Julius Singer of the Reelcraft may go out to Hollywood to sign up a few comedy companies.

All the producers here are trying to make imitation "humoresques" because the original is making such a hit.

This year will be a banner one for independent producers, the wiseacres all say. Good features and comedies will find a ready waiting market. This tip is bona fide and the moguls of the movies whisper it aloud.

Sylvia Nadina, Polish actress and concert singer, has been picked to play the part of Madame Todoharda, the French confidence woman in "Determination."

Leonce Perret has just finished cutting the production he made in Europe, "The Diamond from the Sky," and turned it over to Pathe. Mr. Perret will take a month's vacation, shooting, boating and reading, before starting on his new feature, "The Light That Failed." It will go into production about October 15th.

Miriam Cooper is playing the principal role in the production which her husband, R. A. Walsh, is producing, entitled "Idols."

Maxwell Karger, director-general, Metro, New York studios, will devote his time starting shortly to the making of five special Maxwell Karger productions, starring Bert Lytell.

B. S. Moss have moved their headquarters from the Broadway Theatre building to the Palace Theatre building.

Mildred Harris Chanlin, wife of the comedian, has been invited to make the opening address at the new million dollar Pantages Theatre, Toronto, Canada.

A. D. A. COLLECTING STAMPS FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS

The Assistant Directors' Association has launched a campaign whereby it hopes to secure a large quantity of foreign postage stamps for disabled veterans of the World War encamped at Arrowhead. Motion picture stars and the public in general are urged to save the stamps from any foreign mail and forward them to the Assistant Directors' Association, 5444 Hollywood Boulevard, where they will in turn be placed in the hands of the crippled and maimed soldiers, who find considerable enjoyment in collecting the stamps.

SERIAL COMPANY ON LOCATION

Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber are at Catalina filming the fourth chapter of their latest serial, "The Crimson Lash." J. Grubb Alexander and Harvey Gates, the authors, are co-directing. The serial is being produced by Ben Wilson's new producing organization, The Berwillia Film Corporation, occupying the former Bulls-Eye studios on Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood.

VIDOR COMMENCES THIRD INDEPENDENT PRODUCTION

Active work has been started by King Vidor Productions on "The Sky Pilot," Ralph Connor's novel.

This story was selected after 108 original and published vehicles had been considered. It is Vidor's third independent production, and the first to be filmed in his recently completed Hollywood studio. Work on casting and story adaptation has been carried on for some time.

Ira H. Morgan continues as chief cameraman.

Rosa Gore is playing with Jimmy Aubrey comedies at Vitagraph.

Miriam Battista and Bobbie Connelly will be seen in support of William Faversham in "The Sin That Was His."

"Scrap Iron," Charles Van Loan's magazine story, has been purchased by Charles Ray for early production.

The Lesser interests have bought the world rights to "Souls of Men," featuring Will Jeffries.

Director Harry Beaumont expects to announce soon his plans for independent productions.

Frank Weed has joined William Duncan for an important part in "The Wizard Spyglass," his new Vitagraph serial.

"The Veiled Mystery" will mark Antonio Moreno's last appearance in the "black-and-blue" drama. He will go from serials to feature work.

Upon the completion of "The Veiled Mystery," Antonio Moreno plans to make a tour of Mexico, taking with him the new Vitagraph serial.

Larry Richardson has deserted comedy for drama, being just the type William Duncan wanted for his heavy in his new Vitagraph serial.

Lucille Rubey, formerly leading woman for Neal Burns at the National Studio, is on a visit to her home in Texas. Upon her return she will have her own producing company, which will film two-reel situation comedies.

NEW THEATRE ON HILL

"Bard's Beautiful Theatre," as it is to be called, opens the middle of September. This new addition to Los Angeles' list of motion picture theatres is being erected on Hill Street between Fourth and Fifth. It will help Hill Street to vie with Broadway for "Great White Way" honors, as it will be the sixth theatre to adorn that street, counting the Grauman Metropolitan Theatre and the Junior Orpheum Theatre, yet to be erected.

Mabel Normand has left for a vacation in New York. She will be gone several weeks.

Sidney Franklin has moved his company of players to the Brunton studio, where work will continue on "Parrot and Company," his initial First National release.

"Home Rule" has been decided on as the release title for Chester Conklin's first two-reel comedy for Special Pictures Corporation, which Harry Edwards is directing.

E. Richard Schayer has been promoted to the rank of co-director by B. B. Hampton of Federal Photoplays. He is co-directing "The Killer," with Howard Hickman at the Brunton Studio.

The two-story fireproof paint and carpenter assembling shop at Metro studio has been completed and is ready for occupancy. One of the features of this new building is the underground storage tanks for paint materials.

A narrow gauge railroad has been built to run entirely around the Charles Ray studio. On it will ride the popular star in an antiquated small town trolley car in some scenes for "Nineteen and Phyllis," which is Mr. Ray's present vehicle for future First National release.

HERMANN PLANT ENTERTAINS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEN

The Hermann Film Corporation was host to the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the beach cities, Saturday, Aug. 28th, 1920. About two hundred Chamber of Commerce officials and friends visited the new studio at Santa Monica and witnessed the taking of scenes for "Something More," the Hermann production.

Motion pictures, which will be shown in all the cities represented in the gathering, were taken of the visiting delegates.

Lee Royal is scenario editor for the Renco Film Company.

Louis Bennison has signed with the Renco Company.

Leila McCarthy is the new leading woman for Jimmy Aubrey in Vitagraph comedies.

Joe Brandt announces he will start 1921 output productions of the "Hallroom Boys" comedies in two weeks.

Arthur G. Hopkins, title writer, has been signed up to work exclusively for the Special Pictures Corporation.

Jean Paige, Vitagraph star, has returned from a month's shopping tour to New York. She will play the lead in "Black Beauty."

Richard Dix is playing the lead opposite Sylvia Breamer in "Parrot and Company," being produced for First National under the direction of Sidney Franklin.

Chester Robertson has been engaged by La Carmen Productions to play a part in "Can a Woman Forget?" in which he will do a card specialty.

Francis Conrad has been engaged to play leads opposite Chester Conklin in his two-reel comedies for Special Pictures Corporation.

Clyde Cook, Australian comedian, has been signed by William Fox to make eight two-reelers a year under the direction of Jack Blystone.

Earl D. Shanks, former studio executive with Mary Pickford, has been named studio manager for the Special Pictures Corporation.

Vola Vale is William Russell's latest leading woman in Scotty Dunlop's production of "The Iron Rider," a story by Frank L. Packard, who wrote "The Miracle Man" as a novel.

Arthur E. Rousseau, manager of Pathe's Foreign Department, returned last week from Europe on "La Lorraine." Mr. Rousseau visited England, France and Belgium, where he studied the motion picture conditions in Europe.

Georges Rizard has returned to Los Angeles after completing an eighteen months' contract as chief cinematographer for the American Film Company studios in Santa Barbara, where he has been responsible for the photography of their special all-star feature productions.

President Louis W. Thompson of the Special Pictures Corporation, is planning a trip to New York the last of this month. H. J. Roberts, general sales manager, recently returned from the metropolis after making new releasing arrangements for the output of the Special Pictures Corporation.

Robert Brunton left Los Angeles this week by motor on a combined business and pleasure trip to San Francisco. Upon his return the producer will start preparatory work on a new all-star feature.

Bob Horner is developing the continuity of "Souls for Sale."

According to recently signed contracts between Willard Lee Hall and George W. Pyper of Universal, the former's play, "Out of the Past," will be re-written for the screen.

STARS TO ENTER LIVESTOCK SHOW

Pauline Frederick, Jack Holt, Mary Miles Minter, Wesley Barry, and many others will enter blooded stock at the Livestock Show, Exposition Park, October 2-10.

Tom Mix, Douglas Fairbanks, Buck Jones, "Hoot" Gibson, Harry Carey and Bill Hart will compete in the rodeo events.

The program includes a daily equestrian circus—horse show, rodeo and running race classics.

Madge Tyrone left for New York last week on business for Louis B. Mayer.

"Ducks and Drakes," a stage comedy by Elmer Harris, has been secured for production by the Realart Pictures Corporation. Mr. Harris will do the scenario.

Three members of the Chester Comedy executive staff have considered favorably the matrimonial plunge. They include Guy DeLong, auditor, who recently married Nevada Wolfe; Charles Hochberg, chief cutter of Chester comedies, who married Rose Lippman; and Tom McGowan, film editor of Chester Outings, who announces that he will lead Miss Sue Wood to the altar on Sept. 11th.

actress. There is nothing of routine in this hand, it is so full of sudden inspirations that any deadly round of duties would cause greater emotionality, even if outwardly suppressed.

The Patrician of the Screen who writes in this enthusiastic manner, the writing fairly hop-skipping and jumping up and down, is highly ambitious, also. Her capitals are tall and individualistic, she is creative and courageous, and she can love ardently. Her writing shows splendid imagination, highly sensitive organism, and great pride. The d's and t's are widely looped—which also indicates psychic powers of no mean order. Miss Childers is an intuitive character reader. She writes splendid t-bars, showing her will power and aggression, but as she closes here a's and o's and fairly loops the lower "phatt" body of a d, one assumes that she will, through pride and secretiveness hide her emotions, mind her own business, and dislike busy-bodies and gossips heartily. She is great-hearted, loves to spend energy, money and time extravagantly, and doesn't count the cost when she is after a thing. She's an optimist.

2. J. CULLEN LANDIS, ALSO OF GOLDWYN:

This young man knows what he wants. He has a little bump of suspicion so that he soon discovers what OTHERS want—if they try to "work him." He likes to be unselfish and kind, but he is shrewd and observant, a little self-conscious—for he observes even his own make-up carefully. Excuse the pun?

He also is inspirational. You will remember that the shaped i-dot, which is so easily discoverable under a magnifying glass, betrays originality, quick conceptions and much impulsiveness. Mr. Landis likes approbation and he has the courage of his convictions, for you see that his name is underscored heavily. He has individuality, for the writing is entirely unusual. It is a little inclined to nerves, may develop into temperament at times, but as there is much outward control and a critical spirit which covers the young man's actions continually, he will rarely betray his annoyance in public, unless there is very good cause. His best future would lie in dramatic roles, for he is analytical as well as spontaneous.

3. RAYMOND HATTON:

Now here you have a slightly sarcastic hand, it's so sharply pointed, so pithy, that the writer must talk right to the point when annoyed. Moreover, he has unusual wit and insight; just note that sharply defined "y" which has one stroke higher than the other—a sign of humor and mimicry. Indeed, it is exceptionally strong as to the last-named characteristic, which is undoubtedly the reason for Mr. Hatton's wonderful characterizations, his diversity in make-up, his appreciation of every little fine point in portraying a role.

He is very positive. You'll see how he bears down on all lower strokes, how his d strikes below the imaginary base-line, how he underscores the last name and brings the bar back with a little stubborn hook. You've got to give him facts—when you oppose the young man in an argument.

Even the long, enthusiastic, decisive t-bar has that end-hook. This writer would make a splendid lawyer or physician, he focuses so clearly, is analytical and critical to the bursting point, will seldom fail in diagnosis. Of course, that all helps in dramatic work, as well as in directing, cutting a picture, or giving any play a write-up.

4. IRENE RICH:

This hand is rather quietly thoughtful; shows the possibilities of a rich spirit. Miss Rich should study intensively; she is meditative and deliberate, although she also shows rapid inspirations. BUT—she won't plunge into danger, she is too cautious for that. You note that some of her terminal strokes curl back like the kitten's can-tying appendage. Yet in the body of her message, Irene Rich shows optimism, enthusiasm, and unusually high ideals. She is proud—the capital I is a plump little affair which leans towards the left, betraying a sudden drawing back when people affront the young lady's idea of good form.

She is highly unselfish and ready to sacrifice. Here's the sort of girl who would make an ideal wife and mother. She doesn't quarrel, she's always ready to lend a hand, she is domestic in her tastes, appreciative of neatness and system. Her capital R is very beautiful in its plain but artistic lines. There's not a stroke too much; there is nothing ostentatious or upstage about the young lady either, when she's your friend—you can count on her to help you out of any difficulty and to show you warm sympathy.

5. RUTH B. MERRITT (OF MITCH LEWIS PRODUCTIONS):

Here is a very refined, thoughtful, systematic and reliable hand. It is emotional enough, for letters are apt to vary in size and shape, but she has studied outward control and works intensively at whatever she undertakes. She is very unselfish, kind-hearted and affectionate, but hates bluffs and outward show. She is critical and analytical, too, will be very particular as to the friends she chooses, especially among the mere males. Consequently, it is very likely that Ruthie will marry well.

She thinks fast but acts with deliberation after studying every phase of the situation confronting her. She would make a splendid secretary or confidential clerk. She doesn't need watching when at work; pride makes her fulfil every duty to the best of her ability. She detests dirt, sloppy methods, rudeness and extravagance. She is careful as to her purchases, not stingy, but always knows values and doesn't waste the things she owns. I consider this a hand of excellent judgment. It is sure to get ahead financially, too. Her capitals are artistic, plain and beautiful, showing good birth and breeding, refinement and self-sufficiency.

6. DELPHINE DE REMEAUX:

Here's a truly unusual and artistic handwriting—my only objection to it being the tear-drops over the i's. That fad doesn't show originality, as so many young folks seem to think. If they saw as many of those April-shower pages of writing as I glimpse in a month, they would sprinkle in the ordinary, old-fashioned fly-speck of i-dot.

But, outside of that, Delphine is quite original, loves all that is artistic, writes a very colorful PHIST, and is proud, at times even haughty. She is very particular as to her associates, loves to dress and appear well, minds her own business to the point of secretiveness, is shrewd, will make money, and won't let any one talk her out of a conviction. You see, she's very positive and more than that—she is a true medium. She senses instantly what people think, what they mean, despises their hypocrisies and shams. She is very susceptible to flattery, however, writing abnormally looped letters, which indicate a love of approbation.

Knowing this, I would not suggest a motion picture career to her. She should be on the stage, where she can hear the plaudits of the audience, be showered with beautiful buds, and where the glowing colors of the frocks she will artistically choose may delight others as well as herself.

She would make a very fine artistic dancer, a classical entertainer. Nothing commonplace should be her vocation. She is a futurist—a creative spirit, would have no

7. OTTO HOEY:

This hand shows a great deal of impulsiveness, offset by suspicion. The t-bar is set low down, showing that he hates to be stung. He is watchful of his interests. Moreover, the y stops short on the left of letter, betraying quite a little caution and deliberation. The capital H has musical curves. The o is so well closed that one assumes Mr. Hoey doesn't believe in telling his private business. He is unselfish and kind, but not extravagant. The writing shows force and emphasis, speed, energy, resistance. He would make a good salesman, although he loves dramatic dork; couldn't keep him away from a good show!

Worthy of Serious Consideration

When a security that is fundamentally sound is further strengthened by an unconditional guarantee which places behind it vast resources of diversified wealth, little need be added concerning the dependability of that investment.

The issue of Sutter Basin Company Land Mortgage 8% Serial Gold Bonds is such a security.

It is fundamentally sound because inherent factors of strength are found in the land securing these bonds. Of the 55,122 acres owned by the Company, 45,654 are completely irrigated and practically all under cultivation. The soil is especially productive of such crops as beans, rice, melons, grain, fruit and truck vegetables.

The land is conservatively appraised at $17,000,000. Earnings last year applicable to interest and depreciation were $761,784.44. Net earnings for 1920 are estimated at $1,750,000.

The unconditional guarantee further strengthening this investment is the personal guarantee of J. Ogden Armour, incorporated as a part of the pledge of each bond.

These factors make the assurance and dependability of this security practically unassailable. We recommend this investment to you because it offers you in the highest degree soundness and high yield.

Call at our office today, write or phone for full information contained in descriptive Circular C911.

A Tribute to Robert Harron

A week ago the world received the press news that Robert Harron was near death, resultant of an accidental revolver shot. During the suspense that followed, it held its breath as humanity is prone to do, unwilling to realize the worst.

Then upon Monday, September 6th, we learned that the man who was too young, too talented and too well loved to die, had left our plane forever.

The public is shocked and grieved over the going of this boy who long since won his way to its heart with his clean, simple charm, for there is scarcely a picture fan but has felt the beneficial effect of the wholesomeness in the quaint characterizations portrayed by him. To the thousands who look upon the photoplay as realism, the dead lad has always been the very representative of right.

But it is the profession that suffers most keenly over this loss to the world. For it has known Bobbie as only his constant associates could ever know him. It has worked with him, played with him, and through it all, loved him. It remembers him as one of the finest, highest minded young men in the business to which he gave his best. The world never produced a cleaner boy or a straighter man. The film colony's sorrow just now is poignant.

With the passing weeks, however, we, who can scarcely comprehend his absence, will awaken to the consciousness that the youth of him makes the thing bigger and more easily reconciled. That he should at his age be ready for the progress to which we go from this earth, is more than significant. He has attained that for which we must yet struggle many years.

So in time we will realize that we could not conscientiously detain him. His going has to be right. Our alternative will be to cherish, respect and take pride in the memory of this Robert Harron, who was our friend.

FROM A SCREEN MOTHER

"Having been a 'Stage-mother' many times to Robert Harron, may I claim the honor of adding a few words to the many already voiced about dear Bobbie?

It was easy to feel a mother's love for him; he was so clean, loyal and kind; just the son a woman could love.

May God comfort his real mother and may she feel the heart throb of all stage-mothers in her grief.

With love and sympathy to Bobbie's family, I am,
JOSEPHINE CROWELL.

A Divine Representative?

The editor of the Billboard, in the following extract, relates an amusing action of the Pope, taken recently in behalf of our benighted profession. We give it space because of the smile that is in it, and the significance of the last remark:

"From our foreign exchanges we clip the interesting information that upon application of several devout Catholic motion picture men in various parts of Europe, His Holiness, the Pope, had assigned a member of the College of Cardinals to the task of selecting a suitable patron saint for the motion picture industry. The Cardinal, after due deliberation, selected St. John the Baptist. The reason for this, as explained by the Cardinal, is the fame for moral severity which the saint has achieved. The motion picture men, in the judgment of the Cardinal, ought to adopt a code of strict morality in the making and showing of pictures. Possibly the Cardinal's view is a trifle austere, and I am afraid the screen will never cherish that horror of dancing which characterized the holy Baptist. Generally speaking, however, the selection of St. John seems to be a very happy one, for I am sure that the mere avoidance of too much nudity will be pleasing to the good saint."

Better Prologues

According to recent statements from First National an attempt is being made by that organization to improve the atmospheric prologues to its pictures.

We understand that this movement was the suggestion of Sol Lesser and the Gore Brothers.

In congratulating the managers of the Los Angeles Kinema, we wish to say that other houses could follow First National's example to advantage. Up to the present these prologue presentations in Los Angeles have been far from successful.

Although it has even occurred to us that the absolute elimination of them would be a favor to humanity, we expectantly await improvement in this line.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

VIOLA DANA TO DO FITZGERALD STORY

"An Offshore Pirate," a story by F. Scott Fitzgerald, has been selected by Metro as Viola Dana's next starring vehicle.

Filming of the picture will be started as soon as a yacht can be found to serve as a background for the plot. Selection of members of Miss Dana's supporting company already has begun.

"An Offshore Pirate" was selected and purchased by Bayard Veiller, chief of Metro's West Coast story producing department almost immediately after its publication in The Saturday Evening Post.

JESSE D. HAMPTON RETURNS TO L. A. WITH NEW PROGRAM

Affiliation with a group of European and American capitalists; the starring of H. B. Warner and Blanche Sweet on the stage; the transferring of production activities from the west to the east coast; these were projects outlined by Jesse D. Hampton on his return this week from New York.

With the consummation of the proposed deal with eastern financiers will come expansion of Hampton's present producing program with its scope extended to the stage.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Hampton recently completed a new $250,000 studio, it will mean the transfer of his activities to New York. In this event the syndicate will take over the property and make it a rental studio available for independent producing units.

NEW STAGE AT HERMANN STUDIO

The Hermann Film Corporation has completed the installation of its electrical equipment and is now building a modern projection room on the grounds. Ground is being broken for a new stage, which will be 150 feet wide and 150 feet long, overtopping the recently completed stage by twenty-five feet in each dimension.

Dressing rooms are provided on each stage, a system of call bells being installed, which enables the directors to call the actors for each scene and eliminates the crowding of the stage and sets with people not actually working in the scene.

"PARDS" IS NEXT NEILAN PRODUCTION

Following the completion of "Dinty," Marshall Neilan announces "Pards" as the title of his next production.

This photoplay will be based on Ben Ames Williams' story, which recently appeared in Collier's, "Not a Drum Was Heard."

"Pards" will mark Mr. Neilan's fifth production for First National, and will follow "Dinty" in order of release. To stage this picture the entire Neilan organization will be taken to Glacier Park, Montana, where the story will be screened in practically its entirety. It is expected that the troupe will be away for nearly two months when they will return to Hollywood to put on a number of interiors.

The scenario has already been completed by Marion Fairfax.

REVIER TO PRODUCE ABROAD

Upon the completion of "The Son of Tarnan," Harry Revier expects to leave for Europe, accompanied by Roy Somerville, photo-dramatist, and a company of fifteen or twenty players. His present plans include stopping at a South American port and several other points en route to film scenes for a production, which will be completed in Italy.

GASNIER MAY BE DIRECTOR-GENERAL

It is expected that Louis Gasnier, Robertson-Cole director, will be made director-general of that organization's new, nearly completed studios.

Gasnier is at present engaged in cutting "Kismet" in which he directed Otis Skinner.

Nell Shipman, director, star and scenarist of Nell Shipman Productions.

NELL SHIPMAN INCORPORATES

The state department has returned approved incorporation papers authorizing the creation of a corporation to be known as the Nell Shipman Productions, Inc., with a paid in capital of $250,000, whereby Miss Shipman becomes a producer, director and star. Associated with the star in the new enterprise are W. H. Cline, the local theater owner, and Bert Van Tuyle.

Bert Van Tuyle, production manager of "Back to God's Country," will co-direct with Miss Shipman.

Joe Walker, who recorded "Back to God's Country" for the screen, will have charge of the camera work in the new venture.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE FILMS PICTURE ABROAD

According to advices from the eastern office of Joseph M. Schenck, Constance Talmadge's next production for First National release will be "The Chessboard," a short story recently published in Young's Magazine. The name of the screen production will be "Dangerous Business," and many of the scenes will be filmed in Europe, where Connie, in company with the entire Talmadge family, is dividing her time between sight-seeing with her sisters and listening to the dictates of R. William Neill, her director.

WHITMAN BENNETT MAKING SPECIAL SERIES FOR FIRST NATIONAL RELEASE

According to a wire received this week by Sol Lesser, Associated First National's program will be augmented by three special productions by Whitman Bennett. These are in addition to the four Lionel Barrymore productions already provided for.

These pictures are to constitute a series of dramatic subjects based on themes of intimate feminine interest. The first of these will be "The Profligate," by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, which is already being filmed at his Yonkers studio under the direction of Kenneth Webb.

DORALDINA PRODUCTION NOT TO BE RE-TITLED

Doralinda tells us that the recent announcement to the effect that her forthcoming production has been re-titled "But Yet a Woman" is an error. The picture will be released under its original title, "Passion Fruit."

HICKMAN DIRECTS "THE KILLER"

Correcting a mistake in announcements sent out concerning his photoplay, "The Killer," a Stewart Edward White story now being filmed at Brunton studios, Benjamin B. Hampton states that the director of this production is Howard Hickman, not E. Richard Schayer as previously stated. Mack Conway, former Ben Hampton director, is cast in the title role, Mr. Schayer wrote the continuity, and is learning directing under Mr. Hickman's tutelage.

SHORT SUBJECT COMPANY FORMED

Announcement is made by P. H. White of W. H. Alkire Enterprises, of Los Angeles, of the formation there of a new company named Animated Models Company, sponsored by J. L. Roop and J. P. White.

The company is confining its operations to the producing of animated cartoons, using flexible figures or models invented and patented by Mr. Roop. Five hundred foot productions will be released.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

IRVING LESSER SENDS REPRESENTATIVE ON TRANSCONTINENTAL TOUR

With the departure of Edward Manley, representative of Irving M. Lesser, general manager for the Western Pictures Exploitation Company in Los Angeles, Lesser announces that national distribution is now completed for the Hugh Evans production of "The Stranger" and the feature film titled "Sky-Eye."

Mr. Manley will visit the important exchange centers throughout the country and will ultimately arrive in New York city, where he will work on foreign rights for Lesser's features, among which are "That Something," "The Sentimental Bloke" (an Australian film), "Sins of the World," "Souls of Men," all Cinal slow motion process films, and an Annette Kellerman feature titled "The Art of Diving."

C. B. C. FILM SALES TO MARKET FEATURE

Joe Brandt, president of the newly-formed C. B. C. Film Sales Corporation, who is now at the coast supervising production of a serial and several short subjects for this organization, announces that he has purchased the first big feature picture for C. B. C. marketing.

The C. B. C. service, according to Jack Cohn, who is in charge of the New York office, includes the cutting and titling of all negatives contracted for, complete advertising from lobby displays to twenty-four sheets, and exploitation on every picture distributed by them.

RAY PRODUCTION HAS FIRST SHOWING

The first showing of Charles Ray's second production for First National release, "Peaceful Valley," was held last week at the Ray studio. Besides the star and his staff, Sol Lesser, western executive for First National, and Col. Fred Levy, franchise holder for Kentucky, were present.

RIGHTS ON BUTLER PRODUCTION

According to a recent announcement of Joseph Klein, general manager of C. N. Schwab Productions, Inc., fifty-five per cent of the territory on "Fickle Women," their first release, has been closed.

In addition to "Fickle Women," adds Mr. Klein, they will shortly release two more features, also with David Butler in the leading roles. They are "Girls Don't Gamble," and "Smiling All the Way."

BESSIE LOVE RIGHTS SOLD

The territorial rights for all the new Bessie Love productions for China, Manchuria, Japan, Philippines, Manila and South America have been disposed of, according to her producers.

Stuart Holmes has been engaged by Metro to appear in support of Madame Doraldina in "Passion Fruit," her first starring picture under her new contract with the producing company.

Charles Huber, formerly assistant director at the Fox studios, has accepted an offer from a motion picture company in New York. He left Los Angeles for the Eastern metropolis this week.

Dick Jones will go back to Sennett after his work cutting the latest Dorothy Gish picture is accomplished, we hear. He has produced three for Griffith in the East.

SCHLANK GOES EAST TO SIGN RELEASE CONTRACTS

Morris R. Schlank, producer of Hank Mann Comedies, has gone to New York. During his intended three weeks' stay, he will visit the Arrow Film Corporation to sign new release contracts.

Mr. Schlank expects to have four units working under his banner this fall.

Gladys George, who is appearing this week in "Homespun Folks" at Tally's.

Current Reviews

"THE ROUND-UP"

The Lasky adaptation by Tom Forman of Edmund Day's "The Round-Up" is the Gräuman feature. The scenario is well balanced and the sub-titles, taken in great part from the play, are excellent. Much of the action is accomplished with gorgeous scenic backgrounds that lend a realism impossible to any legitimate production.

Roscoe Arbuckle, the star, is immense as Slim Hoover, the well remembered sheriff. "Fatty" is a decided hit in his first picture of this type. His relief is subtle.

Irving Cummings plays Dick Lane, the romantic man of the desert. With his work he adds another success to an enviable list.

Tom Forman enacts Jack Payson. Mr. Forman made a far better job of the play's picturization than he does of his role. He gives the impression of being disinterested.

Mabel J. Scott does Echo Allen in the old stereotyped fashion of melodramatic heroines. She gets by, but does not particularly please.

Of course, the terrible villain, Buck McKee, is played by Wallace Beery. Both his make-up and characterization are realistic. Roles of this kind have revealed him to be the screen's most sensational heavy.

Jean Acker is typical as the giggly little Polly, and Eddie Sutherland, who is cast as Dick Lane's brother, has a sulky attraction that may some day cause his cinema success.

Guy Oliver and Jane Wolfe do Uncle Jim and Aunt Josephine satisfactorily.

Lucien Littlefield, Fred Huntley and George Kuwa add to the whole much amusement as ranch hands.

George Melford directed the production.

"THE MAN WHO HAD EVERYTHING"

Jack Pickford does "The Man Who Had Everything" at the California. The story's plot is old, but on the whole is more interesting and consistent than this star's late vehicles.

Jack is far better as Harry Bullway, a spoiled, reckless scion of wealth, for instance, than he was as the Llano Kid-killer in "The Double-Dyed Deceiver."

Lucille Bonner is rather lost as Lou Winn, the feminine lead. She is not at her best doing nothing.

Lionel Belmore is more than interesting as Mark Bullway, the boy's father. He is given much footage and he employs it wisely.

Alec Francis is very good as the theorizing blind man.

Shannon Day introduces a different vampire in Lenora Pennell. While observing the general type, she inserts a charm into the role that is not "of the wicked."

Carl Gerard is well cast as Bill.

Al Green directed the picture for Goldwyn.

"THE DEVIL'S PASSKEY"

Universal offers Erich von Stroheim's "The Devil's Passkey" at the Superba for a two weeks' run. The story is too morbid to be pleasing, and as adapted and cut, is draggy. The photography is very poor. These points coupled with a mediocre cast render the picture far below what is expected of von Stroheim.

Sam de Grasse is satisfactory as Warren Goodwright, the American author. There is, however, too much obvious direction in his work.

Una Trevelyn fails to make any sort of a point as Grace Goodwright. Her performance displays neither technique nor screen personality.

Clyde Fillmore enacts Captain Rex Strong, the more or less honorable Don Juan.

Maude George does some good work as Madame Malot, and Leo White has excellent comedy in the role of Mr. Malot.

Mae Busch rather overdoes Odera in an apparent attempt to give her personality.

Ruth King is good as the Countess De Trouvre and Jack Matheis plays the small role of her husband, the Count.

"HAIRPINS"

Ince presents Enid Bennett in an entertaining picture entitled "Hairpins" at Clune's Broadway.

The story's idea is very old, but the interesting performances make it pleasing. The sub-titles are good.

Enid Bennett is charming as Muriel Rossmore. The role is one that will go particularly well with her feminine followers.

Matt Moore provides much amusement as Rex Rossmore, the young husband, who persists in misunderstanding.

Hal Gordon is cleverly played by William Conklin. The part, though comparatively small, means considerable under his treatment.

Margaret Livingstone does Effie Wainwright, the fatal stenographer, satisfactorily, and Grace Morse is well cast as Mrs. Kent.

Al Filson plays John Furman.

Fred Niblo directed the Paramount production.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

GETTING ACQUAINTED WITH INTERESTING PEOPLE

Pauline Curley

That valuable motion picture combination, youth and blondness, belongs to Pauline Curley, leading woman for Antonio Moreno in Vitagraph serials. Miss Curley's two recent serials with Mr. Moreno, "The Invisible Hand" and "The Veiled Mystery," have won her a strong following throughout the country.

Her ability as a screen actress, even at her youth, is natural, insofar as she was on the stage as a child, playing in stock companies and in coast to coast tours over Keith and Orpheum time when only five years of age. With this beginning it is not strange that she undertook leading roles in pictures with credit to herself when hardly more than fifteen years of age.

Before becoming leading woman for Tony Moreno she established herself as an actress by carrying important parts in large productions for Lasky, Arcraft, Brentwood and Brenon. She is now finishing "The Veiled Mystery" at Vitagraph.

"The Veiled Mystery," perhaps, gives her one of the strongest acting parts she has had. As the title suggests the story is based upon a theme which calls for situations difficult to portray.

In "The Invisible Hand," she played an excellent role as a girl detective, and won favorable comment from critics everywhere.

Coupled with being an actress who can portray any role to which she is assigned. Pauline Curley is competent to accomplish any of the difficult physical feats for which she is called upon in serial production. She rides, swims and can drive a car like a professional. She is athletic in every sense and actually does the difficult and dangerous stunts in which she has been seen on the screen in recent chapter dramas.

Eva Lewis is spending several weeks in San Francisco.

Hardee Kirkland is playing Dr. Chesnel in "Madame X" at the California this week.

Clara Kimball Young is starring in "Mid-Channel," a Garson production.

Ralph Lewis began work on "Outside the Law" at Universal City a few days ago.

Bobby Brown is playing J. Maurice Foster in "What Happened to Jones" this week at Clune's Broadway.

Lillian Leighton has just signed with the Nell Shipman Company to play the part of a squaw.

Ortega, stock actor of Universal, has been loaned to Neal Hart to play an Indian chief.

Little Mickey Moore is cast for the child part in the new Mary Miles Minter picture at Lasky's.

Pat Moore has been cast as the Prince of Sheba in the forthcoming Fox production, "The Queen of Sheba."

Rene Williams, formerly conductor of the California Theater Orchestra, is to conduct the Kinema Theater Orchestra, beginning Saturday, September 10th.

David Brandman, who has been secretary to Isadore Bernstein, producing manager at Universal City, for the past five months, has been promoted to the position of Bernstein's assistant.

H. A. Hathaway of the National studios was elected a member of the Assistant Directors' Association at its last meeting, Friday night.

Lester Manter, until recently co-director with Eddie Polo at the "U," is assisting Jacques Jaccard in the production of Frank Mayo's latest story, "The Throwback."

Earl Taite, until recently press representative for the Symphony, Superba and Victory theaters, has been made house manager of the Victory.

Edward Phillips, formerly juvenile in New York studios, has arrived in Hollywood to play a part in Mary Pickford's forthcoming production.

Virginia Fox of the Sennett bathing girls this week signed a contract to appear opposite Buster Keaton in his forthcoming two-reel productions for Metro release.

Gordon Hollingshead, who assisted Louis Gasnier in the direction of "Kismet," left the Haworth studios here this week for Big Bear Lake to assist in the production of Mae Marsh's newest vehicle "The Girl in the Woods."

Eddie Baker, who was featured in a number of Christie comedies, has been placed under contract with the Special Pictures Corporation, and will work under the direction of Reggie Morris.

Jack Sullivan, formerly city staff reporter and special story writer for the Providence (R. I.) Journal, Cleveland News-Leader and Boston Globe, is en route to Los Angeles to establish publicity headquarters in this city.

OLIVE THOMAS DEAD

Olive Thomas died yesterday in Paris as the result of poisoning.

All efforts of her husband, Jack Pickford, and physicians failed to save her life after she had swallowed a mercurial solution.

The two Los Angeles picture stars were vacationing in Europe.

W. B. Klingensmith is father to a new eight-pound boy born August 24th.

Hallam Cooley has returned from his vacation at Catalina Island.

Albert Hale is production manager of the American Bioscope Films at Tampa, Florida.

Classic Film Actors Agency is now occupying its new offices at 310 and 311 Grosse Building.

Tom Bates' condition is improving, following an operation at the Clara Barton Hospital.

Charles Parrot is suffering from a nervous breakdown. As a result Hank Mann is without a director.

Kathleen Kirkham has gone to Big Bear Lake on location. She will return the latter part of the week.

Dorothy Hagan has just finished with Eddie Polo, playing Mrs. Howard in "The King of the Circus."

Margaret Cullington, who recently finished a series of pictures with the Christies, has been vacationing at Santa Barbara for a few days.

Bert Glennon left Australia upon the "Sonoma" August 18th for the States. He will continue production of the Snowy Baker pictures.

E. Mason Hopper has recovered from an illness of a week and has resumed the direction of "Canavan," a Goldwyn picture by Rupert Hughes, starring Tom Moore.

Chester's latest comedy just completed under the direction of William S. Campbell, will be known as "The One Best Pet," featuring "Snooky," the Humanzee.

Edmund Lowe has returned to New York City after completing a picture with Katherine McDonald. Lowe is to be featured in a stage play there while working in pictures during the day.

Buster Keaton's forthcoming Metro-Keaton comedy has been titled "Paradise Alley," according to an announcement from Lou Anger, western manager for the comedy organization.

Edward Earle, who is now playing the leading male role in Metro's first production starring Mme. Doraldina, is seeking a building site for a home in the foothills about Hollywood.

John Sainpolis, who is enacting the part of "Laurier" in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," will return to New York as soon as he completes his work in the Metro picture, to resume his old part in a revival of "The Return of Peter Grimm" on the speaking stage.

DORALDINA'S ORIGINAL ORCHESTRA IN METRO PICTURE

Madame Doraldina's original Hawaiian orchestra, made up of seven Hawaiian players of stringed instruments, has arrived in Hollywood from New York. They are working with the dancer on her first Metro starring picture, "Passion Fruit."

Harry Beaumont, who will soon be an independent producer.

Analysis of Handwriting

By Fritzi Remont

In sending handwriting for analysis, readers will kindly remember that such should have proper placement on a decent sheet of paper, not just a scrap holding a signature. Don't ask for private readings or carbon copies, but send your friends additional copies of Camera! There is a charge for private readings, but those who enjoy the free analyses in Camera should be willing to interest their friends in the magazine, you know.

Write in ink and give me sufficient handwriting to analyse. The signature alone will be reproduced. Don't ask for a reading in the next issue because you must consider traveling time, the necessity for making a cut of the signature, and date on which the feature is required to be in the printer's hands.

1. EDYTHE CHAPMAN, OF GOLDWYN STUDIOS

Here's a sparkling hand, showing lots of vim and good will, humor, comedy, bright perceptions. The letters are separated, betraying intuition highly developed, and the very much looped d gives gives corroborative evidence of the sensitive, psychic insight.

Edythe Chapman should be a pretty good medium, and it runs in my mind that she's been a Ouija-boarder for some years past. She'll have no difficulty in getting impressions about others. She may safely trust her hunches in a business way. She is independent, rugged. You could not imagine the writer of such a signature to be a cling-

GOTTSCHALK COMPLETES SCORE FOR DWAN PICTURE

Allan Dwan has received word from Louis F. Gottschalk that he has completed the music score for "In the Heart of a Fool," Dwan's Mayflower production for First National release.

Mr. Gottschalk has spent eight weeks in the preparation of this score.

COLONEL FRED LEVY TENDERS FRIENDS FAREWELL DINNER

Prior to his departure from his home in Kentucky, Col. Fred Levy, First National franchise holder and director, gave a farewell dinner at his Los Angeles residence. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Sol Lesser and Mr. and Mrs. George Beban.

Nate Watt, who is directing Franklyn Farnum, is taking his company of Selig players on location to Newhall.

Harry Carey is writing a story for his own use, to follow his current production of "West Is West," by Eugene Manlove Rhodes.

Florence Turner is the newest addition to the Metro stock company, Miss Turner has signed a long term contract to appear exclusively in the company's productions.

"Wet and Warmer" will be Henry Lehrman's third comedy release through Associated First National. It was completed this week at the Lehrman plant in Culver City.

We hear that William A. Brady has started a campaign against fake stock selling schemes of picturedom. All new outfits, who offer stock to the public, must subject themselves to investigation. Big men are in with him.

Phyllis Haver is to be accorded the leading feminine role in "Love, Honor and Behave," which will be Mack Sennett's second multiple reeled comedy for First National releases. Charles Murray and Ben Turpin will share the masculine leading honors.

An unexpected angle to the vacation of Miss Sophie Wachner, Goldwyn modiste in charge of the wardrobe, took place Saturday noon in San Francisco when Miss Wachner became the bride of Harold Wyman Powers of New York.

After a two weeks' honeymoon, the Powers will make their home in Los Angeles. Mrs. Powers will continue with the studio for an indefinite period.

Gentlemen:

Kindly give me a little space in your loved magazine and oblige.—A Movie Fan.

Directors and Assistant Directors:

Just one question, please!

Like to know the reason why a butler in full dress wears a black tie?

Have you ever had the pleasure of seeing a real butler? The first class butler in Paris, London, New York, always wears a white tie with a full dress suit.

Many times I have heard people passing remarks on the black tie. Please, gentlemen, correct that awful mistake.

I would be glad through this magazine to give you a precise statement concerning a first class butler's correct dressing, morning, afternoon and evening.

A MOVIE FAN.

Analysis of Handwriting

7. (Miss) A. Rita Mene

ing vine, without individuality, could you? She is very positive in her beliefs, as most intuitives are. Note the downcrossing t-bar which betrays firmness and resistance. The writing is positively but unostentatiously shaded, so Miss Chapman is magnetic, colorful, emphatic in speech. She writes the versatile hand, is blessed with histrionic ability and highly ambitious. You know that to discover emotionality and histrionic talent, you must place a rule or plain sheet of paper under the signature and see whether the letters touch at odd angles, instead of roaming straight across like a thread. Clerks write that baseline which touches evenly right across—that's why they don't rise higher than being clerks, see? The more your letters rise, the higher you'll fly, too. So, judging by all this, Edythe Chapman is quite an aeronaut in the cinema firmament.

2. BUDDIE MESSINGER, OF GOLDWYN
Lor' love us, how we do love the screen kiddies. It's no wonder we love this one, for he writes a round, phatt, loving B, which looks as if it could twine around one's heart and give love as well as get it.

Yes, Buddie shows the histrionic baseline, his high caps are ambitious, his "u" well rounded, betraying good nature, and his "s's" so well closed that, although he writes a generous hand, he's also going to make money and be able to invest it wisely later on. His terminals curl back cautiously and shrewdly, he's retrospective and quite a little thinker, young as he is. He is conscientious, chatty, very optimistic. The laddie is positive also, you'll note some very heavy downstrokes in his letters. The main body of his handwriting shows me varying moods and quick inspirations. He's all boy, lively and effervescent, easily ruled by affection and sympathy.

3. MARSHALL RICKSEN

Here's another of the "Edgar" series of kiddies. This one is more settled and mature than the former, shows a great deal of deliberation much pride and sudden drawing back when things do not suit him. He will be secretive as he grows older, will become more and more studious and probably develop mechanical ability also.

Marshall is shrewd and cautious, very resourceful. He writes a financially successful hand already. There is no telling what heights he may achieve before he's out of his twenties. He has a good trait in this: he's more ambitious for the welfare of others than himself. This trait may be only in embryo, but a wise parent may easily unfold it to its greatest possibilities. This is seen in the fact that the third upper stroke of capital M is much higher than the others. If Marshall wants to keep a thing to himself, you can't force him to tell. He's subject to a little bump of suspicion, too. He shows critical analysis already, is sure to size people up, even if he is too bashful to tell older folks all he sees. He hates to be ridiculed or laughed at, but if you treat him with frank respect, the boy will astonish you with his mental development. He should study music, for one thing. He must be guarded, lest he overwork and become nervous or subject to indigestion. Vitality is good, but the mind is very active; he's inquisitive, curious, hence careful unfoldment is called for.

4. LUCILLE RICKSEN

Edgar's sweetheart is just ten years old, she says. She is a thoughtful little soul, quite reserved and introspective, betraying many of the traits of her brother. The children are well born, show refinement, good taste, development of brain power. Lucille is very sensitive, far more aesthetic-artistic than material in her tendencies. She will respond easily to religious training, to the unfolding of high ideals. That doesn't mean pew-warming, you understand, but the knowledge of right and wrong. You must handle Lucille by giving her reasons. She's not the sort of child to be told "DON'T!" She must have explanations, must be treated with utmost courtesy and justice. She is reserved and has a great deal of dignity for her age. As she grows older, she will become more fastidious and chose her associates very carefully, that is, when it comes to real intimacies. She is unselfish, kindhearted, affectionate, but not gushing. She has a rather timid little soul in some respects, is over-cautious at times, often deliberates or even procrastinates. That is not a fault of desire to harm any one, but rather fear of not just doing the thing right. She also should study music. If she were mine, I'd put her through a college. She shows foundation for splendid womanhood.

5. ARTHUR LAWRENCE REDDEN

This is a very childish hand, although the writer does not give age. It is a timid, retiring little handwriting, showing great conscientiousness, a mild love of humor, good vitality, but some functional disorder, which might be merely a malfunction of digestive tract.

This writer should develop more will power, self-assertion and courage. He is affectionate, kind, generous, sympathetic. His deliberation comes from caution; you'll note in the body of letter that the hand is almost vertical, that the y. and g. lower loop finish at left side of main downstroke, instead of running briskly ahead. That's the sort of stroke one can't make swiftly, it takes a slow action—hence the think-tank of such writers is slow. This young man gets knowledge by plodding and careful attention.

6. WILLIAM LOW

This is a very swift hand, showing great impulsiveness, love of action, energy, belief in his possibilities. You see that Mr. Low writes a cross-cut capital, that he underscores his signature, all of which means desire to win approbation, pleasure in personal adornment, joy of achievement. He is ambitious, goes to great extremes of mood, is highly intuitive, tremendously imaginative. He will speak in superlatives, exaggerate emotion, always feel joy or sorrow more keenly than his conferees but also get over his troubles easily, as he's changeable as to mood and very buoyant of temperament.

However, this whole writing slants violently downward at the right of page. This signifies that Mr. Low has moments of deep indigo, that he travels so fast mentally that he is subject to emotional reactions. He will meet ungrateful folk, people who disappoint him, because he gives lavishly, not counting the cost. He would be subject to less mental suffering if he trusted less. He gets good hunches, but his ardent love nature misleads him frequently. He should study music, drama, writing for publication, dancing. His hand is rhythmical, move-

You'll find "real color" in the Blue Jacket Mine. Count it worth at least a million, for that's the value of the ore in sight. It's among the richest strikes Arizona has witnessed. Then figure its capitalization ($75,000), and that it is operating and shipping ore. Everything is paid for, too. Net monthly profits should be more than the total capitalization!

It's the ONE REAL OPPORTUNITY—that's why Al Nathan, Phil Cohen, Mitchell Lewis and a host of others own Blue Jacket stock. The price is $3.50 per share. Better get in touch with us at once.

AT VITAGRAPH

Simultaneously with the arrival of Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, in Los Angeles from New York, came the filing of a suit for $407,338.22 against Larry Semon. The plaintiff charges that approximately $42,000 was needlessly spent in the production of "The Suitor," the latest Semon comedy. The sum of $356,000 more is asked in damages, because Vitagraph expects to get only seven of the twelve pictures contracted for the first year. The suit was filed in Federal court.

Mr. Smith also issued a formal announcement that Antonio Moreno will appear in feature productions when his current serial, "The Veiled Mystery," is completed this month. It has been reported for some months that Moreno would be placed in features, but the first verification came with the arrival in the west of the Vitagraph president.

In addition to inspecting the plant and the serial production, Mr. Smith writes Vitagraph serials in collaboration with Cleveland Moffett, the head of the organization prepared for the making of "Black Beauty." Jean Paige will appear in the leading role.

Joe Ryan is now at Campo, Calif., where "The Purple Riders," his western serial, is being filmed high in the mountains. The company, which is under the direction of William Bertram, plans to take scenes a day's journey into Lower California.

Earle Williams and Director Chester Bennett have read more than twenty-five books and scripts in selecting the next vehicle for the star to follow "The Romance Promoters." Three of this group of books have been purchased, but the title of the first to be produced is yet to be selected.

Larry Semon has started his next Vitagraph special to follow "The Suitor," the picture which caused the litigation. The new production, for which a title has not yet been selected, will have an Oriental atmosphere.

Jimmy Aubrey is finishing his newest comedy on a farm along the Ventura highway, under the direction of Jess Robbins. The comedian injured his right leg in a leap from a barn and was unable to appear in scenes for a week.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Jacques Jaccard has returned from ten days at Balboa Beach, where some exteriors were made for "The Throwback," in which Frank Mayo is starred.

After three weeks at Jerome, Arizona, Harry Carey has returned with some scenes for "West Is West."

Tod Browning secured some scenes during his week's stay in San Francisco and is now busy on several sets at Universal City.

Marcel de Sano has everything in readiness to begin shooting on "The Orchid," Carmel Myers' next starring feature. The story is by Margaret C. Storrs.

Immediately upon Edith Roberts' return from her vacation, production will be started in "White Youth" by Clara Beranger and Forrest Halsey. Norman Dawn, who directed Miss Roberts in her last production, will also direct this story.

Eddie Polo, directed by J. P. McGowan, is working on the eighth episode of his newest serial, "The King of the Circus."

Edward Kull is busy on the sixth episode of "The Queen of Diamonds."

Robert F. Hill has reached the seventeenth episode of "The Flaming Disc," starring Elmo Lincoln.

Professional Notes

Under the direction of Edward Laemmle, Hoot Gibson is completing "Teacher's Pet."

Stuart Paton is about ready to begin filming "Out of the Sunset," in which Eva Novak will star.

Fred Fishback, Tom Buckingham and Chuck Reisner are turning out weekly comedies.

The titles of several Universal features have been changed since being placed in production. "Black Friday," starring Frank Mayo, is now called "The Marriage Pit;" "Kate Plus Ten," starring Eva Novak, will be known as "Wanted at Headquarters."

AT THE REALART STUDIO

Instead of Tom Geraghty, as originally announced, Elmer Harris is doing the scenario of the newest Mary Miles Minter photoplay. Mr. Geraghty was called East before he could get under way with the script.

Director Paul Powell has completed the cutting of "Eyes of the Heart," a Mary Miles Minter production, made from the story, "Blindness," by Dana Burnet.

Both Wanda Hawley and Bebe Daniels conclude their current productions shortly. Miss Hawley will rest until the 20th, while Miss Daniels is to begin again on the 20th. Tentative plans are that Sam Wood will again direct Miss Hawley, and Maurice Campbell, Bebe Daniels.

AT THE J. D. HAMPTON STUDIO

"When We Were Twenty-One" with H. B. Warner in the part formerly played by Nat Goodwin, is receiving its finishing touches as a screen production at the hands of Director Henry King.

Blanche Sweet is nearing the completion of her first vacation in more than a year. Robert Thornby is nearly through cutting "That Girl Montana."

"All On Account of Eliza" is to be produced for the screen by Jesse D. Hampton. Robert Thornby is to direct the production, from a continuity which Fred Myton is preparing.

The scenario department at the Jesse D. Hampton studios has just received a number of original stories written for the screen by British authors, among them, William J. Locke, Jerome K. Jerome, Eden Philpotts and Arthur Jones.

Howard E. Morton, New York representative of Jesse D. Hampton, has delayed his European trip.

NEXT PRODUCTION FOR BESSIE LOVE

"Penny," an adaptation of the book, "Penny of Top Trail" by Mary Maniates, author of "Amarilly of Clothes-Line Alley," is the title of Bessie Love's next picture production.

TO FILM "THE DEVIL"

The play, "The Devil," which served as a starring vehicle for George Arliss, is to be done in pictures by the A. J. Callaghan Productions. May Tully, Edward Gouling and R. J. Beamish, the latter of the "Philadelphia Press," are collaborating in adapting it into screen form.

Mr. Arliss and Lucy Cotton will enact the leads. James Young has been engaged as the director.

Gareth Hughes has signed a contract under which he will appear exclusively in Metro productions.

Analysis of Handwriting

mented, artistic, quite creative, but his emotionality must yield to self-control and a quiet spirit before greatest success follows. Sensitiveness and pride, susceptibility and impressionability will bring misery in due course to this writer, unless overcome by will power and self-control.

7. A. RITA MERE

An English girl over on a visit.

This is a very poised hand, the diametrical opposite of the foregoing. Miss Mere is positive, practical, commonsensible. She is seldom demonstrative but is loyal in matters of friendship. She is cultured, refined and well-read. She shows courage, love of having her on way, but a self-denying, kindly spirit which lets her act justly toward all.

She is highly conscientious, very critical, is a stickler for order, system and cleanliness. She would make a splendid nurse or surgeon. She connects words and disconnects letters within words, which is a sign of diagnosis and deductive logic. She may be depended upon to think out every personal problem wisely. She will diagnose mental and physical states and be able to prescribe remedies. She's constructive and reformatory. She could do splendidly in any public welfare work, such as police matron or helper in the children's court. She is a born teacher, impatient within, but patient without. She bears trouble with fortitude. She can adjust the difficulties which beset her friends. She has a wonderful talent for mechanics, a fine idea of form. She's highly creative and original, a hard worker, but hates to be hurried into anything. She thinks fast, but often acts cautiously. Her pride is rather a handicap, withholds a lot of good. She is an ideal character reader; should be an efficiency expert.

PICTURE STAR DEFEATS BANDITS

While on location at Tia Juana recently, Hank Mann, film comedy star, nearly lost his automobile, which he had taken with him from the studios in Hollywood. Parking in front of a store in the Mexican city, Mann went to buy a package of cigarettes and when he returned two Mexicans were speeding around the corner in his machine. Fortunately, one of his company's cars happened to be parked across the street and summoning a policeman, Mann quickly took after the stolen machine, apprehending it about five miles out of the city. According to the police they have in their possession two members of a gang of auto thieves who have been operating in the Mexican city for the past two months. Mann received hearty thanks from the police for having successfully assisted in their capture.

"BUD" DUNCAN A REELCRAFT STAR

"Bud" Duncan, the diminutive comedian of the "Ham and Bud" team, is to become an individual star for the Reelcraft Pictures Corporation in a series of "Bud and His Buddies" Comedies. The "Buddies" will be mostly girls.

Charles Meredith, leading man in Constance Talmadge's "The Perfect Woman," has returned to the coast from New York.

J. D. Hennings is "shooting" the Goldwyn picture, "Out of the Dark."

Samuel Kingston, casting director for the Fox studios, and his assistant, James Ryan, are casting for the following directors: Charles Giblyn, Harry Millarde and Henderson Brabin.

Mitchell Lewis has one more picture to do for Metro. He is now in New York and will return to the Coast shortly.

LEST WE FORGET

Respectfully and tenderly dedicated to the friends of those by-gone days of 1877, the year that marked the beginning of my theatrical career, and which still remains fresh in my memory as one of the most pleasing, happy reminiscences of my 42 years of professional experience.

—The Author: ED. M. KIMBALL.

Lest we forget those days long ago. When out on the road with that little snap show. There were Al, Jay, and Freddie, Harry, and Ned, "A grand galaxy of talent," (so the bills said). I believe we were heralded as a QUIN-TETTE. But we took in "Old Red-Eye" which made a Sextette. I'm not counting Arthur, for he was the Agent. "His Nibs" who billed this wonderful pageant. I shall always remember, how with spirits so high, We made our first stand, in the "burg" of Lodi. And my memory tells me, as I think o'er the past, How that little "Jay town" came near being our last. Roll backward, O Memory, like the ball in roulette, Let's live it all over, lest we forget.

Lest we forget? I don't think we could; We couldn't forget it, not e'en if we would. I remember that night, dark, stormy, and wet, And the total receipts yielded three dollars net. But that didn't seem to annoy, vex, or worry us, For we left with the landlord, Harry's old Stradivarius. We'd make it all up in the next town '(so we 'sposed). But when we got there, we found "The Cheese factory closed," That worried the landlord, as it would any mouse, So he grabbed the bass fiddle (we called it "dog house"). On, on we went getting further in debt, Those "old guys" took no chances—lest we'd forget.

Lest we forget, the days that passed by, We scattered our chattels, without murmur, or sigh, With everything gone, and our finances low, The Landlords, and others we "jined out" with the show, They "liked travelin' 'round with a theater trupe," But we couldn't induce them to "go on and supe," They'd argue all day, and at night argue more, As to who would sell tickets, and who stand on the door. They'd quarrel and bicker, stew, worry and fret, They'd never trust us with the money,—lest we forget.

Lest we forget? Banish the thought. Experiences like that, they can't be forgot. Do you remember the "old geezer" so tall, gaunt, and moody, Who "jest tuk a trip, and skipped down to Judy"? Them was the happy days, with never a cent, Had lots of fun, though, wherever we went, In Brodhead, Hazel Green, or Strawberry Point,

LEST WE FORGET

In Greeley, or Epworth, or any old "joint."
I look back with wonder, but not with regret,
It's burned in my memory, I cannot forget.

Lest we forget? Ah! that cannot be,
Not till my eyes gaze on Eternity,
Even then, will I think of the friends gone before,

Friends that on Earth I will never see more.
Mayhap they'll have quarters (Sky parlors)
there,

Where the old timer mountebanks will have a wee share,

Where the vagabond Mummies can take out a "snap show,"

And meet with a welcome wherever they go,
All the old "gags" would still go, 'I'll bet,

Let's dig them all up again, lest we forget.

Truly yours for old times' sake,

ED. M. KIMBALL.

ENTERTAINMENT

On September 15th the Drama Section of the Gamut Club will give their first performance under the direction of Wyndham Standing, who has selected the cast to assist him in presenting "HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR."

This play is a clever comedy by Marshall and enjoyed a long run in New York and London, having played an entire season at Daniel Frohman's old Lyceum Theatre.

In addition to this three-act comedy there will be a curtain raiser, a quaint little Monosyllabic Fantasy written and produced by Alfred Hollingsworth, called "MOON-LIGHT," in which the characters utter but one word at a time.

This idea is old, having been used years ago by Weber and Fields, by Modjeska, and others, but it has remained for Alfred Hollingsworth to develop the idea by creating a little play with a plot, climax and denouement, along these lines. Hitherto the idea has been used merely as a vehicle for a play on words.

At one time a certain charlatan attempted copyrighting the idea but gave it up when he learned that such a copyright would mean tying up of the English language, for every time anyone said "Hello," they would have been infringing his copyright!

The performance on September 15th will be given under the auspices of the Gamut Club, but tickets may be obtained from members of the Club, through Alfred Hollingsworth, Arthur Lederer, or Wyndham Standing.

MAYER PURCHASING STORES IN NEW YORK.

According to reports from New York, Louis B. Mayer followed up his safe arrival there two weeks ago with a shopping tour for plays and books. Upon his return to California Mr. Mayer intends to produce all-star productions in addition to pictures starring Anita Stewart and Mildred Harris Chaplin. For this purpose he already has the film rights to Harold MacGrath's Saturday Evening Post serial, "Drums of Jeopardy," and to a number of James Oliver Curwood stories.

AT THE LASKY STUDIO

William de Mille is making plans for his forthcoming production, Sir James M. Barrie's play, "What Every Woman Knows," and has decided upon two of the leading figures in the production, Lois Wilson and Conrad Nagel. Olga Printzlau will write the scenario from the Barrie play.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle is finishing his work on "Brewster's Millions" under the direction of Joseph Henabery and on its completion will rest until approximately October 11, at which time he will start work on Walter Wood's original scenario "Dollar" direct.

FILM PLAYERS TO HONOR MEMORY OF FENIMORE COOPER

On Sept. 14th, the birthday of J. Fenimore Cooper, the Tourneur Company now filming "The Last of the Mohicans," by that author, will stop production for fifteen minutes at noon Tourneur having decided that all hands should for that brief period join in celebration of the anniversary of the birth and death of the American author who entered his final rest at Cooperstown, N. Y., sixty years ago. He had lived to within a few hours of his birthday, having been born Sept. 15, 1789.

"The Last of the Mohicans" is nearing completion under the direction of Tourneur, and will be released this fall by Associated Producers.

George Webb, who has a part in
"Homespun Folks."

MUSIC PREPARED FOR LA CARMEN PRODUCTION

Dolores Lopez has developed into a song writer. In addition to her work as author of the original screen story "Can a Woman Forget?" which is now being filmed by Director Claude Barber for the La Carmen Productions in Los Angeles, she has also written the words for a song which will bear the same title and be published simultaneously with the release of the feature picture.

The music was written by Jack Regan, Los Angeles composer, who is also to arrange the musical score for the photoplay, using the song as the theme number. Complete orchestration and band music are now being arranged by Frank Cutler Kendall.

News comes from Universal that hereafter photoplays directed by Tod Browning shall carry the trademark, "Tod Browning-Jewel Productions."

"Outside the Law," Browning's original story which he is now producing for the "U" will be the first picture released under the new honor credit.

Lewis S. Stone, who is now playing the part of Maestro in "The Concert" under the direction of Victor Schertzinger at the Goldwyn studios today received a wire from A. H. Woods the New York theatrical manager offering him the leading role in "The River's End," which Mr. Stone acted before the camera. He declined the offer.

Charles Rosher, who is responsible for the photography of all of Mary Pickford's latest productions, is again photographing that star in her latest offering which is now being filmed under the direction of Miss Frances Marion.

Henry Cronjager is cooperating with Rosher.

Frank Kirby will photograph the Jerome Storm-Lillian Gish-Frohman Amusement Company special now being cast. Kirby also photographed "Life."

Charles Gordon was signed for an important role in the Fox screen version of "A Connecticut Yankee at the Court of King Arthur," and will probably become a permanent member of the Fox organization.

How the Jones Law Affects Marine Shipping

The object of our merchant marine plans is not to secure a greater tonnage than Great Britain and thus become the greatest maritime nation of the world. Our object is to provide sufficient ships, operating on a sound and profitable basis, to relieve us of dependence upon foreign bottoms to carry our exports to market and to return with our imports.

The Jones Law, enacted last June, is designed to use and develop the merchant marine structure erected for war-emergency purposes to attain this object.

To carry out the provisions of the new law, doubtless many existing commercial treaties with foreign countries will have to be abrogated or amended. Preferential rates and terms will be granted where such are necessary to make and keep our merchant marine a going concern against all comers. The law is American in spirit, purpose and terms. It is a notice that henceforth America will put her own interests foremost in shipping laws and rules.

From an investment standpoint, the encouragement, supervision and protection of the government in this great industry will serve to make more attractive than ever Marine Equipment Securities as a sound and profitable field for the employment of capital.

There are available, for the investment of your surplus funds, high grade Marine Equipment Bonds of established shipping enterprises. We should like the opportunity of discussing with you the advisability of diverting some of your investment funds into this field.

Full information about current Marine Equipment Bond offerings will gladly be given by phone, mail or personal conference.

The Biggest Problem

There are many who have long insisted that the profession is in a dangerous way, morally. Some have even gone so far as to pronounce a film colony detrimental to its community.

Personal opinion is the right of every man—even when it is prejudiced. Let it be said, however, that an idea thus dwarfed has never set the world afire, and so it has been with our reforming neighbors, who, for the most part, have been of a narrow-minded class. They have accomplished nothing by antagonizing.

Now, however, in the light of recent tragedies that have served to bring the latest social period of the motion picture world to a terrible climax, it is high time for the people inside the industry to indulge in a personal and then general investigation. Grief such as has been our lot for the past few months is not occasioned by trifles. The law of compensation demands a vital reason for each result. Something is amiss, and that something must be treated now if we are to prosper indefinitely.

It is generally understood that the swing of the pendulum cares for the frailties of mankind, but if humanity, in this case artistic humanity, assists the balance wheel voluntarily, only good can result.

The professional man seemingly has forgotten the much that he owes the public, particularly the children of that public. In forming the world's chief source of entertainment, the motion picture has come to mean absolute realism to the American youngster. This is proven by the worship and hate given respectively to the screen hero and villain. It never occurs to little Master Fan naturally that the hero he so admires may be an inconsequential or even disreputable individual whom he could not safely pattern after, any more than he can overcome habitual attitude sufficiently to realize that some of our ferocious heavies are the cinema world's greatest influences for good. Needless to say, the favorite star is an inevitable idol.

So it goes—this admiration of the kiddies, which expresses itself in loyal theatre attendance, letters, and even gifts to the players. Are there any of us who can afford to shatter the faith of children with shocking newspaper headlines reeking of scandal? Who are we to assist our already notoriously sophisticated youth to become cynical?

Clean living may be considered by screen stars as their return, their debt, if you please, for public favor. Furthermore, they must remember that if their responsibility is not observed that very public, which is so willing to be friendly now, will eventually crush the popularity of the negligible.

What is the Hollywood picture colony going to do? The solution must be big and broad. Mere orthodoxy has little place in it, for humanity to which we are catering is bigger than any creed yet established. Justice and unlimited faith in Good or God will be necessary, and the understanding that will be the result of the foregoing.

The industry may well boast some of the world's best material which it has collected from every known class. It must be brought to the fore in the press space heretofore filled with unwholesome narratives of our mistakes. This may be done by toning down the number and size of those errors, many of which have been willful.

We are facing the crisis which is experienced once by every endeavor. The storm will be over presently.

Griffith To Return To Hollywood

Word comes from New York to the effect that D. W. Griffith will return westward on or about the first of the year. It is expected that his company will occupy the old studio formerly used by it, until a new plant can be constructed on the ground that once held the famous old "Intolerance" set.

Funeral Services To Be Held

Funeral services will be held in the near future, probably one week from Sunday, by our own Reverend Neal Dodd, for Robert Harron, Olive Thomas and others of the profession who have recently died.

It will be impossible to provide room in the Motion Picture People's Church for the great numbers who will consider this occasion in the light of a last tribute, so Brunton studio has been suggested.

Further details will be announced later.

FILM CAPITAL PRODUCTION NOTES

NEW VIDOR ORGANIZATION

With work started on the filming of Ralph Connor's novel, "The Sky Pilot," King Vidor Productions announce the following new staff appointments:

Production manager: A. L. Thompson, for the past eighteen months studio manager, American Film Company, Santa Barbara.

Art Director: William A. Vanderlyn, whose record includes productions for Ince, Griffith, Selznick and Clara Kimball Young.

Assistant Director: Frank E. Hughes, formerly with Ince, Brunton and Griffith.

The staff is headed by C. S. Vidor as general business manager, and includes: C. R. Kendall, technical director; Ira H. Morgan, chief cameraman; William Smith, chief cutter; Carol Owen, film editor; Walter Midcalf, electrical superintendent; and Frank Darrow, publicity director.

Scenario for "The Sky Pilot" was prepared by John McDermott, who will work with Mr. Vidor throughout the picture.

SPECIAL PICTURES SIGNS FAZENDA

Contracts were signed this week between Louise Fazenda, Mack Sennett comedienne, and the Special Pictures Corporation, whereby the former will head her own company in a series of two-reel comedies to be released by Special Pictures.

Miss Fazenda will leave for the East this week for a fortnight's stay in New York, and during her absence the scenario department will prepare several comedy starring vehicles for her use when she returns.

It is the plan of the executives of the Special Pictures Corporation to have ten releases in the short reel field by October 1st.

This Los Angeles organization, which is specializing exclusively in one and two reel subjects, this week formally took over the Jesse D. Hampton studios on Santa Monica boulevard. Reggie Morris, formerly a Sennett director, is director, general of the "Comelassics."

HANK MANN COMPANY CEASES PRODUCTION

The Hank Mann comedy company has closed its doors and work on pictures starring the comedian has been suspended until the star, who is suffering from a nervous breakdown, is able to resume his activity before the camera. Mann was ordered to take an extended rest at once lest his condition develop into something more serious. The comedian left Los Angeles on Monday for Yosemite, where it is thought he will remain for at least a month.

BALSHOFER TO PRODUCE

The Fred J. Balshofer Studio on Gordon street is undergoing six more weeks of construction with the probability that within a short time Mr. Balshofer will himself be engaged again in making his own productions, which are to start October 1st, will companies.

Balshofer has just closed a deal whereby the newly organized Wharton James productions, which are to start October 1st, will take over a new stage, offices and other studio facilities which are being built for their especial use.

NEW SERIES OF HALLROOM BOYS COMEDIES

Hallroom Boys Comedies first year's series having been completed, Jack Cohn announces the next series of these comedies.

Joe Brandt and Harry Cohn are now on the Coast completing all arrangements for early work in the shooting of the new series, which will continue to be released in the Independent market.

DANA PICTURE TO START

The filming of "The Off-Shore Pirate," which has been selected by Bayard Veiller as Viola Dana's next Metro starring vehicle, will start this week under the direction of Dallas Fitzgerald. The story was written by F. Scott Fitzgerald and was recently published in the Saturday Evening Post.

Cleo Madison has completed her work in "White Ashes," and has gone to a resort in the San Bernardino mountains, where she will rest until she resumes her work before the camera.

LIONEL BARRYMORE TO ACCOMPLISH DOUBLE PROGRAM

While Lionel Barrymore is filming the scenes for "Jim the Penman," his third Whitman Bennett screen production for release through Associated First National this winter, he will also appear on the speaking stage in a dramatization of Vincente Brasco Ibanez's novel, "Blood and Sand." The play will go into rehearsal early in November, according to John D. Williams, who is Mr. Barrymore's manager.

NEW COMPANY AT SAN BERNARDINO

The Gate City Film company of San Bernardino has begun operations. Jimmy Clemmons, formerly of the Christie Studio, is directing Rube Miller, who is supported by Miss Maude, Miss Clark and Billy Weber.

Thos. L. McNally is head of the photographic department.

The company expects to build a studio on their present location in the near future.

AT THE SELIG STUDIO

Webster Cullison has been engaged by Col. W. N. Selig to direct Franklyn Farnum. His first feature with the star will be William E. Wing's story, "Danger!" adapted for the screen by the author.

William E. Wing's story, "The Defeated," is to be screened at the Selig studios. It will be a future feature vehicle for Franklyn Farnum and an all-star cast. This will be the ninth of Mr. Wing's stories to be filmed in eleven months, in addition to his serial, "Vanishing Trails," fifteen episodes in length.

Another train-load of studio properties and apparatus has arrived from the Chicago plant. All of Colonel Selig's future productions will be made at his Los Angeles studio and zoo.

Director Bracken is finishing "Kazan," the Curwood story starring Jane Novak.

AT VITAGRAPH

James Morrison returns to Vitagraph this week to appear opposite Jean Paige in "Black Beauty." Two stories by Frederic J. Jackson which have recently appeared in national magazines have been purchased by Vitagraph for Earle Williams. The title of the first will soon be announced. Production probably will begin within a week under the direction of Chester Bennett, who has just signed a new contract with Vitagraph.

William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Larry Richardson and Ford West of his company are rehearsing a skit to be given at the benefit of the Overseas Club next month. The company is now working in the third and fourth episodes of "The Wizard Spyglass," the star's next serial.

Antonio Moreno and all Vitagraph executives are seeking a suitable story to again introduce him as a feature star. Tony finishes his last serial, "The Veiled Mystery," this month and then goes back to the multiple reel productions. A story with an East Indian atmosphere is favored.

Joe Ryan and his cowboys continue to maintain their encampment at Campo, Calif., filming the western serial, "The Purple Riders." William Bertram is directing.

AT GOLDWYN'S

J. S. Woodhouse, director of publicity at the Goldwyn Studio, says:

That Tom Moore's next picture will be "Made in Heaven."

That Gouverneur Morris' new story is entitled "The Water Lily."

That when Frank Lloyd finishes "Out of the Dark," he is scheduled to direct "The Lighted Way," by Phillips Oppenheim.

EXHIBITORS' SERVICE PAGE

FIRST NATIONAL PURCHASES FOREIGN PRODUCTS

Word has been received by Sol Lesser from General Manager J. D. Williams of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., that the exhibitors' circuit has concluded arrangements for the release, in about six weeks, of an Italian film production in which Pola Begri appears in the leading role.

The title of the production has not yet been announced. It is to be a special release, and it is expected that it will be played at advanced prices.

"WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES"

Paramount certainly released a flivver with "What Happened to Jones," Bryant Washburn's current offering at Clune's. The story, presumably a farce, is in reality a very uninteresting five-reel, slap-stick comedy, including the regulation egg and pie throwing. The situations are all overdone and mean little. The entire story is a mess as screened.

The star fails to appeal in the role of Jimmie Jones, as he did in "The Sins of St. Anthony."

Margaret Loomis displays her quaint screen personality as Cissy Smith, but the part is very weak.

Caroline Rankin provides a little "too much" eccentric comedy as Alvina Smith.

Lillian Leighton is good in the small part of Matilda Brown, the domineering wife of Bobby Brown, who is enacted by J. Maurice Foster.

Frank Jonasson does Anthony Goodley and Richard Cummings is the bootlegger.

We are sorry that Jimmy Cruze directed this film.

"MADAME X"

Pauline Frederick appears at the California Theatre in the Goldwyn adaptation of Alexandre Bisson's "Madame X." The scenario is very good and the story is well cut. Director Frank Lloyd deserves much credit for his clever handling of the beautiful theme which is revealed through really sordid incidents. The picture is the best of its type ever produced by Goldwyn, and it will undoubtedly prove Miss Frederick's greatest success thus far.

Her portrayal of degraded misery is vivid, yet not a bit overdone, and she convinces her audience through all of an undying love. The character is new to the screen, and this star displays all her art in its accomplishment.

Casson Ferguson also does the most artistic work in which we have seen him as Raymond Floriot. His principal sequence involves a very delicate situation, which he handles subtly. As the young lawyer whose first success depends upon his eloquence in defending the hopeless case of a confessed murderess toward whom he feels unaccountably drawn, Ferguson leaves nothing to be desired.

Sidney Ainsworth's characterization of Laroque is excellent. Such heavies as this one have won him his reputation.

Lionel Belmore and Willard Louis do some unusually clever teamwork as the somewhat humorous villains, M. Robert Parricard and N. Merivel, respectively.

William Courtleigh is satisfactory as Louis Floriot. His role provides the plot's motive, rather than any part of its action.

Albert Roscoe plays the small part of Cesare Noel well.

Maude George adds a significant touch to the theme as Marie, and Cesare Gravina adds a bit of pathos.

Others in the cast are Maude Louis, Hardee Kirkland, and John Hohenvest.

ENLARGES WESTERN FILM OFFICES

The Western Pictures Exploitation Company, with Irving M. Lesser at its head, announces that it has been forced to enlarge its office space. Mr. Lesser has added business offices adjoining those of his brother, Sol Lesser, in the H. W. Hellman building.

Betty Blythe, Who Appears with Lew Cody in "Occasionally Yours"

MILDRED CHAPLIN SPECIAL IN BROADWAY HOUSE

Louis B. Mayer has advised his studio executives by wire from New York City that the latest Mildred Chaplin production, "The Woman in His House," will have a Broadway showing within a few weeks at $2.00 prices. This is the picture which the star spent five months in filming.

Mr. Mayer states that announcement of the date and theatre will be given out by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit within a few days. He also adds that Mrs. Chaplin will stay in New York so as to be present at the premiere of the production.

DIRECTORS AT WORK

"Screen Snapshots," produced by Jack Cohn and Lewis Lewyn, has added a department of "Directors at Work" to its "Peeps Into the Private and Professional Lives of Famous Movie Stars."

Each release of this single reeler will show a leading director at work in the studio or on location, in addition to home life and other intimate flashes of stars and popular actors and actresses.

Marshall Neilan shooting the aeroplane and railroad scenes in "Go and Get It," and Maurice Tourneur getting submarine scenes off Catalina Island are the subjects that inaugurate this new feature of "Screen Snapshots."

"MIDCHANNEL"

Clara Kimball Young's production, "Midchannel," by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, is the Kinema feature attraction. The adaptation of the well known play is excellent and the cast is good. The original's dialogue provides some unusually clever subtitles.

The star is more than pleasing as the bored, hasty tempered wife. She is much better cast here than she was as the convent girl in the much less interesting photoplay, "For the Soul of Rafael."

J. Frank Glendon gives an interesting and typical performance as the narrow, misunderstanding husband.

Edward Kimball has much appeal as the elderly, theorizing peacemaker. It is simple to see from whom his talented daughter received her superb dignity.

Bertram Grassby has a rather different role as the other man. His work forms opposition, but it is more or less sympathetic. He puts a great deal into the quietness of it.

Jack Livingston has a few scenes as the scandal monger.

The cast further includes Helen Sullivan, Eileen Robinson and Katherine Griffith.

A twist in the picture's finish rescues it from the unpopularity of the tragedy, and thereby injures somewhat the effect.

Harry Garson directed.

"HOMESPUN FOLKS"

Thos. H. Ince presents Lloyd Hughes in "Homespun Folks" at Tally's. The story, which has to do with small town politics, has one good twist, but its depiction of fiendish humanity in the last sequence is exaggerated. If "Homespun Folks" had not been Associated Producers' first release, it would have passed as a fairly entertaining rural production. It does not, however, live up to expectations either in the direction or the performances.

Lloyd Hughes, the featured player, is a refreshing type. The part of Joel Webster provides him with little opportunity, however.

Gladys George does the feminine lead opposite Hughes. Miss George promises to be a welcome relief from many of our unintelligent appearing ingenues.

George Webb gives us another of his well remembered heavies as Tracy Holt. His performance is interesting, as is Al Filson's characterization of Pliny Rogers, the village editor.

Fred Gamble has some amusing scenes as the constable.

Charles Mailles and Lydia Knott play Caleb and Sara Webster lovably.

The country types which include Gordon Sackville, Willie Marks, James Gordon, and Edith York, are mostly good.

John Griffith Wray directed the production.

"A CITY SPARROW"

Ethel Clayton plays "A City Sparrow," a Jesse Lasky production, at Grauman's. The story is a great improvement over recent Clayton pictures and is blessed with a new slant on the "back to the farm" situation. It is obvious that two cameramen were employed in the filmatization of the scenario, as half of the photography is good and the remainder is very poor.

Miss Clayton's characterization of the tired show girl is very good. Her fans will be more than satisfied.

Clyde Fillmore's interesting personality is utilized to good advantage as David Muir, just farmer. His screen success is assured.

The always amusing Walter Hiers offers us another clever piece of work as Tim Ennis. He has no rival in his line.

Lillian Leighton's make-up as "Ma" Ennis is excellent. Versatility certainly marks her screen career.

Bill Boyd forms a good contrast to the male lead as Hughie Ray, cabareter.

The parson and his daughter are played by Robert Brower and Helen Jerome Eddy. Sylvia Ashton does Mrs. Babb with her customary humanness.

GOODMAN TO DO FEATURE

Edward W. Goodman, amateur weight-lifting champion and strong man of Southern California, has accepted an offer to play the leading role in Joseph's Eliason's six-reel feature, "The Perfect Man," which is to be produced by Supreme Photoplays. This picture will be filmed in California and British Columbia.

Mr. Goodman appeared recently at the Gamut Club in "A Debt of Honor," produced by Marion Warde.

Clara Frazee is to cast for the Mae Marsh company.

Max Asher is playing a comedy part with Billy West.

Edward Cecil has signed a long term contract with Metro.

Jack Holt has been signed as new leading man for Mary Miles Minter.

Arthur Millett is now in Arizona with Harry Carey in "West Is West."

Billy Fletcher has just finished his third comedy for Morris R. Schlank.

Capt. Stanley John Bingham has been engaged for the part of Dorgan in the current Ruth Roland serial being produced by Robert Brunton.

Frank Holland has just finished playing Francis Scott Key in the story, "The Star Spangled Banner," soon to be shown at a down-town theatre.

Charles Gordon is playing one role with Edna Schley productions on the Universal lot, and is finishing an important part in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" at the Fox plant.

Albert Prescott, New York actor, has arrived in Hollywood to play an important part in Mary Pickford's forthcoming production under the direction of Frances Marion, who is now at work at the Brunton Studios.

Isabel Byrd-Page of Philadelphia, one of the contestants in the recent Hermann Film contest, has been selected by Mr. Hermann for one of the prominent roles in the forthcoming Hermann production, "Something More."

Gareth Hughes has departed for New York where he will enact the leading role in the Famous Players' production of J. M. Barrie's "Sentimental Tommy." Mr. Hughes, who has just signed a long term contract with Metro, was loaned for this picture.

FRALICH STARTS AGENCY

Freddie Fralich, late casting director of the Ince Studio, has started in the commission business for himself. He has taken an office at the Hollywood Studio. He charges 5 per cent for bits and atmosphere. The parts will pay the usual commission. After next week he will take over all the units on the lot, and

He will interview people Monday morning.

George Pierce is playing in "Black Beauty" at the Vitagraph.

Elinor Field plays opposite Joe Ryan in "The Purple Riders."

H. H. Van Loan is busy writing a new story entitled "Micky Flynn."

Harry Neumann will film "Danger," under Webster Cullison's direction.

George Pankey will assist Cullison in the direction of "Danger" for Selig.

George Rigas is playing the character lead with Mary Pickford.

Jack Mulhall has been secured by Metro to play opposite Viola Dana in "The Off-Shore Pirate."

Frank Hayes has been engaged by B. B. Hampton to play Windy Bill Smith in "The Killer."

George Fisher has been re-engaged by Robert Brunton to play Jim Truscott in "The Trail of the Axe."

Artie Artego has been loaned by Universal to Neal Hart to play the half-breed in his forthcoming production.

Frank Seki has just signed with Hayakawa to play an important part in that star's next production.

Milla Davenport has just finished a part in Holubar's picture, and has been cast again with Bebe Daniels in her next production.

Florence Vidor has been loaned by King Vidor Productions to Thomas H. Ince. She will be featured in "Magic Life."

Joseph J. Dowling will be seen in support of Dustin Farnum in his forthcoming Robertson-Cole production, "The Trail of the Axe."

Al Filson has signed with the Nell Shipman company for twelve weeks. The company has left for location at General Grant National Park.

Philip R. DuBois has signed with Maurice Tourneur and is now filming "The Last of the Mohicans." The other first cameraman is Chas. Van Enger.

Mickey Moore will play another "kiddie" role in the new Mary Miles Minter picture, which has just started at the Realart Studio, under the direction of Chester Franklin.

Earl Emerson, who has just finished with Shuberts at Chicago, is considering some important offers for the picture world. Mr. Emerson was associated for many years with the old Essanay.

Carmen Phillips, Fanny Midgely and Lotie Williams have been signed by Director Chester Franklin to play prominent feminine roles in the new Mary Miles Minter production for Realart.

NEW YORK NEWS

By J. J. Livingston

Madge Tyrone has come East on important business for Louis B. Mayer, and will stay for an indefinite time in New York.

Well, D. W. Griffith put one over and came back 100 per cent with "Way Down East."

Mr. Bernard Randall, before starting with "Determination," is taking a little vacation in Vineland, N. J.

George Magowan, of the Green Room Club, has just returned from a three weeks' rest at Atlantic City.

George Dangerfield, assistant to Mr. Gobbell of the Erbograph Company, will start soon. The company is to feature an operatic star.

John S. Robertson is to be the director of "Sentimental Tommy," the third of Sir James M. Barrie's works to reach the screen. It will be a Paramount release.

Walter R. Sheridan is now directing a feature called "The Mark of Destiny." Mr. Sheridan has just finished with Ollie Sellers, who was producing a super feature for the McCauley Picture Corporation.

Myron Selznick plans to launch some time in September "Shadows of the Sea," a special production, the story of which has been supplied by Frank Dazey. Alan Crosland will direct.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, who had last week two plays of which she is co-author ("Spanish Love" and "The Bat") and one picture play, "It's a Great Life," on Broadway, is to campaign for the Republican party this fall.

George M. Cohan and all members of the original cast of the play "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" have been invited to attend the first showing of the film version at the Strand this week.

Samuel Goldwyn has resigned as president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation. Mr. Messmore Kendall, a member of the board of directors, was designated as director in charge of the company pending the election of a new president.

The advent of Babe Ruth to the studios of Kessel & Baumann, who will soon release the ball player in their photo-dramatic production, "Heading Home," was the signal for every small boy for miles around to gather outside the studio to catch a glimpse of their hero.

"Determination," the ten-reel production being produced by John L. McCutcheon for the United States Photoplay Corporation at their studio at Grantwood, N. J., is well on the way to completion. It will be released in January.

A boom has been started by the friends of Richard Tucker, Goldwyn actor, to make him the first president of the new "Dead Men's Club," to be formed among the 2,000 former service men who, although living, are officially listed as killed in action.

George Loane Tucker, producer of "The Miracle Man," will leave Los Angeles shortly for New York. If plans now under way are consummated, he is to confer with officials of the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation regarding the presentation of his next film, "Ladies Must Live," which will soon be ready for release.

Three members of the Royal Stock company of Tokio appear in support of Sessue Hayakawa in his latest Robertson-Cole super-special feature, now in course of production by Haworth.

Albert Prescott, Who Is Supporting Mary Pickford in Her Current Production

Samuel Goldwyn plans a tour of the world.

Robert Elliott of the Lambs Club has just returned to the city from his farm.

Alice Joyce will start next week on the story, "Cousin Kate." Mrs. Sidney Drew will direct.

Anita Stewart will spend two months at her home in Bay Shore, L. I. taking a rest before starting her next picture.

Lillian Walker will start a new picture for the Swedish Biograph Company next week. Miss Walker will play the stellar role.

John L. McCutcheon, director of "Determination," has completed the prologue, and has gone up to Monticello, N. Y., to work on the story part of the feature.

Luella O. Parsons of the Motion Picture Department of the Telegraph is now enjoying a wonderful time in Paris, London, Italy and Ireland.

Miriam Cooper and Conway Tearle were working on a scene in the Biograph Studio in a Mayflower picture a few days ago when a storm broke and lightning hit the glass roof and sent a shower of glass down on the players, cameraman and the director, W. R. A. Walsh.

Babe Ruth, now working day and night to finish his picture, has been delayed by an injury to his hand. Charles Bauman and Adam Kessel are both praying harder than any of the fans that Babe's illness will not last very long, as they wish to have the picture ready for the public in time for the post season games.

THINGS YOU WON'T READ ANYWHERE ELSE

By Director Frank P. Donovan

I have an inquiry from a director for the address of the girl that played one of the wives in a Triangle Comedy entitled "Fork Over," which Charles Avery directed. The girl was blonde with dimples. A good proposition awaits her. Do you know her?

Henry Mortimer has just returned from a three months' trip in England.

George Beranger has completed the direction of "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge" for Harry Levy.

CAMERA! has a lot of readers here in the East, don't forget. They watch the mailman every Friday to get it. There's a reason.

Tammany Young is to star in a series of "hick" pictures. A company is being formed for that purpose now. They will be state righted.

The motion picture operators are thinking and talking strike. It is hoped that it will be averted and the managers and theatre owners are doing their best to prevent it.

All the Metro directors here are cutting their pictures. They include Leander de Cordova, Fred Siddenham, George Irving, and Maxwell Karger.

J. A. Fitzgerald has merged his Congressional Films with one called Film-Lore. Neither one has done anything in the production line as yet. Eric Cederberg is cameraman and work, when started, will be in New York.

Matty Roubert has started work on three pictures at one time. He is working under his dad's direction at the Solax Studio, for Reelcraft release. Frank Mathison wrote the stories.

Sammy Burns is out of Johnson & Hopkins' Motion Picture Producing company and says he will work on his own. This firm has been selling stock for about a year or so, and has not made any releases as yet.

Mitchell Lewis, we think, is forming his own company here, from all aspects. He has made many personal appearances at the various Loew theatres in conjunction with his latest picture, and has met with fine receptions.

There is a big market for comedies in the East. But they must be funny in order to sell. The writer will be glad to assist any West Coaster that has any to dispose of, if he will address me to the Green Room Club, New York, on his arrival.

At the Famous Players Sixty-sixth Street studio, George Fitzmaurice is making "Money Madness" with Mae Murray, and Roy Neil is doing a Constance Binney play, while Eddie Dillon is finishing a Billie Burke production, and Jack Dillon is completing the first Justine Johnston Realart release.

T. Hayes Hunter's "Earthbound" production for Goldwyn has ended its eighth week run at the Astor Theatre. Fox has put in "When New York Sleeps" to take its place, playing this picture at the Lyric also. The Broadway now has six acts of Keith vaudeville as well as the feature pictures and short reels as a regular policy, starting Labor Day.

Gotham Gossip

Arthur S. Kirkpatrick of Robertson-Cole has just returned to his desk.

is now at the head of the Messmore Kendall-Robert Chambers productions, now being made at their studio by Sidney Olcott.

George Kelson, director, has finished the first of a series of feature pictures starring Howard Thurston, the magician.

The Federal Trade Commission is here looking into alleged violations of the Clayton Act by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Donald Crisp and his assistant, Claude Mitchell, have been assigned to Famous Players London studio, and will sail next week.

Earl Metcalfe is now with Associated Exhibitors, Inc., along with Anna Q. Nilsson, in an all-star feature, directed by Edward Jose.

Messmore Kendall of the Capitol Theatre Sidney Mason of the Green Room Club will pass up the motion pictures for the present season and go out with a production.

Myron Selznick, it is understood, will return next week from France, where he has been making plans for the building of a studio, and arrangements of a clearing-house for the Selznick productions.

Jack Harvey is about finished with his current Artclass feature. Dorothy Bernard is the star of this play and work is being done at the Mittenthal Studio in Yonkers, N. Y.

Walter MacNamara is to do another big Irish production, called "The Ireland of Today," on the West Coast, he informs me. He is the man that made "Ireland a Nation," that Broadway welcomed with open arms in 1916, if you remember.

"Humoresque" is now playing the Loew theatres with as much unstinted success as when first released. Three Broadway theatres play it this week—The Broadway, New York and Rialto. It is the big picture of 1920.

Dorothy, Lillian and Mother Gish will return from Europe the middle of September and resume work. Lillian for Sherril and Dorothy for Griffith. She has completed her Paramount series and Director Dick Jones is returning to Sennett, it is said.

Griffith's "Way Down East," at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, according to every one that has seen it, including the writer, is the best the master has done to date. Every newspaper devoted columns to its staging and thrills. Griffith once more proves he is the greatest in the game.

William de Mille is still engaged in preparation for "What Every Woman Knows," the Barrie play, which he will produce shortly, with Lois Wilson in Maude Adams' original role, and Conrad Nagel playing opposite. Olga Printzlau is to work on the scenaria.

The Actors' Equity held a house warming this week to celebrate the opening of their moving picture department affiliation. The Equity intends to do away with agents in the picture game entirely and they have started that campaign here in New York, which is sure to spread westward. The actor pays no commission under the new ruling and receives his full money.

In the near future Wallace Reid will begin work on a picture for which no title has as yet been chosen, but which is based on a story of the late Charles Van Loan. Further details as to the cast, title, etc., will be announced shortly.

A Million Dollar Production

That is the production which the Blue Jacket Mine looks forward to. This company, capitalized for only $75,000, is already shipping high grade silver ore. Dividends exceeding 100 per cent monthly should be paid within the next few months.

Naturally, Blue Jacket shares are advancing steadily and swiftly. There's little time to lose if you are to secure this exceptionally attractive silver investment. Full information is yours for the asking. Call or write.

Professional Notes

AT THE REALART STUDIO

Bebe Daniels starts this week on her third starring vehicle, as yet untitled. Major Maurice Campbell will again direct.

Wanda Hawley has returned from location at San Francisco. Her current production will finish about the 14th, after which he will rest until the 20th, when another feature is scheduled to commence.

William D. Taylor will take "Ozark mountain" scenes next week at Little Bear Lake. They are part of "The Witching Hour."

FRANKLIN COMPANY TO FILM SCENES NEAR SACRAMENTO

Sidney Franklin announces that the interior scenes for "Parrot & Company" will be completed within a week, and the director will then take his company of players to Sacramento to film some of the water scenes for this Harold McGrath story.

NEAL HART ON LOCATION

Neal Hart and company have left for Big Bear, where they are now shooting the exterior scenes for his forthcoming Northwestern Mounted Police story, the title of which is "Skyfire."

AT UNIVERSAL CITY

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have begun work on the fourth of their comedy features, entitled "Fixed by George."

Production has been started on Carmel Myers' third feature, "The Orchid," under the direction of Marcel de Sano.

Val Paul and his star, Harry Carey, filming "West Is West," are expected to return to Universal City within a few days from their second trip to Jerome, Arizona, where they are retaking a number of scenes in the United Verde mine.

Eddie Polo is now at work on the eighth and ninth episodes of his autobiographical serial, "The King of the Circus," under the direction of J. P. McGowan.

Elmo Lincoln, directed by Robert F. Hill, is approaching the closing episodes of his serial, "The Flaming Disk."

Hoot Gibson, directed by Albert Russell, is at work on another western called "Marryin' Marion." His leading lady in this picture is Gertrude Olmstead.

Vin Moore is producing a two-reel comedy for Universal entitled "Nearly a Lady." Featured in this fun maker is Dorothea Wolbert, who will be remembered as the janitress in Lyons and Moran's recent production, "La La Lucille."

Another short reel comedy entitled "Why Worry" is now being produced at Universal under the direction of James Davis.

Three productions will soon be started, "White Youth," by Clara Beranger and Forrest Halsey, will be directed by Norman Dawn, with Edith Roberts in the stellar role; Stuart Paton will direct "Out of the Sunset," by George Ricks, starring Eva Novak, and Rollin Sturgeon will direct "The Flip Flapper," by Jack Colton and Douglas Doty, with Gladys Walton in the title role.

"Tiger" has been purchased by Universal for the use of Frank Mayo. "Tiger" is from the pen of Max Brand. Jacques Jaccard will probably direct.

The scenario department has purchased the screen rights to "Fanny Herself," by Edna Ferber.

Analysis of Handwriting

By Fritzi Remont

In sending handwriting for analysis, readers will kindly remember that such should have proper placement on a decent sheet of paper, not just a scrap holding a signature. Don't ask for private readings or carbon copies, but send your friends additional copies of Camera! There is a charge for private readings, but those who enjoy the free analyses in Camera should be willing to interest their friends in the magazine, you know.

Write in ink and give me sufficient handwriting to analyse. The signature alone will be reproduced. Don't ask for a reading in the next issue because you must consider traveling time, the necessity for making a cut of the signature, and date on which the feature is required to be in the printer's hands.

1. Harry Handcuff Houdini
2. Ted Taylor
3. John Stockwell
4. Jean Fuller
5. Helen M. Gallagher!
6. Helen E. Mulvaney
7. Isabelle Mc Kay
8. Raymond Grauman

1. HARRY HOUDINI, THE HANDCUFF KING

Mr. Houdini writes me that "stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage"—and as he's proven the truth of the statement, one expects something rather unusual from his handwriting, too.

He is a live, virile penman. There is a spontaneity about his quick, jerky lines quite in keeping with his muscularity as shown on the stage or screen. The capital AITCHES are very musical, having that peculiar cupform built of several curves. A twice or thrice bent line in writing gives one the clue to musical ability or love of melody.

Histrionic ability is found in the varying heights and the dips at which letters touch an imaginary base line. He is unselfish, too generous and kind for his own good very often, but he can always make money since the hand is so versatile. Mr. Houdini is highly psychic and who knows how much of his success depends on his magnetism of an audience? I believe it does. He's an idealist, very imaginative, quite ambitious, critical, observant, enthusiastic and optimistic. The writing betrays splendid mental and physical vitality and endurance, being composed of firm though nervously rapid penstrokes, with emphatic downward motion.

2. TED TAYLOR, PUBLICIST

This is an emotional PHIST, too. Just note the very odd and creative capital T's, with their angular form. You will find Mr. Taylor original, emphatic, quick-witted, far-sighted, with a taste or talent for mechanics. He's given to variations of mood, for the letters dip up and down unfettered, and the "d" is very much looped—the sign of sensitivity and pride, as well as responsiveness to the moods of others and general impressionability. The heavy shading betrays positive ideas, argumentativeness until convinced by a presentation of hard facts. He loops the "a" like a hard knot—and you won't untie Ted's mental forces and find out his secrets until he's goodenreddy to tell 'em. Being moody and possessing marked individuality, Mr. Taylor varies from joviality to reticence—just as people affect him. They say nine tailors make a man, but it has taken generations of smart Taylors to produce this XXth century young man, with the industrious habits, good will power and analytical mind.

3. JOHN STOCKWELL OF CHICAGO

Just a scrap in red ink—looks as if dipped into a stock well filled with blood. John's optimistic, spontaneous, enthusiastic, uncontrolled by reason, always following the dictates of the heart. He is conscientious and eager to do right, but if one is controlled by the senses—by what one wants, whether it's wise to purchase said commodity or not—financial success is difficult to attain. John should study art, music and acting, he's unfitted for dull routine. He hates to stay long at any task, is a great traveler, would be a fine dancer. He loves praise—applause—sympathy and affection. The talent for selling goods is his best business asset. Better let Friend Wife handle the purse, Johnny—you spend too freely.

4. JEAN FULLER OF CHICAGO

If Jean were much fuller of enthusiasm than she now is, she'd burst like a toy balloon. Nothing can stop her once she gets going. She dotes on good times, but she is so quick a worker, so observant, inquisitive and intelligent, that she does put in good work at school, too. Miss Fuller has a quick temper controlled by an ardently affectionate disposition and great conscientiousness. She is idealistic and imaginative, an entertaining hostess, a girl with tremendous possibilities and many talents. She can see a point instantly. No need to hand out blueprints when you send Jean a funny story—she'll do her own illustrating. She is impetuous to the last degree and will suffer more through blows to her affectionate heart than in any physical way. Fortunately, she has the strong will and buoyancy to rise above her worries. Note how Jean underscores her signature, bravely and with a "there, watchutink o' dat" dash and pep! She's like a lake-breeze and the lads will like her style and personality.

5. HELEN M. GALLAGHER, Chicago, too.

Helen is of the highly sensitive, idealistic, brought-up in a good home type. She's evidently had much religious training, her upper loops and d's and t's rise to high heaven. She is aspirational, very dutiful, a little fussy and fastidious, hates ants in her sandwiches, and doesn't like folks who only patronize the bath on Sardynites.

She is positive in her religious convictions, is critical to the last notch, of the inquiring turn of mind, but always seeing people's poor points quickly. She is vivacious, but reserved on occasion, and you know the best things are always "reserved" and come higher. Now, Miss Gallagher holds herself high, and she is dignified although ready for any legitimate pleasures, enjoys humor, is a hard worker, would make a cracker-jack typist because deft-muscled and of the nervous temperament. She can and will shoulder heavy responsibilities and needs no surveillance while about her daily tasks, for pride spurs her on to high achievements.

6. HELEN E. BULVANEY, CHICAGO

We're putting the Windy City on the map this time with another Helen. I'm sure the lady who was responsible for the Walls of Troy pattern in embroidery classes had nothing on this Helen. She's very artistic and discriminating, loves beauty ardently, has good personality, high ambitions, knows her best points and makes the most of

A. D. ASSOCIATION NOTES

William Worthington, motion picture director, delivered an interesting and educational address on "Making the Movies" before a meeting of the Assistant Directors' Association, Friday evening, in its club quarters, 5444 Hollywood boulevard. More than eighty members were present and unanimously agreed that Director Worthington's address proved highly beneficial to their work at the studios. This marks the first of a series of addresses to be given by well known directors before meetings of the Assistant Directors' Association.

Dick Sherer has left the Lasky Studios.

Six new members were admitted last week to the Assistant Directors' Association.

Plans are being made by the Assistant Directors' Association for a smoker to be held in the near future.

Dick Oliphant, formerly assistant director for Lifeograph productions at Portland, Ore., has been named as general manager of the Frontier Film Corporation, 240 Van Nuys building, Los Angeles.

A five-reel rural comedy-drama has been prepared by Roy Marshall, formerly director for J. Parker Read, Jr., at the Ince Studios, and is being considered for production by two producers here.

He has titled the story "Elbow Grease."

COMMUNITY THEATRE OPENS FOURTH SEASON

Of interest to members of the motion picture profession is the announcement of the opening of the fourth season of the Hollywood Community Theatre on Monday, September 20th. Three one-act plays are included in the initial production, which will extend through a period of two weeks.

In "The Rider of Dreams," Daniel Crimmins, Helen Lee, Clark Marshall and little Burwell Hamerick will appear.

The cast of "Half an Hour" includes Florence Hart, Clyde Fillmore, Conrad Nagel, Alfred Cross, Joyce Percy, Wycliffe Taylor, Ernest White and Adelaide Cannon.

"Poor Old Jim," a comedy written and directed by William C. de Mille, has a cast of well-known Lasky players, including Mabel Van Buren, Clarence Geldart and Guy Oliver.

HAYAKAWAS TO VISIT CHICAGO UNIVERSITY

Sessue Hayakawa and his wife, Tsuru Oaki, have been invited to attend the first Japanese playlet to be presented to the University of Chicago students by the Japanese dramatic club. While a student at the Chicago University more than eight years ago, the film star founded the Japanese dramatic club, the first organization of its kind to be founded in the United States. Mr. and Mrs. Hayakawa expect to attend the initial performance of the students' production after they have finished appearing before the camera in their latest Robertson-Cole feature, "East Is East."

FORMER LASKY BUYER OPENS CABARET IN AUSTRALIA

Edmond Mitchel, for many years identified with the Lasky company as buyer, has opened a cabaret in Sidney, Australia.

Mrs. Edmond Mitchel has completed her buying trip here and has gone back, taking with her Mrs. Harold Lockwood and son, Harold Lockwood, Jr.; also a number of entertainers.

SCENARIO WRITERS RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES

After a six weeks' search for Constance Talmadge stories overseas, John Emerson and Anita Loos, scenario writers for Constance Talmadge Productions, have returned to America.

Much of their time was spent in France studying the methods of the French farce writers. Together with David Kirkland, director for the comedienne, they toured the European battlefields and took motion pictures of French and English locations for reproduction in the Jos. M. Schenck studios.

COL. FRED LEVY BIDS ADIEU TO THE FILM COLONY

Col. Fred Levy, Kentucky First National Franchise holder, left Los Angeles this week for his Louisville home.

The colonel has spent nearly two months conferring with the independent producers who are releasing their product through Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

ART DIRECTOR GOES TO HONOLULU FOR ATMOSPHERE

Mrs. Polly Ward, art director for the second producing unit of the Lone Star Pictures Corporation, left Los Angeles Monday to catch the Wednesday steamer from San Francisco for Honolulu, where she will spend a month in preliminary preparations selecting locations and assembling the native costumes and other necessary equipment incident to the production of a seven-reel semi-historical special feature of the Hawaiian Islands.
